Marshall A. Cook, Wichita, Kan., rides about the United States in a big, private car, luxuriously appointed in Cuban and Peruvian mahogany, which was built for Porfirio Diaz just before he resigned as president of exico. Mr. Cook was formerly of Brockville. He reached the millionaire class very quickly. Two years ago last Christmas, Marshal Cook sat in a little apartment in Buffalo, N.Y., thumbling over a telegram he had received from a brother in Toronto inviting him over for Christmas. Cook had been a real estate broker in Lockport, and the wolf, while not gnawing his way through the door, could be heard growling in the distance. After long meditation Cook wired back to his brother that "an urgent business mater had called him west and that he was sorry he couldn't aaccept." Next morning he was on his way to the great west. He struck Kansas City with $16. He took a gamble in oil, hit it right, and is now ric. So rich he cannot count his wealth, and it keeps growing. He has the Peabody oil fields. Seven years ago he left his home town, Brockville, to make a stake for himself.

GENEROUS HOST AND HOSTESS.

They have been divided into parties, each spending their allotted time at the island. Upon their return to duty another party comes to enjoy the hospitality of their host and hostess who leave nothing undone to make the holiday a pleasant one for thier guests.

MR. BURNHAM'S REPLY TO PREMIER MEIGHEN

CLAIMS POLICY WILL BRING INEVITABLE DISASTER.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., says regarding Premier Meighen's announcement at Stirling that the issue now is between Forces not Parties, that Premier Meighen is undoubtedly right. Those who form new Governments and newparties and announce new policies for the management of nations without consulting the people to be governed are usurpers and nation-breakers. To this class the Calder-Meighen Government surely belongs. This new world-policy of calmly disposing of the rights and liberties of people without their consent has evidently struck Canada with full force, and looks good to Mr. Calder. The madness and futility of it all is a standing wonder, and will bring inevitable disaster.

FELL DEAD FROM 'CYCLE.

Wednesday forenoon, when riding on his bicycle from his barber shop to his home in Pembroke for lunch, Isaac Allard suddenly fell from the wheel and expired on the roadside. He left the barber shop apparently in good health and without any premonition of impending danger, and five minutes later had passed away. A physician saw him fall and made an examination, but found that the heart had ceased to beat and that life was extinct. Mr. Allard was only thirty-five years of age.

FENNER'S CLEVER GOAL-KEEPING—JAS. SHAW MISSED OPEN GOAL—PARKIN'S QUESTIONABLE GOAL—R. WILLSHAW GAVE A PENALTY —HALF-TIME, C.G.E. 2; CALEYS 0—PARKINS MADE IT THREE—CALEYS PRESSED FOR 15 MINUTES— MATT SHAW SCORED—C.G.E. 3, CALEYS 1.

MR. BURNHAM PRESENTED CUP TO THE WINNERS

The C.G.E. and the Caledonians met last evening in the Peterborough City Football Cup Final at Nicholls Oval. Long before starting time a pretty fair attendance of spectators were present but about 6.45 p.m. well over 500 people lined the field and were rootin' for their respective favourites. Referee McKinley arrived at 6.25 and called Captains Turner and McMillan together for to toss for choice of ends—Caley's won the toss. The teams lined up as follows:

Caledonians—C. Fenner goal; J. Willshaw and R. Willshaw backs; J. McFeat, S. McMillan and H. Frost, half-backs; R. Hannah, M. Shaw, J. Shaw, W. Terrace, and R. McDowall forwards.

G.W.V.A.—C. Griffine goal; J. Davis and J. Williamson backs; J. Williams, H. Turner and J. Mann half-backs; A. Manders, C. Hotston, A. Parkins, Ted Bartley and Ted Hotston forwards.

Caley's Won the Toss.

McMillan won the toss, but there was no choice as the sun was going down. From the centre Hotston and Bartley went down into the corner for McFeat to put to touch. Fenner kicked up to McDowall who slipped the ball across to Hannah and getting the ball at the drop lashed a hot one into Griffine. He cleared up to Manders, on the right, who was stopped by McMillan. Matt Shaw caught on and beating three men tested Griffine. Terrace returned the ball to McDowall who beat Williams and letting drive beat Griffine but Turner was standing in the goal to head out. A foul throw against J. Willshaw ended with the full-back conceding a corner. Ted Hotston placed a nice one into goal for all the players to jump up to head it but Fenner fisted out over their heads.

Fenner's Fine Goal-keeping.

Bartley passed back to Hotston who worked another corner of Willshaw for Turner to head past. A break-away on the right by Manders left the Caley's defence behind and steadying himself gave Fenner something to do. A few minutes afterwards the Caley's full backs let Parkins right through for goal but just as he was about to score McMillan touched the ball away from him, then C.G.E. man put past.

Jas. Shaw Missed Open Goal.

Caley's retaliated in the centre and a mis-kick by Davis let Jas. Shaw have a clear goal. He travelled into goal until about 5 yards out and let drive to put past the far upright. Play travelled from end to end with both Parkins and McDowall being called up for offsides. Nice combination between Jas. Shaw and McDowall made the C.G.E. defence look cheap and running from the corner the inside left lifted the ball across to Matt Shaw who headed it out of Griffine's reach but to his astonishment the ball hit the point of the cross-bar. McFeat returned to Hannah who was adjudged offsides. On a raid by Hotston on the Caley's goal J. Willshaw cleared to right wing and just as McMillan was receiving a throw-in he touched the ball with his hand.

Hotston Said "Gee-Whizz."

From the foul-kick Mann punted to Hotston on the left wing who beat McFeat to cross over to "Wag." The inside man tried to get a drop kick at the ball, but he missed and said "Gee-whizz." Play run from end to end until Turner cleared from Terrace to Caley's area and Parkins to carry it into the defence.

Hit His Hand and Scored.

J. Willshaw touched the ball against Parkins who accidentally hit it with his hand. The referee could not see the offence because he was behind the player. The C.G.E. centre passed out to "Ted" Hotston who lifted the ball into corner of goal for Parkins to head through as Fenner was making to clear. Caley's retaliated but Davis returned the ball to Manders and Hotston wing and in his attempt to clear R. Willshaw hit the ball with his arm in the penalty area.

Wag Scored from Penalty.

"Wag" came forward to make no mistake with a fast drive into the corner of the net. Twice in succession Hannah put in beautiful corner-kicks to be kicked over the bar. Just before half-time Manders and Frost tackled with the latter being laid out but resumed after attention. Before half-time arrived the Caley's were pressing. C.G.E. 2, Caledonians 0.

Half-Time.

Quick as a flash Matt Shaw went down the field to miss the mark with a rocket shot and immediately thereafter Ted Bartley hit the cross-bar with a shot for Fenner to clear. McDowall broke away on the wing to carry the ball into the corner and crossed nicely for somebody on the line to touch it out of play. A foul against Bartley for back-charging ended with a foul against Wad Hotston. McMillan punted to goal. Williams kicked to touch. From the throw-in Hannah made Griffine make a daring save with J. Shaw upon him.

Foul Against Griffine in Penalty Area.

The goalkeepr carried the ball in through the players to give the Caley's a foul-kick in Penalty area. Frost let drive to hit the C.G.E. players who were standing with their arms locked into one another in front of the ball. Turner cleared to Parkins who was offsides. Frost kicked up to Matt Shaw who had a try at goal—Griffine saved—the Caley's man got hold again and just as he was trapping the ball Bartley came behind to back-charge. Griffine saved from McMillan's foul kick.

Parkins Made It Three.

A foul-throw against McFeat ended in disaster for the Caleys. Williamson put up to Bartley who crossed into goal for the Caley's defence to break down as Parkins touched the ball into goal for number three after 5 minutes' play.

Caleys Pressed for 15 Minutes.

After this sudden collapse of the full-backs the Caley's forwards went right into it by giving an exhibition of nice clear football against the C.G.E. defence. On the right wing Matt Shaw shot across to McDowall who headed the ball against the front of the cross-bar with Griffine beaten. At this point Turner was playing a sterling defence. McDowall outwitted Williams to give Griffine a hard shot to save. He cleared to Williams who back-charged McDowall. Frost took the kick and Hannah playing rings around the C.G.E. defence let drive for Griffine to drop on his knees to clear. C.G.E. goalkeeper threw out to Williamson but Terrace worked into goal to find Griffine unbeatable. McMillan had a try for to go past. From the goal-kick Matt Shaw let Terrace away on the wing who lifted the ball into the goal for Turner to give a corner—Terrace put past. The whole C.G.E. team was now playing defence Ted Bartley shouting "Come on C.G.E." Receiving a nice pass in mid-field the Caley's left wing left the defence behind for Hannah to shoot into Griffine's arms. He cleared to mid-field for Jas. Shaw to head back to McDowall who headed the ball to drop on top of the cross-bar to go past.

Matt Shaw Scored.

The continued pressure ultimately gave the Caleys a penalty through C.G.E. infringement. Matt Shaw placed the ball to his taste and made no mistake in scoring. From the centre Manders broke away to be adiudged offsides: A foul against Frost was cleared by McMillan who immediately became useless through an injury to his lef. Bartley worked a corner off McFeat that was put past by Ted Hotston. Fenner kicked up to McDowall to be injured in a collision. From the throw-up J. Shaw lifted the ball into goal for Griffine to clear. The Caledonians continued the pressure until the final whistle announced the C.G.E. winners of the Peterborough City Cup by three goals ti one.

MR. BURNHAM PRESENTED THE CUP.

After the game in the centre of the field the Crowd gathered to witness the presentation of the Cup to the C.G.E. captain—Mr. Henry Turner. Mr. Burnham said: "If the people of the City of Peterborough only knew the class of sport that was being played they would come in the thousands instead of the hundreds to see the Football Games." The C.G.E. Captain accepted the Cup in the usual manner.

CITY LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP WILL BE DECIDED.

The fans are promised a lively ball game at Riverside Park to-morrow afternoon, when Thistles and Canadian Generals will play the final contest in the City Baseball League. The winner of the game will take the 1920 championship.

Canadian General supporters will pin their hopes on Lornie Rose, with Bob Ross behind the bat. The Thistles crowd are just as confident that Howard Kirn and Swanston, with the regular team behind them, will win the honors.

This final game will have all the settings of a do-or-die battle. The teams will present their strongest line-ups, and Alex. Kay will handle the game. It will be called at three o'clock.

OSHAWA'S OPINION OF SATURDAY'S GAME

Reformer: The Oshawa team was away off color and the better team for the day won. Another day and the tale might have been different. Patton was the only man who showed up in anything like his usual form. He had ten strikeouts. All the rest of the team were away below par.

Buck Wilson, who is usually the liveliest fellow on the team, always having something to say, seemed to be dumb after making two errors in one innings. But a little thing like that shouldn't have worried Buck, as "to err is human." Hap Harrison may be a good first baseman, but as far as the whole season goes there isn't a first baseman in the league who can turn in any better record than the same old buck.

Peterborough had an infield that it was pretty to watch and Kirn threw them well as he did not seem to make an attempt to pitch as he can, simply contenting himself with letting the infielders do it. The visitors only had two errors to their credit.

A PETERBORO FAN'S OBSERVATION

(By Joe Begley.)

The story of the game at Oshawa, as to how it was played and won has been told and told well.

Now there is always an amusing and interesting as well as an istructive factor connected with the game, without which the play would lose half of its interest. I refer to the enthusiastic fan and it makes no difference whether he knows what he is talking about or not.

Some of us who were on the grounds early were very much disappointed at the lack of accommodation. We thought it was going to be very hard to stand in the hot sun, but we soon forget our troubles.

Some brought their hammers along and told us how it was all framed for Oshawa to win. Could we not see who was going to pitch? and Peterborough money was held tight .Now right here let me say that if Peterborough lost there would have been enough suspicious circumstances for a great frame-up story by the fickle fan. This element soon changed for the better and let the Oshawa knocker get to work, and he did himself justice, but I do not think he did any better or worse than his brother from our burg would have done under the same circumstances.

The Oshawa fans in general took their defeat in a sportsman-like manner and proved to be good losers. At the same time naturally some were sore ,and remarked that we would meet again next year. We know how it feels as we have been through the mill.

Our Jake seemed to amuse more than he annoyed and was better understood and appreciated. Many enjoyed his antics, especially the ladies. They were greatly interested and wanted to know what he followed; they were informd by on of the boys that he had charge of the nursery at the baby clinic in our city. It must be admitted that Jake was a big factor in winning that game.

After seeing the game many could not understand how Oshawa could be so confident of winning. Now in the first place they forgot that baseball is very uncertain; certainly everything looked in favour of the home team and in the morning I heard two young sports telling how the grounds were peculiar and that Peterborough was lucky when they won from Belleville and Oshawa at home, also that some Peterborough sports were backing Oshawa to win. They were so confident that the home team would win that the betting was at odds, in fact those boys had bet that Oshawa would double the score.

Just before the game, when the teams were practising our boys never worked better and from the remarks passed it could be easily seen that many an Oshawa fan was changing his opinion for they certainly looked the better team.

The roasting some of the home fans gave their players was absolutely uncalled for. They did the best they could and gave all that was in them.

SKIP J. J. TURNER WON M'CARTY BOWLING CUP

SKIP BRADY, OF LINDSAY, WON HARD LUCK PRIZE.

LINDSAY, Aug. 13. — The Lawn Bowling Tournament on Wednesday was a successful event in every respect. The greens were in good shape, the weather was ideal. There were three competitions, namely the McCarty Cup, the Carew Cup and the Hard Luck event.

The McCarty Cup and prizes go to Skip J. J. Turner, who has won the trophy three times in succession, his runner-up being Mr. Jas. Doan, also of Lindsay.

The Carew Cup was won by Dr. Mellow, of Port Perry ,after a strenuous competition, Stone of Cannington being the runner-up. The performanice of the latter is somewhat remarkable as Cannington has no green on which to bowl at home.

In the Hard Luck competition McCouhal of Port Perry was the winner, nosing out Skip Brady of Lindsay in the final game. Mr. Fred Coatsworth donated $5 to this competition.

Splendid first and second prizes accompanied the cups in the McCarty and Carew competitions.

CHAUTAUQUA TO-NIGHT AT EIGHT O'CLOCK.

PERCIVAL VIVIAN.

Our Chautauqua audiences have become very familiar with the name of Percival Vivian through the past two years, for he has appeared as head of the Ben Greet Players, and has given great pleasure to all who have heard him.

This year, under his direction, we are producing "Nothing But the Truth," the great play which had such a remarkable run in all the big cities including New York and Toronto. No better Chautauqua play was ever produced. It will show you how difficult it is to speak "Nothing But the Truth" for twenty-four hours. Suppose we try it for the six days of Chautauqua week.

GIRL DROWNED AT NORVAL.

BRAMPTON, August 12. — A drowning fatality occurred at Norval, a village six miles west of this town. A number of children were bathing in what is known as the west branch of the Credit. Two of the girls, Ethel Louth and Jean Nixon, waded in too far and were swept down by the current. Wesley, a brother of the former, was on the scene in time to rescue Jean ,but his sister had disappeared, and after making three attempts to locate her he ran to the village for help. It was half an hour before her body was recovered, and for two hours three doctors that had been called hurriedly from Georgetown vainly attempted to resuscitate her. Ethel was eight years old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Louth, Norval. Last winter another sister passed away from diphtheria.

James McIntyre and Thomas K. Heath, who are this season starring in "Hello Alexander," the big musical extravaganza that is one of the sensational hits of the current season, have been together forty-six years. This is the longest period of continued partnership ever recorded in the annals of the stage.

TERRIFIC HITTING IN BIG LEAGUES

AMERICAN LEAGUE AS A WHOLE IS HITTING AROUND .290 AS COMPARED WITH .260 LAST YEAR—44 PLAYERS IN .500 CLASS.

(By Frank G. Menke.)

The terrific, unparalleled racing in Ban Johnson's three ring circus this year, leads to the quizz:

"How come?"

Did the boys who concoct the baseballs "accidentally" jam a slightly larger rubber core into it? Did they wind a little more rubber around the "ol' apple"—or is it beause they're using a livelier grade of yarn in A.D. 1920? Or has this deluge of home runs, this plethora of .300, .350 and .400 swatsmiths come about because of an inferior grade of slinging?

Anyway—something has happened—something terribly great for the box office. For this maddened outburst of walloping has electrified the baseball world—and shocked the multitudes into dropping their daily $1.10 into the American League coffers in an unending parade.

But how comes this furious onslaught? What's the reason—the vital one?

"No reason at all—except that the boys are just hitting this year—that's about all," declares Ban Johnson.

But—

Never in all the years since Harry Chadwick became the fond and doting parent of the national frolic, has there been so much circuit swatting, such tremendous smashing as the clubbers in the American League are spraying upon the reords this season.

The American League, as a whole, is hitting around .290—a mark phenomenal. At the present moment four men are whaling beyond .400, ten have .350 or better and 44 are in the select .300 class.

They Are Impressive.

These statistics become more impressive when compared with what was what in the same circuit just a year ago. The ircuit batting average was .260 at this time in 1919. Only one regular was cracking better than .350—and that was Joe Jackson with .352. Twenty men—less than half of 1920's total—were beyond .300.

"How come?"

And as for home-running—

Well up to the present moment, the dashing athletes who do their dashing under the American League standard, have dashed out a mess of four-baggers which totals 322. That's at the rate of around .400 for this year as against .240 for the entire season of 1919.

"How come?"

Some folks do say that increased belting of the horsehide to "places where they ain't" is due to the curb placed on freak delivery pitchers. But the rule is operative in both leagues. Yet the National hasn't shown anything within miles of the mighty soaking that the Ban Johnsonians are doing.

At this hectic juncture, the Nationals boast of merely 127 homers—as compared with about 121 at this time in 1919—a gain of only six. One National is around .400—Eayrs, a pitcher and pinch-hitter for the Braves. Two other men ae beyond .350 and 20 are whistling 'em out for .300 or better. The league is hitting about .260—30 markers back of the Americans—against its own mark of .259 a year ago.

The Figures.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.	1919	1920	Increase
.400 hitters	0	4	4
.350 hitters	1	10	9
.300 hitters	20	44	24
Home runs	133	211	78
League Av'e	.260	.290	.030
NATIONAL LEAGUE.
.400 hitters	0	1	1
.350 hitters	3	3	0
.300 hitters	25	20	—
League Av'e	.259	.260	.001

It is readily discernible that the vast part of the improvement in clouting this year is monopolized by the American League. The Nationals, in four-base work, league averages and in the massing of a .300 army is not really doing anything beyond what it accomplished a year ago.

But the American—ah!

"How come?"

Maybe they have jammed a lively ball into the American League picture—maybe that's the why and the how of it. But if they did it's merely a mysterv—not a crime. In fact, if Ban Johnson did O. K. the injection of an extra slab of rubber into the target that the American Leaguers shoot at, Ban is to be congratulated.

The Fans Are Happy.

For the great belting in the American League this year is driving the fans dippy with delight. For years—and yet more years—they have clamored for "more hitting." This year they are getting it—in profusion. And how well they are responding to the echo of crashing bat against whirling ball is shown in the gate receipts.

All yearly attendance records ever made will be smashed utterly this year in the American League. Fact is that the outpourings up to the time have about eclipsed in volume the full season attendance mark of any other year.

Apparently one of the "things the matter with baseball" in the past few years has been the lack of hitting. For this year, with wonderful whaling prevailing in the American fandom has overcrowded all the parks.

But, just because the baseball human is naturally curious he yearns to know:

"How come this wild—but beautifully satisfying—outburst of tremendous hitting?"

The weight of a serviceable half-suit of armor of the time of Queen Elizabeth was about 40 pounds, while the armor worn occasionally by modern infantrymen during the war weighed from 60 to 90 pounds.

FIFTEEN C. O. RINKS IN LINDSAY BOWLING TOURNEY

OSHAWA APPEARED ON GREEN, BUT NOT ELIGIBLE TO PLAY.

LINDSAY, Aug. 12.—The annual tournament of the Lindsay Bowling Club, open to clubs in the Central Bowling League, was held yesterday with some fifteen rinks participating. Every club in the League is represented save Uxbridge. The draw took place at 10 o'clock. Skip J. Roger's team of colts went down before Skip Purdy, of Port Perry. Score, 20-8, while T. J. Brady was defeated by Skip C. Brethour, of Sunderland, 11-14.

A rink from Oshawa appeared on the green, having been informed unofficially of course, that they were eligible to play in the tourney. The focal club regrets that such a misunderstanding existed, and the Oshawa club intends finding out the source of the misleading information.

MAIL DELIVERY IN OSHAWA.

Postmaster Tamlyn, of Oshawa, has been notified that the mail delivery system will be put in effect in Oshawa in about a week or ten days at the outside. Some of the equipment for the carries has already been received at the local Post Office and notification received of the full outfit having been shipped from Ottawa.

"HELLO, ALEXANDER!" OPENS ROAD SHOW SEASON AT GRAND

SPLENDID PRODUCTION WILL BE A REAL EYE-OPENER.

At the Grand Thursday, August 19, there will be disclosed the big new spectacular extravagance, "Hello Alexander," in which the Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert will present McIntyre and Heath, undoubtedly the most famous comedy team in all the world. Coming directly from the 44th Street Theatre in New York, where it has enjoyed a long and highly prosperous run, "Hello Alexander" is declared to have given the favorite black-face comedians the best vehicle of their long and honorable career. It is frankly stated that the work is a legitimate relative of "The Ham Tree," in which McIntyre and Heath appeared several years ago, but in every respect the offering is upon a scale of greater magnitude, and the company, numbering nearly one hundred people, has been selected with fine care and discrimination. Among those best known in this city are Homer Dickinson and Gracie Deagon, Vivian Holt, Lillian Rosedale, Mable Elaine, Betty Lewis, Dorothy Moore, Dan Quinlan, Edward Scanlon, Dan McNeil, Earl Richard, Phyllis Ray, Newport and Stirk, Chic Barrymore and others. "Hello Alexander" has been written by Edgar Smith and Emily M. Young, while Alfred Bryan provided the lyrics and Jean Schwartz composed the music, of which there are some twenty numbers. Some startling effects in costuming have been arrived at, and the big minstrel scene, in which every member of the company appears, is said to be quite the most magnificent every revealed.

'GIRL OF THE SEA" IS AN AMAZING PRODUCTION.

Back in 1913 J. E. Williamson invented what he called the Submarine Tube, a long flexible, telescope arrangement intended to be lowered from the bottom or side of a ship into the depths of the ocean for the purpose of permitting divers in a chamber at the bottom of the tube to examine wrecks in safety. At that time he had no thought oh applying its use to motion pictures. But later it dawned upon him that photographs of life beneath waters had never been shown, and he got busy.

The result was "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," followed by "The Submarine Eye," which created a furore in the motion picture world when they were first produced. Now he has outdone himself and the result is "Girl of the Sea," a powerful and stirring screen drama which comes to the Grand for three days, commencing Monday, August 16th.

Here the audience not only gets several glimpses of the wonderful life beneath the waters and on the ocean's bed but are treated to actual dramatic action which makes up the story. For a novelty, "Girl of the Sea" outdoes anything ever before shown on the screen.

It seems almost incredible, but giant devil fish, of which much has been written and very little shown to the general public, actually contribute to the story as well as sharks and other denizens of the deep.

Miss Betty Hillburn, one of the youngest of the screen's leading ladies, has the principal role, and goes through thrilling stunts that leaves the spectators breathless. All of the action takes place in southern waters near the West Indies.

LINDSAY'S TOWN LEAGUE TO PLAY IN LAKEFIELD

THE VILLAGE WIT OF PORT HOPE

Port Hope Guide: Lindsay is boasting of being the only town in Ontario to reduce the tax rate. We know of a town in the east which has reduced the rate but at the same time increased the assessment. A reduced rate with an increased assessment doesn't help one's purse very much. Further our corner friend points out that no person would care to pay very much for the privilege of living in Lindsay.

SECOND ATTEMPT MADE TO WRECK C.P.R. TRAIN

BLAIRMORE, Alta., Aug. 12.— A second attempt to wreck a C.P.R. passenger train on the Crow's Nest Pass, near the scene of last week's hold-up, occurred Tuesday aafternoon. Long spikes were found on the track by section men, and the bloodhounds which are being held for the chase of the bandits will be sent to the spot to try to trace the men responsible for the attempt. It is thought that the Russian element friendly to the train bandits is trying to work out a crude method of revenge on the railway company for the chase of the desperadoes.

RUM-RUNNERS OFFER LARGE SUMS TO WINDSOR CITIZENS FOR AID IN OPERATIONS

A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY FOR RESIDENTS IN THE BORDER TOWN—SAMPLE OF AN AVERAGE OFFER.

(Canadian Press.)

WINDSOR, Aug. 14.— How rum-running traffic is debauching business life of Windsor and the whole district along the Detroit river may be realized by casual conversation here. Vast sums of money are being handed around like cigars to anyone who will lend their name and address to facilitate operations. Several residents tell of being approached by whiskey traffickers. "I will give you anything you want," said one. "You can take a trip to Montreal and buy liquor if you wish, I will furnish money and also give you $1,000 to pay your fine." Besides I will buy any cottage along the river front that you want, an automobile, big touring car, any make you want or, if you prefer bank account to automobile. I will place $5,000 in the bank in your name. This is the average offer, and many have been made far more generous and it is not to be wondered at that scores of ordinary respectable Windsor citizens have succumbed to the lure of liquor trafficker and have permitted shipments to whiskey to be made to their homes.

Stock Market Closes a Very Erratic Week

COMPLEX EUROPEAN SITUATION TEMPERS BULLISH MOVEMENT.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug 14.—Developments in the Russo-Polish situation together with continued depression in sterling caused further unsettlement in the stock market this week although the market in general was less sensitive to these influences than in the preceding week. The fall in prices again established new low averages for year. Losses were more than made up however, and movement later was distinctly upward.

Selling was accompanied by reports that the market was adjusting itself to reaction in various trade lines. Pressure was not applied to any marked extent after the early days of the week and business was curtailed sharply. This gave rise to the feeling that liquidation had run its course, at least for the time being, and that bears out the finding they had gone too far in their selling campaign and were buying back stocks. Buying was cautious however, and the rise was kept within moderate bounds. Bullish sentiment was tempered by the complex European situation and erratic course of sterling exchange which fell seven cents and later recovered partially Greater consideration was given to favorable domestic developments such as crop news cheaper call money and investment buying of bonds.

STRIPED CONVICT UNIFORM WILL BE DISCARDED IN PENITENTIARY

Radical Change Will Also Be Made in the Discharge Clothing Provided—Suits Made to Order.

OTTAWA, August 14.—Believing that the old striped uniform in which all convicts in penal institutions have been previously garbed has a tendency toward degrading and hardening prisoners, the Department of Justice, after much deliberation, has decided to abandon it. In future two uniforms, one for summer wear and one for winter wear, will be supplied.

Radical change will be made in the discharge clothing provided. Formerly the Government provided badly cut grey tweed suits, unmistakable to the residents of prison cities. These suits will be replaced by well-tailored and modern garments, made to order.

APPLES WERE PLENTIFUL AND PRICES LOWER ON MARKET TO-DAY

Loads of apples on this morning's market served to remind the many city dwellers that fall is rapidly approaching. The fact is daily brought home to the farmer, but the urban dwellers, not as constantly in touch with nature as the farmers, are not apparently aware that the harvest is about half over and threshing will commence in a week or two. The apples sold at from 25c to 40c a peck, depending, of course, on variety and quality. Harvest apples and Red Astrakhans prevailed, both varieties selling very readily.

New Potatoes.

New potatoes were on the market in large quantities selling at 40c and 45c a peck. The majority of the potatoes were of excellent quality, large and fine skinned. One farmer displayed Pink Buckeyes, asking 50 cents for them. Irish Cobblers by the bag were $2.25.

Exceedingly large, fine cabbages could be had for 15c and 20c, and cauliflowers brought the same price. Nice crisp celery sold for 20 cents. Green peas were only 5c a quart and wax beans 5c and 10c. Tomatoes sold at $1.00 a large basket or 65c for a small one. A small quart basket containing three or four sold for 10c. White and red radishes sold at 5c and lettuce at 5c. Big bunches of carrots and beets or onions were only a nickle. White squash were 10c, and the bottle-necked variety could be had for 5c. Cucumbers sold for 3 for 10c or 5c a-piece. Long 12 or 15 inch ones, grown in a greenhouse by one dealer, sold for 15 cents and up. One lady asked 80 cents a basket for pickling cucumbers.

Berries Getting Scarce.

All the boxes of raspberries that were on the market could have been easily counted—25 cents was the prevailing price, whether purple or red. While it is the very last of a very long drawn out season, some of the berries were firm and of fine flavour. Others were the opposite extreme. Huckleberries, declared to be the last of the crop by the seller, sold at 30c a quart or $2.25 a basket. At this price they went quickly. Green and red plums, the vanguard of the crop, brought 20 cents a quart. Honey sold at 32 cents a pound.

Upstairs Market.

High prices prevailed in the upstairs market. Little chickens not much larger than sparrows were laid out on the tables with the regulation little slip of paper on them. When moved by curiosity to examine the little slip on the remains, they read something like this: "$1.00—2 pounds and so many ounces." The lady in charge verified this apparent illusion, stating that the chickens were 45 cents a pound. The price ranged from 40c to 45c a pound. Eggs were 60c. This high price, they declare, is due to the heat affecting seriously the hens' egg producing. Butter was 65 cents a pound.

On the outside market this year's white Leghorn roosters were on sale at $1.00 a piece and Plymouth Rock pullets at 50 cents.

A new stand on the market to-day attracted no little attention. In a truck were several wash tubs and pails of water, containing large white water lilies, a sign behind them telling the world that they were 2 for 5c, 6 for 15c, or 12 for 25c. Water lilies may yet replace sweet peas and other tender little flowers in Peterborough households of this truck appears every Saturday.

The Auction Mart.

An inspection of the articles up for auction is a never-failing source of interest to many citizens. Reminiscences of bygone days are seen here. Old pictures and picture frames, frames of plush and old brass gilt were on sale to-day. Old crockery, some household furniture, a few books, a heavy rifle, and a barber's chair of ancient vintage, and cabinet with glass doors for mugs and general tonsorial display purposes were sold to-day.

SAY MACHINE RULES THE LABOUR CONGRESS

HALIFAX WILL NOT SEND DELEGATE TO DOMINION MEETING.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 14.—Charges that the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress was reactionary and machine ruled were made at the regular meeting of the district Trades and Labor Council here. After considerable discussion, during which the secretary's de ended the congress, asserting that it and its executive were as democratic and progressive as any labor body in America, it was decided by vote not to send a delegate to the congress this year.

The council decided to withdraw its endorsation of the Canadian Labor Press, an Ottawa publication, on the grounds 'in the interests of the working class."

VENTURA, Cal., Aug. 14.—Hunting sharks with bow and arrow is the latest sport to be introduced in Ventura County.

In many instances, they said, the sharks started out to sea with the arrows sticking in their bodies and it required speed on the part of the hunters to overtake them.

These sharks are not man-eaters, which are not known so far north.

A DOMINION GOVERNMENT

LATEST OFFER TO BE MADE TO IRELAND—ANOTHER RESIGNATION.

Canadian Press.

DUBLIN, August 14. — The Freeman's Journal announces that E. Wyle, the legal adviser to Viscount French, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, has presented his resignation. Andrew Bonar Law, the Government leader in the House of Commons, has promised to pledge the government on Monday to Dominion home rule, with full fiscal authority. Of course, comments the newspaper, the question of Ulster will be a subject for discussion.

Canadian Press.

LONDON, Aug. 14. — Should the report prove correct it will not cause much surprise here. Mr. Wyle's resignation would be the second resignation from the Viceroy's council and probably for the same reason as was given by Sir Thomas Stafford, who resigned early in the week, because as he put it, the premier "has refused to take the only step giving a chance for peace" — namely, a firm and immediate offer of a form of Dominion government.

THE FEE SYSTEM FOR THE COUNTY POLICE IS DONE

SYSTEM SHOULD BE REPLACED BY SOMETHING MORE TANGIBLE.

High County Constable A. Moore has invited three or four Examiner reporters to assist him in the task of rounding up highwaymen and others varieties of thugs. The remuneration is to be the same as provided by statute covering the operations of county constables. The offer has been declined with thanks. Much as the press would like to assist in this work his delicate bit of sarcasm was all out lic in other ways. Another reason the offer was declined is because the remuneration the Constable offered in his delicat bit of sarcasm was all out of proportion to the duties involved.

Perhaps if the recommendations of the Provincial committee to be appointed to investigate he fees paid to county constables succeed in abolishing the antiquated system now in force and inaugurating a system under which county constables will receive adequate compensation for their services the offer might be accepted.

An Example.

An example of what an increase in salaries of such officers will do is that of the fisheries inspectors. When fisheries inspectors worked under a fee system similar to tha under which county constables now work there was a great deal of poaching because the smallness of the fees made it necessary for the inspectors to have some other means of livelihood and thus they were unable to pay the needed attention to their duties. When this system was abolished and a salary system introduced even though the number of inspectors was reduced the efficiency of the force greatly increased.

No man can have two occupations and give his complete attention to both, especially when one is such an exacting position as that of a constable .There has been some criticism of Constable Moore's work especially of late for which there may be some grounds but if he were not compelled to follow a second means of livelihood in order to add sufficiently to his fees as county constable he might be able to give his undevoted attention to the County's business.

KITCHENER REAL ESTATE PROMOTER MISSING WITH FUNDS OF MANY VICTIMS

LOSSES TO INVESTORS WILL RUN WELL INTO $100,000—BELIEVED TO HAVE RETURNED TO GERMANY.

(Special to The Examiner.)

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 14. — With the issuing of a warrant for arrest Waterloo county is thoroughly aroused over the mysterious disappearance of Carl Gustav Pritschau, a German real estate agent, who was last seen here Thursday, July 29th, and is now thought to be back in Germany.

Pritschau, it is said, has left behind him a trail of discounted notes at defunct real estate transactions, and a general state of financial chaos throughout the country that runs well into $100,000 or more ,and the victims are all his fellow countrymen.

Everyone in Kitchener knows Pritschau (Charlie), he is better known to many, while others call him (the big fellow, the latter nickname being obvious, for he is, physically, probably the biggest, if not the biggest, man in Canada. He stands six foot eight inches and weighs in the neighborhood of 360 pounds.

Pritschau was last seen on July 29. He informed people who kept house for him that he was going on a week's fishing trip and not expecting anything unusual, when he failed to re-appear.

Yesterday, W. D. Euler, M.P. for North Waterloo, received a message from W. H. Walker, Acting Under Secretary of External Affairs, Ottawa, to the effect that Pritschau had been issued a passport for Germany on July 30.

The passport, the wire stated, had been issued by the Swiss Consul General and it was understood that Pritschau was sailing the same day from Montreal for Germany. His movements since then are unknown and no word has been received in Kitchener from him. His home has been closed up and the people with whom he had lived have disappeared and some of his furniture has been seized in order to meet a number of outstanding tax bills. Pritschau has been a most remarkable man in the district for the last seven years.

A Promoter.

His extreme physical proportions can hardly be exaggerated. His activities in the real estate field were wide and varied. He promoted a good deal of property in various districts, but it is said these deals usually become involved due to his mismanagement and double dealing. Properties were secured under agreements of sale, resold and resold again, resulting in a chaotic condition of affairs.

Pritschau's efforts did not restrict themselves to Kitchener. He is said to have gone throughout the country and as far west as Windsor, increasing his real estate deals. Loans are said to have been made from his fellow countrymen in no small measure. As a special inducement to allow him the use of their moneys he gave anywhere from 10 to 30 per cent. interest on his notes. Many of these have matured, some for large amounts and the holders are evidencing no small concern. In every case the holders are Germans, and men it is said, who held implicit faith in Pritschau as a great financial man.

Prior to his leaving the city it is understood Pritschau made it a point to accumulate a large amount of German marks. Some reports place the amount at 100,000, while others state it is higher. It is a fact, however, that he accumulated a great deal.

PARIS, August 14.—The tension between the British and the French Governments is rapidly abating, in the opinion of most newspapers here. The situation, which arose through the recognition of Baron Wrangel as head of the South Russian Government, is so improved that, according to the Homme Libre, another meeting of the British and French Premiers will be unnecessary.

ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF LLOYD GEORGE

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A plot against the life of Lloyd George was said to have been discovered yesterday, and Scotland Yard increased the detective force on guard at Downing street and at the Premier's home. The visit of Premier to continent during Parliamentary recess is, in all likelihood, to be abandoned.

Shock-Absorbers For False Teeth

CLEVELAND, Mar. 8.— Non-Skid Shock Absorbers for false teeth are the latest thing. Heretofore the principle of shock absorbers has been limited in appliction, but now a Cleveland chemical concern advertises a powder which sprinkled upon "sore teeth," form a smooth cushion, holds them firmly in place, and gives a "non-skid" effect while they romp over the toughest roasting ears of corn and chew the stickiest candy.

One who has lost his natural teeth can supply himself with this antiseptic, adhesive comfort powder—Corega—at a drug store, and proceed to laugh and sneeze, crack nuts and do other hazardous things without risk of shaking his prized false teeth from their upper and lower berths. 50c. at Druggists.—Adv.

LOCAL MARKETS

On the whole the local market seems to be in the doldrums with practically no change and little immediate prospect of changes. The grain market will possibly undergo the greatest change as this year will see a bumper wheat crop. An attempt was made this morning by the local mills to set the wheat price but was unsuccessful.

Vegetables are firm with the exception of tomatoes which are down to 10 cents per lb. In meats live hogs are down from $19.50 per cwt. to $19.10.

NOT THE FAULT OF GARDENERS IF COST OF LIVING DOESN'T RECEDE

TOMATOES ARE CHEAP AND POTATOES ARE ONLY 35 CENTS A PECK AND MAY GO LOWER—NEW PEACHES AND PLUMS ON THE MARKET.

The truck gardener has shown himself a real friend of the profiteer-ridden consumer, as the week-end prices and the long decline from their early spring peak amply prove. Consider tomatoes at to-day's price of three pounds for a "quarter." It's not so very long since they were fifty cents, and mighty scarce at that. Then they hung around forty cents, while the average family felt trey were splurging whenever they bought just the taste or two afforded by one pound. Now the gardeners are haulin tomatoes by the truck load, and through the stores they are offered to the public at from 75 cents to $1.00 a basket.

If the gardeners could only grow suits of clothes and frocks and loaves of bread, life would soon be lovely, and at any rate there would be a maximum of competition and a minimum of profit-sharing by middlemen.

For a Fruit Salad.

Big Georgia peaches are quoted at 75 cents a dozen and some are offered at five cents each; Bartlett pears were quoted at 60 cents a dozen, and oranges at $1.00, 75 cents, 60 cents a dozen and cheaper.

The first peaches selling by the basket arrived to-day. For the eleven-quart quantities the price ranged from $1.30 to $1.50. California peaches are $3.00 a box of eight dozen.

Huckleberries at $3.00 a basket, and are petering out at trat.

Beries Nearly Done.

The last of the red raspberries sold at 30 cents a box, and the dregs of the cherry crop disappeared at $2.00 a basket down to sacrifice prices for mature goods.

Astrakan apples sold at 90c the 11-quart basket, and Mexican and California muskmelons were marked at 35 cents for the large fruit.

Cauliflowers at 25 cents and 35 cents each, green peppers at 20 cents and 25 cents a dozen, and celery at 15 cents a bunch were other prices.

The first plums, yellow and greengage, were offered at $1.50 a basket. And the above list did not complete the showing of th market, truck, and fruit gardeners.

WILL MANUFACTURE LAUNDRY MACHINERY FOR DOMESTIC USE—HAS LEASED RISHOR'S WAREHOUSE.

Another American company is locating its Canadian headquarters in Peterborough, the Laundryette Manufacturing Company of Cleveland, Ohio. It has leased the warehouse of Rishors' Limited, on Simcoe street, with the option to purchase and will be in operation by November 1st. This is the fifth American firm to locate its Canadian branch here since last autumn.

The Laundryette Manufacturing Company manufactures the "laundryette," a copper washing machine, which not only washes colthes but dries them by centrifugal force and is operated by electric power.

Since its starting in Cleveland five or six years ago it has grown rapidly and has been very successful. It will be incorporated in Canada and at first will employ 25 hands with the probability of increasing this number to 50 within a short time.

The representaives of the company made a trip throug Ontario in June looking for a suitable site and upon the recommendation of Heaton's Agency of Toronto came to Peterborough. After visiting other Ontario cities they decided upon Peterborough.

This is another result of the work of the Manufacturers' committee, which is composed of Ald. Gordon (chairman), Phelan, Copping, Whitehouse, Jones and Turner, and City Clerk Armstrong.

The "Quality" Character of this brand has an International Reputation.

SAID BODY WAS THAT OF SMALL

"There is nothing in the story at all," stated Detective-Sergt. Mitchell, when shown the report in an evenng paper, saying that the body of A. J. Small, the missing Toronto millionaire, had been discovered in Paris, France, and had been identified by a French impressario, who was acquainted with Mr. Small. The information, it was said, was contained in a letter received by the New York friend of the impressario and conveyed by the friend to Montreal La Presse.

Detective Mitchell smiled dryly when asked as to the truth of the report. "You can say from me that if a body has been found in Paris as reported, that it is not Mr. Small's. The newspaper report was the firts intimation I had of the affair and I immediately communicated the gist of the story to Mrs. Small, who had not heard of it."

Asked why he was so positive in declaring that the body was not that of the missing millionaire the officer stated that the evidence gathered to date was absolutely against any supposition that Mr. Small might be in France.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentry, cholera infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the house where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BELIEVED TO BE WEAPON USED BY MURDERER ON PHILIP GOLDEBERG.

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—An analysis is to be made of supposed blood spots on a knife found in a patch of clover about 33 feet from the scene of the Goldberg murder yesterday afternoon. The knife was found by Kenneth Blythe, age 10, of 26 Fern avenue, while he was wandering around the place ,and handed over to Detective McIllrath of Cowan avenue station.

Inspector of Detectives Guthrie is inclined to believe that the reddish spots on the knife blade are blood, possibly the blood of eight-year-old Philip Goldberg. There is just a chance, too, that the stains may be merely rust. However, the knife has been handed over to Dr. Rowe, who will ascertain by pathological means whether the stains are blood or rust.

Yesterday little Brodie Parker, 24 Baldwin street, told the police that, about three weeks ago, he had been accosted by a man while standing outside a picture show near McCaul street. The boy gave a description which tallied with that of the man sought.

LOCAL GROCERS LOOK FOR DROP IN SUGAR PRICES

LOWER PRICES IN NEW YORK BOUND TO HAVE EFFECT.

Local grocers look for a drop in sugar prices during the coming weeks due to the predicted drop in price in New York and several who have several hundred bags stored by for higher prices are viewing their hoard with apprehension. After the long and trying seige of high prices the joyful news of a coming drop brought the housewives to the stores in great numbers to-day, all demanding the decrease in price anticipated for New York. The forecast of lower prices has had a somewhat disastrous result on the fruit dealers, the majority of the housewives maintaining that it will be economy to await the drop before doing any further canning.

"HELLO, ALEXANDER!"

Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert are sending McIntyre and Heath, unquestionably the most famous comedy team in all the world, to the Grand for one night only as the attraction on Thursday, August 19th, in the newest of the vehicles provided for these remarkable stars, to which the title, "Hello Alexander," has been given. Edgar Smith and Emily Young provided the book, Alfred Bryan wrote the lyrics and Jean Schwartz composed the music. They are said to have provided McIntyre and Heath with the best play in which they have ever appeared. "Hello Alexander" is admittedly a near relative to "The Ham Tree," in which the comedians appeared for several seasons, but the inevitable minstrel scene has been staged in an astonishingly gorgeous manner, and nearly one hundred people comprise the company, which comprehends probably the largest singing and dancing chorus on tour this season. McIntyre and Heath have been surrounded with a really remarkable company, some of the best known members of which are Homer Dickinson and Gracie Deagon, Vivian Holt, Lillian Rosedale, Mable Elaine, Betty Lewis, Dorothy Moore, Dan Quinland, Edward Scanlon, Dan McNeil, Earl Richard, Phyllis Ray, Newport and Stirk, Chic Barrymore and others. "Hello Alexander" is in two acts and six scenes, all of which are unusually colorful and effective, while the sartorial display has been declared about the last work in startling costuming.

John Barrymore has taken a new bride in the former Mrs. Leonard Thomas (Blanche Oelrichs), the New York poetess, who has been called America 's most beautiful woman.

Soak the clothes at night. Rinse them in the morning. That's all.

Not a cake soap—not a washing powder—a wonderful new cleansing soap in fine granules

Rinso is so rich and pure that it dissolves instantly in water and stirs up in a bubbly tubful of lather. So great is its cleansing power that clothes need be soaked in it but a few hours, then rinsed—and they're clean. Yet Rinso is as absolutely harmless to the clothes as pure water itself.

Get Rinso for the very next family wash. A package will do it. Not a cake soap. Not a washing powder. Something better. A new form of soap in granules. Ask your Grocer.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14TH, 1920.

CANADIAN CLUBS.

These clubs are commendable institutions established in towns and cities of this country, whose aims for instruction on community and national well-being and advancement is too often, perhaps, overlooked. Their purpose is to foster patriotism by encouraging the study of the institutions, history, arts, literature, and resources of Canada, together with an endeavour to unite Canadians in such work in the Dominion's interests as may be deemed desirable and expedient.

With such ends in view, Canadian Clubs should be encouraged and practically endorsed in and by every community where patriotic citizens organise such a body.

We have before us a copy of the proceedings of Toronto's Canadian Club for the year 1916-1917, and find that during that period twenty-three luncheons were given, at each of which speakers of authority gave illuminative and instructive addresses on the great public questions then before Canadians.

Surely a club with such objectives before it as indicated in the foregoing should meet with a large membership and generous support by public-spirited men wherever established. We invite consideration of these suggestions in the interests of Peterborough's Canadian Club and of the community it aims to serve.

HOUSE NUMBERING.

Following up our editorial on street name signs, a prominent citizen yesterday drew our attention to the crying need of some uniformity in house numbering which would permit of one's finding a house number on any street without undertaking, as too often is the case, a search similar to seeking a needle in a bale of hay. In Peterborough an enquiring citizen never knows where to find the number of the house he is looking for—it might be on a verandah post, above the verandah's porch, on the door or on the sidewalk; and then again there is a lively chance that it is conspicuously absent altogether.

It has been suggested that a definite policy of attaching house numbers to verandah posts be inaugurated. But on some streets such location hardly answers requirements, on a dark winter's night, for instance, when, as has been the writer's experience, one must "strike a light" with which to search for the elusive number of a house situated at some little distance from the sidewalk; and many of our dwellings are so located. Besides, one feels wretchedly mean, and an object of suspicion wandering around a person's front premises, lighted match in hand.

The only plan for house numbering which would answer satisfactorily on a dark night we can suggest is that of having the number stencilled in a colored fan-light over the door. But even that has its drawback these days of paying for electric light by meter, when so many citizens forego the convenience of a hall light in the interests of economy.

Alderman Crowe brought this matter up in Council once, but nothing came of it. He suggested that numbers on incandescent street light and other posts would be convenient in serving as guides to how the numbers on the streets ran.

The Board of Trade might perhaps couple this problem with their street name signs scheme. Maybe they could devise some plan for improvement which would be acceptable and efficient in adding to the convenience of community life in this respect.

A TIMELY COMMENT.

A large section of the Canadian press is recognizing the days the need for a get-together movement in protection of all that true Canadians hold dear—the maintenance of our great institutions, the superstructures of which are erected on the principles of community and national order conpled with the British idea of advanced civilization. And in this connection we are forcefully struck by the Western Veteran's comment on Premier Meighen's speech at Portage La Prairie and repeated in part at Stirling. The Western Veteran, which is the organ of the G.W.V.A., published at Edmonton, says:

"The time before us calls for the 'team work' of all Canadians who believe in settled government, the sacredness of our great institutions, the maintenance of order associated with a wise expansion of liberty, such as Mr. Meighen advocated in his address. All who will aid in making Canada a great and happy country will find ample scope for united effort whatever their creed, race or political idiosyncrasies. There is undoubtedly a good deal to forget but we feel assured that the British section of the people will not be found ungenerous where the interests of a prosperous and united Canada are at stake."

The above criticism is timely these days of unrest; it has no political ends in view so far as we can discern. In fact it savors of loyal Canadianism, pure and simple, and as such should command thoughtful attention.

AMERICA'S ATTITUDE ON VITAL QUESTIONS.

The United States Government is keenly alive to the Bolshevik menace to this world, as evidenced in that administration's note to Baron Avezzanna of Italy in answer to his inquiry of what America's attitude is on the question of Polish independence and Russian Bolshevism. The Wilson administration forcefully announces that it will not recognise the Bolsheviki now in temporary control of Russia, and follows up that announcement with a declaration in accord with France's promised practical recognition of General Wrangel as the only stable head of Russian affairs.

And now we find the Sun and New York Herald, a staunch supporter of America's Republican Party, declaring without evasion or equivocation: "We believe that in both respects this notable state paper correctly represents American sentiment; that is to say, as to the prevailing and boundless sympathy of the American people for the gallant people whose national existence has been restored by recent world events, and likewise as to the horror with which America generally would view any move on the part of our Government opening association on diplomatic terms with the Lenine-Trotzky regime, the sinister agents and propagandists of red revolution. The declaration of policy both as to Poland and as to Russia is well within the constitutional power of the Executive, and it involves none of the questions at issue in the present campaign. The promise of the President to 'use all available means' to maintain Poland's independence and territorial integrity could have been registered in behalf of the United States just the same and with just as much effect if Article X. of the Covenant had never been written and if the League of Nations established by the Treaty of Versailles without our participation had never been heard of."

"The strong and defiant attitude toward Bolshevism expressed in the refusal to recognise the Soviet Government of Russia, or even to go into a conference, as Lloyd-George has proposed, tending to the recognition of the Bolshevik regime and probably to the dismemberment of Russia's legitimate territory, is as much within the Executive's constitutional power as the refusal to recognise a revolutionary government in Mexico or elsewhere. And in defining the President's intentions with regard to Russia the historical picture drawn of our friendship for and indebtedness to that great nation, and the distinction, truthful if adroit, made between the real Russia and its present non-representative rulers, is as commendable in spirit as it is far reaching in promise of practical impact.

"Believing this, The Sun and New York Herald does not hesitate to express an approval of the note to Baron Avezzana as hearily as would have been rendered had the same document emanated from a Republican Administration setting forth the policy and purpose of a Republican President."

The foregoing indicates, as foreshadowed by The Examiner, that deep down in the American nation's heart there lies the will to support the Allies should world-peace or any European nation's independence be threatened by militarism, Bolshevism, Sovietism, or fanatical agitation of any nature against established order and real democratic freedom.

DISAPPEARING FORESTS.

The forests of the United States are rapidly being depleted. The same is true of Canadian forests, so far as they are accessible to transportation, and the shortage across the border increasingly aggregates the situation in Canada, for the demands for Canadian pulp and other products is becoming more and more insistent. The American Forestry Association, in making an appeal for support of the movement to perpetuate forests, summarizes the situation as follows:—

"We are consuming lumber three times as fast as we are procuring it. Experts predict our saw log lumber will be gone in fifty years. The bulk of the original supplies of yellow pine in the south will be gone in ten years, and within seven years 3,000 manufacturing plants there will go out of existence. White pine in the lake states is nearing exhaustion, and these states are paying $6,000,000 a year in freight bills to import timber. New England, self-supporting in lumber twenty years ago, now has to import one-third of the amount used. It has $300,000,00 invested in wood and forest industries, employing over 90,000 wage-earners. Fire destroys over $20,000,00 worth of timber every year, and kills the reproduction upon thousands of acres of forest lands. Within fifty years our present timber shortage will have become a blighting timber famine. Forests can be protected from fire, regrowth can be encouraged, conservative cutting can be practiced, reforestation can be accomplished—but it takes from fifty to one hundred years to mature a timber crop. Forest devastation must be stopped, lands now in forest must be kept continuously productive, forest lands now devastated and idle must be put to work.

"Ten years ago the United States produced its entire supply of pulpwood, but now two-thirds of it is imported. This means freight rates to be added to the purchase price. Indications are that supplies of pulpwood timber in New England and New York will be exhausted in twenty years. In New York alone supplies of pulpwood for news print means we will be at the mercy of foreign manufacturers as to prices. Ten years ago the United States produced its entire newsprint supply—now we import two-thirds of it. Only one-third of the newspapers issued in 1919 were printed on the product of American forests. High cost of pulp and paper mills prevent the manufacturing plants from following the timbers as do saw mills. Much pulpwood has now to be freighted 500 miles to the mills. We bought nearly 1,400,000 tons of pulpwood from Canada in 1918 and prices advanced from $10 a cord to as high as $25."—The Monetary Times.

AMERICAN DAIRY CATTLE WILL BE SENT TO CHINA

Demonstration Farm Also to Be Established in East.

(Canadian Press)

WEST RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 14.—Gordon K. Middleton, instructor in agriculture in the North Caroline State College of Agriculture and Engineering, has been named an agricultural missionary to China by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention and will leave soon to take up his work in Kaifeng College, Honan Province.

To form the basis of the agricultural and livestock department of the college a number of American breeders have contributed a number of head of dairy cattle and Mr. Middleton will take these to China with him. The dairy herd will be cared for by Chinese boys in exchange for their board and tuition. In addition, a demonstration farm similar to those operated in connection with American agricultural colleges will be established with a practical Chinese farmer as a co-operative guide.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

"Tea now?"

"I don't see why they don't come," she said nervously.

"Kitty never is on time, you know."

"Yes; but I want them to come," she said dully. Andrew must see all the difference that existed between his situation and hers.

"They may be waiting outside. Shall I see?"

"Please."

She thought of the anger she had shown in the first shocked moment of recognition. That had been a mistake. It had only played into Irma's hands. She should have stayed and shown her indifference, treated the situation with lightness, covered up the wound to her vanity. What a delicious revenge she had given Irma!

"What a fool I was!" she said angrily. "But she shan't have him alone."

To be forced to continue her little game under the eye of the wife would be the last thing Irma would relish.

"She shan't have things her own way," she said determinedly, and rose. The thing to do was to accept Irma's declaration that the meeting had been accidental, and force them, under appearance of cordiality, to join the party. To her consternation, when she turned their table was empty. She was still standing when Monte Bracken returned.

"I am sorry—they haven't turned up."

"It doesn't matter now," she said abruptly.

He glanced at her brilliant eyes and feverish cheeks, wondering just what to offer.

"I'm afraid they won't come at all," he said slowly.

As a matter of fact, from the first he had never expected that they would turn up.

"It doesn't matter," she said impatiently.

"Curious thing," he said, frowning. "Do you know whom I thought I saw just now? Rudy himself!"

"But he's in Chilton," she said, answering him mechanically.

"He was this morning," he replied thoughtfully.

Her imagination was racing. At one moment, she repeated to herself what she should have said to them in the first moment of her surprise. The next, it jumped to the future, constructing the scene of her reproaches to Irma—the way she should demand an explanation from Andrew. The next moment, she switched to the past with feverish alarm, seeking some remembered indications which could clarify the present unbelievable revelation. Andrew—Andrew of all men! She could believe all things but that!

"I'm afraid the others have gone off on their own boat," he repeated. "What do you want to do?"

She passed her hand hastily over her forehead, touched her lips to a glass of cold water, and said,

"If you don't mind, Monte, I think I'd rather have a bite to eat now and go right home. I'm sorry to be so stupid."

"Do anything you like," he said hastily, moved by the suffering in her eyes. "We can dine here and go back by the train?"

"By the train?" she said, perplexed. "And why not by the boat?"

"I prefer not, Amy," he said kindly.

"Oh, I see what you think," she said slowly.

They ate their dinner rapidly. He saw her perturbation and refrained from addressing her. When the meal was ended, she said, out of a clear sky,

"I prefer to return in the yacht."

He shook his head.

"You are not in a mood to decide," he said gently. "I don't want you to do a thing you'll regret."

"You don't understand the situation," she said, looking at him. "It has nothing to do with Andrew. My husband and I have been nothing to each other for months."

"Are you sure?" he said gravely.

"Quite. Yes; I am upset, mortified, hurt, but it's not on his account. It's—it's to be deceived by her."

"Really, I had rather we did not go back alone," he said frowning.

"But if I wish it?"

"Very well."

She glanced at him.

"You are not annoyed at me?"

"I couldn't be."

"Please don't be annoyed, Monte—whatever I do."

In the antechamber, an idea came to him. He stepped in the cafe for a quick glance. He had not been mistaken. At a corner table, huddled over his glass, was Rudolph Dellabarre.

CHAPTER IV.

Andrew was already home, in the broad, gabled cottage he had taken for the summer. By the time they made the landing, she had not the slightest doubt that he would be would be there. Irma would have seen to that. If she had any one to thank for even this momentary return, it was the woman's need of safe-guarding appearances. She gave her hand hurriedly to Monte Bracken.

"You are very kind," she said gratefully. "Good night—and I shan't forget how you've been."

"I will do anything I can—at any time—for your happiness," he said, in a low voice.

He sprang back on the deck; the yacht backed out, and she watched it glide over the silky waters. At the bow, silhouetted against the tapestry of stars, his dark figure continued standing, still looking back at her. He had been very much of a gentleman, tactful and respecting her reticence, the true Monte Bracken of the finer metal that occasionally flashed out below the adroit and brilliant flaneur of the world. He had left her in long silence to the tumult of her own emotions.

"It's Irma—Irma I can't forgive," she repeated to herself dully, in long contemplation, as the shadowy goblin palaces of New York, the fiery lacework of vaulted bridges, the crowded throngs of electric lights fell behind and sank into the waters of the night. Across the bay, a few sentinel-lights followed their shooting progress—faint and distant as all mankind in the complexity of the stars which hung from the firmament above her and swam up from the deeps below. What did she really feel. Was it only the treachery of a friend? At times, she had felt the tears wet on her cheeks—tears of bitter disillusions, she had told herself.

The veranda and the parlor were ablaze as she came slowly from the pier.

"Mrs. Lightbody and the others will be home later," she said to Gregory.

"Mr. Forrester has arrived, madam."

"Mr. Forrester? How lon ghas he been home?"

"About an hour, madam."

She waited a moment, half expecting some message from her husband, a demand for an interview, and then went up to her room, dismissing Morley as soon as she had removed her hat and ulster. Would he come to her? The odor of tobacco was in the upper hall. He was awake.

At the end of ten minutes, which seemed an interminable hour, she made up her mind suddenly and going to his door knocked.

"Who's there?" said her husband's voice.

"It is I."

She entered. He had been in his shirt-sleeves at his desk and had stooped to slip into a dressing-gown. A year ago, he would never have thought of that.

She stood by the door, watching him uneasily.

"Why, he isn't angry at all," she thought, troubled, "unless he is concealing it very well."

He closed the window, but, perceiving the lighted cigar on the desk, crossed over.

"I'd better get rid of this, too, I suppose," he said, tossing it into the fireplace.

She felt like screaming out.

But she controlled herself and murmured, "Thank you."

Whatever happened, she was determined he should not have the satisfaction of perceiving the slightest trace of irritation. She refused the chair he indicated—to remain still was impossible — and going to the mantelpiece, she rested her arm on the ledge in an attitude of coquetry which had become unconscious.

"I didn't expect you back before the end of the month," she began lightly.

"Yes; I got off earlier than I expected."

"Then things are going better?"

"In a way—thank you."

"I am always glad to know something of your affairs," she said gently.

He threw himself into an armchair, crossed his legs, caged his hands and looked at her.

"I am sorry you left Lazare's so quickly. I wanted you to come back with us."

He did not reply.

"Pretty Kitty Kelly"

HERE'S a new song by wonderful new tenor, Hugh Donovan. It is a typical Irish song with a sweet melody, and the introduction of "My Wild Irish Rose," adds a pleasing and finishing touch. "Tripoli" on the opposite side, is a dreamy waltz number, sung with good effect by the same artist.

Purpose of This Issue

The King Edward Construction Co., Limited, has been incorporated for the purpose of constructing an addition to the King Edward Hotel of Toronto, one of the chain of the United Hotels Company of America, and has acquired the remainder of the block on King Street, Toronto, now occupied in part by the King Edward Hotel Co., Limited. When completed, the King Edward Hotel will occupy the whole block fronting on King Street. The addition will be a modern fireproof building of eighteen storeys, having light and space on each side. There will be 500 guest rooms and 500 bathrooms, or bath connections. The estimated cost of land, building, and equipment is $3,500,000. Of this, $1,300,000 has been arranged for by issuance of a first mortgage, the balance to be provided from the proceeds of the sale of the Company's Preferred Stock.

Toronto Needs More Hotel Accommodation

Toronto, with a population over half a million, has less than 500 rooms in fireproof hotels, 400 of which are in the King Edward. On completion of the addition there will still be only 1,800 fireproof rooms available. This is a smaller percentage than in any other city of its size in America.

LEASE.

The King Edward Hotel Company has made an agreement by which it leases the new addition for a period of thirty years, at a rental sufficient—
To create a Sinking Fund to wipe out the first mortgage at the end of the lease,
To pay the interest on the mortgage,
To pay 8 per cent. dividends on the Cumulative Preferred Stock,
To pay 10 per cent. on the Common Stock,
To pay all taxes, rates, insurance and repairs.

OPERATION.

The King Edward Hotel was acquired on April 1st, 1918, by the United Hotels Company of America, since which time it has been an unsurpassed success.

EARNINGS.

It is estimated that the completed hotel can be operated at a 50 per cent. increase over the present cost of operation of the King Edward Hotel. The earnings, based on accomplishments to date, would justify an expectation of a surplus in excess of $400,000.00 net per annum to the King Edward Hotel Company, Limited, after making all payments under the lease.

INCOME.

A summary of the estimated annual income of The King Edward Hotel Company, Limited, with the whole building completed, prepared by Mr. George H. O'Neil, Manager of the United Hotels Company system in Canada, and Charles Deberly, the general Auditor of the United Hotels Company of America, is as follows:

Interest, sinking fund, dividends, supplies, depreciation, and all other expenses	2,407,000.00
Estimated Profit	$ 422,696.77

It will be observed from the estimate of annual income that the sub-rentals, including those now available from the present hotel, together with the rentals received from stores and offices of the new building, including commissions, amount to $225,000.00 per annum, and that the average increase in room price over that now obtaining is but seventeen cents per room, allowing 30 per cent. vacancies, and that the increase in food sales is estimated at but one-half million dollars.

Preferred Stock—Guarantees and Safeguards

The dividend on the Preferred Stock is guaranteed unconditionally and irrevocably, both by the King Edward Hotel Company, Limited, and the United Hotels Company of America, by trust agreement with the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, Trustee for Stockholders. The Sinking Fund is to be applied to wipe out the outstanding mortgage in thirty years, thereby leaving the entire property as security for the Preferred Stock, and no additional mortgage or lien or issues or prior or equal Preferred Stock, shall be made without obtaining the consent of 60 per cent. of the holders of the then outstanding Preferred Stock. The dividend of 10 per cent. on the Common Stock is provided for by the terms of the lease and agreement with the King Edward Hotel Company, Limited.

Terms of the lease by the King Edward Hotel Company, Limited, make the dividend and Sinking Fund payments of the King Edward Construction Company, Limited, a direct obligation of the former company, and therefore payable before dividends on that Company's stock.

Parent Organization

The United Hotels Company of America, Guarantor, controls seventeen modern fireproof hotels in the United States and Canada, and the net earnings of hotels in operation for a full year (deducting interest and depreciation) for the year 1919, were $893,358.79. Three of these hotels are in course of construction, and The Seneca, Rochester, was not acquired until 1920. It is safe to say that no company operating hotels in North America was ever better organized or equipped than the United Hotels Company of America.

All legal details, leases, and guarantees in connection with the issue have been passed upon by Messrs. Starr, Spence, Cooper & Fraser, Barristers, of Toronto, Canada.

SINN FEIN ORGANIZING SUPREME COURT OF APPEAL UNDER REPUBLICAN GOVT.

THREE OR FIVE JUDGES ON THE BENCH—CLAIM PETTY CRIME ON WANE ALL OVER IRELAND.

(Canadian Press.)

DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—Sinn Fein is organizing, under the name of the Irish Republican Government, a supreme court of appeal, which when set up will complete the system of tribunals so successful in handling minor disputes for the past months. The highest court of the British Government in Ireland has virtually ceased to function because appeals have been withdrawn and many litigants decline to recognize that it has any authority whatever.

Arthur Griffith, the leader of Sinn Fein in Ireland, told The Associated Press, that it had not been decided whether to have three or five judges on the supreme bench nor had any of the judges been selected.

Lower Courts Successful.

"Our lower courts have been successful in checking the wave of crime that was sweeping over Ireland a few months ago," said Mr. Griffith. "Whatever may be said about the Republican Government by our enemies it must be and is admitted that petty crime has been on the wane all over the country since our courts began to function. Naturally many cases, both criminal and civil, have been appealed, but we have no court higher than a district court, to which we may take them. Appeal cases are piling up and the need of a supreme court is increasing everyday.

"We do not anticipate any more trouble with the military and police in holding meetings of the supreme court than we have had in connection with the lower ones. Now and then an armed force prevents their being held but in that case the court meets again somewhere else. In no instance have the troops and police permanently prevented cases from being tried."

Forestall British Courts.

The plan for forestalling British judges and courts is very simple but quite effective. When court is called men summoned for jury service fail to appear. Fines up to $500 have been imposed on absentees. If the officers arrest them and imprison them they go on hunger strike and subsequently are released, hence, British authorities have ceased to use imprisonment as a weapon and their courts are rapidly ceasing to function.

All officers of the Sinn Fein parish and district courts, are under the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice of the Irish Republic.

No Sinn Fein Prisons.

Each litigant in a civil action agrees to abide by the decision, and not to take up the case is an "enemy court" meaning a British institution in Ireland. This agreement and the weight of public opinion constitutes the power of the new courts in civil cases. The power in criminal cases lies with the Irish volunteers, a forte that is becoming less and less secretive in its activities. The courts are held in public halls or in any place convenient and reports of the destruction of the court houses of the British Government come in almost daily.

Sinn Fein has no prisons. Sentence in more serious criminal cases and the one most dreaded, is deportation, usually to England. Penalties for minor offences are usually a modification of the pillory system.

Citizens Go Out of Way to Make Localities Pleasant.

(Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 14. — Twenty million dollars is the estimated value of "the tourist crop" in British Columbia this year. This is not guess work, but is based on calculations made by J. Reginald Davison, publicity commission for the city. And the calculations are figured on a very conservative basis.

The figures of the returns from this delightful industry are worth keeping in mind. The man or woman who goes out of his or her way to make Vancouver attractive and pleasant to a visiting tourist is in the same class with those public benefactors who succeed in making two blades of grass grow where only one grew before. At least a third of this large sum of money is figured as having come to the city of Vancouver, so that it is doubtful if any industry in the city, not excluding lumber and shipbuilding, puts as much money into circulation in the city as the tourist industry.

A TONIC FOR THE NERVES

THE ONLY REAL NERVE TONIC IS A GOOD SUPPLY OF RICH, RED BLOOD,

"If people would only attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing which the specialist spoke of is the nervous run-down condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of to-day. Sufferers find themselves tired, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise hurts like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, and do not sleep well at night. Headaches and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich, red blood. Therefore to relieve nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills make new, rich blood, which strengthens the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits, and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts" you should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

For large steamed puddings it is best to use a tube-shaped mold.

TWENTY-FOUR SHIPS FOR REPARATION COMMISSION

German Government Takes Them Over From Private Yard.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. — The German Government is taking over 24 ships, aggregating more than 105,000 gross tons, under construction in various private shipyards of the country, for delivery to the Reparation Commission as provided by the terms of the Treaty of Versailles.

Five of the vessels were ordered by the Hamburg-American Line, one of 56,000 gross tons and another of 20,000 gross tons. One ship of 18,000 gross tons was being built for the North German Lloyd.

Owners of the vessels who deliberately avoid the obligation of delivering the ships to the Government, will be punished by imprisonment up to one year and by fine up to 100,000 marks, the German Government decree declares, and anyone avoiding the obligation by carelessness will be find up to 10,000 marks.

THE DAWN OF A NEW SEASON IS IN SIGHT

Even Now We Can Offer a Wide Assortment of New Autumn Dresses, Suits, Coats and Blouses

This store strives to have its stocks in long before they are required. It does not care to commence a season, short of this or that. It wants to have everything here on the day appointed for the official opening of a new season.

It is due to this desire that much of our fall stock of Ready-to-Wears is already on our floor.

To some it may seem early to mention fall merchandise, and especially so during this warm ather, but when rack after rack is being filled with new garments—masterpieces of the designers' art — and we know that hundreds of women are discussing "what will be worn for fall," we think it advisable to issue an invitation to them to come and inspect and acquire their information, firsthand.

CARNIVAL WILL WIND UP TO-NIGHT AT SHOW GROUNDS

THE ATTRACTIONS ARE HIGH-CLASS AND ELEVATING.

The Polack Carnival will terminate this evening after a successful week's engagement at the Fair Grounds. It is the expectation of the show organisation that the midway section will be thronged continually throughout this afternoon and evening. All the shows are high-class and elevating, and there is nothing of an offensive nature connected with any of the numerous attractions.

Some of the most entertaining shows ever placed under canvas are open at the show lot, and the crowds that have visited the grounds have come away uniformly well satisfied.

All shows and riding devices will open promptly at one o'clock to-day, and the Fair Grounds will be the mecca for jollification and merriment until late this evening.

The big carnival caravan moves from this city to-morrow for the Eastern Canadian Fair Circuit, where they will furnish the midway attractions at the Three Rvers, Quebec, Sherbrooke, and Ottawa Fairs.

SYMPATHY BETWEEN FRANCE AND CHINA

PEACE OF WORLD NOTHING TO GAIN FROM ANGLICIZED FAR EAST.

(Canadian Press)

TOKIO, Aug. 14.—Former Premier Paul Painleve of France, who stopped here on his way from America to China, was quoted as saying as he disembarked at Tokio:

"The peace of the world has nothing to gain from an Americanized or an Anglicized China. Without in any way meaning to offend our friends or Allies, we feel that to the French belongs the moral obligation to encourage and develop the intellectual, scientific and technical relations which exist already between China and France.

"France must not fail, at this time, while China, seeking to modernize herself, is calling for intellectual guides and technical counsellors, to answer that call. Anything that fails to present French culture to China leaves the way open for German kultur, to our hurt."

M. Painleve said his mission to China, which is his destinaton, had nothingh to do with finance, but was purely educational, scientific and technical, with the idea of laying a foundation for a more thorough knowledge of the Far East. Above all, it was his aim to guide toward France the Chinese who are seeking a higher education.

His visit is deemed here to be important in view of the preparations already under way in France to receive Chinese students, who are increasing in number. A project has been started at Paris by Senator and Mme. Hugues Le Roux to found a social club for visiting Chinese.

GOOD NEWS FOR THEATRE PATRONS

BIG SEASON PROMISED FOR PETERBORO SHOW HOUSE.

For the coming theatrical season Mr. W. L. Phillips, resident manager of the Trans-Canada Theatres, Ltd., has arranged for some of the biggest theatrical offerings ever shown in the city, and is confident of the co-operation of the city in making the enterprise a success. In twenty-eight days, commencing with August 19th, 14 road attractions will be given at the Grand.

The season will open on Monday with a three-day presentation of "The Girl of the Sea," one of the most amazing film productions of recent years. On Thursday, the opening of the road show season, "Hello Alexander," a musical comedy direct from sixteen months' run in New York City, will be presented, on Friday, a good picture, "The False Code," and on Saturday, "Vanity Fair," the fashion show of the year.

Other big attractions include Ethel Clayton in "Don't Tell," Gus Hill's Minstrels, who will play for two nights, and Edna Goodrich in "Sleeping Partners."

English Stars.

Mr. G. G. Garette, general representative of the Trans-Canada Theatres, Ltd., has arranged for a series of English stars to visit Canada and Peterborough will be included in the circuit. "Maid of the Mountains" with a case of the foremost English stars will lead the productions; Mr. Martin Harvey and his company of 35 people, playing "David Garrick," "The Breed of the Treshams," "Cigarette Makers' Romance," "Rosemary," "The Only Way," "Hamlet" and others will follow. Mr. Percy Hutchison is expected to make a return visit to Peterborough in his new spectacle, "Lord Nelson."

Stuart Whyte's Productions.

His productions, acknowledged the favorite of all of their kind which come to the city, Stuart Whyte will bring two shows to Peterborough during the coming season, "Babes in the Wood," his fifth annual pantomine importation, and "San Toy." The latter, which is a departure from the usual Stuart Whyte offering for the city, enjoys the distinction of being the most successful of all the brilliant array of London Gayety musical comedies, and its revival in Peterborough will doubtless meet with the same satisfying approval in a smaller way which was accorded "Floradora" in New York.

EXODUS OF TEACHERS GROWING VERY SERIOUS

IN THE WEST OTHER QUESTIONS BESIDES SALARY MUST BE CONSIDERED.

(Canadian Press)

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 14.—Calling attention to the serious nature of the exodus from the teaching profession now taking place in this province, W. J. McNeely, of the Teachers' Exchange of Saskatchewan Department of Education, shows that there are several other considerations besides those of salary which are operating to the detriment of the profession, and consequently of the interests of the children's education.

"Even at salaries of $1,400 and $1,550 per year, with free house and fuel," said Mr. McNeely, "we find that teachers are leaving the profession for more remunerative work where living conditions are more favorable than are found in many rural districts. Lack of good boarding accommodation, lack of interest on the part of trustees and ratepayers and the short term of engagement are also playing their part in forcing good teachers to take up other work A teacher cannot do efficient work in any district unless she has the co-operation of the trustees and the ratepayers and can safeguard her health and keep her energy by having good living quarters. She must also have good equipment and a comfortable place in which to do her work."

Mr. McNeely's report for 1919 shows that during the year 739 teachers were placed, an increase of 279.9 per cent. over the placements for 1918. Taking the records up to the third week in June, it is found that 524 teachers have already been placed.

Discoloured or Spotted Skin Easily Peeled Off

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which most skins are subject at this season, may readily be gotten rid of. Ordinary mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. You need not get more than an ounce of the wax from your druggist. There's no more effective way of banishing tan, freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process itself doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and you soon acquire a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness are best treated by a simple solution of powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation.

SUMMER DANCE SUCCESSES

A wide variety of new dance selections have been included in His Master's Voice Records of the present season. Among these are: "Desert Dreams," a Fox Trot, with "When the Sun Goes Down in Cairo Town," another Fox Trot. This double-sided Record is sold at $1.00. Besides these there is "Who Will Take Place of Mary?" a waltz, and "If You Could Care," also a waltz, another double-sided Record for $1.00. Then there is one of the marked successes of the season, namely, "Korinthia," with "Sunshine Rose" on the opposite side, both by Henri's Orchestra, at $1.00. All these are obtainable in the Victrola Parlours, Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co., Limited, George and Hunter Streets, Peterborough.

A MODERN MIRACLE

What Mr. Robert I. Buchanan, of Sarnia, Ont., has to say:

It is with great pleasure that I can testify to the great curative qualities of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets and Hou-Tan Ointment.

The summer of 1902 I took typhoid fever which left me with inflammatory rheumatism. My legs used to swell and the pain at times was almost unbearable. In January, 1903, I was compelled to go to bed and one month after my leg broke open at the knee. I was removed to Sarnia Hospital, where I spent almost one year and during that time had four operations. A part of the femur was removed from my leg and they made an incision through the other leg which went right through the bone. I left Sarnia hospital in February, 1904, and started to treat with other remedies but they failed to do me any good. In November, 1906, I was taken to Toronto hospital. At that time my right leg had gone back knocked-kneed until it was at right angles. They put a Thomas splint on to straighten it up and opened up the wound again. I left the hospital in February, 1907, and remained at home until July, 1907, when I returned to Toronto hospital again. They broke my leg just below the knee and straightened it. I came home in December but the sore in my leg was still open. I was then using the cupping treatment which helped a little for a time. I tried a number of different Ointments, but they did not appear to help me.

In July, 1908, your agent left me a box of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets and Hou-Tan Ointment. After using them for about six months my health has been fully restored and the four different sores on my leg are completely healed.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets and Hou-Tan Ointment are for sale at WARNE'S DRUG STORE, Peterborough. Herb Tablets $25c, 50c and $1.00 per box. Hou-Tan Ointment 50c. Ask for Pamphlet and free sample of Tamblets.

COAL PRICES TO JUMP AGAIN DUE TO INCREASED FREIGHT RATES

HAULAGE MORE AFTER AUGUST 26 —CERTAIN KINDS OF PAPER AND STATIONERY AFFECTED BOTH WAYS IN GOING UP.

Have you got your winter's coal tucked away in your cellar yet?

If not, do so before August 26th or the high cost of living will put his hand into your pocketbook again and relieve you of a considerable amount this time. The price of coal last winter was awful, this winter it will really be terrible.

The first increase will come immediately following August 26th, on which date the new freight rates in the United States become effective. The official announcement to this effect was made for both passenger and freight rates by the United States Railroad officials. At the same time it was announced that the United States railroads would ask the Canadian Railway Commissions for permission to make the new rates effective on transportation from the United States to the Dominion.

Application of the new schedules to transportation to Canada will means that shippers will pay freight rates under the new tariff for their classification territories unless the shipment passes through more than one group of the railroads crossing the line as an inter-territory rate, which is to be advanced 33 1-3 per cent. would apply.

Canadian railways, it is understood, will apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States for authority to make the new charge effective on transportation from the Dominion into the United States.

Coal Chief Item.

"This announcement will boost the prices again, and there is considerable business to be affected at the present time, particularly in coal, iron, steel and coke coming to Canada from the United States," stated Mr. Brown, of the Traffic Department of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. "Coal is the chief item concerning everybody, and particularly here, in Eastern Ontario and in Quebec.

"The increase, as a direct result in the jump in freight tariff, will be from $1 to $1.25 per ton on bituminous coal, and from $1.50 to $1.75 per ton on anthracite. The consumer will eventually have to pay the extra charges."

Hard Coal $17.25.

The Traffic Department of the Board of Control figure the increases the same as the C.M.A., and confirmed the direct results. The present rate to the Niagara frontier for bituminous coal hauled from the Pittsburg district in Pennsylvania is $1.75 per ton, while anthracite is $2.35. The coming increase of forty per cent. will send the soft coal haulage up 75 cents more on the American side, and if the Canadian increases are allowed 40 more on the Canadian side to Toronto. Anthracite will go up 94 cents per ton for transportation on the American side, and another 40 cents per ton to Toronto.

If the Canadian applications are allowed the increase in haulage alone will be, plus the American increase, from $2.75 to $3.90 for soft coal, and from $3.35 to $4.70 for anthracite.

Paper Prices Up.

Lumber, pulpwood and paper are the main exports from Canada to the United States to be affected, and Mr. Norman Brown, of Brown Bros., points out that the increased rates will be reactionary on the Canadian consumer. Pulpwood and paper are shipped from Canada to the United States, and certain classes of coated paper are reshipped to Canada after certain processes. If the Canadian freight rates are increased the paper going out of the country will cost more, and with the increases in the States it will cost more to get Canadian paper back into the country again.

"That is the unfortunate case," stated Mr. Brown. "We will have to pay the increased costs plus the rate of exchange and everything. The only solution I can see is to prevent certain papers leaving the country."

THE CHAUTAUQUA LAST EVENING

THE VIVIAN PLAYERS PUT ON A GOOD PERFORMANCE.

The Percival Vivian players kept a large audience in rollicking good humour at the Chautauqua, last evening, when they presented the comedy 'Nothing but the Truth."

The company, under the personal direction of Percival Vivian, the New York actor manager, is a strong one and by the finished nature of its acting upheld the traditions which it has established on the Chautauqua circuit in former years.

What would become of the amenities of social life were every one to speak the exact truth at all times and under all circumstances? This was the theme of the amusing comedy, "Nothing but the Truth," a dramatic version of the novel by Frederick Ishaw, and presented by Percival Vivian and his company last night. The immense audience became a rollicking and happy crowd eagerly enjoying every moment of the painted dialogue and fun provoking situation that developed through the determination of the hero to unfold himself without reserve, irrespective of consequences. Without exaggeration or lack of probability, the play unfolded itself, revealing in a significant way how much social intercourse is assisted by conventionalities that avoid injury to the feelings of our neighbors and friends. Moralists may be under unavoidable obligation to respect the truth, but regardless of true position, place or circumstance, he who would attempt to carry it out to the letter would rapidly became he most detested of human beings, a wrecker of friendship and homes

ADDITIONS TO LEGAL BATTERY

R. S. ROBERTSON HAS BEEN ADDED TO ARRAY.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, August 14—Important additions had been made in the counsel appointed to appear before the Royal Commission investigating the Ontario Hydro-radial proposals. R. S. Robertson has been appointed by the Ontario Government to represent the interests of the Ontario municipalities which do not stand to benefit by any of the proposed radial electric lines, but are concerned in the effect of Provincial guarantee on the public credit, and also to represent the municipalities in which, though by-laws have voted for the construction of railways within them, have shown a reluctance to issue the debentures before the guarantee of the Government is issued.

Mr. Robertson is a members of the Toronto legal firm of Fasken, Robertson, Chadwick & Sedgewick. He came to Toront about three years ago from Stratford, where he was city solicitor, and was also a partner of the present Justice Idington, of the Supreme Court of Canada. As a solicitor, he had a good deal to do with the inauguration of the Hydro system in Stratford.

It is not expected that the extensive data requested of the Hydro Commission by the Radial Commission can be prepared and analysed by the other counsel in readiness for the regular public hearings before September.

THE CASE AGAINST DOCTOR DISMISSED

ALCOMBRACK'S EVIDENCE WAS NOT CORROBORATED.

As a result of evidence which developed in the case of Edgar Alcombrack, charged with selling liquor to Mr. J. Hickel, Dr. E. E. Harvey was charge this morning tn the police court with selling liquor to Alcombrack before Magistrate Dumble and Justice of the Peace H. Rush.

The case of Alcombrack was adjourned yesterday after Mr. J. Hickey had sworn that Alcombrack gave him the whiskey in Munro House on Wednesday, after having "lent" Alcombrack $5 and having reecived $2.25 in "change."

The Evidence.

Alcombrack was the first witness called by the Crown. He admitted receiving the $5 from Hickey and purchased a six ounce bottle of alcohol with it and stated that he got the alcohol from Dr. E. E. Harvey for $2.50. Witness declared that he asked Dr. Harvey for alcohol saying that he wanted it for a cold.

Crown Attorney Hatton brought out the point that there were no directions on the bottle and that no instructions were given him by the doctor.

Witness stated that the bottle Hickey was drinking from in the Munro Hotel when arrested by Police Sergt. Reid, was the one Dr. Harvey had given him (witness.)

The Net Profit.

In summing up Crown Attorney Hatton stated that Hickey had paid $5 to Alcombrack and had received $2.25 back. That Alcombrack received $2.75 of which $2.50 Alcombrback declared he had paid to Dr. Harvey. Hence, the Crown Attorney concluded, Alcombrack had made a net profit of 25c.

Pleaded Not Guilty.

Dr. Harvey was then charged as a result of this evidence with selling liquor to Alcombrack.

G. N. Gordon acting for Dr. Harvey, entered a plea of not guilty.

Alcombrack was called as the first first in the second case and corroborated the evidence which he had previously given.

Cross-examined by Mr. Gordon, counsel for the deefnce, Alcombrack said that he received the liquor about 3.30 or 3.45 o'clock on Wednesda afternoon. He admitted that he had bought alcohol from drug stores twice —one from Dr. Morgan and once from Dr. Carmichael. There was no one in the doctor's office at the time witness declared. He said that he had a cold at the time and has one yet but was unable to use the alcohol because of the interference of the police.

Police Evidence.

Sergt. Reid was next called and when sworn in, by mistake picked up the bottle of alcohol, which was Exhibit A., instead of the Bible ,to swear on. Sergt. Reid repeated his testimony of yesterday regarding the arrest of Hickey and Alcombrack at 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, in the Munro House.

Evidence for Dofence.

This ended the Crown's case, and Mr. Gordon then called Dr. Harvey. Dr. Harvey emphatically denied Alcombrack's story and, stated that Alcombrack was not in his office on Wednesday, neither did he see him. He remembered Alcombrack because Chief of Police Thompson was once shown him a list of alleged drug users, which contained the name of Alcombrack Conseuently he would have refused Alcombrack liquor, as he did some months ago when he tried to get a liquor prescription from him

Cross-examined by Crown Attorney Hatton witness stated that the bottle was one of a very common type and was used generally by druggists and doctors.

Dr. Harvey returned shortly with the fyle containing the sheets with the day's entries. He explained that a company in Toronto does his book keeping; he makes the entries, taking a carbon copy for himself and sends the day book forms to Toronto. These forms cover all his work, he said. There was no Alcombrack entry in the book for that day.

This concluded the defence.

Magistrate Dumble said that there was no corroboration of Alcombrack's evidence, and he could not make a conviction on that evidence. He dismissed the charge.

WILD WESTERNER CHASNING A JOB

A little diversion was lent to the usual routine at the Government Labor Bureau this week by the filing of several applications from employees of the Polack Shows. One husky wild westerner, dressed in his robes of office, returned several times during one day to make sure nothing promising had turned up for him to look into. Several men representing themselves as being attached to the show sought any form of occupation where they might get their board.

During the week, outside of the show people, 41 applications were filed, 31 men placed and 34 positions reported vacant. The majority of the applicants both for work or help were for labor by the day.

LINDSAY WANTS A HOCKEY TEAM

THE SAME OLD SKATING RINK WILL BE USED.

The management of the Junior O. H. A. team in town, seeking relief from the weather, have turned their hougfhts iceward and have condescended to promise the fans a winning team this year. "Bill" Garnett, who fathered the Midget last season, has gone to fresh pastures across the line. Notwithstanding this loss there is plenty of good material in town. The residence rule, which took effect the first of this month, garnered into town several new players, as well as the old-stand-bys. Some of last year's boys will figure on the new team.

The same old pill-box is evidently to be with us another year unless some "couer de leon" finds courage enough to champion a new structure.

Several interested citizens are advocating a couple of open air rinks and the formation of a juvenile league. Any young players wishing to practice find themselves without ice. The town rink cannot provide accommodation for all. A couple of open-air sheets would do much toward the promotion of hockey players The Junior Athletic Association is also to be heard from. Their proposal is to enter every line of sport, so a good hockey organization is looked for.

A TRIP FOR THE LOCAL PLAYERS

MAY GO TO THE SILVER COUNTRY IN CHARGE OF JAKE SOLOMON.

New Liskeard Exchange The writer had a telephone conversation on Tuesday evening, with our old friend Jake Solomon, of Peterborough, formerly of this town, in which he informed us that his baseball team had won the championship of the Central Ontario Baseball League, and announcing that they were desirous of taking a trip up to Cobalt, Haileybury and New Liskeard and playing ball games with the teams of the three towns. The fact that Peterborough won the championship of such an important section of Ontario would be a big drawing card, but the fact that "Salome" is in charge of the champions would be a still greater attraction, for Jake was a sure popular boy in old Liskeard town. At time of writing it is impossible to say just what will be done in connection with the proposed visit of the Peterborough boys, but if they do come up it will probably be next week, commencing with Monday.

Altogether Boys.

Now that Peterborough has won the Johnston Cup it is up to every fan in the C. O. B. A. to pull for the northern town to win the C. A. B. A. The Central has good enough material to do it and The Times Trophy should not go west of Toronto this year. One interesting feature of Peterborough's win is that the cup has been won by two different teams in the two years of the Central and it is to be hoped will be captured by Oshawa next year, says the Oshawa Reformer.

GOOD LUMBERING.

Favorable Reports of Conditions in the Northwest.

(Canadian Press)

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 14.—Reports received from various parts of the country by lumbermen in Calgary indicate that lumber manufacturing conditions are progressing favorably, and labor and other contributing agencies are better than they have been for a number of years. There is still considerable complaint about the car service and the inability to make shipments across the border. Local yards are stocking up with lumber of all kinds, looking for a busy season in the fall, and in many directions there is already a movement in the way of bigger business.

VANITY FAIR

In the course of each theatrical season there are perhaps half a dozen musical comedies produced which stand out in bold relief from all the others. The success they score is so marked that it is instantly and universally recognized. And they are the plays which in years to follow go on and on, bringing pleasure to thousands and eventually millions of theatre-goers.

One of these rare musical comedies is Boyle Woolfolk's "Vanity Fair," which comes to the Grand on Saturday, Aug. 12 matinee and night. When first presented in New York, "Vanity Fair" sprang into instant favour, its every presentation being a veritable triumph.

A cast of super-excellence and a chorus of twenty selected beauties from Broadway has been engaged and so far as the stage presentation is concerned, "Vanity Fair" will be seen here exactly as it was presented during its long run in New York.

To describe it briefly, it is a brilliant musical comedy, rich in humor, resplendent with scintillating dialogue, catchy, twinkling, haunting jazzy tunes and swift dancing to an extreme. Other than to disclose it as a strictly modern musical play bubbling over with action would be to deprive the audience of much of the pleasure in store for them. If the words of hundreds of critics may be taken, "Vanity Fair" is most decidedly worth while. It is a musical comedy gem of the finest cut and theatre-goers will do well to mark carefully the date of its presentation. They should not miss it.

MANUFACTURER EMPLOYS ALL ONE-ARMED MEN

(Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 14.—England's greatest employer of one-armed men was a recent visitor to Winnipeg. He is W. H. Dunkley, of London, manufacturer of carriages and is on a preliminary survey of land and social conditions in Canada, with a view of bringing poor from the slums of London to Canadian farms.

Since the armistice, Mr. Dunkley has employed none but one-armed men. He now has three hundred of them in his factory and has found that these crippled soldiers, properly trained, not only can do almost the work of a man with two hands, but are given a new interest in life working entirely with men of their own kind.

A SEA MONSTER GRAPPLES SHIPS

THRILLING SCENE IN PICTURE COMING TO GRAND.

George Noble, famous marine expert, believes that octopuses or cuttlefish destroyed the United States Naval Collier "Cyclops" that sailed away from the West Indies on March 4, 1918, with 295 men, whose fate has remained an utter mystery ever since.

He points out that these octopuses have committed similar depredations in the region where the "Cyclops" was lost.

"Denys de Montfort, the French writer," Noble says, "declared that six men of war, captured from the French by Admiral Rodney in the West Indies, April 12, 1872, together with four British ships, were suddenly engulfed by colossal octopuses. He also records a statement of Captain Jean Magnus Deus, a trader to China, of an instance when the Captain was becalmed while crossing from St. Helena to Cape Negro.

"The story runs that three men were standing on planks slung over the side when an enormous cuttlefish rose from the water and threw one of its arms around two of the sailors whom it bore away with the scaffolding on which they stood. With another arm it seized the third man who held on tightly to the rigging and screamed for help. His shipmates ran to his assistance and succeeded in rescuing him by cutting away the creature's arms with axes and knives, but he died delirious on the following night.

"The captain tried to save the other two sailors by killing the animal, and drove several harpoons into it, but they broke away and the men were carried down by the monster. The arm cut off was said to have been 25 feet long and to have had suckers as big as saucepan lids."

One of the exciting features of "Girl of the Sea" is a fight between an octopus and a diver. It was photographed by J. E. Williamson of the Submarine Film Corporation.

This picture will be shown at the Grand the first three days of next week.

AT THE ALLEN

Fat girls and thin girls, is the all-absorbing question in the beautiful little city of Morovenia. Much do the men of Morovenia admire the large proportions of stout women, but their ruler is accursed with a slim and beautifully modelled daughter, known among the inhabitants of the city and spoken of with awe, as the "slim princess." Much as she is hated by the young men of Morovenia and great is her sorrow, and she, the older sister, is unmarried.

The day comes when a profitable offer for the hand of the younger sister arrives from the Prince Luis Muldova, but until the slim princess is married, her younger sister's hand cannot be given in the holy state of matrimony.

Obstacles and barriers of all descriptions are placed between him and his love. Does he overcome them, or does he not?

Mr. Harry Filkin, 296 Frederick Avenue, manager of the boot and shoe department of B. F. Ackerman, Son & Company, has produced a novelty in the vegetable world in above-ground potatoes. His potato vines, planted in May, have prospered not only in the usual way, but have departed from the ordinary course of development by bearing green fruit on the vine in clusters of from four to eight, and formed very much like tomatoes. The inside of the fruit or vegetable also resembles the ordinary tomato.

The only other case of this abnormal development known this year is that noted in The Examiner this week of a man in Watertown.

Chiropractic Is Scientific

Chiropractic is not only common sense but it is scientific, as has been amply proven by numerous scientific investigators. Physiologists teach that all actions or processes occurring within the body are controlled by the brain through the nervous system. They teach that the brain contains various functional centers such as motor, sensory, secretory, nutritive and calorific, or heat producing. The impulses generated by each center in the brain are conducted through the spinal cord and definite sets of nerves to the organ in which they are expressed. In Kirke's Physiology it is stated that each center has its own nerves and that the motor impulses cannot be transmitted over the nutritive nerves, nor the nutritive impulses carried over the secretory nerves, which would prove that injury to a motor nerve would only affect the motor function, or injury to a secretory nerve would only affect the secretory function. Since disease is but an abnormal expression of function, what could cause it other than interference with the transmission of these various impulses through the nerves?

Krehl, a noted European scientist, in his work, "The Basis of Symptoms," states that fever can be produced by stimulating the heat center in the brain and the fever can be lowered by inhibiting the heat center of the brain. Now, since this heat center and all other centers in the brain operate through nerves, which pass out from the spine through small openings between the vertebrae, and since the vertebrae are capable of movement and may become displaced, pressure upon the spinal nerves by the displaced vertebrae will also interfere with the transmission of impulses from the various centers in the brain, which results in a disturbance of the function involved, constituting disease. The kind of disease depends upon the function, or combination of functions, involved by the pressure.

When a patient comes to a Chiropractor, seeking relief from his disease, the Chiropractor makes an analysis of his case, determining what function is affected, how it is affected and what causes it to be affected. He then proceeds to restore health by removing the cause of the disease, because permanent health cannot be established unless the cause of the disease is removed. The Chiropractor claims that it is more rational and more scientific to remove the cause of disease than to treat the effects of this cause, the disease itself, because wherever there is a cause, there must be an effect.

CUBA'S SUGAR CROP BIG AS MOUNTAIN

COMPARISONS THAT SUGGEST THE VOLUME OF THIS YEAR'S YIELD.

Sugar, like shoes, we once took for granted. Now procuring enough for the preserving season may be a problem, and sugar "speak easies" are not uncommon in lands where the supply is rationed.

Writing to the National Geographic Society, William Joseph Showalter says:

"With a sugar production nearly doubled and prices more than quadrupled since 1912, one can readily see why Cuba is the world's El Dorado of 1920 and why sugar is its king.

"The imagination is almost overpowered in attempting to comprehend the vast proportions f the sugar industry of the island as it exists this year.

"The cane produced is of such tremendous volume that a procession of bull teams, four abreast, reaching around the earth, would be required to move it. The crop would suffice to build a solid wall around the entire 2,000 miles of the island's coast line as high as an ordinary dwelling house and thick enough for a file of four men to walk abreast on it.

"The sugar attracted from this cane would load a fleet of steamers reaching from Havana to New York, with a ship for every mile of the 1,200 that stretch between the two ports. The great pyramid of Cheops, before whose awe-inspiring proportions millions of people have stood and gazed in open-mouthed amazement, remains, after 5,000 years, unrivaled as a monumental pile; but Cuba's sugar output this year would make two pyramids, each outbasing and overtopping Cheops.

"The wealth the outgoing sugar crop brings in is not less remarkable in its proportions. Four hundred dollars out of a single crop for every human being who lives on the island—a sum almost as great as the per capita wealth produced by all the farms, all the factories and all the mines of the United States!

"What wonder, then, that Cuba today is a land of gold and gems, richer than Midas ever was, converting Croesus, by contrast, into a beggar!

"Sugar cane is grown by three classes of planters in Cuba. Perhaps the major part of the crop is grown by share farmers, or 'colonas,' as they are called. The owners of the sugar mills furnish them with a given number of acres of land to plant and give them an agreed share of the sugar they produce.

"The next class is composed of the land-owning farmers, who grow their own cane and have it ground on shares, after the fashion of the rural grist mill. The remainder of the cane is grown by the owners of the mills themselves. At some centrals the 'administration,' cane, as that grown under 'central' management is known, amounts to only 4 per cent. of the total; at others it amounts to 90 per cent.

"Even the share farmer, at pre-war prices, made money. According to 'Cuba Before the World,' the official handbook of the republic at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, when sugar was selling at 2.62 cents a pound, his share of the sugar brought him, on the basis of twelve sacks to the acre, a return of from $46 to $51 per acre. The return to the planter owning his land was from $56 to $61 per acre. When one remembers that the selling price of sugar is from four to six times as high in 1920 as it was then the size of the per-acre income to-day is apparent.

"How much net profit the cane-grower reaps at 1920 prices is hard to estimate, but that it is large will appear when the methods of cane-growing are stated. To begin with, after the first crop the planter does not have to bother with seed time for about ten years. The soil is so deep and so fertile that one planting produces ten harvests. Neither does cultivation bother him after the first season, for the blades stripped from one crop form a mulch that keens the weeds from competing with the next one.

"Another item in the low cost of producing sugar is the cheapness of the motive power. The cane is hauled in ox-carts. The oxen live from six to ten months a year on the blades stripped from the harvested stalks, and the remainder of the year on succulent guinea grass. Think how prosperous would be the American farmer if he could have animal motive power requiring not a pound of grain to feed it!"

TOMATO CROP WILL BE LARGEST IN MANY YEARS

CHATHAM, Aug. 12.— According to officials of the Libby, McNeil & Libby Co., the tomato crop for this section promises to be the biggest in many years. Farmers on the market to-day report other vegetables to be a good crop.

DENOUNCES THE FASHION AND MODERN DANCING

BELMONT, Man., August 14.—"In Winnipeg one can not tell on a Sunday whether the crowds with their X-ray blouses and cob-web stockings are going to church: to a comic opera, or a midnight ball," declared W. J. Battley, general secretary of the Manitoba Social Hygiene Association, speaking here recently. He strongly denounced the present-day fashions and the modern dances.

"Modern dancing is not only robbing our teen age boys and girls of their morals to a great extent, but is undermining their health in other ways," he said. "I tell you frankly that they who dance the 'shimmy' or allow it to be danced, or who approve of this style of dancing, have lost a great deal of their sense of decency, and I think that the fox trot is not far behind the 'shimmy' in its effect on morals."

THE BATTLE FOR WARSAW PROGRESSES

BOLSHEVIK CAVALRY TRYING TO FORCE THE VISTULA AND ENCIRCLE CITY.

(Canadian Press).

WARSAW Aug. 16Armoured flottilla in patrolling in Vistula River betwe n Warsaw and Thorn to prevent Russian Bolsheviki from crossing that stream in a movement to incircle this city.

Soviet cavalry is working westward along the Prussian frontier and was reported at various points northwest of Warsaw to-day. These horsemen are source of constant annoyance many detachments following tactics adopted by General Budenny on Southern Polish front in raiding districts, endeavouring to drive in behind Polish lines and spreading consternation among the peasants. Estimates of numbers of raiders vary, but it is reported there are several thousand of them, some of whom were infantrymen who have taken horses from peasants and moved forward. It is known the Bolsheviki had cavalry division upon their extreme right and it is this organization that has been making headway and against which armoured motor boats and other fighting craft are prepared to battle in front of cavalry trying to force the Vistula, sever War saw-Dansig Railway and possibly completely isolate this city from the outside world.

SIX TRAINS WERE HALTED

FRENCH POLICY TOWARDS RUSSIA REGARDED AS EQUIVALENT TO WAR.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 16.— Workmen in Upper Silesia regard France's recognition of General Wrangel as equivalent to a declaration of war on Russia, and accordingly will refuse to recognize French representatives on Plebiscite Commission, contending they are not neutral, says the Daily Mail's Kattowitz correspondent. Six trains of French troops from Teschen, the war correspondent says, have been held up at Gliewitz by workmen, who feared they were going to help Poland. French commander, he adds, then issued an ultimatum demanding a clear passage or he would use machine guns. Workmen are said to be armed.

Belgian government has forbidden shipment of ammunition which has arrived at Antwerp from France, destined for General Wrangel, according to an Antwerp despatch. This action, it is believed, was due to announcement by Belgian workmen that they would refuse to handle the shipment.

CONCLUDING DAY OF CHAUTAUQUA

JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUA WAS A FEATURE OF THE LAST DAY.

Saturday concluded Chautauqua week in the city and the two numbers presented on the concluding day are numbered amongst the most pleasing of the long line of attractions. After a week's arduous training Miss Willis, assisted by Miss Marguerite Herridge and Miss Muriel Pocteous, presented their thirty little junior Chautauqua children in Mother Goose Pageant, which was an exceedingly pretty feature. With Miss Willis in Mother Goose costume, the little ones ranging from about four years to fifteen years of age, sang and illustrated Mother Goose rhymes. They also gave a couple of Chautauqua yells and a "Town Song" which were eye openers to their parents and friends.

Evening Performance.

In the evening a splendid concert was put on by three noted musicians, Miss Jessie Isabel Christian of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, Geraldine Edgar, violinste and Mr. Robert MacDonald. In this an excellent programme of varied operatic and concert numbers was rendered, which proved the artists to be stars.

SEVERAL BARNS DESTROYED BY STORM WHICH SWEPT OVER PETERBORO COUNTY

Leaving destruction in its wake, the worst electrical storm which has visited the locality in years, swept over Lakefield and the surrounding country on Saturday afternoon at about two o'clock. The storm commenced on the Smith side of the river, followed the river down to the village of Lakefield, went across to Douro and shifted to Stoney Lake.

At about 2.30 a large barn in the rear of Mr. David Miller's house in Smith township, was struck and was instantly in a blaze. All attempts to save the contents of the barn, which were valued at several thousand dollars, proved futile and Mr. Miller lost all his spring and fall wheat, several calves valued at $200, a bull, a wagon load of grain brought in on Saturday, and a hound dog. A collie which was in the barn with the hound, escaped, but had its eintire coat burned from its back. None of the Miller family, who were in the house, felt any ill effects from the storm.

Escaped Death.

In Douro township, close to Pine Grove cheese factory, Mr. Wellington Hunter who also suffered severely from the storm, had an extremely narrow escape from death. He had just finished cleaning a pig sty and walked into the yard when he felt what he thought to be a violent blow on his head and turning around found his new barn, built in 1916, and from which he had just emerged, in flames. Any attempts to save the contents of the barn proved practically useless and the barn, measuring thirty-five by ninety feet, was burned to the ground, his pigs, twelve old ones, one mother pig and nine little ones valued at $1,000 burned, also his entire harvest, which included twenty-five tons of hay. A driving house close to the barn was destroyed by fire also a binder which was in the driving shed. Only the fact that the wind was in the right direction saved the house. All occupants of the house were severely shocked.

Judge Rogers Injured.

At Stoney Lake, where the storm had spent its fury, lightning struck Judge G. M. Rogers' cottage, shocking the nine occupants, who included the Judge, and shattering a wooden bed to matchwood. No fire resulted, however, from the lightning.

Severe Shock.

Near the number seven school in Smith township, on the fourteenth concession, Mr. Sam Trude, son of Mr. Wm. Trude, who was helping his father in building a silo, had a very close call. He was standing against a wire near some steel rods which were being used in making the foundation of the silo when lighting struck the wire and threw Mr. Trude to the floor. He was carried to the house and only after working with him for several hours his family was enabled to straighten his twisted body out. In the vicinity where the storm raged for about two hours, the sky was practically as black as night, lightened only by the practically incessant purple lightning.

Lakefield Escaped.

While the storm was extremely severe in Lakefield the village escaped with practically no damage, outside of the destruction of a few trees. In Strickland's Grove, in the centre of the village, a tall pine which has been struck several times previously, was totally shattered.

At Burleigh.

Mr. Ira Dunford's barn at Burleigh was destroyed by fire, resulting from lightning.

DROP IN SUGAR PRICES WILL BE GOOD NEWS TO PETERBORO WOMEN

NEW YORK, August 16. — Raw sugar prices continue to slump, and traders said the end was not in sight. One thing is certain: The bugaboo of a sugar famine, with the consumer paying 30c a pound next winter, has been dispelled by the unprecedented decline. Fifteen cents a pound retail this fall, with a probable further reduction when the new Cuban crop is available in December, was predicted by the sugar merchants and refiners.

The sudden collapse of the market is the direct result of conditions arising from the shortage last spring, according to a well posted man here. The confectionery trade, chain grocery stores and other large consumers, being unable to buy from the refiners, contracted for shipments from Java, Formosa, China, Brazil, Argentina, Holland and other foreign countries. The bulk of this foreign sugar is coming in now.

PRICE BREAKING.

The price broke two weeks ago and has been tobogganing ever since, setting a new record for fluctuations in the sugar market. A week ago raw sugar sold at 16.30 a pound; yesterday 13.0 cents was quoted. Next week it would surprise no one in the trade to see the price fall below 10 cents, which would make a new low record for 1920.

The price of refined sugar has begun to reflect the downward trend, and one large refiner already has marked the wholesale price down from 21.10 cents to 17.10 cents a pound. Retailers who hoped to get from 25 to 30 cents a pound for stock they paid 20 to 22 cents for, are getting panicky and unloading at the price they paid or less.

One East Side dealer with a big supply to dispose of, loaded his delivery waggons with five pound packages and sent them out on the street at $1 a package. Careful housewives who had been hoarding ten or twenty pounds of sugar against the day when the price might soar beyond their purse, are beginning to dip into their reserves, and this also had an effect on the price.

The beet sugar crop this year will be the largest in history. In California it is now being harvested; the full crop will be ready by October; and it will be enough to supply the middle and western states, leaving the eastern states only to be taken care of by the local refineries.

Another Financial Wizard Garnered In

BOSTON, August 16. — Another get-rich-quick balloon has apparently collapsed in this city following by only 48 hours the tumbling of Charels Ponzi's house in the clouds.

Four officials of the so-called "rival" concern, the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, of 54 Devonshire street, were taken into custody and charged with larceny. They are Charles M. Brightwell, the president, Raymond C. Myers, said to be the general manager; Fred C. Myers, a brother of Raymond, who is understood to be the secretary and sales manager, and Samuel Zorn.

Ponzi himself is in Middlesex County, East Cambridge, having been surrendered by his bondsman, who had furnished $35,000 for his appearance after his arrest by the Federal authorities.

The Old Coloney Foreign Exchange is the firm against which District Attorney Pelletier two weeks ago issued a warning ,advising the people not to give it any of its money for investment purposes.

The Myers brothers were preparing to leave the city for New York when arrested in their hotel. Another man identified with the firm's affairs is on a steamer for Sweden. He is R. G. A. Lindblad, who presumably was to act as a foreign agent.

Fear Money has been Removed.

Officials were disturbed by the belief that large sums collected by the concern have been taken out of the state and perhaps out of the country. No figures have been given out as to the amount of money that has been received by the rival investment concern, but it is feared that it will reach $2,500,000.

New arrests are about to be made in connection with recent financial operations in this city. Great secrecy is being maintained as to whom the next victims will be. Warrants have been served and the arrests are expected at any hour.

Th Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company opened its ofifces a little more than two weeks ago, promising 100 per cent. profit in six months, or 50 per cent profit in 90 days The company issued time notes in exchange for the cash received.

The money craze was then at its height, and up to the time of the Ponzi collapse, a few days ago, the organization did a thriving business. Even the closing of Ponzi's office, failed to halt its flow of customers. Indeed the business is said to have increased.

The sudden closing of the finely fitted offices resulted in the biggest fireworks thus far in connection with the frenzy for riches that has been visited upon this city. A swarm of foreigners, learning of the action,immediately gathered and took the office by storm, demanding the manager.

Brightwell was singled out and he would have been roughly handled, if not killed, had the mob succeeded in reaching him. Realizing his danger, he fled through a side door, which was barricaded. The police had been summoned and a squad arrived and halted the invaders' activities with a little delay.

Knives Ready for Accused Man.

Threats against the life of Brightwell were heard and here and there in the mob knives were seen clinched in swarthy hands.

At noontime Dr. Marton Prince, trustee for the building at 54 Devonshire street, visited the office in company with Michael H. Crowley, superintendent of police. Dr. Prince sought Mr. Brightwell and informed him that his firm must vacate at once and "without fail." Dr. Prince set 2.30 o'clock as the time limit.

A short time later an attache announced that a new office had been opened at 42 Oliver street, which is close by and that the firm would transfer headquarters there at once. It was not long before the order to close the new office was issued and the arrest soon followed.

It was understood that the concern contended that it engaged in converting postal exchange coupons into profitable cash similar to the "Wizard" Ponzi's alleged transactions but the officials said that they were engaged in "big business" in European countries, branching into many lines. Fred Myers, the supposed general manager, has said the firm was doing a tremendous business in Europe, trading in "everything from a spool of thread to a Babcock engine."

Rioting Renewed

REPORTS FROM THE IRISH BATTLEFRONT.

(Canadian Press.)

BELFAST, Aug. 16.—Rioting was renewed in this city last night, but there were no firing during disorders. Short Strand, a Nationalist area in East Belfast, was the battle ground and contending parties threw stones at each other, the locality remaining virtually in a state of seige until after midnight. Four Nationalists were arrested and one constable was so badly injured he was taken to the hospital.

POLICE IMPASSIVE

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Shepherded by only eight mounted and forty foot police, 8,000 persons congregated in Trafalgar Square yesterday afternoon in protest against the Government order forbidding Archbishop Daniel J. Mannix, of Australia, to visit Ireland.

Though the speeches were far more seditious than the speeches of Archbisop Mannix in America, there was no disorder. Tremendous booing greeted every mention of Premier Lloyd George, despite the fact that his house in Downing Street is less than a block distant.

The police were absolutely impassive.

Count Plunkett and Aldermen McDonah and Kelly were the chief speakers. They demanded that the ban against Archbishop Mannix be lifted, and declared that Ireland is more determined than ever to win independence.

Contingents came from various districts in London headed by bands and numerous Sinn Fein flags. Three meetings were held simultaneously, th eplatforms being the plisth of the Nelson monument.

Fully fifty thousand people witnessed the daredevil feat. Leach dropped from a point near the Hydro-Electric sub-station in close proximity to Torro Convent. FAIR DIRECTORS HAVE BIG PROGRAM FOR FIRST FOUR-DAY EXHIBITION

MAPLE LEAF CARNIVAL COMPANY WILL AUGMENT MIDWAY ATTRACTIONS--PARK STREET GATE WILL BE OPENED ESPECIALLY FOR AUTOMOBILES.

With this year's fair only a month away the directors met on Saturday evening at the Exhibition Park and put in two hours laying out the grounds for the midway, exhibits, special attractions and otherwise advancing the arrangements towards completion.

It was announced that a carnival company with the impressive title of "The Maple Leaf Attractions and Superior Shows United" has been engaged for the four days of the exhibition. They are perhaps not so large as the Sheesley and Pollack shows, but they guarantee a whip, merry-go-round ferris wheel and aerial swings, and Berzac's Mammoth Circus. These attractions will be placed next to the manufacturers' building. The midway will have its old stamping ground from the secretary's office to the grand stand. Locations for concessions have been mapped out and can be secured from the secretary at any time.

It was decided that automobiles may enter the park only from the Park street gate, which will also be equipped to admit the general public.

Grand Stand Performance.

Launching a four-day exhibition this year, the directors have spared no expense in engaging grand stand attractions that assure an exceptionally good programme for the afternoon and evening performances. The following are the features of the grandstand attractions:

The Okuras—Japanese acrobats and jugglers.

The Bluchs—Comic aerial bar stunts; also hand waggon act.

Ed. Holder and his mule—A trained animal act that is guaranteed to please.

Ed. Zola & Company.—An entirely new idea in comics and burlesque pantomime.

Okura—The Japanese master of equinose. A feature of this act on a slender wire are the hand-embroidered costumes worn by the equilibrist.

The McDonald Trio — America's noted cycling experts.

Sigshee's dogs—Said to be the best canine performance before the public to-day.

This is the present grand-stand programme. It has been secured with the object of making Peterborough first four-day fair a memorable one. Band concerts and displays of fireworks will be added to the evening performances.

BURGLARS ENTER THE C. P. R. SHEDS AFTER LIQUOR.

Other Goods Had No Attraction for These Thirsty Chaps.

Burglars are real particular chaps these days. On Wednesday night they gained entrance to the C. P. R. freight sheds by breaking a pane of glass in one of the windows. The thieves made a careful inspection of all the packages in the building, but finding no liquor, they left empty-handed. Even several caddies of tobacco were no attraction for the night raiders. It was a case of whisky or nothing, and the thieves were obliged to accept the latter.—Port Hope Guide.

SOLD LIQUOR, $200 AND COSTS.

At Trenton before Magistrate O'Rourke, Mrs. Henry Williams was convicted of selling a bottle of liquor to a man named Robert McCullough. A fine of $200 and costs was imposed.

License Inspector E. Taber and C. R. Deacon, prosecutor for the Provincial Department of Justice, is sparing no efforts to combat the liquor-selling evil in Brockville and vicinity, and on Tuesday morning secured stiff prison sentences against two offenders, William J. Baldwin, Cedar street, and Fred Young, Elizabethtown. The two men faced Magistrate Page on their second offence and after hearing the evidence of the prosecution, on the advice of their solicitor, J. E. McGlade, withdrew their pleas of not guilty to guilty and abandoned their defence. Being charged with having or selling liquor Magistrate Page imposed a fine sentence of six months at Burwash prison farm on each of the men, without the option of a fine.

Lessons in Tire-Saving

THE Goodyear Tire Conservation Course, in 6 lessons, is a miniature encyclopedia of tire-saving, outlining for the benefit of the motorist the things he should do to prevent tire injuries, and to cure those injuries if they do occur. Its specific purpose is to help squeeze the very last mile out of tires.

The course parallels the service of the Goodyear Service Station Dealer. He, also, will explain to you the prevention of, and the cures for, tread cuts, underinflation, wheels out of line, sand blisters, fabric breaks; he will supply you with Goodyear Tire Savers which will prolong the life of your tires. He can test your wheels for alignment. He can calculate the proper air pressure for your tires. The motorist who utilizes this service is getting extra mileage—lower cost-per-mile—than the motorist who buys on a price or discount basis.

(Canadian Press)

REGINA, Sask., Aug. Aug. 14. — The decoration of Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great was conferred upon Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, attorney-general for Saskatchewan, by His Grace Archbishop Mathieu, during high mass at the Holy Rosary Cathedral in Regina recently. The order is conferred upon members of the Catholic Church throughout the world who distinguish themselves by moral or intellectual qualities, or by a long record of useful citizenship. Not more than three persons in the Dominion at the present time share the honor conferred on Mr. Turgeon.

MILLIONAIRES IN U.S. NOW 20,000

Census Returns Show Also 162 Persons Have Incomes of $1,000,000 or More.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Approximately 50,000 persons now may classify themselves as members of the "millionaire group," the Federal income tax return indicate.

The group, as unofficially computed here, includes the members of the families of 20,000 persons who in their returns confessed each to an income of at least $50,000 in 1919. This is the lowest probable return on $1,000,000. Under this definition the group, of course, would include many high salaried executives. Some of these no doubt could not show a capital weath of $1,000,000.

AMERICA REMEMBERS

These days, when the word "unity" enters so largely into the thoughts and public utterances of sons and daughters of the British Empire, it is pleasing to call to mind that note of unity among ALL English-speaking peoples sounded by the American Ambassador, speaking at the grave of Shakespeare at Stratford-on-Avon. In the course of an eloquent tribute to the great poet, he said:

"This is holy ground. The sacred dust here mingled with the soil has sanctified, for ever, this enclosure. The blaze of undying genius illuminates this spot and all around it with all of immortality things mortal can attain. To this shrine to-day, as on yesterday and to-morrow, the feet of countless pilgrims press with reverential zeal. Three centuries have spent themselves in praise of Shakespeare, three times three generations of men have turned to him for inspiration the words set down for Elizabethan England have long since become the common treasure of mankind.

"One who speaks here then should be content when he has enrolled himself with all humility among the throng of worshippers. But for America I ask the right to say that she comes not as a stranger to pay tribute to the poet of a foreign land or of an alien tongue. Her pride in Shakespeare is no less than England's, nor held by any lesser right. It is not merely because she speaks his language, and needs no interpreter to make her feel the thrill of his majestic music that neither time nor chance nor change can rob her of her share in his legacy to men of English speech.

"Canada, Australia, Newfoundland, New Zealand, South Africa, and the islands of the sea may come under their common flag to claim a part in the inheritance, but America, though she bears a standard of her own, does not forget that in the days when Shakespeare lived and sang she herself lay hidden in the womb of the same great and fertile Motherland that gave him birth. She comes here as a daughter in the house to assert her right of patrimony.

"Surely the ceremonies of to-day are not without his deep significance They mark that essential unity among the English-speaking peoples of which the name and fame of Shakespeare is a shibboleth and sign. In the blood-stained drama of a frightful war this unity has played, but yesterday a part greater than any that Shakespere ever dreamed .In the providence of God it will supply in coming years an epic of peaceful glory which no genuis less lofty than his own will be worthy to portray."

TRANSMISSION OF DISEASE.

Water supply and milk supply are the two main sources of transmission of disease in any community. Water to be safe must be either filtered or cholrinated, chlorinating being resorted to where a filtration plant is not in operation. In Peterborough our water is chlorinated just now, and while not as palatable as people would like, still it may be accepted as safe on the whole for consumption, according to eminent health authorities. Plans for a filtration plant, however, are in the hands of the Utilities Commission, and a by-law to sanction its installation would have been sent to the ratepayers last January had the city not been saddled with such heavy expenditures for this year.

Milk is an outstanding transmitter of disease, and unceasing vigilance is necessary to safeguard citizens against milk-borne diseases, such as infantile diarrhoea, typhoid, diphtheria, septic sore throat, and bovine tuberculosis, by seeing to it that milk comes from barn yards under sanitary conditions. But that is not sufficient, for while milk may be free from barnyard contamination, and unless subjected to scientific pasteurization it cannot be accepted as bacteriologically clean and absolutely safe. Peterborough's milk by-law governing the condition of milk brought into the city is a good measure, which, coupled with the means for clarifying and pasteurizing milk here, minimizes the disease danger from milk. The term "pasteurized milk" is much in the public eye these days, but we venture to say not a few people are ignorant of its meaning. To pasteurize milk is to subject it to 145 degrees of heat and holding it at that for thirty minutes. This destroys all disease-producing germs, but retains in the milk its digestibility, chemical composition and nutritive value.

Then we have our city by-law governing conditions in restaurants to safeguard the public against communicable diseases; the Health Association, too, by means of public nurses, whose duties embrace tuberculosis, child welfare, parent child hygiene and social service, to combat the disease-transmission menace; and also Well Babies' Clinics to foster a healthier rising generation.

But all measures and safeguards will fall short of their aims unless they meet with whole-hearted co-operation from those whom they are intended to benefit. This means education through the press, lectures, booklets and moral suasion. We commend all efforts in these directions during the past, and bespeak loyal backing of, and general public acquiescence in, future endeavors to enlighten this community generally on the importance of and means for health conservation and the prevention of disease transmission from one to another.

THE MERRY-GO-ROUND.

We can all recall the mad gallop of the merry-go-round when as youngsters we had climbed on the zebra's back and chased the rest of the jungle tribe round and round the circle.

In a little different way we grown-ups during the last few years have been doing a merry-go-round marathon of our own. We have been chasing the high cost of living round and round in a circle. And the faster we have galloped the more speed it has seemed to acquire.

Many have believed that high wages would solve the problem, but as most of us have begun to realize they won't. The reason is that every time you raise wages you increase the cost of production and by increasing the cost of production you increase the price of goods. It doesn't do any of us a bit of good to get more money for our work if we have to turn around and spend more money for our living expenses. Millions of people in the United States and Canada are convinced of this fact now.

What is the remedy then? How shall we reduce the cost of living without seriously interfering with the present scale of wages?

The United States, Canada, and the whole world, needs more goods—furniture, clothing, food and fuel. And if we get them without further increase in the cost of producing them, we will at last find the remedy for high prices.

Increased production, without increase in production costs, means lower prices without lowered wages. And the only way to achieve this kind of increased production is by increasing personal earning power. Not necessarily by harder work, but wherever possible by better work; by better team work; by fewer days off; by more dead-in-earnest cooperation and a more thorough understanding that we have a big problem to solve, and that we have got to solve it together.

That's the real solution to the high cost of living.

Let us remember this, that all the efforts of prosecutors and public officials to reduce the cost of living—no matter how sincere or otherwise—can have at best only a temporary effect unless and until more goods are produced without a proportionate increase in the cost of producing them. —From De Laval Monthly.

TIONAL RELATIONS.

There is one feature of international sport which is often overlooked or minimized, and that is the importance of sport as a bond of friendship between nations. The athlete can frequently be quite as influential an ambassador as the diplomat. He can do incalculable good by strengthening that international amity which is the best gaurantee of the world's peace just as he can work irremediable harm by arousing national and racial animosities. And it all depends, not on whether he wins or loses, but solely on the spirit in which he plays the game.

The recent races for the America's Cup have been an instance of the excellent effect of good sportsmanship in promoting international good will. The genial Irishman who challenged for the cup has always been famous for the imperturable good humor with which he accepts either his failures or his victories. Naturally he is always out to win. If he does, he is not unduly elated. If he loses, he takes it as a good sport should. And he was met in the same friendly and sportsmanlike way. It was a case of "may the best sailor and the best boat win."

Two other important events in recent sporting history which have redounded to the credit and good feeling of both the great English-speaking nations, were the victory of young Tolley over Gardner, the American in the British amateur championships, and the success of Tilden, of Philadelphia, in gaining the world's tennis championship from Paterson, the Australian, at Wimbledon. Gardner was finally beaten in a sensational battle, in which he seemed more than once on the point of gaining the victory. Through it all when the tide was setting in his direction, just as when it was turning against him, he remained the same modest and plucky fellow, a great golfer and a thorough gentleman. Even the staid old "London Times" pointed out that if he had won the title there would have been nothing but congratulations and good will for him, as no visiting athlete had ever before made so many friends in England. And the same excellent feeling has marked the reception in England of Tilden's victory. It was the first time that the tennis title has ever passed out of the British Empire, and it was a distinct blow to British pride. But nothing was permitted to detract from the warmth of applause which greeted the outcome of the final match. Tilden had won by sheer tennis brilliancy and cool skill. He had proven himself one of the world's greatest players and a good sports man as well, and that is all the English public needed to know. It is a great thing for sport and also for inter national friendship when the result of these contests can be accepted in such a spirit.—Saturday Night.

COMMISSIONERS HELD A MEETING

CONSTABLE EDWARDS RESIGNS FROM POLICE FORCE.

There was little business transacted at the meeting of the Police Commissioners on Saturday afternoon. Those present weer His Honor Judge Huycke, Magistrate Dumble, Mayor McIntyre, and Chief of Police Thompson.

A resolution from the City Council requesting the repainting of the safety zones on the streets was received and acknowledged, and Chief Thompson told the Board that he had already secured the paint and that the police would do the painting in order to effect a saving.

The resignation of Police Constable George Edwards was received and accepted. Edwards has only been on the force since April 1st, and Judge Huycke remarked upon the nuisance of outfitting men and the inconvenience caused when their stay was so short.

The Chief was of the opinion that whenever possible married men should be secured as single men were more prone to restlessness. The matter of securing a successor was left with the Chief.

A bylaw providing that before any license be issued by the Board the application be referred to the Chief of Police, and that in the event of his reporting against the issuance of such license the license be not issued, was carried unanimously, on motion of Judge Huycke, seconded by Magistrate Dumble.

The appointment of R. C. Carey, who was appointed temporarily on March 1st, was made permanent.

The following accounts were then authorized to be paid:

SHOW EMPLOYEES TOOK FIVE SHIRTS

ROBBED CLOTHESLINE IN SOUTH END OF CITY.

Harvey Reed and Frank McPherson, employees of the Polack Shows, were charged in this morning's police court with stealing five shirts valued at $10 from the clothes line of J. A. Murdy, who lives near the Exhibition Park and were fined $10 and costs of $10.10 each. The shirts were all recovered, one of them being on the back of Reed.

Their employer generously left $30 at the police station for them last night, but their fine evidently exceeded his expectations and they have telegraphed him at Kingston for the rest of their fine and their railway fare. Unless this is forthcoming they will spend the next 30 days at hard labor in the jail.

The shows cleared the city last night for Kingston with a record for unbilled sensations, comprising everything from fights to knife assaults. On Wednesday night a cowboy and a ticket seller staged a fist fight in front of the main gate over one of the women employees, which ended in the cowboy drawing a knife, and on Friday night one of the train crew known as Virginia assaulted Louis Pizos, the cook, with a knife, and slashed Pizos head open from the crown to below the chin, as a result of which Pizos narrowly escaped with his life and is lying in Nicholls Hospital with a wound which it took 32 stitches to close.

"Uncle Jack" came here for the anniversary from the Marion National Military Home, where he has been for the past three months. He is said to be the oldest man in Indiana. Born in Liverpool, England, July 15, 1818, "Uncle Jack" came to America and first settled in Eastern Pennsylvania in 1840. He came to Wabash about a year later. For 80 years he lived in the same house.

CHEQUE ACCEPTED IN LINDSAY WAS BOGUS

LINDSAY, Aug. 13.—All doubt regarding the "accepted" cheque presented to Mr. Ed. C. Armstrong, about a week ago by a man named Coleman who claimed to represent the Commercial Sales Co., has been removed. The Commercial Sales Co. has notified Mr. Armstrong that they will not honor it, which proves conclusively that it is a forgery, and a rather clever one, too.

SMOTHERS FIRE

Are You Prepared?

Fire can be put out in two ways:
1. By cooling below the burning point.
2. By smothering.

The second method is the quick, simple, sure means of extinguishing fire—by smothering with FIREFOAM.

FIREFOAM expands as it issues from the apparatus to eight times its original volume. It forms a thick blanket of fire-smothering bubbles. It coats and clings to all materials, objects and surfaces. It shuts off the air. It stops combustion and re-ignition.

FIREFOAM is not injurious. When dry, it can be brushed off easily like so much dust.

"It was a wonderful trip; the night was heavenly. I don't know when I've ever seen the stars so beautiful," she added, trying to rouse his jealousy. "I am sorry you missed it—particularly because Kitty went off on some wild spree and I didn't want to come back alone with Monte."

"Why not?"

The simple question threw her into confusion.

"On account of appearances, of course. I prefer not to be talked about like some other wives we both know."

"I see."

"I am getting nowhere," she thought, before the calm of his attitude. How long had this intimacy with Irma been going on, and how serious was it? These were two things she must learn at all costs.

"So you have suddenly blossomed out into a lady-killer?" she said, smiling at him.

"I beg your pardon."

"So you are having a flirtation with Irma Dellabarre," she said, holding the smile with an effort. She felt that she had her emotions under perfect control, but to him her eyes shone out like angry coals.

"I do not intend to discuss Mrs. Dellabarre," he said coldly.

"You won't pretend that her ridiculous story of meeting you by accident was the truth!" she burst out, all restraint gone.

"I have nothing to discuss," he said precisely.

"No, I should say not, because you know she told a lie and a stupid lie," she cried, in a passion. She was convinced that Irma had lied, but she wanted to know if he would go to the extent of a lie. "Whatever I do, I do openly. I don't need to hide it. I don't—" She stopped. Her voice was shaking, and her eyes dangerously filled with tears. In a moment, she continued bitterly, but with more calm. "I hope you enjoyed the mortification and the shame of our meeting like that—being humiliated before others."

"What do you object to?"

"I object to deceit—to underhand methods in a woman who pretends to be my friend in public," she flashed out.

"Oh, that's it," he said thoughtfully. "You, of course, don't object to my friendship with another woman."

"Friendship!" she exclaimed angrily. "You needn't tell me it's just friendship. You're not that kind. If you see a woman like Irma, it's because you're interested—really interested. You are not a society hanger on, indulging in light flirtations."

"Thank you for the distinction."

"No; you care, and you care a great deal!" she rushed on. She felt that she was showing her worst side, but she could no longer restrain the passion of wounded vanity, jealousy, and anger which flamed up. "Well, at least let's know where we stand. How long has this been going on?"

"I don't intend to discuss this," he said again.

"But I do intend," she cried. "Can't you see in what a mortifying, humiliating position you have placed me?"

"I quite understand that you resent being humiliated," he assented. Then he said gently, "Unfortunately, you made the decision."

"I?"

"You know what I mean."

"Good heavens, you are not going to drag in that poor fool of a Tody Dawson!" she cried, every nerve on edge.

"I am simply recalling to your mind," he said, in the business-like preciseness that she hated, "that I was once as sensitive to being humiliated as you are now. You speak of appearances. According to appearances, my servants had heard a man tell me a lie in my own house. They were free to draw any conclusions they pleased. That was appearances, I believe."

"Probably not."

"Listen, Andrew," she said, in another tone; "let's call quits. Let's begin all over again. This sort of life means nothing to me. I am willing to give up seeing any man you object to—all men if you ask it—"

"Even Monte Bracken?" he said instantly.

"Even Monte Bracken."

"If I give up seeing Irma."

"That is, of course, the condition. Will you start fair? Begin anew?"

He was silent, looking at her such a long moment that she grew restive under the stern gaze.

"It isn't any real repentance. It isn't any real love of me," he said to himself. "It is just wounded vanity. She will sacrifice any one or anything to revenge herself on the other woman. That is it."

"Well?" she said impatiently.

He shook his head.

"What! I offer all this and you refuse?"

"I refuse."

"Why?"

"Because Irma Dellabarre's friendship means a great deal to me in my life and I don't in the least intend to give it up."

"Ah, there now we have it!" she cried. "Why go on pretending. You are in love with Irma Dellabarre and you believe she is with you! I knew it—I knew it!"

"Amy, I have already said to you," without anger, "that I did not intend to discuss Mrs. Dellabarre, and I won't. Furthermore, I do not recognize that I owe you any explanations for my conduct or the reasons for my friendship."

"I don't admit that!" she cried.

"You will have to admit that," he took up in the same quiet tone, "because you are the one who has brought this situation about."

"I?" she cried in protest, for, strange to say, she had not the slightest conception of her own responsibility.

"You. I prefer not to go into recriminations and complaints. It is now too late for that. You have created the situation. I have accepted it. In a way, our position is not different from marriages of our kind. You have had complete liberty and I have determined to have mine. I do not intend at the present moment, just because your vanity is wounded, for that's all it is, to change my attitude, because you demand that another woman should be sacrificed. Go your way and don't interfere with mine."

"Andrew," she cried desperately, "we can't go on like this! We have got to understand each other. Let us tell each other the truth. You don't love me any more, do you?"

"Naturally not!" he said, plainly surprised at the question.

She had expected a protestation, grudgingly, half-hearted, indignant even, but still a protestation of affection. It had never once occurred to her, even in the constraint and estrangement of the last months, that her husband could ever cease to love her. She put her hand suddenly to her eyes as though the thing he had said was a specter she could shut from her sight.

"Very well," she said slowly, and mechanically she repeated, "Very well." All the vitality of her anger deserted her. She felt weary and worn, while he watched her curiously, marveling. "That is at least frank," she said, looking at him at last. "Then, of course, you are in love with Irma. Say it."

"I prefer not to discuss that," he said quietly, "but I will say this: if Irma Dellabarre were free, knowing what I do now, of what marriage should be, of what I wish in a wife to respect and cherish, I should be honored if Mrs. Dellabarre would be my wife."

"I understand," she said, in a low voice. "I knew it. I knew it from the moment I saw your eyes. Well—now I know."

"Yes; now you know," he said. His glance, which had never left her, continued without passion on her. "And now that you know—what are you going to do about it?"

"What?" she said, frowning and staring at him, as though she could not translate his words into her comprehension.

"What are you going to do about it?"

"I don't know," she said slowly. She frowned again, staring at the hand which lay on the mantel as though the whiteness of the skin had offended her eye.

"It is, of course, for you to decide."

"How immovable, how hard you are!" she said, her voice hardly intelligible, and a shudder passed over her shoulders.

"Yes; that is so," he said gravely. "I was willing to give all—I will not give half way. Don't think I haven't suffered. I have. But—I don't intend to gush over what is done."

"You say for me to go my way," she began, with an effort, clinging to the last straw. "How far do you wish me to go my way, Andrew?"

"I have said I will accept any situation you may propose," he answered. "That ought to be plain to you. You have your self-respect. I count on that. You bear my name. So long as you continue to do so, I am confident that you will treat it with respect."

She began to shiver. Her head felt of lead. She was alone—alone in the immensity of the world.

"I think—I think I'd better go to my room," she said hurriedly.

He sprang up instantly, as he would have done to a stranger. She went blindly toward the door. But all at once, before the snapping of the links of the past, before the mystery beyond, she turned and stretched out her hand toward him.

Real-Fruit Desserts
The Nicest Sort

The only gelatine dessert which has fruit-juice flavors sealed in glass is Jiffy-Jell.

No artificial flavor can take the place of fruit. For Jiffy-Jell the fruit is crushed, condensed and sealed in vials. A bottle of this liquid essence comes in the package. And sugar is used—not saccharine—to sweeten Jiffy-Jell.

Jiffy-Jell comes in ten flavors. Try loganberry and pineapple for desserts. Try lime-fruit flavor for tart salad jell. Try mint for a refreshing mint jell.

WALL STREET MARKET COMMENT

Splitting the Call Rate.

A year or so ago call money moved by fractions, oftentimes as small as a quarter. A full point in those days was considered rather an extraordinary fluctuation for the call rate. But in the last twelve months the fractions have been disregarded and the call rate has moved over the 6 to 17 per cent. range without a fraction having appeared. One day this week, when the rate eased off from the opening and renewal figure of 7 per cent., a rate of 6½ per cent. was announced. It occasioned considerable comment about the street. Money brokers, asked for an explanation of the split rate, declared: "Just like everybody else, we are trying desperately to get back to normal." There is considerable more call money in the market at present than the demand will keep busy. There is, however, no change in the time money situation and time funds are practically unprocurable, although from day to day a few favored houses are succeeding in getting old loans, or a portion of them, extended.

New York Central Financing.

Officials of the New York Central are sounding out bankers on some financipg to take care of $15,000,000 of one-year collateral trust 6 per cent. notes, due on September 15, 1920, and it is considered probable that a similar issue will be offered to retire the current one. The notes are secured by $20,000,000 of New York Central and Hudson River refunding series A bonds and 75,000 shares of Reading first preferred.

Standard Oil of New York.

The swift advance of Standard Oil of New York from $340 to $400 a share in the Curb this week is reported to forecast a recapitalization of the corporation and a wider distribution of its stock because of that recapitalization. The stock pays 16 per cent. and, at its current price, yields aporoximately 4 per cent. Its high for 1919 was $456, but there has not been a very wide market for it, except across the counter, because of its prohibitive price. Two stories are afloat as to what step its directors will take to recapitalize the Standard Oil Company of New York. One of them is that a stock dividend will be declared. Another is that the stock merely will be split up on a ten for one basis by a reduction of the par value from $100 to $10. An announcement of its recapitalization is expected from the corporation within a few days.

Prime Bills Scarce.

Savings and other New York banks are crying their eyes out for prime acceptances without any result. No entreaties on their part are sufficiently effective to bring out any of that paper, and as a result the market is practically at a standstill with rates at 6⅛-6¼ per cent. It has been estimated that the demand for those bills runs as high as $35,000,000, but one dealer said yesterday that he believed that estimate an exaggeration. He expressed the opinion that $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 would probably satisfy the most persistent demands. One institution was forced this week to turn down the application of a single savings banks for a block of $400,000 worth of that class of paper. A reason advanced for that condition was the extremely wide distribution which such bills have attained, especially among small investors. A very heavy demand for them has been created from investors with only a relatively small amount of money available, and as a result many of them have gone almost entirely out of the market.

Increase in Bond Commissions.

Members of the committee on constitution of the New York Stock Exchange proposed to its governors two changes in bond commissions. The most important suggested change was a scale of charges for bonds of the United States Government, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands and of States, territories and municipalities. Heretofore bonds of those classes, which include Liberty and Victory, have been bought and sold for a nominal commission which barely covered the cost of clerical hire. The charge proposed on business for parties not members of the Exchange is not less than $6.25 on every $10,000 of par value. On business for members of the Exchange when the principal is given up, a charge of not less than $2.00 an any $10,000 of par value is proposed, and on business for members of the Exchange, when a principal is not given up, charge of not less than $3.125 on every $110,000 of par value is suggested. Heretofore the scale of charges for handling railroad, public utility and industrial bonds having more than five years to run has been $12.50 for every $10,000 of par value, which will be increased to not less than $15 per $10,000 per value if the proposed schedule be adopted by the governors. According to members of the committee those advances are designed to bring commissions on bond sales to a parity with commissions on stock sales.

DRUGGIST COMES OUT WITH ALL THE FACTS

"We Have Never Had a Medicine in the Store That Gave Such Satisfaction," He Declares.

"After my personal experience with the medicine, I do not hesitate to say that Tanlac is the finest tonic system purifier that was ever handled over a druggist's counter," was the very remarkable statement made by Alphonse Le Cavalier, druggist at Dr. LeDuc's drug store, 1658 St. Catherine St. East, Montreal, recently.

"I had had acute indigestion for the last three years, and could find nothing to relieve it. After every meal I used to feel as though I had swallowed some hard substance. The gas would form so as to nearly suffocate me and cause my heart to palpitate. I had no appetite whatever and my food seemed to have no flavor. The distress caused by indigestion was especially bad at night, and hindered me from sleeping. I was fidgety and nervous, and when at last I did drop off to sleep, I would have the most frightful nightmare, and wake up with a start to find myself in a bath of perspiration. My complexion was very sallow, and I got so weak that I felt as though I must give up altogether and go to bed. In fact I was in a complete state of nervous prostration and exhaustion.

"We never had a medicine in the store that sold like Tanlac, or that gave such general satisfaction. So many people who bought it told me that they had been benefited by it, that I decded to try it myself. The result exceeded all my expectations, for Tanlac did more for me than any other medicine I ever tried. I now have a splendid appetite and my digestion is perfect. I have the most refreshing sleep a night, undisturbed by nightmare. My complexion is fine and healthy. I have gained several pounds in weight, and feel as well and strong as can be. After this I shall take special pleasure in recommending Tanlac, for I know from personal experience what it will do."

Knox read an address from the church in which he spoke of the work they had done and the lives they had led and asked them to accept the chairs from the friends in their church and the community. Mr. Wallace Anderson said a few words on behalf of the neighbors. Mr. Payne made a suitable reply and said they were not going so far away but all could go to see them. Mr. Knox then offreed prayer. Shortly after supper was served from baskets brought by the ladies and soon the guests said good-bye to their host and hostess.

The chairs were handsome leather covered easy chairs and a rocking chair in the same finish. Mr. and Mrs. Payne were delighted with the gift and that they were once again able to have their friends and neighbors under their roof.

A YANKEE KING

In the city of Morovenia, Mr. Pike a wealthy American steel manufacturer, is endeavouring to persuade the Governor-General that he is just the man for a son-in-law.

A princess must not marry below her rank. Has Mr. Pike any social position, any rank, any title? That is the important factor. But like all real Americans, Mr. Pike is not to be frustrated. Any social position—any rank—any title. Of course he had. Was he not the grand exalted ruler of the benevolent and protective order of Elks? Was he not a Knight Templar? (a Knight—that did not sound so bad to the Governor-General). And last, but not least, was he not the King of the Hoo-Hoos? (A King!) Surely a princess could not do better than marry a king, a knight and a ruler of the Elk, who had four hundred million piastres in his possession even though he be one of the despised Americans.

See the Governor-General's decision of this most important question in "The Slim Princess," the latest Goldwyn picture, starring Mabel Normand, which comes to the Allen Theatre, to-day and to-morrow.

OUTPUT CONTRACTED FOR SOME TIME AHEAD—THE DIFFICULTIES OF TRANSPORTATION.

The old mica mine at Blue Mountain, near the head of Stoney Lake, has been purchased from the Bradford Estate, through the Supreme Court of the Province, by two American engineers, C. L. Nicholson, of New York and Norman Miller, of Michigan, who will commence operations there immediately and expect to be shipping 100 pounds of mica a day by the middle of next month.

The mine is rich and three firms are already attempting to contract for its entire output. Mica mining is the cheapest form of mining, and the mica market at present is large, the best quality of mica selling at $20 a pound, due to the demand of electrical firms. Consequently the new firm is confident of making the mine pay. The only serious difficulty with which they will be confronted is that of transportation and they expect to solve this by carrying the mica to the head of Stoney Lake by trucks, and then shipping it to Lakefield by barges. In the winter sleighs will probably be used to bring the mica to the railway at Lakefield.

Erecting Buildings.

The output of the mine is already contracted for until after Christmas and Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Miller left for the mine on Saturday to superintend the erection of buildings. The machinery and equipment necessary is on the way and labour has been arranged for.

Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Miller have been here for several weeks investigating the property and making the arrangements for the commencement of operations. On Thursday after considerable negotiations they secured the property through the Supreme Court in which the the Bradford Estate, the owners, was being settled.

The company is new and small and is looking for more capital to enable it to conduct operations on a larger scale than otherwise could be done immediately.

Both Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Miller when seen by the Examiner, were confident of the success of their enterprise and stated that as "mica mining was the "poor man's mine," and the mica market was so extensive, they expected to make the Blue Mountain mine a paying proposition.

Both members of the firm are engineers and Mr. Nicholson is a former United States naval officer who has had considerable experience with this type of work.

TEACH CHILDREN THAT POLICEMAN IS THEIR FRIEND

"I'll give you to the policeman if you're not good."

"Did you ever hear a mother say that to her child?" asked one of Chief Thompson's men glaring fiercely with a sudden surge of long repressed resentment.

He had stopped at the parting corner of his beat and the reporter's homeward course. It was after midnight and the shade beneath the tree that shrouded the arc lamp served to accentuate that flashing light of passion just as the dark sky intensified the distant gleam of lighting in the departing storm.

"I'd rather have a man come up and punch me in the face than hear a woman tell her girl or boy that the policeman would get them if they didn't behave. Honesly I would. Why you ask."

"Well," and after producing a match from his helmet, which has some of the magic powers of the conjurer's big hat, tamping his pipe and carefully lighting it all around the bowl, blowing up as it were an incense in his narrative rite, the policeman tugged his rain cape front and back and expounded a little lesson in psychology that may be worth repeating.

"In the first place that mother has to depend upon fear instead of love in controlling her child. I speak from my own experience and I know that sensitive imaginative children people their minds with enough bogeys and boo-men without the mother frightening them with threats that the policeman is an ogre. And most mothers are guilty of this very reprehensible cautioning. A neighborhood is never so quiet as when a policeman happens to pass through it. The children scamper into the yards and houses and hold their breaths until he's well down the street. But that just proves how many inefficient mothers there are. Their discipline is founded on decidedly wrong appeals.

"Let any mother think of the possible consequences of this teaching of antagonism and fear and she will realize that it is just diametrically opposite to the regard for policemen she should foster in her child. I'll tell you of a case I know actually happened. A little girl of twelve years, not in Peterboro, was sent down town by her mother to make a purchase. The street led past some lumber piles and in that section a man accosted her and asked her if she would like some candy. She did not stop walking but said she had to buy some things for her mother. The man told her he would have some candy for her when she came back. The girl said all right and to the first policeman she met uptown she related what had taken place. Within half an hour we had that fellow in the station, but I forget what sentence he got.

That little girl wasn't afraid of a policeman. We learned at the time that her mother had instructed her to look upon the uniform as a protection and had actually advised her to report directly to a policeman if she was ever accosted in that way. That incident cerainly impressed me, and I have often thought too that grown up boys and men would have more respect for the police and would be more willing to assist in maintaining or restoring order if they were not taught "a their mother's knee" to be afraid of policemen. I remember one day a woman was having trouble with a boy small enough to carry under one arm. She spied me and called out "Officer will you come over and attend to this bad boy." I don't think she really meant it but I was so disgusted with her inefficiency I simply said, "Madam, he's your son and if he won't obey you it won't do him any good to make him obey me." It was her problem, and on top of spoiling the mite she wanted to frighten him of policemen for life. It's a corker some people think a policeman hasn't any more heart than that pavement. But I know a couple of kiddies that think a policemen is all right anyway. Guess I'd better mosey or the Sergeant will think I'm up to some of his old tricks when he was pounding the beat."

HUGE DIRIGIBLE NEARS COMPLETION

(Canadian Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Latest reports received at the Navy Department are that the dirigible, R-38, now being constructed for the American navy by the Royal Airship Works, at Bedford, Eng., is more than 60 per cent. completed and probably will be ready to take the air by the latter part of November.

When the great dirigible, which will surpass in size any airship ever constructed, thrusts her nose out of the hangar at Bedford for the first time there will be a trained-to-the-minute American crew aboard to put her through her trial flight. Several training cruises on the British dirigible, R-33, offered by the British Government for that purpose, already have been made by American naval personnel who will form the R-38's crew and the mammoth airship will be manned by experienced sailors of the air when she sets out on her trans-Atlantic flight, which officials say will be made next April or May.

2,724,000 Feet of Gas.

With a gas volume of 2,724,000 cubic feet, the R-38 will surpass in size the largest rigid airship yet turned out by the Zeppelin Company, the L-71 by 304,000 cubic feet and the British dirigible R-34, which crossed the Atlantic last year, by 711,000 cubic feet. Her six engines will develop 1050 horsepower, or 130 more than the most powerful Zeppelin craft and drive the great gas bag at an estimated maximum speed of 75 miles an hour.

700 Feet Hangar.

To accommodate the 694-foot stretch of the R-38, the naval airship hangar at Cape May, N. J., already had been lengthened to 700 feet and also increased in height. The two large hangars now under construction at Lakehurst, N. J., probably will not be completed until July, 1921, or after the R-38's arrival.

RADIO SEEKING TRUNK SUSPECT

POLICE TRYING TO LOCATE THE STEAMER ON WHICH LE ROY IS SAID TO HAVE SHIPPED.

DETROIT, August 14. — The Detroit and New York police are using the government wireless telegraph in an attempt to locate the steamer Dryden, bound from New York to South American ports, and apprehend a deck hand believed to be Oscar J. Fernandez, alias Eugene LeRoy, alias Oscar J. Wood, wanted in Detroit on the charge of murdering his supposed wife, Mrs. Katherine Lou Jackson-LeRoy, at 105 Harper avenue on June 9th.

According to information received by the police of Detroit and New York, a man answering Fernandez' description applied to the master of the Dryden for a job just before the steamer sailed from Hoboken, and although the stranger did not look like a sailor the captain hired him because he was shorthanded for the trip.

Sailed August 3.

Chief of Police McSeely of Hoboken, N. J., received a letter from a passenger of the Dryden, who disembarked at Havana, which stated that he was positive the man who was hired just before the steamer sailed was Fernandez. He stated the suspect answered the description of Fernandez in every particular according to the descriptions printed in the newspapers.

The first person to give information concerning Fernandez being on the Dryden was Harry Marflatt, a British sailor, who told Lieut. of Detectives Michael Lyons of Weehawken, N. J., that he quit work on the Dryden, the day before it sailed to go on board another boat.

He says that the man suspected of being Fernandez was hired to take his place and that he later identified a picture of Fernandez printed in a New York paper as being the man who took his place on the Dryden. Marflatt said the man approached him and said that he was not a seaman, but wanted to get out of the country, and had no funds.

The Dryden sailed from Hoboken on August 3rd and every effort possible is being made to reach the steamer by wireless before she makes her next landing and if the suspect is Fernandez the Detroit police will ask that he be placed under arrest at the nearest port and held until an officer from Detroit can reach there.

No Arrests Made.

Chief of Detectives Edward H. Fox refused to discuss what was being done towards planning the arrest of Fernandez, if he is the man who is on board the Dryden, as he said he did not want to be criticized. He did admit however that he was following up a suspect but stated that no arrests had been made.

FIRE DESTROYS TWO BUILDINGS NEAR PETERBORO

LIGHTNING WAS THE CAUSE IN EACH CASE.

The barn owned by Frank Redpath and son of Keene, containing two teams of horses, hay, and fall wheat was destroyed when struck by lightning during the severe electrical storm which swept over the Keene district on Saturday afternoon and the house narrowly escaped.

Mr. Redpath and his son rushed their horses to the stable when the storm began. When the barn was struck they were unable to get the horses out. It was only after a hard struggle that the house was saved.

The loss is partly covered by insurance.

J. B. Wood's barn destroyed

Early Thursday morning a barn on the Hastings Road near Keene owned by J. B. Wood of Otonabee was totall ydestroyed by fire of unknown origin.

It is believed that the fire started from matches or cigarette ends dropped by tramps.

The barn was filled with hay and the loss is partly covered by insurance.

BRINGS 1,575 DEAD SOLDIERS.

Antigone Carries Largest Number of Coffins on One Ship.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The United States Army transport Antigone arrived from Danzig, Antwerp, Brest and Bordeaux with the bodies of 1,575 American soldiers in coffins. The dead were landed at Pier 4, Hoboken, where preparations were completed to forward the bodies to their last resting places in home cemeteries, as has been the custom with all returned dead soldiers. Each body will be accompanied by a guard of honor.

At the pier there was ceremony or funeral observance—this last detail of honor on the part of the nation for which they fought was completed when the bodies were consigned to their temporary graves in foreign lands. This is the largest number of bodies brought to this country on any one transport.

SASKATOON, Sask., Aug. 14. — As a measure for encouraging the development of the dairying industry in the province, the Saskatchewan Government is purchasing 100 good young grade dairy cows and heifers in Eastern Canada at an estimated cost of $10,000, for resale on easy terms to bona fide dairy farmers in the various dairy centres of the province.

THE DREAD PYORRHEA BEGINS WITH BLEEDING GUMS

Pyorrhea's infecting germs cause many ills. Medical science has proved this.

Diseased conditions, which not long ago doctors were unable to trace to a cause, are now known often to be the result of Pyorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this Pyorrhea infection.

Don't let Pyorrhea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection.

And watch your gums yourself. Pyorrhea, which affects four out of five people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of poisons generated at their base.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

Rates for Telephone Service

OUR rates for exchange service, fixed many years ago, developed many inequalities as between cities at one time equal in population.

In the new schedules filed with the Board of Railway Commissioners we have so grouped cities and towns of approximately equal telephone development as to wipe out these inequalities.

The rates for exchange service proposed for Peterboro under the new schedule are shown in the following table:—

	Proposed Monthly Rate
BUSINESS SERVICE
Individual Line	$4.00
2-Party Line	3.25
RESIDENCE SERVICE
Individual Line	$2.75
2-Party Line	2.25
Rural Party Service	2.25

These new rates, we submit, should be considered in the light of the present purchasing power of the dollar. They compare favorably with the increased rates which telephone companies have had to secure from Public Service Commissions all over the continent.

The commodities we have to buy—labor and material—have advanced in no lesser degree than have those staples of every day use, the cost of which has made present living expenses so high.

A LETTER FROM "Y" GIRLS

Dear Girls,—Spending August at camp is the most enjoyable way of missing the hot weather. The cooling waters of Stoney Lake give "pep" to all who partake of the picnics and jaunts indulged in by the Y campers.

Our bonfires are par excellence. If you wish to learn the magic art of popping corn or toasting marshmallows to a delicious brown, just consult our Little Willie. She goes by another name at home. Glory and she are both in line for medals for distinguished service. But we couldn't begin to enumerate all our accomplishments. Whether our feats are performed on land or in the water, we have an appreciative audience, even the most sedate of the family joining in the applause.

Although our faithful fishermen had poor luck, our more fortunate neighbours did not forget us.

Sunset Bay still has its charms. What could be nicer than a feed of fried bacon and potatoes topped off with a heaping plateful of freshly picked raspberries and Mrs. McKenzies's special picnic cake?

Our trips to Kawartha Park are becoming weekly affairs. Our only regret is that we cannot carry back the spring and the beach to our camp.

Last Monday was anything but Blue Monday. That morning's mad rush will never be forgotten by those who spent the holiday with us. Can you picture twenty-eight of us getting dinner, packing a basket, dressing and tidying up in about three hours? However, we made the boat and had a glorious afternoon at Juniper Regatta.

Friday evening the camp was the bright spot on this part of the Lake. Nor did the rain dampen our spirits. We just moved up to the cottage and had our party there. Such lemonade and eats! Yum! Yum!

But, girls, you'll simply have to come and see for yourselves what a happy, free and easy life we lead. There's room for a few more; so get in line and register, just as we do when we wait our turn to fill the water pails, and so earn points for a coveted shield.—Yours.

The "Y" Campers.

TRIFLES THAT BRIGHTEN UMPIRE'S JOB

A sense of humour is what saves the baseball umpire from suffering serious damage at his somewhat thankless job, in the opinion of Bob Hart, recently appointed umpire of the National League, and considered the ablest arbiter in the American Association. Of course, his chest-protector and his mask and shin-guards help against assaults from without, but these safeguards afford no protection against the pressure imposed on the umpire's nervous system by the nagging and fretting of unreasonable players and the jibes and taunts of equally unreasonable fans. If the umpire took seriously every thrust made at him by player and fan, both intent on making him a public goat, his emotions would strangle him, or, if he made a desperate effort to free himself from the oppressive surge, he would in all likelihood "blow up," like an overcharged boiler. Such a calamity is averted, however, by his saving sense of humour, which acts as a safety-valve.

Occasionally a few of the best-known umpires get together for a little jollification at which Hart always regales the company with a few of the latest and choicest additions to his book. Some time ago he related some of these odd experiences to Bruce Dudley, who reproduces them in The Baseball Magazine as follows:

Hart thinks th Bill Byron's story of his run-in with Snodgrass and McGraw not so very long ago is one of the best. Here's the yarn as Byron tells it:

"The game was played in New York on a very hot day and Snodgrass was not in good humour. I called a third strike on him and he boiled over.

"'You're a blankety blank blank,' he said to me.

"'You'll find the clubhouse in the same old spot,' I said to him. He hung around the plate and McGraw came running up.

"'What's the matter, Mr. Byron?' he asked.

"'Snodgrass is out of the game,' I informed him.

"'Why?' he inquired

"'He used foul words to me.'

"'What did he say?'

"'He said I was a blankety blank blank.'

"'Then Snodgrass will have company to the clubhouse,' I promised.

"They mouthed around, showing no inclination to be on their way, and I pulled out my watch. As you know, I lost half of my forefinger on the right hand years ago, and when I placed the finger in my pocket to jerk the watch on them, Snodgrass exclaimed, 'Oh, look at his finger! It's wore out from pulling his Inger-soll on New York players!'

The Batter's Job.

Hart worked in the International League under Byron and followed him into Rochester one day.

"One of the Rochester players met me at the plate," says Hart, "and greeted me with the old line about being glad to see me instead of Byron because he and Bill had argued the day before. The seventh inning rolled around and this player came up with the bases full. The count worked to three and two.

"'I was in this same box yesterday,' he said, 'when Bill and I had that argument. I asked him like a gentleman to look the next one over carefully, and he responded rudely by telling me to look it over carefully my own self, that he wasn't the one who had to hit it.'"

A friend of Hart worked a series in the South one spring and lorded it over some pesky players for about three miles.

"He had one particularly bad day," relates Hart, "and had to take the same train as the players that night for the next town. When he pas-timers unloaded, a negro porter shouted, 'Empiah, sah? Empiah?' and the umpire nodded and the porter took his grip and told him to get into the cab.

"'The players down this way may be unreasonable, but the magnates sure treat an umpire great,' mused my friend as he climbed into the vehicle. He rode past the players who were walking to their hotel and took advantage of the gladsome moment to give them the laugh. After riding about three miles and getting farther and farther from the bright lights, it occurred to him that he'd better ask just where the darkey was taking him. Perhaps some wealthy baseball fan was going to entertain him for the night.

"'Where are we headed for, Rastus?' he asked.

"'Gosh! I thought this was the cab for the umpire!' explained my friend, who scrambled out of there and hoofed it back to town, but the worst part of the whole thing was that the players got wind of the 'fox pass.'"

Hart says the most pleasant year of his baseball career was 1914, when he was teamed with Hugh Rorty in the International League. Rorty, declares Hart, was the master of plays, players, and fans at all times.

"Rorty was umpiring at Lynn one day when it became so foggy toward the end of the contest that Bill Luby, then manager of the Haverhill club, ran in from right field and implored Rorty to call the game because it was so dark outfielders couldn't see the batters. Rorty called time, borrowed a glove, went to right field and had Luby hit him three fly-balls. He caught all three of them and made the teams play the full nine innings."

Hart says the umpires have thought up a cutting remark to use to a certain sport writer who resorts to the head-line, "Robbed by the umpire" almost every time the team representing his town loses. "The plan is this," explains Hart, "two umpires are going to wait until there's a big Sunday or holiday crowd at this fellow's park and then they are going to play sick—ptomaine poisoning or sunstroke or something—and then they with the managers of the contending teams are going to meet the sport writer as he comes through the gates and beseech him to umpire. He'll say, 'Why I haven't had much experience as an umpire, but rather than see the club lose the money, and if there's no one else here to officiate, I'll do the best I can'; and then the umpires are going to thank him, and when he starts on the field they're going to yell, 'What are you going on the field for? Go on upstairs! Umpire from where you have all season—up in the coop! You've been seeing 'em fine from there—haven't kicked one all year!"

Hart gives Peck Whitlow, a Connecticut umpire, credit for slipping to a fan one of the most powerful knock-out drops ever administered by an arbiter. A Dr. H——, of Meriden, Conn., was the fan.

"After a very tight game one day," recites Hart, "Peck had occasion to walk by the doctor's home. The doctor, who was a most rabid fan, saw him and shouted, 'Whitlow, you made more mistakes to-day than I've made all my life.'

"'I doubt that,' retotred Peck, 'mine just show plainer than yours. I don't employ grave-diggers to keep mine covered up.'"

Boots For Alibi.

Among the things that have furnished the umpire much amusement are the excuses players offer when they have pulled a bonehead play. The following are examples :

Last summer two negro teams from rival army camps clashed and one of the dusky swatters propelled what apparently was a home run.

"So sure was he," says Hart, "that he'd make the circuit, he loafed coming in from third, and much to his consternation was thrown out at the plate. His run would have tied the score and his mates rode him proper for getting caught.

"'It am all de fault of dese shoes, dese damn hebby ahmy shoes,' he elucidated. "How do you all expose a niggah to split de wind wid a pair uv millstones tied to his dags'

"Jayson Kirke, the Louisville colonel's hard hitting first baseman, sprang a new alibi on Bill Clymer a couple of years ago that cut Bill's criticism short. Jay handcuffed Alec McCarthy, now manager of the Kansas City Blues, with a drive at Kansas City one day, but wandered off first and was caught flat-footed.

"'Yes, "hold your head up," that's easy enough to say,' came back Jayson, 'but how can a man hold his head up after eating the kind of meat you've been feeding us here?'

"In a St. Paul-Minneapolis game last year one of Pongo Cantillon's swatsmiths hit a fly between left and centre, and just as Elmer Miller was about to nab it, Duke Duncan crashed into him and the ball fell safe and two runs scored. When Duncan came into the bnch Mike Kelley asked him why he didn't yell, 'I have it' or some other warning cry, or else have let Miller make the cacth.

"'Yo-yo-yo-you know, Mi-Mi-Mi-Mike, I stu-stu-stu-stutter sometimes, and just when I was go-go-go--go-going to say "I ha-ha-ha-has it," I couldn't get it out,' explained Duke, and Kelley had nothing further to say.

"'Bubbles' Hargrave, Kelley's stellar catcher also has an impediment in his speech, but Bubbles says this impediment has been a great aid to him in baseball, as it has saved him from many fines and banishments.

"'Every time I get mad,' declares Bubbles, 'I get speechless, and by the time I can talk I've cooled off and lost all desire to use mean words.'"

GRAND OPERA HOUSE, THURSDAY, AUGUST 19th

Hart has found that all the comedy is not staged on the ball-field. Many funny things take place in the box-office.

I was at the Jersey City park one Sunday when it was just about time to open the ticket windows. The box-office was an unpretentious affair within easy access of the street. A storm was brewing and the two managers and the officials walked out on to the field to get a better view of the heavens so they could determine whether it would be advisable to start the game. One wise fellow peeped through the windows and sensed the situation. He gained admittance through a side-door, went into a ticket stall, opened a window and sold the pasteboards at a rapid clip until he heard the moguls returning. Then he slammed down the window and departed with $21.50 of the Jersey club's money.

One day at Lowell, Mass., the owner of the club forgot to give rain-checks. At the start of the fourth innings there was a cloud-burst and fans flocked to the box-office for their checks. The owner was up against it. All the fans were clamoring for grand-stand coupons and he had no way of checking up on them until he hit upon the scheme of feeling their backs. If their backs were wet he gave them a bleacher check and if dry they drew a grand-stand ducat.

POLITICAL POT IS SIMMERING

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—Feature of the autumn period of political activity which has been opened in Ontario with speeches by Premier Meighen and Hon. Mackenzie King, is to be the invasion of Quebec by Federal ministers, including in all probability the Prime Minister. It was stated authoritatively that the number of meetings are to be held in the near future, commencing with one at Sherbrooke on Saturday.

and only effective military intervention saved the city from being plunged into another period of desperate factional fighing. The trouble started through a vanman in Carlisle Road shouting to some Unionist "Up the rebles." Several revolver shots rang out, and although the vanman escaped various parts of the city were thrown into wild disorder.

Running fights occurred, stones were thrown and numerous revolvers were used. The situation became so threatening that an armoured car and military detachments had to be rushed to the affected area, while troops on duy in streets made sand bag defences and had Lewis guns ready.

OLD COUNTRY MANUFACTURER VISITING HERE

MR. W. H. DUNKLEY IS A SINGLE TAX ADVOCATE.

Peterborough was visited over the week end by a prominent manufacturer of Birmingham, England, in the person of Mr. W. H. Dunkley of Dunkley's Limited, Manufacturers of High Class Baby Carriages, and while in the city, was the guest of Mr. Edward Courtney, East City. They were boys together in the same town in England forty-five years ago and Mr. Dunkley came to Peterborough at the request of Mr. Courtney's brother, who he has not seen in almost half a century.

A Single Taxer.

Mr. Dunkley is an ardent single taxer and has been in attendance at a convention of Single-taxers in Chicago going to Toronto to attend a meeting which is being held on Wedesday for the purpose of getting closer co-operation of single taxers in Great Britain, America and Canada in the formation of the International Single Taxers Association. Mr. Dunkley has travelled Europe and the East very extensively and is now covering this continent and while he is meeting single taxers everywhere he is also picking up interesting information regarding his own business and he stated would be most likely establishing a factory in the United States or Canada before very long.

Regarding the municipal financiers of Birmingham, his home, he made the following statement:—

The municipality of Birmingham is composed of 43,000 acres and the rates are 17s on the £. Over £2,000,000 has to be collected for municipal purposes which is collected from 18,000 acres out of the 43,000 acres, the remaining 25,000 acres which is owned by large land owners and termed agricultural land produces only £7,000.

Mr. Dunkley is a very interesting man to meet with a wealth of information on the subject of single tax. His son is accompanying him on his trip.

WHEAT CROP HEAVY.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 13.—Canada's wheat crop this year will run about 50,000,000 bushels above last year's total, W. A. Black, general manager Ogilvie Milling Company, estimated to-day. He said from reports he has received from all parts of west, he believed the crop would be between [illegible] bushels.

EXCURSION WAS A BIG SUCCESS

The Moonlight conducted under the auspices of Court Chemong 530 Inpendent Order of Forester on Friday evening proved most successful. The number of people who patronized the excursion was very encouraging; nearly two hundred being on board the steamer Geneva. A good representation of members from Havelock accompanied by Bro. S. B. Lynde D. S. C. R. attended the excursion. The committee in charge of the arrangements were Brothers Oxley, Grose, Styles, Powell, Buyers and Companions, Bradshaw, Blake, Jones, Willard, Dickens, Schooley. The refreshments purchased from Mr. Kirk were pronounced A1, and Brothers Grose and Styles with sleeves rolled up were kept on the jump selling to the crowd. Freeman and Seger's Orchestra supplied splendid music for dancing, and Mr. Hines acted very accentably as floor master for the various dances. Captain Harris and crew showed their usual kindness and courtesy. All concerned declared the trip very enjoyable.

STILL HUNTING FOR SLAYER OF BOY

POLICE COMB TORONTO RECREATION RESORTS FOR MURDERER.

TORONTO, August 16.—Detective Sergeants Cronin and Wickett, accompanied by Robert McMurtrey, spent the whole of Saturday afternoon hunting among the crowds at Stanley Park and the Island Stadium for the murderer of eight-year-old Philip Goldberg. The hunt was without result.

One woman came forward on Saturday and further corroborated McMurtrey's description of the man he had seen leaving the scene of the crime. She stated that after McMurtrey left the man the latter turned back and doubled along Queen Street to Glendale Avenue, where he cut through a field waist-high with weeds.

MEIGHEN VISITS OLD HOME TOWN

THE NATIVES TAKE A DAY OFF TO CELEBRATE.

(Canadian Press).

ST. MARY'S, Ont., Aug. 16.—With practically all places of business closed and everybody in holiday attire the town where Hon. Arthur Meighen, Canada's New Prime-Minister, spent many boyhood days was ready to receive its honored guest as his train pulled into the station at ten thirty this morning. Automobiles lined up outside the station were gaily decorated and as soon as Premier and Mrs. Meighen arrived they were met by Mayor N. L. Brandon and reception committee who escorted them to first car. Procession then slowly wended its way through throngs of cheering citizens along principal streets to the Flats. For an hour Premier shook hands wih old friends during which time the local band and chorus of school children rendered patriotic selections. Luncheon followed at noon and then Mayor Brandon presented Premier with an engraved address of welcome and congratulations on behalf of citizens of St. Mary's and Blanchard. Golden Key was also presented as an emblem of freedom of these municipalities.

SCHOOL DEBENTURES WERE SIGNED TO-DAY

$240,000 ISSUE PREPARED FOR DELIVERY TO BROKERS.

Mayor McIntyre spent a humid hour this morning signing the Prince of Wales school debentures. There were 240 of them with a par value of $1,000 making a total issue of $240,000.

"I won't be here when the last of these coupons are clipped," said the Mayor reflectively. "I'd like to see Peterborough thirty years from now. Perhaps I'll have a job as beadle or something on the beautiful shore. I can't fancy myself playing a harp," His Worship continued in the same humorous mood. "My musical education was kind of neglected, but I've had some experience in this work."

The new school debentures are for thirty years, and each sheet has thirty coupons attached, one of which shall be clipped each year and cashed. The issue was taken by A. E. Ames and Company of Toronto who will soon turn them into the money market. Each debenture is signed by Mayor McIntyre, City Treasurer Adams and Arthur Stevenson, chairman of the City Trust. The corporation seal was stamped on them by Assistant City Clerk Curtis and the operation was therewith complete.

WAS A SNAPPY BATTLE

The Canadian General Electric team captured the championship of the City League on Saturday when they defeated Louis Yeotes' Thistles in one of the snappiest games of the season by 2 runs to 1. It was a pitching duel between Lorne Rose for the Electricians and Howard Kirn for the Thistles and while Kirn had a shade the better of the argument, allowing the winners only six hits, while his opponent's delivery was nicked for ten safeties, a brace of errors gave C. G. E. the winning run in the seventh, and slow base running in the eighth threw away a chance to sew it up again. Both pitchers were very very strong in the pinches and had the Indian sign on the batters when hits meant runs.

The teams were at full strength, and both did some nice fielding, the fair sized crowd of fans thoroughly enjoying the battle. It is an evidence of the wealth of baseball material in Peterborough that the verdict was general on Saturday that either one of the two teams would have made a great showing in the Central League. As a matter of fact sixteen of the eighteen players have figured on the Lockington Circuit this season. Ray Rose demonstrated his versatility by turning in a fine game at third bace for the Electricians.

First Innings.

Thistles—Adams flied to Ray Rose. Lowe singled to left but was forced at second on Murray's tap to the box. Murray died stealing. One hit.

C. G. E. — Cherrett walked and stole second. McCarney and Ray Rose struck out. Ross singled to left a big fly that Shaughnessy should have nailed, Cherritt scoring. Corrin singled to centre. In an attempted double steel Ross was out at the plate. Swanston to Holyman to Swanston. One run, two hits.

Second Innings.

C. G. E. — Soden singled to centre, and went to second on Jackson's sacrifice. Murray tossed out Frost and Lorne Rose flied to Shaughnessy. One hit.

Third Innings.

Thistles — Shaughnessy beat out a slow one to third and stole second, but Holyman and Adams fanned and Lowe rolled to Lornie Rose. One hit.

C. G. E. — Cherrett died. Kirn to Harrison. McCarney flied to Harrison. Ray Rose walked and stole second. Ross grounded to Harrison.

Fourth Innings.

Thistles — Murray struck out; Swanston singled, but was forced at second on Harrison's roller to Ray Rose. Harrison stole second. Sheehy fanned. One hit.

C. G. E. — Kirn threw out Corrin. Soden walked but died stealing Swanston to Holyman. Jackson fanned.

Fifth Innings.

One Hit.

Thistles—Murray rolled to Lornie Rose. Swanston flied to Ray Rose, who also threw out Harrison.

C. G. E.—Ray Rose fanned. Sheehy made a nice catch of Ross' fly. Corrin flied to Adams.

Seventh Innings.

Thistles—Sheehy struck out. Kirn reached second on Lornie Rose's error and scored on Shaughnessy's single over second. Holyman and Adams flied to McCarney. One run, one hit, one error.

C.G.E.—Soden flied to Adams. Jackson was safe on Murray's error. Frost doubled over Adams' head in centre, Jackson scoring when Holyman took Adams' throw and heaved high to the plate, Frost going down to third. Frost was out at the plate trying to score on L. Rose's tap. Cherrett singled to second. McCarney died Kirn to Harrison. One run, two hits, two errors.

Eighth Inings.

Thistles—Lowe struck out. Murray doubled to left. Swanston died. L. Rose to Corrin. Harrison singled to left and Murray loafed on the play, being thrown out at the plate by McCarney. Two hits.

Ninth Innings.

Thistles — Cherrett threw out Sheehy. Kirn singled but was forced at second. Jackson to Cherrett on Shaugnessy's tap. Holyman rolled to Cherrett. One hit. The score:

OSHAWA DEFEATED PETERBORO 2-0

An excellent game of football was played in Oshawa on Saturday afternoon between the champions of the Peterborough league and Oshawa champions (G.W.V.A. The score was 2-0 in favour of Oshawa. The G.W.V.A. players and party left Peterborough in the morning to travel by automobile to Oshawa. They had a pleasant journey until about two miles outside of the lakeshore town when they ran into a severe electrical storm, accompanied with a heavy darkness. It rained until well on in the afternoon, when it cleared up and the match was proceeded with. Owing to a number of injuries the Vets' team included a few players of the local teams to fill up the positions that included A. Paskins, C. G. E.; Gash, C.G.E., and J. Cridland, Canadian Woollens. The first half was even, although Oshawa was one goal ahead. That was awarded them by the referee. A raid by the Oshawa forward upon the Peterborough goal left Rorrison (Oshawa) with the ball in front of goal and running in left drive for Wilfred Jones to clear, but to his great surprise the referee awarded a goal. The Oshawa players saw it was not a goal and reluctantly centred the ball. The second half produced many exciting plays with the respective goal-keepers putting up a great display, more especially Wilfred Jones, who gave the finest exhibition of goal-keeping ever seen in Oshawa, or in fact Peterborough. The second goal that beat Jones was an unsavable shot from the foot of Rorrison, who led drive from a few yards out.

After the game the teams and parties were entertained by the G.W.V.A. executive of Oshawa.

"HELLO ALEXANDER"

No greater favorites with the fun-loving play-goers of the country ever appeared here than McIntyre and Heath, who will come to the Grand Thursday, Aug. 19th.

They are this season presented by Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert in a spectacular musical extravaganza to which the title "Hello Alexander" has been given. This famous team of comedians opened their present season at the 44th Street Theatre in New York, and after a long run there went to the Gatrick Theatre in Chicago, where they packed that house for thirteen consecutive weeks. The Messrs. Shubert have surrounded the stars with a company of exceptional merit, including Homer Dickinson and Gracie Deagon, Vivian Holt, Lillian Rosedale, Mabel Elaine, Betty Lewis, Dorothy Moore, Dan Quinlan, Edward Scanlon, Dan McNeil, Earl Richard, Phyllis Ray, Newport and Stirk, Chic Barrymore and others. The company is one of the largest on tour, includes a carefully selected chorus of boys and girls who not only sing the swinging music with fine effect, but step the intricate dances in perfect unison.

Beans will take the place of meat for two meals each week.

WILL NOT PROTEST SATURDAY'S GAME

Replying to rumours of a protest, Mr. Louis Yeotes, manager of the Thistles, which lost Saturday's game with the C.G.E. team, said he had no intention of protesting the game, although he believed he had ample grounds for taking such a step. He claims he gave the C.G.E. a chance to win the cup after he secured it and that the C.G.E. had no right to ring in Soden whom he regards as an outsider. Some of the fans are inclined to the opinion that Murray threw the game to the C.G.E., but Yeotes takes the view that Murray did his best to win the game. "We are good sports and good losers," said Louis to-day.

VANITY FAIR

Ho! All ye that are weary and heavy laden, here are glad tidings of a port of release, an open door of escape to a gladder world. Wherever you see announced the coming of Boyle Woolfolk's "Vanity Fair of 1920" with Elmer Coudy and a large company of musical comedy favorites, enter ye in and be saved from your sorrow and spiritural ennui.

This musical revue, "Vanity Fair", served to break the record at many of our largest theatres this season. It will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Saturday Aug. 21st matinee and night, which we mention merely as matter of record. Unlike other so called revues, "Vanity Fair" does not attempt to satirize current or recent dramatic successes, but instead has a story of interest intermingled with high class specialties. The book of "Vanity Fair" is by John P. Mulgrew, with lyrics and music by Felix Rice. The twenty odd musical numbers which illuminate the score through the two acts and twelve scenes have already found their way to the victrolas, a sure sign of popular appeal, most prominent among them may be mentioned "Fiddling Around", "Art's a Wonderful Thing", and others, both charming and melodious. In the cast are a host of girls, which are advertised as "Vanities Fairest."

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, August 16.—Despite a good volume of buying, leading issues registered fractional losses at the stock market opening to-day. U. S. Steel opened at 86 3-4 off 1-2, Southern Railway 26 7-8 off 3-8, American Smelting 54 7-8 off 1-8, Mexican Petroleum 156 off 1 1-4, U.S. Rubber 84 1-2 off 1 3-8, Retail Stores 63 off 1-4, Northern Pacific 73 1-2 off 1-2, Baldwin 104 1-4 off 1, Reading 87 1-2 off 3-8, Texas Co. 45 1-4 up 1-4, Southern Pacific 94 off 1-2, Bethlehem 87 1-2 off 1 3-4.

Liquidation in Bethlehem Motors caused a sharp break in that issue around mid-day. The stocks sold down to 11 1-8, compared with a close on Saturday of 15 1-2. Weakness in Bethlehem caused sympathetic losses in other motor issues. Pierce Arrow dropped 2 1-4 to 37 1-2. Selling of motor shares was quickly absorbed, however, and the market relapsed into dullness. Am Linseed was comparatively active, gaining 3-8 to 96 on a small turn over.

BOY BADLY HURT BY MOTOR TRUCK

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—Darting from behind a moving automobile at Church and King streets last night, 13-year-old Percy Warren, ran into an auto truck driven by Clarence George, who is employed by the S. H. Howland Co. Ltd., and sustained serious head injuries. He is now in St. Michael's Hospital, and his condition is serious.

Warren is employed by the C.P.R. messenger service, and was out on an errand when hurt. George told the police that the boy ran out and across the street so suddenly that the driver had hardly time to apply he brakes before the lad was hit. the boy apparently caught one of the headlights as it was broken, and the car pushed him forward before it came to a stop in its own length.

Dresses in rust and tete de negre and hats in the former shade are being seen on smartly dressed women on the Bois.

IN MEMORIAM.

JOSLIN—In loving memory of my dear husband, Pte. George Joslin, who was killed in action the 16th day of August, 1917.

We miss father, kind and true,
No friend like him on earth we find;
We miss his dear, sweet, smiling face,
No one can fill father's place.

One little wave of comfort
That comes to ease our pain
Is to know he waits and watches
Until we meet again.

We miss him, oh so sorely,
When we see his vcant chair,
But we know he is safely resting
With in the Master's care.

Saturday and Sunday were two warm days, 84 degrees being the highest point each day. While the thermometer did n t go very high, there was a dampness in the atmosphere that made the heat oppressive. SERVICE OVERSEAS STOOD IN FAVOUR OF MAN WHO STOLE

His four years' service overseas and the assistance he has given the police in running down associates in the theft for which he was arrested, were taken into account by Judge Huycke this morning in disposing of the charge against Russell Perrin, of having stolen $300 worth of automobile accessories from Robert Nurse of Fowler's Corners on June 12th, last.

Perrin pleaded guilty when arraigned on the charge in the County Court to-day. The goods stolen included eight outer casings, twenty inner tubes and a number of spark plugs. Elmer Brooks, against whom a similar charge has been made out, has not yet been arrested.

Mr. J. F. Strickland, who apepared for the defense, urged that sentence be suspended. Perrin, he said in his address to Judge Huycke, was a married man and a one-legged returned soldier who had spent four years' overseas. Mr. Gordon, acting for the private prosecutor, said that Perrin's services at the front might be considered by His Honor, who after consulting Crown Attorney Hatton, permitted the prisoner to go on suspended sentence on the condition that he report weekly to Chief Thompson.

Mr. Hatton told Judge Huycke that Perrin was assisting the police in locating the others who are wanted in the case.

The prisoner made a statement in court placing chiefly upon Elmer Brooks blame for stealing the accessories from the Nurse garage at Fowler's Corners.

Mr. Strickland appeared for Perrin, Mr. Gordon for Mr. Nurse and Mr. G. W. Hatton conducted the prosecution.

BOY'S LEG BROKEN BY GERMAN TROPHY

WHIZZ-BANG CAUSES INJURY EVEN IN CAPTIVITY.

A boy suffered a broken leg yesterday and the city faces a bill of costs as the result of an expected accident happening in Central Park where children have been teetering on the German trophy "whizz bang" since it was set in position on Dominion Day. The boy is James Edward Farrance, son of George Farrance, dinEburgh street, who saw extensive service overseas during the war. The barrel and trail of the gun balance ponderously but exactly on the axis and the children quickly saw its advantages as a teeter. Citizens saw the danger in this play and Mr. T. Tooms, M.L.A., called the Examiner's attention to the possibilities of an accident several weeks ago.

The Farrance boy is reported to have been standing near the gun with some friends when the heavy trail dropped on his leg breaking it. Dr. Yelland was called and the fracture was set at St. Joseph's hospital.

Ald. Gainey, chairman of the Parks committee, stated that in July he had taken precaution to prevent accidents. City Engineer Parsons was authorized to have cement stands made for the wheels of the gun and also for firmly fixing the trail to a cement block. When no action had been taken some time ago Ald. Gainey said he instructed Joseph Grierson, caretaker of the parks, to pin down the trail temporarily with an iron rod. This was done but the children apparently succeeded in loosening their teeter. Ald. Gainey pointed out that the Parks committee hadn' been lax in providing protection for the public.

POLICE WILL LOOK FOR MAN

VICTIM OF KNIFE ATTACK STILL IN HOSPITAL.

Chief of Police Thompson has warned the police of other cities to be on the look out for "Virginia" the alleged "Bad Man" of the Polack show outfit. Virginia is accused of knifing Louis Pizos, the cook of the Polack train crew.

Pizo states that on Friday night he walked into one of the cars where Virginia and some other men were shooting craps. He speaks very broken English, and at this point it was difficult to understand his story but it appears that for some reason Virginia called him an obscene name. Words followed and Virginia drew a knife and assaulted him, cutting him seriously.

Pizos states that the others held him in order to give Virginia an opportunity to escape. He was taken to a doctor, whose name he does not know, and then to the Nicholls Hospital.

Virginia, Pizos says, is the bad man of the Polack outfit, and is said to have stolen frequently from other members of the crew. Pizos' car was robbed of $110 recently, and he suspects Virginia of the theft; as he saw him sneaking away from the car immediately before the theft of the money was discovered. Pizos had $395 with him at the time of the assault, and considers himself lucky to have gone through the episode without being robbed.

Had the knife penetrated a fraction of an inch farther Pizos would have been killed.

Pizos was reported as improving this morning.

TORONTO GRITS HELD A PICNIC

HON. MACKENZIE KING WAS THE CHIEF SPEAKER AT FUNCTION.

TORONTO, Aug. 16.—Three thousand people braved heat and threatening thunder storms Saturday afternoon to attend the old-fashioned basket picnic of Liberals held at Hanlan's Point on the Island here.

A full and interest-arresting programme of addresses included speeches by the chairman, Sir Allen Aylesworth :H. Hartley Dewar, K.C., M.P.P., Ontario Liberal Leader; Hon. Dr. Henri S. Beland, M.P. for Beauce and formerly Postmaster-General in the Laurier Cabinet, and Hon. Mr. King.

An Ovation.

Hon. Mr. King received quite an ovation from the big crowd as he entered the baseball grounds where this picnic was held. He held an attentive audience for two hours while he presented the Liberal party's views on the political issues engaging Canada's attention these days, during which time the hon. gentleman sustained his widely-recognized reputation as an orator of no mean ability.

Met By Bodyguard.

Prior to attending the picnic Hon. Mr. King and Hon. Dr. Beland ,accompanied by officials of the Harbor Commission, made an inspection of the harbor in the commission's yacht Bethelma. When the distinguished visitors arrived at the Hanlan's Point dock they were met by the band of the Governor-General's Bodyguard and a Reception Committee headed by Controller George Ramsden.

Addresses of Welcome.

Sir Allen Aylesworth read an address of welcome from the Toronto Liberals, and addresses of welcome were also presented to the Federal Liberal Leader by Mrs. A. H. Beaton, on behalf of the Toronto Liberal Women's Association, and Mrs. Harry Carpenter of Hamilton, President of the Ontario Liberal Women's Association.

Other Speakers.

Mr. Hartley Dewart reviewed Provincial affairs, and asserted that 'the Liberal party will occupy the position that it deserves to occupy in the Province, because it senses the changed conditions and has a progressive policy adapted to meet them."

Hon. Dr. Beland prided himself in being a Canadian first and declared that "the welfare and property which we all desire will be secured only from racial peace. So closely related is public welfare to racial peace that you cannot secure one without securing the other." He urged for a better knowledge of each other, and "closer contact between the peoples of Quebec and Ontario" to secure racial peace in Canada.

The Leader's Addhess.

After laudatory references to the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Hon. Dr. Beland, Hon. Mr. King complimented Mr. H. Hartley Dewart, K.C., M.P.P., on his Ontario leadership. The hon. gentleman here took the opportunity of saying "how much Liberals everywhere feel they owe to the Liberal Leader in Ontario, Mr. Hartley Dewart, in the fight waged during the last Provincial election, and to which, more than to any other single influence he (the speaker), believed, was owing the overwhelming defeat of the Hearst administration. "It is true, in his case as in many another's, where he sowed another reaped. He laid the foundations upon which another is building to-day."

The Tariff Issue.

Turning to the all-important tariff question, Mr. King here went on to say the Liberals believe that the time has come, indeed that it is already long past, when adownward revision of the tariff is necessary. "In this revision," he said, "we believe that there should be substantial reductons of the duties on the necessaries of life, in other words, on those articles which go to make up the food, the clothing, the shelter of the Canadian people; that certain specific articles required for the purposes of consumption and other articles essential to production should be placed upon the free list and that in regard to the implements of production in the basic industries of agriculture, mining, lumbering and fishing there should also be a substantial reduction of duties. It is not a question of free trade or protection. . . ."

"In revising the tariff to this end care will be taken of the position and needs of all the industries in our country, but such tariff as may be necessary in this connection will be, under Liberal policy, a tariff for consumers and producers ,and not a tariff to further the interests of combines, monopolies or of any special or private classes. . . ."

"It is not honest to say that we can do away with the tariff. We can revise it, and that is the policy of the Liberal party. And I shall say in regard to tariff policies exactly the same in the city of Toronto as I shall say in the Western Provinces. I have not got one message for the city and another for the country—one message for the employer and another for the employee."

Law and Order.

The Liberal Leader, in the course of an exhaustive address, touched at length on the Premier's reference at Stirling to the maintenance of established institutions.

"Mr. Meighen has sought," Mr. King declared, "with that liking for monopoly in government as in all else which is characteristic, to claim for his Government and the so-called National Liberal and Conservative party which he leads the distinction of being the party of law and order. Anyone or any group of persons who do not think and say as he does are to be relegated to one side as lawless and disorderly. He and those who walk with him are to have the middle of the road. All others may makeshift in the high ways and byways as best they can. If that is the meaning of law and order Mr. Meighen is welcome to his interpretation of it. He is welcome, if he so desires, to seek a monopoly of the term "law and order" for the party which he leads. That particular phrase has been the refuge of autocracy and the people are not likely to be deceived by its use.

"I would tell the new Prime Minister, however, that there is something even finer and more necessary than law and order in any country, and that is that upon which law and order itself is founded, namely: constitutional government and procedure. It is this which Mr. Meighen has overlooked; it is this which he and his Ministers who continue in office are prepared not only to ignore but to defy; it is this which the Liberal party seeks to establish and maintain as it has sought to do in the earliest beginnings of its recorded history.

Economy in Expenditure.

Speaking of the new Administration's pronounced intentions regarding its expenditure, Mr. King said:

"Let me say quite clearly: the Liberal party of Canada takes no exception to justifiable expenditures for military, naval and police purposes. As a party, however, we believe that there are times and seasons for all things, and that if there is one branch of government in which at the present time we can afford to economize until matters more important have been successfully dealt with, it is in the matter of new naval, military and police expenditures."

Mr. King affirmed in conclusion that the Opposition had done its best to secure economies in the Naval and Militia Departments. He added: "We succeeded in postponing an outlay of about $2,000,000 for additional barracks, but now Mr. Guthrie announces that he is going to ask the Minister of Finance for this amount, and commence the construction of these barracks at the earliest possible date, What Canada needs to-day is not more barracks for a standing army in the nature of a permanent force of both militia and police, but less in the way of military and police control and more in the way of increased production.

VOL. XVLII. NO. 39 PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, AUGUST 17, 1920 PRICE THREE CENTS

A GANG OF HIGHER-UPS

OPINION EXPRESSED THAT PONZI WAS NOT THE REAL NAPOLEON.

BOSTON, August 17.—Was Charles Ponzi the head and front or only the "front" of the millions-overnight swindle that flourished unhindered for eight months in the heart of Boston's financial district? This was the subject of countless open forums on Boston Common and street corners, in the foreign quarters, and wherever the day allowed big and little groups to gather.

Recent activities of Federal and State authorities, halted only by the week-end rest, coupled with intimations from various sources, have caused a general expectation of developments early this week that will answer the popular query.

One needed to listen but a moment to any group of disputants to hear voiced the two popular opinions. One side had it that Ponzi was a real Napoleon of finance, for how otherwise could he have gained the confidence of men who made a profession of banking and investment?

Others argued that Ponzi was only a sidewalk capper for a gang that profited directly or indirectly by the by the noise he made, and that the brains of the enterprise were elsewhere than under the skull of the Italian, who, if threats of certain of his countrymen are to be taken seriously, is safer to-night in the Cambridge Jail than he would be in his comfortable home in the banker's colony of historic Lexington.

As to Ponzi's clients there is increasing evidence that those who thought he attracted chiefly foreigners and the uninformed were mistaken. To what extent they were mistaken the bankruptcy proceedings may presently reveal.

Since the Armistice, Boston has been infested with agents seeking to interest small investors by promising big profits. High wages in industrial centres, anxety of many to increase their incomes in keeping with the climbing cost of living, along with the below par quotations on Liberty bonds, joined to make New England a fertile field for those who promised quick and big returns.

In many cases these agents found their best argument in the assertion that while old-established banking houses made small returns to their depositors the banks themselves were able to make enormous profits by frequent turnovers of the money of their depositors. It was proposed by some agents that small investors share in these big profits by permitting their savings to be invested for them.

So far as the straightening out of the tangle of Ponzi's finance is concerned, the next step will be hearing in the Federal Court on Tuesday (today) on petitions for the appointment of receivers for the Securities Exchange Company. Edwin L. Pride, who has been going over Ponzi's accounts for the Federal authorities, has not yet filed his report. He has announced that with some accounts still to be examined he has found liabilities amounting to $8,000,000. The only clue to Ponzi's assets is his own estimate that they total about $4,000,000.

In the event that Ponzi's attorneys are able to find a bondsman, the sheriff has ready at the jail a warrant upon which Ponzi would be rearrested for the State authorities on charges of larceny. He will be given a hearing on Thursday next on the Federal charge of using the mails to defraud.

BOLSHEVISTS DECLARE THEY WILL USE "TEUTON BRIDGE" FOR WAR ON FRANCE AND ENGLAND AND EVENTUALLY CONTINUE TO AMERICA.

(Special to The Examiner.)

KOLNO, Poland (by Courier through East Prussia), August 17.—Soviet Russia intends to seek an alliance with Germany, to make war on France, and if this is successful, to undertake a conquest of Britain, and eventually America, officials of the Bolshevik regime told the Associated Press here to-day.

As soon as the Polish War, which is considered a purely Russian business, has been finished, a note will be sent to Berlin, they declared, demanding permission to transport troops across Germany for the French campaign. Upon refusal of this request, which is taken for granted, a revolution will be instituted in Germany, the success of which the Bolsheviki asserted they were prepared to assure by force of arms.

With these ends in view, the Russian soldiers, who had been told that all wars shall cease with ultimate victory over the Poles, are being subjected to a vigorous propaganda which declares that Frenchmen will be shot on sight, but that the Germans are friends who will soon become comrades of the Bolsheviki. These admissions have been corroborated by information gathered by the correspondent in conversation with German representatives of East Prussian newspapers, who had interviews with the Bolshevik army chiefs at the front.

PREDICTION OF BOLSHEVIST LEADERS

The Bolshevik leaders declare that within three weeks they will be in complete control of Poland, including the Polish corridor, which they intend to occupy, leaving a ten-kilometer neutral zone about Dantzic.

When the correspondent reached here after surreptitiously crossing the border at Czerwone and employing the aid of Poles and a farm waggon filled with straw, he called on the Polish Soviet Commissary, who recently was established in office by the Bolshevik military Scharnewsky, the commissary, is a Polish Jew, with protruding eyes and a blonde moustache, and wears a white collar. He acknowledged the correspondent's greeting and then sat down at his dinner table, completely ignoring the American.

At the commissary's side throughout the meal and during the correspondent's visit a Russian soldier, armed with a revolver, stood watch, and all the conversation was interpreted to him in Russian. The commissary's assistant, who was a former German officer, said this Russian was a Soviet representative who watched all business transacted by Schrnewsky, and reported to the Soviet Central Government, although he never interfered with the commissary's procedure.

COMMISSARY GETS GOOD MEAL.

When the commissary finished his meal, which consisted of soup, a steak smothered with onions, potatoes and beer, he stalked to his office, directing the correspondent to wait. After an hour he returned, demanded the correspondent's passports, which he gave a cursory inspection, and then returned to his office.

After waiting two hours the correspondent wandered about the town, talking to the inhabitants, among whom were many Jews. He was told they did not know whether they were going under Russian, Polish, or German rule, but said they had heard rumours there would be a plebiscite in all this territory in the near future, in which the people would be permitted to vote whether they desired to adhere to Russia or Germany. The inhabitants declared such a vote would be overwhelmingly in favour of Germany. They asserted that unless commerce is soon revived with Germany, they will experience great suffering.

Having been unable after several hours to see Scharnewsky again, the correspondent prepared to depart, but an orderly from the commissary's office directed him to remain another hour, by which time a high official was expected to arrive. The correspondent ignored the order.

ALLIANCE DENIED IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, August 17.—The Wolff Telegraph Agency officially contradicts the report that a secret military, political, and economic alliance has been concluded between Germany and Soviet Russia.

"This report and the conclusions derived from it are, like earlier despatches of the same kind, wholly untrue," says the agency, which speaks for the Government. "There is obviously a press campaign with the purpose of bringing our neutrality under suspicion."

FIVE PROMINENT FARMERS ARE MENTIONED AS U.F.O. CANDIDATES

FOR THE NOMINATION TO BE MADE AT THE CONVENTION ON AUGUST 28TH—UNITED FARMERS PREPARED TO FIGHT A LONE HAND IN FEDERAL CONTEST.

L.L.P. MAY SUPPORT

The U. F. O. call for a convention to be held in the Sons of England Hall on Saturday evening, August 28, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the forthcoming Federal election, indicates that the farmers of West Peterborough are prepared to enter the political lists alone, if needs be, unconcerned whether they receive help from the Independent Labour Party, G.W.V.A., or other group.

Five names have been mentioned among the township U.F.O. leaders, who for a month or more have been in conference with the I.L.P. executive. The strong men of the rural section of the riding seem to be Warden Nicholls of Smith, ex-Warden John McIntosh of North Monaghan, Mr. Charles E. Moore, of Smith, Mr. Harry G. Webber of Monaghan, and Mr. John Collins of Ennismore. Mr. James Campbell of South Monaghan is regarded as an aspirant but it has been objected that because his township is included with Peterborough only for Federal elections and consequently cannot lend assistance to any local cause in provincial contests, his claim for preference is held lightly alongside that of the Warden, for example.

From all accounts the U.F.O. are determined to nominate a farmer for the approaching election precipitated by Mr. H. Burnham, and they are so determined upon certain choices that local men who have participated in recent negotiations state that they will be surprised if the farmers agree upon one man with unanimity enough to enlist the entire rural vote.

It is plain that they have told the Independent Labor Party in words or in significant attitudes that if the fusion that was largely effective in electing Mr. Tooms is to continue it must be behind a member of the U. F. O. In the first conversations between the I.L.P. and the U.F.O. following the Burnham defy to the Union Government, the advantages of nominating a member of the I.L.P. were emphasized, so much so that ex-Warden Scott of Smith, who is credited with booming Warden Nicholls plainly and rather sharply told Mr. Tooms in a published letter that his activities were hurting rather than helping the cause of cooperation which had elevated him to the Provincial Assembly.

Reports from the several meetings of representatives of the two groups declared that the farmers demanded the allegiance of the I.L.P. in the coming election, and although at one stage the statement was given out that a difference of opinion had been referred to the respective provincial executives, it has since been intimated that any advice from above will be of little avail against the farmers' decision to carry on with or without the support of the Independent Labor Party.

It is understood that in the negotiations that have been held up to the present there have been no definite proposals held forth, no resolutions to interfere with continued affiliation. However if the Independent Labor Party lines up with the U. F. O. it will not be without the relinquishing of ambitions which if not officially announced were generally reported on the streets and discussed by several members of the I.L.P. executive.

If instead of getting closer together in their debates the I.L.P. and U.F.O. have drawn farther apart they can't place the blame on outside influences. Members of both groups declare that the incipient cleavage started from within. It has been further intimated by several prominent workers in the old fusion that if it is to endure the honours must be passed around, that one section is watchfully waiting the course of events to ascertain whether the new movement is as broad as its promoters implied or whether the "hewing of wood and the drawing of water" is to be the sole lot of a very considerable section who have put forward no claims and doubtless will not do so, but who none the less expect some of the honours of partnership as well as he labours.

LINDSAY MAN STRUCK MATCH —GAS EXPLODED.

A motor man's carelessness nearly caused a serious fire at Cannington recenly at the corner of Cameron and Ann Streets. While getting some gasoline at C. Whiting's garage the driver of the car struck a match to see how much gasoline was in his tank. An explosion followed, in which his car suffered most.

DESPATCHES EXCHANGED

BOLSHEVIKS WANT DEFINITION OF BRITISH ATTITUDE.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Soviet Russia, through M. Kameneb, head of the Trade Mission here has asked Premier Lloyd George for a precise definition of the British attitude toward General Wrangel.

In a long letter Kameneff quotes all despatches exchanged between the British and Russian governments concerning Wrangel, referring particularly to the note of April 14, which urged the termination of hostilities and disbandonment of General Wrangel's troops on basis of amnesty being granted them. M. Kameneff declares this despatch included Soviet government to refrain from military measures which would have rendered the southern anti-Bolshevik leader powerless and he seeks to show it was British indecision which encouraged Wrangel and led to recognition of Wrangel by France. He intimates that Great Britain is largely responsible for this recognition being extended.

CERTIFICATES WILL BE ISSUED

MEANS OF IDENTIFYING CANADIAN CITIZENS.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 17.—The issuance of certificates of Canadian citizenship is a new departure decided upon by the Dominion Immigration Department that is expected to be of great assistance to Canadians who go abroad or cross the border into the United States. Certificate is in the form of a small card bearing on one side the photograph of the individual to whom it is issued and giving such information as name, date of birth and birthplace of holder. To secure certificate applicant must supply Department with a small photograph and proof of Canadian citizenship. It is believed that holders of these certificates of citizenship will find them very useful for purposes of identification even within confines of the Dominion as they would doubtless be accepted by banks and other business institutions.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

Messrs. Roy Greene and William Hendren camped at Stoney Lake for the week-end.

Mr. Clayton Ridpath, of the Electrical Department of the G. T. R., Toronto, was a week-end visitor to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ridpath.

Miss Nellie Read, of Peterborough, is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Jack Turst.

Mr. Roach, Havelock, is in charge of the drilling on the Hanison farm for the cement company's test. This farm has what is expected to be the right sort of clay needed in the manufacture of cement. The opening of the cement plan would be a good thing for Lakefield at the present time.

Mr. Craig, of Toronto, arrived in the village on Saturday to take the position of accountant in the Royal Bank.

The crack in the west wall of the Town Hall has been mended. New bricks were put in to take the place of the damaged ones.

Dr. Kennedy spent Saturday at Stoney Lake on business.

The work on the new dam is progressing as favorably as possible and the citizens on Water street, who feared the collapse of the old one, can rest easily now as the new one will be a permanent affair and also will be an ornament to the street when it is completed.

BULLET REMOVED FROM LEG.

On Saturday morning last an X-ray photograph of Charles Casey, Jr., was taken at the Cobourg Hospital, to locate the bullet that struck him in the leg while watching the regatta at the lake shore on August 2nd. The bullet entered the back of the leg, just below the knee, and, striking the bone, went up the leg twelve inches from where it entered. The bullet was afterward removed by Dr. Field.

MEN'S CLOTHES TO DROP BUT NOT WOOLLEN CLOTH

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 17.—Men's clothing will sell at lower wholesale prices this fall, in the opinion of William M. Wood, presidene af the American Woolen Company. He referred to clothes that go on sale at retail in the spring of 1921. At the same time he declared that woollen cloth would not drop in price.

Mr. Wood added that the company's mills, according to present indications, would be re-opened soon after Labor Day.

"The prospects look bright, but that is the most I can say for the present," he said. "We are receiving numerous inquiries from persons looking for cloth. We are like fishermen, we have our bait and it appears now as though we are getting bites"

The City Reported Captured

NEWS WAS CELEBRATED BY THE BOLSHEVIK—REPORT NOT CONFIRMED.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 17.— Warsaw is still being held by the Poles so far as despatches received here disclose the situation. The latest Soviet communique does not claim that the city is captured, while the Polish official statement of Monday represented defenders of the Polish capital making successful resistance.

Reports of the citiy's fall, announced officially by the Bolshevik staff at Vila where the news was celebrated, are not confirmed from any source.

All special advices, none of which however are dated later than Sunday, concur in the statement that Warsaw was then held by the Poles, who, according to some reports, were fighting so successfully that the menace to the city was decreasing.

Russian attacks, however, were being constantly renewed and severity of the fighting was dwelt upon by all despatches, the struggle being said to be especially fierce in and around Radzymin, which had changed hands five times and at last reports held by the Poles. In the meantime the Russian armies are rapidly progressing through the Polish corridor and are said to be within 15 miles of Danzig.

Counter Attacks.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Aug. 17.— Several successful counter atacks have been launched by the Poles against the Bolshevik armies hammering at the gates of Warsaw. In the neighborhood of Cholm, on the southern sector of the Warsaw front, Russian forces which had crossed the Bug river were hurled back across the stream, while in the region of Modlin, north-west of the Polish capital, the Poles have begun a counter ovensive, directing their attack in the direction of Mlawa.

THANKS FROM THE BOLSHEVIK

CREDITS BRITISH LABOUR WITH FORCING GOVERNMENT'S HANDS.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 17.— All Russian Central Councilof Trades Unions has telegraphed British Labour Council of action, crediting British Labor with forcing the hand of the government in the Russo-Polish crisis and voicing thanks or its efforts.

"On receiving the news that the aggressive policy of the British government toward Russia had changed for the better, under strong pressure of British workers," says the Russian Council's message, "we desire to convey to these British organizations which forced the hands of the government the heartfelt thanks of all industrial organizations of workers in Soviet Russia."

CROWD THREATENED TO LYNCH MAN WHO WAS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL ON CHARGE OF MURDER OF BOUCOCK CHILD.

(Canadian Press.)

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 17. — Thorold was quiet this morning following wild scenes that accompanied the threat and the actual attempt of the mob last night to lynch David McNeal, prisoner, who is being held for trial in connection with the murder of Margaret Boucock, aged four. That the crowd was in earnest about its intention was evidenced this morning by the finding of a noose all ready on the town flagpole where it was left after the demonstration last night. It was without doubt, fervor of McNeal's own appeal to the crowd which saved his life for trial by court. He concluded a forceful declaration of his innocence with the appeal, "In the name of that man who was crucified without fair trial." Crown Attorney Cowper, who was injured in assisting to save the prisoner and in preventing the burning of the town hall, is considering what action shall be taken against the ring leaders of the demonstration. In the meantime the prisoner is in jail waiting trial.

Set Hall on Fire.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 17.—Canadian common sense and spirit of British fair play at Thorold last night saved the life of David McNeal, who had been committed for trial in that town during the afternoon on a charge of having murdered 4-year-old Margaret Boucock on July 13 last. The mob which clamored for possession of the prisoner numbered several thousand people, and the Town Hall was set on fire, after the prisoner and police officers had been smoked out of the Town Hall, which the mob had set on fire. About 10 o'clock, when darkness had set in, the mob, which had grown to immense proportions, determined to get McNeal, and began to storm the Town Hall with bricks and stones. Beore long every window in the newly-built building had been shattered and then the mob attacked the doors. McNeal and the police officers saved their lives by crouching in corners and holding chairs in front of them as volleys of rocks swept through the building. At first several shots were fired out of the upstairs' windows to frighten the crowd ,but it did not hinder them. Then flares were thrown through the shattered windows and a couple of men rushted a bundle of hay saturated with gasoline into the ground floor. Soon the flames burst out and eventually the smoke and flames drove the men who had been besieged since early afternoon down the stairs and out. "We surrender," yelled McNeal as he came down the stairs, with Chief Frank Collins, of Thorold, hanging to his steel wristlet. A Buffalo reporter, Howard White, was just ahead of McNeal, and the crowd seized him and were rushing him off. He showed his badge and they let him go.

McNeal was seized and rushed over in front of the Town Hall to an auto. A rope taken from the town flag pole was run up a pole and preparations made to hang him. McNeal had been terribly manhandled with bricks and sticks, and his face was completely covered with blood. He screamed for mercy, while the mob howled like demons. "Give him a chance," called someone, and that met with popular approval. "Men, if you are men, give me a chance to make a statement," cried the poor blood-stained wretch. "It may be my last words on earth."

Protests Innocence.

McNeal spoke for half an hour before a hushed crowd. He swore by the eternal he had not killed Margaret Boucock, "only a degenerate could do such a thing."

The crowd demanded why he had not made a statement before, and he said his counsel had told him not to speak.

In the course of his long speech, McNeal appealed to the crowd as a citizen of the United States who had endeavored to become a good Canadian, referred to his love of children, and appealed on behalf of his wife and her widowed mother. "As Britishers, give me a fair trial," he repeatedly remarked.

The firemen were fighting the flames, which were burning the Town Hall ,so it was necessary to move from the place. The crowd allowed McNeal to go onto the Public Library steps. There he stood and pleaded for his life, and finally the whole spirit of the crowd changed. From one section of the great audience came insistent appeals, "Give the man a chance, hand him over to the police." Finally others took up the cry, only a few dissenting, and before long it was almost a unanimous cry. When McNeal ceased speaking there was no further talking of lynching. The crowd was almost jovial. No one touched McNeal as Chief Mains and his men supported the prisoner to an auto, and he was rushed off to Welland before there was time for the crowd to change its mind.

BOLSHEVIKI RETREATING

POLES HAVE OPENED UP A COUNTER OFFENSIVE.

(Canadian Press.)

WARSAW, August 17.—The Russian pressure upon Warsaw has been relieved, according to the official Polish communique just issued.

The statement reported that General Pilsudski directed a counter stroke that effected this relief.

Allied officers here say that the Russian hold has been broken. The Polish counter offensive is declared to be in full swing at various points, with the Soviet forces falling back in confusion.

The statement further says that the Bolsheviki, who had planned to cross the Vistula, south-east of Warsaw, 35 miles from the capital, were forced back. The right wing of the Polish Army, in breaking the Soviet resistance at Kock, 32 miles south of Siedlec, took 200 Russian prisoners and captured one cannon and fourteen machine guns.

The communique announces that the Poles, in following up their counter offensive to relieve the pressure on Warsaw, have advanced along the entire northern front. They have pushed the Russians beyond the Wyra River and regained Ciechanow, the Soviet forces retreating, while the Polish aviators fired on them with machine guns.

Fighting continues in the region of Radzymin, to the north-east of Warsaw, the statement says.

WHAT GOOD IS THE CLOCK?

For the past two weeks now the market clock has been registering the time at 6.20. This is only misleading and fooling both citizens and travellers alike, often to the annoyance of people intent on catching trains, and if the city cannot maintain a clock capable of recording time with a decent measure of accuracy, it had better be removed altogether.

CITIZEN.

It was announced in this paper several days ago that the clock had been stopped for several days until much need repairs were made. When the clock was dismantled it was discovered that many of the parts were worn and would have to be replaced. This may take two weeks. In the meantime a little forebearance will have to be exercised.—Editor.

CROSS ATLANTIC IN TEN HOURS

SUCH IS FLYING FEAT EXPECTED TO BE POSSIBLE WITHIN NEXT FEW YEARS.

To fly from France to New York in ten hours is the latest and most ambitious dream of French airmen and inventors. They declare that it will be done within the next few years by means of two new inventions, which enable an airman to fly at a height of 40,000 feet, where, owing to the reduced air pressure, a speed of 450 kilometers (282.6 miles) an hour can be maintained.

Two difficulties which face the inventors are first to secure the functioning of the engine and driving force of the propeller in that rarified atmosphere, and, second, to secure a life supporting atmosphere for the airman and passengers, says Science and Invention.

The first of these difficulties has been largely overcome by an invention which was recently used by Lieut Henri-Roget, who flew from Paris to Lyons a distance of nearly 285 miles, at a speed of 156 miles an hour. Roget flew at a height of 15,000 to 18,000 feet all the way and was able to maintain his speed in the rarefied atmosphere by means of an invention which compressed the air fed to the carburetter to normal atmosphere.

Since then a controlled trial has shown that a motor giving 178 horse power at water level and 95 horse power at 1500 feet, can be made to give 166 horsepower when the air is compressed by the new apparatus. To that extent the effect of the rarefication of the air has been overcome, and it seems certain that the principle having been established, further development will be rapid.

The second difficulty is to secure breathing air for the fliers. The example of the submarine is here invoked. There is no more difficulty it is stated in making an enclosed chamber provided with air at normal pressure which will travel above the clouds, than in making one which travels below the water.

Once these two problems are effectively solved full advantage can be taken of the non-resistance of the upper air. To go quicker one will only have to go higher, and incidentally to go cheaper, for on the faster voyage less fuel will be burned. In those days we will have a nightly service of airplanes following the dawn across the Atlantic and dropping down in New oYrk in time for breakfast.

NEW PRESBYTERIAN FIELD SECRETARY

REV. M'LAUGHLIN ASSUMES DUTIES WITH SOCIAL SERVICE BOARD.

TORONTO, August 17.—Rev. D. N. McLaughlin, who has recently assumed the position of field secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions and Social Service, is an ardent believer in interdenominational co-operation and advocates organic union between churches if other measures do not meet the situation. Formerly pastor of King Memorial Church, Winnipeg, Manitoba, he succeeds Dr. J. G. Shearer, who left the post to become general secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada. The new secretary arrived from Winnipeg last week to take up his duties ere. That his task is no mean one is shown by the fact that within the next two years at least $1,700,000 will be expended by his department.

Seven years of experience in Social Service work in the West has shown him the futility of overlapping of the different denominations. He says that in the West the Social Service Departments of the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches have been working hand in hand and that his policy will be one of co-operation wherever possible.

An important phase of Mr. McLaughlin's duties will be making surveys of territories proposed for introduction of such Social Service centres as St. Christopher's House, Bellevue Place, Toronto, which has recently been closed for the summer. Similar institutions are in operation at Winnipeg and Montreal, and Hamilton and Sydney are looked upon as prospective centres for such work.

Mr. McLaughlin, who reaches this post as a comparatively young man, was offered the position as a result of his work as Victory Loan organiser for his district in 1918 and as Provincial organiser for the Forward Movement.

MORE LONDON GIRLS DRINK.

Woman Police Chief Thinks War Work Formed Habit.

LONDON.—"A girl of 15 who appeared in the police court the other day confessed she sometimes went home drunk. Is this an isolated case or does it illustrate a common tendency?" was the question put to-day to Mrs. Stanley, chief of the official women police. Her reply was:

"My impression is that young people in increasing numbers, are forming the habit of getting together in the evening and having a glass of port and a biscuit together. I think the habit began during the war among girl, particularly those who were working hard during the day and who had plenty of money to spend in the evening. Port and stout are the favorite drinks. I have never seen spirits taken by these people."

An officer whose worw for the Salvation Army takes her into all sorts of places confirmed the opinion that drinkin gamong young people is on the increase, especially among young girls.

MOTHER ABANDONED BABE

KINGSTON, Aug. 16. — Mrs. Fanny Hayes, the woman who abandoned her two months'-old baby boy in the Union station at Brockville on Wednesday evening, was committed for trial afer a hearing before Magistrate Page there. The woman, whose husband died five years ago, was a resident of Grenadier Island.

At the hearing Morris Jackson, a taxi driver, told of having seen the defendnt in the Prince George Hotel here on Tuesday or Wednesday last seeking inquiries of the clerk as to the possibility of getting a home for the infant.

When asked if she had anything to say the defendant broke down, cried bitterly and begged to have her baby back. She was not represented by counsel.

IS HUGH SUCCESS BUT FOR DETAILS

SUCH AS THE LACK OF FOOD, CLOTHES AND LIVING ACCOMMODATION.

ST. CATHARINES, August 17. — Still a prisoner of the Soviet Government in Irkutsk, Siberia, and uncertain when he will be released, Emerson McMillan, formerly of this city, writes to his brother here in a most hopeful strain. He says, writing May 1st:

"I am very comfortable and am only afraid some over zealous patriot in the Foreign Office will sooner or later arrange for our release. Several other British and allied officers are with me. Food is rather scarce, but at the present time we can get lots of eggs. They are now worth some 30 roubles each, and as the rouble is worth nothing it is not bad, you see.

"We have had no authentic news of the outside world, but have certainly heard some startling rumors. I am not in a position to comment on the situation but I can assure you it is very interesting, and we have a wonderful opportunity to study the Soviet Government from within.

"I have not had any letters for six months, but hope springs eternal in the human breast. I am getting so I can blunder through the language, and as our uniform is worn by half the Russians I usually pass as a Russian. Shoulder straps are like a red rag to a bull, as under the old regime the Russian officers wore the insignia of rank on their shoulders.

"To-day the bronze monument of Alexander III., is being torn down, and it is said that one of Lenine will replace it. The opera is very popular now. The bourgeoise always attended the opera you know. It is noteworthy that in the opera 'Pagliacci,' the song opening with 'Ladies and Gentlemen,' has been censored to 'Tovarische,' the Bolshevik equivalent for the Socialists' 'Comrade.'

"Titles are prohibited, and as a consequence it is forbidden to use the Russian equivalent for 'Mister.' In the schools it is forbidden to discipline the children, so they are paraded once a week when one in every seven is thrashed for the misdeeds of the whole school. Thus discipline is maintained and everybody is happy.

"There is absolutely no drunkenness—every drop of liquor has been licked up already. Outside of a few annoying details, such as lack of food and clothes, living accommodation, valueless money and the necessity of everybody working incessantly, I should say that Bolshevism is a huge success."

RAISIN PRICE GOES UP.

California Associated Company Fixes 1920 Rate at 15 Cents.

FRESNO, Cal.—The California Associated Raisin Company has named prices for the 1920 raisin crop on a basis of 15 cents to the grower. This is an increase of 5 cents a pound over last year.

In announcing the opening prices Wylie M. Giffen, president of the Association, said it was three cents under that paid by independent packers and three cents under that indicated at a recent auction sale in New York.

SEES LOWER FOOD PRICES.

Chamber of Commerce Finds Crop Reports Indicate Reduction.

WASHINGTON.—Crop reports indicate somewhat lower prices for foodstuffs, according to the monthly bulletin of the United States' Chamber of Commerce Committee on Statisics and Standards, made public here. Slackness in textiles, some leather products and metal lines, however, are classed as indications of "more awaiting and readjustment periods in a moderate way than the prelude to any marked change."

"Unless experience be misleading the new purchasing power of the railroads will be a strong factor in maintaining both prices and the volume of business," the bulletin asserts.

The automobile industry, the bulletin adds, "gives indications of approaching the peak of production for the present," while building operations are hampered by high prices of materials and labor to the point where "only the most imperatively necessary construction can and will proceed."

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive: With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left soft, clear and hairless. STEAMER SEIZED.

The steamer Marshall was seized at Cardinal by Collector of Customs Brown, Prescott. The boat had a cargo of whisky and the captain manifested 1,043 cases, but previous to making the entry about forty cases were unloaded near the canal presumably for American consumption. The forty cases, it is said, were loaded on a motor boat carrying the American flag and bound for some American island. The boat got a good start before it was known and efforts were made to apprehend it, but she got away.

WILL TAKE STEPS TO ENFORCE O.T.A.

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT WILL REORGANIZE PROVINCIAL POLICE FORCE.

SANDBANKS, Prince Edward Co., August 17.—Addressing a largely attended U.F.O. picnic here, Premier Drury made an important announcement regarding the future enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act. He declared: "In order to meet the situation, which is thrown upon us so suddenly we are undertaking the reorganisation and renovation, of the Provincial police force, and, further, we are putting an end to the dual control of the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act. Out of these two things we expect, in spite of the difficult position, to reasonably enforce the law until the plebisicte is taken."

The Premier traced the course of the temperance question, how the people in Ontario voted when inter-Provincial trade was barred and the conditions whic have arisen since the Federal Government lifted at the beginning of this year the order-in-Council which had prevented importation into dry Provinces.

"As long as any citizen may order liquor you have innumerable centres for bootlegging," remarked the Premier.

"Under the present conditions it is almost impossible to have an enforceable law. We do not take hold of it and limit the amount that may be imported because we are by no means sure of our ground. We are by no means sure that it would not be regarded as interference with the rights of inter-Provincial trade and we consider it might be the subject of prolonged litigation. At the time of the last session of the Ontario Legislature we had every reason to believe that the Dominion Government would give the vote on the question in October, and that being the case, it was sound public policy to do the best we could with the conditions we found."

Alluding to the change of date announced by Premier Meighen, Hon. Mr. Drury pointed out how unjustifiable the postponement was till next April. The temperance forces, he said, were ready for the question and the existing voters' list was likely to give as fair an expression as a new voters' list.

Two classes would benefit by the deferred vote. The wholesale people and those who would gain by the breaking of the law.

Premier Drury also suggested whether a desire for political advantage might not be behind the move of the Ottawa Government by doing two things: First, perpetuating the condition that the manufacturers and the wholesalers desire, and out of which they will undoubtedly reap a great deal of profit during the next six months; second, by placing the Ontario Government in a position where it would be very difficult to enforce the law with the hope that non-enforcement would lead to our discredit and the party which is fighting the Farmers' movement would reap political advantage."

Speaker Nelson Parliament, member for for the riding, presided. There were about 8,000 people present.

Olive oil, or a substitute, applied with a flannel, will preserve black leather soles.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 17TH, 1920.

A POSSBILE DEBATE.

Mr. Burnham's challenge to Premier Meighen to stage a debate in Peterborough on the propriety of holding a general election, having resulted in nothing more than an exchange of letters and a little publicity for the ex-member for West Peterborough, the latter mght now turn his attention to arranging a joint meeting with Sergt. Harry Flynn to discuss the question of gratuities for Canada's soldiers and the equally interesting topic of increased sessional indemnities. These matters should furnish material for an evening of interest and profit and as an added attraction Mr. Burnham might invite Mr. Tooms, M.L.A. and Mr. R. Scott to debate the question whether the U.F.O.-Labour candidate in the local by-election should be a Labour man or a farmer. The Burnham-Flynn debate and a verbal contest between Messrs. Tooms and Scott would be as strong a drawing card as the visit of the Premier and the Examiner throws out the suggestion for what it is worth.

BRITAIN LEADS.

The hopes that were entertained in the United States during the last months of the war that the feverish activity in American ship yards and the extraordinary increase in ship construction would give Uncle Sam the supremacy in ship building have been proven to be false. Great Britain has lost little time in resuming her place at the head of the nations in the tonnage of new vessels under construction. Since the war, according to a report received by the Canadian government from the Chief Canadian Trade Commissioner in the United Kingdom, Britain has almost reversed her position of a year ago in comparison to the United States. Twelve months ago the tonnage in America exceeded that under construction in the United Kingdom by 1,380,000 tons, while at the present time the surplus in favour of the United Kingdom is approximately 1,470,000. There has been an uninterrupted increase of tonnage of merchant vessels under construction, with the result that the United States is being left far behind. The figures are a splendid demonsration of the rapidity of Britain's recovery from the effects of the war.

CANADA'S FIRE LOSSES.

Commenting upon the immensity of Canad's fire losses and the necessity for greater attention to fire prevention seems to be merely a waste of time, for in spite of the campaigns to awaken the public to a sense of responsibility in this most important matter that have been conducted during the last three or four years, it is disheartening to find that the damage by fire during the present year in the Dominion threatens to be the largest on record with the exception of 1918 when a series of fires in munition plants ran the total up to an abnormal figure. In the first five months of the present year, according to figures made public by the Commission of Conservation, the loss from fire has totalled over $11,000,000 and a continuance of htis average for the balance of the year would result in the appalling figure of $28,000,000. And it is agreed by fire fighters and insurance experts that the great majority of the fires in Canada are the result of sheer carelessness and neglect. Thoughtless campers leave a blazing fire behind them and the result is a forest fire that destroys vast tracts of valuable timber. A careless smoker drops a lighted match or a cigarette stub and a factory or business block is wiped out in the resulting blaze. Children are allowed to play with matches and a home is destroyed. So the sorry story runs, and every years many millions of dollars damage is done. It seems almost impossible to awaken the people to realize that fire prevention is much more important than fire protection. They unhesitatingly pay for the latter but seem blind to the necessity for adopting ordinary precautions to prevent fires.

Evaporated apples need lemon or spice to make acceptable sauce.

THE GERM OF PRIFITEERING.

Much has been written of the responsibility of the producers for the high cost of living—the charge of profiteering has been laid at the door of every retailer and wholesaler points out the Kingston Whig. This attitude betrays a common characteristic of human nature to pass the blame for any irregularities in the smooth-flowing ways of life to the other fellow, and this "blame it on George" way of thinking has bereft most persons of the ability to judge of their own short-comings.

The responsibility for the high cost of living lies as much with the consumer as with the producer. The man who purchases strawberries in midwinter at an exhorbitant price is as much a sinner as the retailer who imports them and consequently has to ask a high price for them. If the whims of the public have to be satisfied the public must pay the piper.

Moreover, a public which refuses to higgle must expect to be defrauded. In times of rapidly rising prices, such as we have witnessed for the past six years, standards of judgment are rapidly lost and the average man cannot tell offhand whether a suit of clothes is worth forty dollars or eighteen. Much must be left to the honesty and integrity of the merchant with whom he is dealing.

Yet if one were to stand 'nar a stall in the market square in Kingston and make note of the sales it is probable that not ten per cent. of the buyers endeavour to secure the produce cheaper than what is asked. The art of "beating down" and of higgling, which was formerly depended upon to settle a fair price, has been lost. People have the money and they are willing to pay the price. Therefore, the highest price possible is exacted.

Contrary to the general notion that profiteering is a unique sin to be found in the sellers and that the buyers are lily-white morally it must be remembered that the consumers are even more culpable than the profiteers. Such profiteering as does exist would soon be eradicated if consumers would organize wholeheartedly and sincerely and endeavor to purchase with some sanity and commonsense. The germ of profiteering is found in the apathy of the buyer, for it gives the extortionist a chance to develop his wily art.

THE FARMER-LABOR ALLIANCE.

A combination of farmer and labor members has enabled Mr. Drury to carry on the government of the Province of Ontario. Only by such a combination could he command the necessary support in the Legislature. The alliance can hardly be regarded as a natural one. The aims of the farmer party are certainly not those of organized labor. One of the chief purposes of the labor leaders is to restrict the hours of work to less than the ordinary time. The farmer, on the other hand, finds all the available hours too short a time to accomplish what he desires to do. If class interests have to be considered, the interests of the farmer and the interests of the city worker are likely to be found in conflict. Nevertheless, it must be admitted that the farmer-labor alliance at Toronto held together pretty well during the recent session of the Legislature, and that for amateurs the Drury government made a good sessional record. There are signs, however, that the alliance cannot be regarded as a permanent one. The proposals of the Hydro-Electric Commission for the operation and extension of railways are putting a severe strain on the alliance. As the Province is called on to endorse the bonds issued by the municipalities for the proposed railways, Mr. Drury thinks that before going further in that further direction he should have an enquiry into the whole subject by a Commission appointed for the purpose. Warm advocates of the Hydro-Electric scheme can see nothing to enquire into. They want to go ahead on the lines of that scheme. They regard suggestions for enquiry as obstructions in the way of what they claim is a popular movement. The tendency of organized labor is to favor the Hydro-Electric project and to resent the hesitation of the Drury Government. Mr. Drury's labor colleagues are finding their position somewhat embarrassing. A further indication of trouble between the farmer interest and the labor interest is found in an article in the Toronto Farmers' Sun, the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario, which characterizes the demand of the railway workers for increased wages as "simply outrageous." "A farmer," says the writer, "on 100 acres of good average land does well if his income, representing the wages of himself and family, and allowing nothing for interest on a $12,000 investment, equals that demanded by a railway switchman. That farmer would be considered in the plutocratic class whose yearly income, on the same basis, equalled that of a freight conductor."—Journal of Commerce.

THE GARDEN OF TWO BROWN HANDS.

O, humble house and garden small,
And crooked shrub and tree,
And rought stone wall; I love you all,
For you belong to me.

In misty Aprils that have flown,
I set each bush and tree;
That wall of stone, I built, I own,
And so 'tis fair to me.

My garden, where the petals fall,
On paths among the flowers;
Over the wall the roses crawl;
A dial marks the hours.

I planned this garden in the past,
My soul with it has grown;
So here at last my lot is cast,
With all I call my own.

What ownership could be more fine
Than grass and flower and bee;
This is the sign the garden's mine:
It claims the soul of me!
—Rita Edson in New York Mail.

HAS SPEAKING CLOCK.

A clock that speaks instead of striking is the invention of Vincent Pinto, of Philadelphia. He has it running in his home. Pinto studied clockmaking in Italy, and with his 20-year-old son Joseph, completed the clock after eighteen months' hard work. At present the clock says at 11 o'clock at night: "Eleven o'clock, tome to go home." This was because Rosa, the 18-year-old daughter, entertains her many friends. The clock is about the size of a grandfather clock. The words and case were all made by hand. According to Mr. Pinto, however, the mechanism may be condensed to fit any size of an alarm clock. The clock is a 30-day movement. It can be made to call the hours, half or quarter hours, or all of them, with its phonograph mechanism, and has chimes in addition.

True Love.

"She says she would let her husband go hungry before she would cook a meal for him."

"That is what I call true love."

Discouraging.

Mistress—Sarah, I saw the baker man kiss you today. I really shall have to take the bread in myself in future. Sarah—"Twouldn't be no use, ma'am. He wouldn't kiss you, 'cause he promised he'd never kiss anybody but me!

The Division.

He—So young March and his father are carrying on the business? She—Yes. The old man runs the business, while young March does the carrying on.

Consolatory.

"They say men of brains live longer than others."

It is the people who know how to rest who do continuous good work.—Harraden.

A HISTORIC CHURCH.

Linked For a Century With Official Life In Washington.

In historic St. John's Protestant Episcopal church, just across Lafayette square from the White House, more presidents and men prominent in Washington official life have worshiped than in any other church in the national capital. St. John's, now a century old, was the first building to be erected on Lafayette square after the White House, which was completed in 1800. The presidents of the United States who worshiped here were John Quincy Adams, Madison, Monroe, Van Buren, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, Fillmore and Arthur and in more recent times the White House was represented by Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Taft, who made St. John's church their church home.

Other prominent people were regularly seen in the congregation, including Stephen Decatur, Henry Clay, John C. Calhoun, Chief Justice Fuller, Salmon P. Chase, Benjamin F. Butler, Lewis Cass, George Bancroft, Winfield Scott and George Dewey. Its rectors officiated at nearly all of the early White House weddings, many notable ones having taken place within its sacred walls.

The denominations have been pretty well represented in the presidency. Grant attended the Metropolitan Methodist church, McKinley the Foundry Methodist church; Benjamin Harrison and Cleveland attended the Presbyterian church; Wilson is a Presbyterian and, like Cleveland, the son of a Presbyterian minister; Garfield was a member of the Disciples church, and Roosevelt attended the Dutch Reformed church

Fashion's Changes.

One can say as a certainty that in the twentieth century no one will be able to boast that he has created anything absolutely new in fashions. The crinolines of the Empress Eugenie were a reminiscence of the panniers of Marie Antoinette, and long before her time, in the orient, women had conceived the idea of enlarging their skirts by means of hoops. A few years ago women of fashion affected high waists and sheath dresses, but before them Mme. Recamier had done the same thing, and the dresses of Mme. Recamier were suggested by the Greeks and the Romans. In short, like everything else, fashion is a part of the same everlasting come and go. We do not advance as we are so prone to imagine; we repeat our steps.—Roger Boutet de Monvel in Century.

How to Walk.

There is no virtue in a dawdling saunter. The slow and languid dragging of one foot after the other which some people call walking would tire an athlete. It utterly exhausts a weak person, and that is the reason why many delicate persons think they cannot walk. To derive any benefit from the exercise it is necessary to walk with a light, elastic step which swings the weight of the body so easily from one leg to the other that its weight is not felt and which produces a healthy glow, showing that the sluggish blood is stirred to action in the most remote veins.

Ruined by Jesting.

The Antiochenes themselves brought about the ruin of the beautiful city of Antioch, the ancient capital of the Greek kings of Syria. These people were famous for their biting and scurrilous wit as well as their ingenuity in devising nicknames. When the Persians under Chosroes invaded Syria in 538 the Antiochenes could not refrain from jesting at them. Ample revenge for this was taken by the Persians, who totally destroyed the city.

Planting Large Trees.

Careful consideration should be given to the planting of large trees and shrubs, as planting of this kind should be permanent. Flower beds may be changed more or less every year, but large shrubs and trees require years to develop fine specimens, so they should not be disturbed or moved after they are once located.

SUMMER.

From what lost centuries that were sweet before,
Comes this long wave of summer,
bursting white
In shivered apple-blossoms on the shore
That is our homeland for a day and night!
A wide, hushed spirit floats above
the foam,
A sweetness that was ancient flower and face,
When wine-red poppies stained the walls ofRome,
And daisies starred those summer
fields of Thrace.
Something survives and haunts the leafy shade,
Some fragrance that was petals
once, and lips,
And whispered, brief avowals that they made—
Borne hither, now, in vague, invisible ships,
Whose weightless cargoes, poured upon the air,
Are flowers forgot, and faces that were fair.

On a Hot Day the CHALMERS Runs Cool with Hot Spot and Ram's-horn

THE reason the Chalmers runs cool on a hot day is the very same reason a Chalmers starts quickly and runs smoothly on a cold day. Service records show no complaints of overheating in summer.

Such trouble in other cars comes from unevenness of the charges, "improperly digested fuel," and other matters often attributed to the raw, heavy, inferior gasoline you buy to-day.

Thus follow power results that are smooth and even; and notably absent are those troubles that cause overheating, or burned bearings, or scored cylinders, or frequently fouled spark plugs and the like.

So Ask the Man Who Hasn't One--WHY?

BARNEY GOOGLE Barney Might Just As Well Have Been Kidding the Cop - - - - - By Billy De Beck

"It is true," he said resolutely, "To pretend would only make matters worse. Don't deceive yourself either, Amy—you do not love me; you have not loved me; you could not have loved me!" he added, with more force; "or it would never have come to this. Be as honest to me as I am to you. That is all I ask.'

She bowed her head suddenly and went out. He had beaten her at every point.

When she had left, he shut the door carefully. Then he came back to the desk and buried his head in his hands, torn by the thought of the suffering which he had been forced to inflict ou the women he had loved, who, in her moment of defeat, had looked at him with the wounded eyes of a child.

V

The next morning Andrew Forrester was up with the sun and out for a morning gallop. The first thought in his mind was how to arrange to see Irma Dellabarre. For see her he felt he must after the decisive events of the night. Until the explantion with hise wife, he had not been quite sure of his own sentiments, but the declarations he had made gave a note of finality, an answer to the perplexities which had existed in his own mind.

He had burned the bridges behind him and every instinct now impelled him to the other woman with a strength which surprised him. For there had been moments of irritation, of grave doubts in the intimacy which, from an accidental meeting, had grown into a deep confidence.

Amy was not down at the breakfast, pretexting a cold contracted on the ride home. Kitty Lightbody and the boys went off immediately for a tennis tournament which was scheduled at ten o'clock. Every one would be lunching on the Club verandah. He seized the opportunity eagerly, had Gregory telephone the Dellabarres that he was coming and drove off in the limousine. Amy, of course, would learn of his destination, but, though he would have spared her any unnecessary affront, he felt that he must see Irma, and see her at once.

To Irma he had never put into words the emotion which drew him to her. It was not necessary. She could be under no illusion on that score. The sense of chivalry in him would have restrained him if nothing else. Neither by word nor action had he departed from the attitude of deep veneration which she had inspired. Beyond that, he had opened his heart completely and in return he had felt that by a word here and there, a look of sadness, by a chance suggestion, she had shown him the Calvary which she endured at home.

When the car slowed up and ran into the deep pine-covered entrance, with the low vine-covered home ahead, he recalled all at once that first time, in the night and glistening rain, when he had come to its welcoming lights in company with Amy. Despite himself, he could not master a momentary pain, but immediately, frowning, he said to himself:

"No, no, that's past! That can't wound me now!"

He did not get out of the motor but said to the butler who came out smiling.

"Just say Mrs. Forrester's car is waiting for Mrs. Dellabarre, will you?"

"That was rather foolish," he thought the next moment. "It looks rather strange if I don't get out and go in."

He rose, descended, and then changed his mind. Pretending was not in his nature, and being in a false position left him irritated and uncomfortable. To give himself an excuse, he passed to the front of the car and threw up the hood.

"Do you find it carbonizes much, Bingham?" he inquired.

"No, sir. Not so much now, sir."

The door opened, he looked up eagerly. Mr. Dellabarre came out, frail, mechanical, bushy like a marionette on strings.

"How do, Dellabarre?" he said, closing the hood not to have to offer his hand.

"Isn't Mr. Forrester with you?" said Dellabarre slowly.

"That's stupid now. Why should he say that?" he thought. Out loud he said hurriendly, "Amy's dosing up a sore throat and so to save time I ran over to get Irma."

"I understand."

Andrew came around the car. Their glances met. The appearance of Dellabarre was a shock to him. There was an unmistakable pasty look about him and the hand on the button of the jacket shook.

"There's death in that fellow's eyes," he thought, and the next moment recoiled before the sinister speculations that started up.

"Hello, Andrew! well, this is a surprise," she said, lightly offering her hand; "mind my taking the darling? Why, where's Amy?"

Mon Amour set up a yapping as he took her hand. Somehow her words grated on his ear. He repeated again the excuse he had given the husband. The situation was horribly false. He felt guilty and humiliated.

"Coming over later, Rudy?" said Irma, stepping into the motor and installing Mon Amour.

"Later, yes."

"Do. It's going to be quite exciting—and luncheon will be lots of fun. Every one will be there."

Mr .Dellabarre was still standing at attention as the car swung into the drive. They were silent, each under the echo of the parting.

"He is in a terrible state," she murmured, looking away. They passed the gate-keeper and swung out on to the main road. She leaned back and drew a long breath of relief, passing her hand over her eyes.

"Good God, what an existence!" he thought.

The embarrassment of their mutual deception before the husband was still upon him. Before his eyes rose again the racked figure of Rudolph Dellabarre. How long would he drag out this shattered existence, he thought moodily.

"It may come all in a moment," he said to himself, 'and then it may drag on for years. You never can tell. It's awful to have such thoughts—awful and yet—" He glanced at her, wondering if that sinister possibility were back of the melancholy in her eyes.

'You have had a talk with Amy?" she said, without turning towards him.

"Yes, last night."

"I supposed so."

"It was painful, very," he said, frowning.

"I'm sorry, Andrew." She laid her hand on his arm. "You have so much to bear. I'm sorry if I have made it any worse." She hesitated a moment. "Do you think it was wise to come for me like this?"

"I had to see you.' '

"Yes; but at the club you could have managed that. Will she be there?"

'I don't know. She wasn't down for breakfast," he said gloomily. "Well—I've told her all."

She looked so alarmed at this that he hastened to add, "I said nothing about you."

"Are you sure?"

"I refused to discuss you." Then he corrected himself. "Your name, of course, was mentioned, but I said nothing about my feelings toward you. I did say that if we were both free, I should consider it an honor to have you for my wife. I said it to show the respect I felt toward you," he added.

"Yes, I see," she frowned and burried her lips in the little nosegay of sweet peas which she had in her hand. "I think you had better tell me all. Of cours e she did not believe that I met you by accident."

"No, of course not."

"Did you—did you admit that?"

"I refused to discuss you in any way."

She nooded in approval.

"What a pity!" she said, turning to him with saddness in her eyes. "Why couldn't they leave us alone? Why spoil something that was so genuine so real? But that's the trouble, Andrew. Now it will be so different."

He drew a long breath, and the fighting look, which was characteristic of him when he was crossed, set over his lips and his forehead.

"No, it won't," he said doggedly. "We have done nothing wrong. It is our own affair."

"How little you know," she said with a sigh.

"I think the situation is clearer than you think," he said slowly. "Shall I tell Bingham to take the long way round?"

"No, no, I wouldn't do that," she said hastily. "It is rather conspicuous as it is, our coming up like this."

"I'm sorry," he said gloomily.

"I don't blame you, Andrew," she said gently. "Now tell me quickly."

When he had finished the details of his interview with Amy, there were tears in her eyes, and she looked away that he might not perceive them.

"Yes, it was hard," he consented. "I didn't get much sleep last night. It's always hard when you come to a parting of the ways. And yet, now, frankly, it is a relief. It was all false, our pretending toward each other. For, Irma, don't make any mistake. Amy doesn't love me—she hasn't for a long while."

COBWEBS ON THE GRASS.

Like fabric woven from a mist
Of foam and moonbeams made,
O' mornings, on the grass, dew-kissed,
Sheer cobweb suares are laid—
And seeing them, some people say:
"That shows hot weather's due today!"

But we in fairies who believe,
Knowing their habits well,
Meanwhile laugh slyly up our sleeve,
Far different tales to tell.
These fine-spun webs of filmy white

Are really bits of gauze, perchance,
Fragments of shadow lace,
Torn in the mad and merry dance,
As round and round the place
In tiny shoon of silver sheen
They tripped a measure with their Queen!

Then at the breaking of the dawn—
They vanished like the wind,
And left on everybody's lawn
These tell-tale scraps behind,
Cobwebs upon the grass, dew wet,
Tell me last night the fairies met!

FUEL AND COAL RATES.

New processes of utilising low grade bituminous and lignite coal for fuel purposes promise to make available for consumption from Montreal to the Pacific Coast the deposits of Alberta. This is an Alberta view and there are similar deposits in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and undoubtedly in Northern Ontario, or, shall we say, in New Ontario. The process is one of treating the low grade coal for its by-products, condensing the carbon which thus becomes of smaller bulk and cheaper to ship, and of high fuel value. There is nothing else in Canada quite so important to the Lady of the Snows as a solution of the fuel problem. With that solved, we could feel independent of the rest of creation. Whether this would be good for us remains to be seen, but undoubtedly it is something to be desired. Even as it is, we could get much fuel from the west in Ontario but for the theory prevailing in the operation of railways that is not adopted in any other business—the theory of charging as much as the traffic will stand, that is to say putting on the highest possible rate that will allow any traffic to pass. In general business the theory is to make prices attractive and so encourage business, trusting to the increased turnover for the larger profits. It works out in the post office, in the street cars, in the Hydro-Electric power distribution, in the departmental stores, but the railway theorists will have none of it. They believe in choking off traffic by imposing rates which are only paid under the pressure of necessity.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

INCREASES IN TELEPHONE RATE FOR PETERBORO

APPLICATION IS BEING MADE TO-DAY—THE NEEDS.

The Bell Telephone Company is applying to the Railway Board to-day for new rates to bring an increased revenue of $4,571,815.

This would mean an increase in Peterborough rates, figured on a monthly basis instead of quarterly, as follows:

	Individual Line.	Two-party Line.	Rural Line.
Business	$4.00	$3.25	$2.25
Residence .	$2.75	$2.25	$2.25

The Need.

The company in its application frankly states its need for capital to meet its business expansion and increased costs and wages. It points out the company's importance as a public servant and its reputation for fair dealing and honest financing built up during the past forty years. It states that there is not a drop of "water" in its stock and that the shareholders have actually paid in $106.0 for every $100.00 for which they received a dividend.

The company for many years has paid 8 per cent., but never more, and by reason of this reputation and regular payment of dividend its stock has been considered a safe investment, and the company has obtained the necessary capital for the rapid growth of its business, it argues.

If the company is to meet the ever-increasing demand it must continue to hold a favourable position with safe, and cautious investors, the argument continues. Any failure to obtain ample capital will reach disastrously on existing subscribers, who are more interested in good service than in a few dollars' additional cost, the company believes. ....

Increased Costs.

Owing to the advance in wages and in the cost of material, the company cannot operate at the present rates and continue to pay a proper dividend which will enable it to market its securities and make proper provision for replacement and depreciation, continues the memorandum, and concludes that the interests of both the public which the company serves and the shareholders will therefore be injuriously affected unless a reasonable increase is made.

That telephone rates have increased only about 10 per cent. while other commodities have increased enormously, and that the value received has increased as the subscribers multiplied, is the company's declaration.

The main features of the application for increased rates in Ontario and Quebec show that $4,500,000 increased revenue is to be provided from these two provinces.

Business telephones will be increased to $60.00 annually for 1,200 messages, and four cents extra for every additional message.

Residential telephones, $48.00 (individual lines), instead of $24.00.

Two-party lines to be $36.00, instead of $26.40.

LETTER SUPPORTS CITY SOLICITOR

IN QUESTION OF TIME FOR VOTING ON SUNDAY STREET CARS.

Confirmation of City Solicitor Widdifield's opinion on the amendment dealing with the operation of street cars on Sunday is produced in a letter from the Attorney-General's department as follows:—

"Dear Sir:—I have looked through the correspondence on file as to the submission of the question of operating street railways on Sunday and do not find that any opinion has been given in the matter contrary to that expressed by you on July 30th, viz., that the section in the Railway Act as amended provides for the submission of the question only at the annual municipal elections.

Yours truly,
W. P. WILKINSON,
(Acting Deputy Attorney-General)."

Mr. Widdifield had maintained in his advice to the City Council that the amendment did not permit the taking of the vote at any time. He contended that this clause was unchanged. Mr. Tooms had informed Ald. Gainey that advice he received while in Toronto was to the effect that the law enabled the city to take the vote on Sunday street cars at any time now.

FINDS LOST BULL STARVING 6 IN AN OLD MINE SHAFT

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 16.—Three or four weeks ago a bull belonging to Mr. J. J. Connor, of Marmora, disappeared. TWELVE-YEAR-OLD BOY KILLED AT AGINCOURT.

AGINCOURT, August 16.—Bruce Brown, 12 years of age, son of Wm. Brown, a farmer of Brown's Corners, was instantly killed yesterday morning when he fell through a trap in the threshing floor of his father's barn, and fractured his skull.

The boy had gone out to hitch a horse to a carriage to take the family to church. He was moving a waggon to make room to get the carriage out of the barn, and in walking backward failed to notice that the door of the feed trap was open.

Any way is good that brings the desired results and bad that is ineffective.

STONEY LAKE NEWS

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 17.—Regatta week is the very height of Stoney Lake's social activities and the week has been a busy one for the "fashionables" at the lake. Afternoon teas and card parties have been the order of the day.

The dances of Juniper on Wednesday and Saturday have been especially popular and the young people have been having the time of their lives literally. The popular picnic spots have always more than one party enjoying them on these hot August days. Eel's Creek is a popular resort for a canoe trip and the trip to the high falls well repays a visit, though at this season of the year the falls are not as beautiful as later in the season. June is the best month to see the falls when the water is high.

Good Fishing.

The fishing has been very good all week and the 'lunge fishermen have had a great time as they have been biting well. Whatever the real reason is there is a time each season when the 'lunge don't bite. Some wiseacres say they are losing their teeth, others smile at this and refer to the week growth which is the real reason. tOhers put forward the theory of the fish going into deeper water in the hot weather. Whatever the reason the 'lunge fishing never was better on Stoney Lake than at present.

Summer-Spoiled Skin Removed by Absorption

As undue summer exposure usually leaves an undesirable surface of tan, redness or roughness, often freckles, too, the sensible thing to do is to remove such surface. There's nothing better for this than ordinary mercolized wax, which actually absorbs an unwholesome complexion. The thin layer of surface skin is itself absorbed, gently gradually, so there's no inconvenience, no detention indoors. Spread the wax lightly over the entire face at bedtime and take it off in the morning with warm water. If you will ge one ounce of mercolized wax at the drug store, use it for a week or so, you may expect marked improvement daily. When the underlying skin is wholly in view your complexion will be a marvel of spotless purity and beautiful whiteness.

Don't let those summer wrinkles worry you; worry breeds more wrinkles. Banish them by bathing the face in a solution of powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. Used daily for a while this will be found wonderfully effective.

STRIPPED COBOURG CAR.

Mr. A. J. Plunkett, of Cobourg, was in Toronto last week and parked his car near the dock, where he left it for some little time. When he returned the car was missing. It was later located by the police some distance away in the city with four gallons of gasoline gone, and the two extra tires, speedometer and clock missing. This method of stealing tires seems to be getting quite prevalent.

The First Disturbance.

When the magistrate at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon announced his decision committing the accused for trial he promptly ordered the courtroom closed. The voice of the magistrate was the signal for a rush by a large number of the 500 people who crowded the hall, some hurling chairs and others upsetting tables; still others reaching for the prisoner with their firsts and several landing blows.

The police were successful in clearing the room, but the mob outside, which had by this time grown to nearly 1,000 persons, surrounded the building, and it was felt that an attempt to remove the prisoner would have serious results.

Appeals For Armed Men.

An appeal was made to Colonel McCordick, of St. Catharines, for 50 armed men to escort the prisoner to the jail. The reply was that there were no men, and that Thorold was outside his jurisdiction. Chief Greene, of St. Catharines police force, was appealed to but could not spare one man. Captain Vandersluys, of Niaga Falls, was asked for a military guard, but none was available.

Mayor Foley and Crown Attorney Cowper, the latter visibly bearing the marks of the onslaught of the crowd in the courtroom, decided that nothing could be done but wait for the crowd to melt away, or for the arrival of sufficient mounted police.

When Magistrate Munro had formally committed McNeal for trial and had gone downstairs, Chief Mains, of the Frontier Force, and other officers, asked the spectators to leave the court room.

"Why," yelled a woman in the crowd.

"Because it's all over," said Chief Mains. "Please now, boys, go away quietly."

Prisoner Attacked.

Suddenly a dark object went flying through the air like a shot and it proved to be Reuben Boucoop, father of the murdered girl, who had unexpectedly taken a leap out of the front crowd at the throat of McNeal as he stood handcuffed to Constable Harry Dunn. Evidently this had been the signal, for men and women crowded in, wielding chairs and yelling, "Kill him."

The police, lawyers and court officials tried to protect the prisoner as the infuriated men rained blow after blow at him with chairs. How he escaped death is a conundrum. It would not have surprised your correspondent had he seen McNeal lying dead on the floor, but after things cleared McNeal was still standing beside the officer, his hair ruffled and his clothes in disorder, and his face and head showing marks of blows.

Crown Attorney T. D. Cowper had been sitting at the magistrate's table, writing at the time, and he jumped up to help the officers protect McNeal. Several times the chairs missed McNeal and hit Mr. Cowper, who jumped upon a chair and addressed the menacing crowd. "You good people of Thorold will surely stand by and protect the good name of your town and of Canada," cried Mr. Cowper above the pandemonium. "I warn you not to do anything to this man. You will regret it if you do. I warn you of this. This man is not proven guilty." The crowd met the warning with derisive cries and hoots.

Wild Scene of Disorder.

Women and foreigners took a leading part in the riot in the court room. One middle-aged woman, well-dressed, had to be held back. She wanted to get at McNeal. During the riot the magistrate's table was overturned and ink bottles flew in all directions. George F. Peterson, McNeal's counsel, barely missed a crack over the head with a chair, He, too, had been writing at the table.

W. A. E. Moyer, a St. Catharines newspaperman, thinks he saved McNeal's life by grabbing a chair out of the hands of a burly fellow who was just about to smash it over McNeal's head, he having a clear opening.

Evidently the idea had been to throw McNeal out over the verandah to the crowd below. Had they got him his life would not have been worth a moment's purchase.

After the first outbursts the crowd were more amendable to reason and before long the court room was cleared, the men and women yelling, "Bring him out and we will attend to him," as they went down the stairs.

Held Crowd at Bay.

After the court room had been cleared, Chief Mains and Constable McNamara, for the Ontario Police, Niagara Falls, held the angry crowd at bay with drawn revolvers at the stairway, while newspaper men and court attaches rubbed sore spots that had been received in the onslaught.

While stones were rattling on the Town Hall floor through open windows, and the police were busy keeping the crowd out of the door, the press had it's first opportunity for a statement from the prisoner. To the accompaniment of the yells from outside of, "throw him down," and an occasional rumble of a stone or tin can on the floor, McNeal quite calm and collected made his first statement. "Say that I am innocent," he declared, "I never did that awful thing, I'm as innocent as you are. I always liked little Margaret and left her at St. John's church corner that afternoon."

Maintains He is Innocent.

"Is there any truth in the statement that you and Boucock had a row previously?"

"Well I had a little trouble with Reub. I'll not deny that, but it was only a neghborly kind of a spat."

When the suggested motive of revenge was mentioned as being out of the question as far as McNeal was concerned, he was most emphatic in his manner, his remark being, "Good God, man, could any one let revenge get so far as to kill a baby?"

George F. Peterson, prisoner's counsel, also bore marks of the fray, McNeal had three very noticeable bruises on his head and face.

Just before sundown, the crowd having not materially decreased, Mayor Foley, mounted the door step and made a public appeal to the crowd to disperse and permit British justice to prevail. He was repeatedly interrupted, one remark being, "British justice costs money; give him to us; we can save a lot of expense."

Deputation From Mob.

Early in the evening, before the rit reached its climax, a deputation from the mob came to the besieged party in the Town Hall with the message that if McNeal would show himself on the verandah the crowd would disperse. Chief Mains considered this unwise, as there might be firearms in the crowd.

Then Reuben Boucock and his father and another man came up the stairs and asked to see McNeal. "If he will confess, we'll go away," said Reuben Boucock.

"But will the crowd disperse," Chief Mains asked.

"I have nothing to do with the crowd," said the young man. Chief Mains asked Boucock why he had attacked McNeal when he had promised not to.

"Because he told his counsel I was a coward and I heard him," said Boucock.

Canon Piper, in addressing the crowd, pleaded for them to allow the law to take its course.

COBOURG'S TWO BANDS MAY UNITE AS ONE.

There is a movement afoot in Cobourg for the amalgamation of that town's two bands under one head. The Mayor brought this question up at last Council meeting, when he contended that is it would be but a short time before the present bandmaster, Mr. Chenhall, left town, unless something were done in the way of unity. Cobourg would have two bands with but one bandmaster. He advocated something being done to bring these two bands together. His Worship proposed that a bandmaster be advertised for, to lead a new united band.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 17.—A despatch to the Berlingske Tidende from Christiania says that the Aftenposten has received a telegram from Amundsen, saying that six members of his expedition had gone ashore and now only three are left.

The Morgenbladet presumes that Amundsen, when passing through Behring Sea, will complete his crew with Eskimos, who could render good service on sledge expeditions.

Into our office he rushed, looking affrighted,
And bo't a typewriter that made him delighted.

Aunt Ruth's Beauty Notes

The Skin Under the Eyes

Much attention should be paid to the skin around the eyes, for the unsightly bagginess under them, to say nothing of the much dreaded crow's feet, soon detract from their beauty. It is more often ill-health, or a very sensitive skin that that has been neglected that is responsible for these afflictions, rather than the arch enemy, Time.

To guard against the wrinkling of the skin about the eyes, it is a good plan to apply at night plenty of cold cream, that which is known as a skin food, being best, as the aim is to fill out and nourish the wasted tissues. In the morning the same surface should be patted with a good astringent.

A very pleasant musical evening was spent and towards its close Mr. Tom Tanner read a congratulatory address and on behalf of the congregations presented Mr. and Mrs .Spence with a substantial sum of money.

Mr. Spence, completely taken by surprise, declared his inability to adequately express his deep appreciation of this token of their love and good will towards himself and his wife, and expresed the hope that he might be spared for many years to minister in this parish.

The happy event closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

THE MONTCALM IS ADDED TO FLEET

NEW VESSEL WILL HAVE SPEED OF 17 KNOTS.

The latest addition to the fleet of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, Ltd., is the S. S. "Montcalm," which was launched at Clydebank, Scotland, by John Brown & Co., Ltd., early in July. It, is similar in general design to the present popular "M-boats" of the C.P.O.S., the S. S. Melita, Minnedosa and Matagama, embodying the most up-to-date ideas in shipbuilding.

The Montcalm is a twin-screw, geared turbine, two-compartment oil burning passenger steamship, 566 feet in length and 70 feet in breadth, of 15,500 tons. There will be accommodation for over 500 cabin and over 1,500 third-class passengers.

It is expected that the first trans-Atlantic trip will be made next February. The Montcalm is built to the requirements of the highest class of Lloyd's Registry under special survey to class as 100-A1. It will have a speed of 17 knots.

Sir Charles Ellis, managing director of the John Brown Company, presided at the subsequent lunch, and proposed success to the vessel. He stated that the Montcalm and her sister ships, which they hoped would be in the water early next year, were the first vessels they had built for the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, Ltd., and they all felt the honor. Anything that could promote trade and intercourse between the Dominions and the Mother Country must receive everyone's whole-hearted support.

Sir Thomas Fisher replied and proposed the toast to "the builders." He said that the Montcalm was designed for the ordinary traveller, and not to carry "the millionaire class." Looking to the future they had felt that it was very desirable to improve the standard of the third-class accommodation, and they hoped they had reached the stage when a man and his wife, to whatever class of the community they belonged, could travel in comfort to and from Canada without paying extravagant prices. Continuing ,he said, he felt the time had come when a limit must be set to the rising cost of ships, if more ships were to be built. Their company set out to build four ships in 1916, and the prices on which the directors calculated had been—he would not like to say doubled—but it was certainly much more than they had contemplated. There had been a constant rise in wages of all classes of men, which had been very upsetting to the calculations of those responsible for the finance of big shipping companies. Unless some finality could be reached there would not be so many orders coming along in the future as in the last few years.

SUN IS NOT PUNCTUAL.

No One Can Regulate Watch By Old Sol.

Sun time is quite good enough for us, and many persons in demanding the repeal of daylight saving. If would be very interesting to make these persons regulate their lives by sun time. In the first place, they could not get a clock or watch to keep it or a watchmaker skilful enough to regulate a timepiece to keep time with the sun.

On only four days in the year would the most accurate clock be right. At noon on November 1, for instance, the clock would be 16 1-4 minutes slow, and on February 10 it would be 14 1-2 minutes fast.

The reason for this is that the earth turns on its axis; it revolves around the sun, and its axis, which is inclined at an angle of about 22 1-2 degrees to the plane of its orbit and maintains that same inclination, always pointing to the same spot in the heavens, therfore oscillates slowly in relation to the sun in its yearly journey around the latter. The earth rotates on its axis 366 times a year, but in its forward movement in its orbit we see the sun about 365 times in the year. The French kept sun time until 1816, and W. M. Butterfield relates in the Scientific American what trouble they had in trying to keep their clocks right. These sometimes differed as much as thirty minutes in striking the same hour.

In order to obviate all these difficulties with sun time astronomers long ago agreed to use an imaginary sun, a mean sun, moving through the heavens with a uniform speed. It is by the mean sun that our clocks tell us it is noon, and only four times in the year is the sun actually overhead at that precise moment.

Besides this, nowhere in the civilized world does anyone attempt to keep even mean sun time, for if they did clocks in Toronto would differ from clocks in Hamilton, and so on across the continent. In order to bring some sort of regularity into our time the world has been divided into zones, in each of which all the clocks are set to the mean time of the central line of that zone. So that a man who lives near the edge of any zone is using a suntime that is half an hour fast or slow, as the case may be. And he will find that his neighbor across the river—if a river be the dividing line between zones—is living under a sun time that differs from his by a whole hour.

So it is nonsense to talk about sun time being good enough. For nobody keeps it; nor would any sane person suggest trying to keep it.

MANY BIG SHOWS TO VISIT GRAND

Mr. W. L. Phillips, local manager of the Grand Opera House for Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, has determined to test the playgoers of Peterborough by giving them a series of Metropolitan attractions. Some of the biggest of the English and American stage successes having been booked for the Grand this season. The English attractions include the phenomenally successful comic opera, "The Maid of the Mountains," English opera companies in "San Toy" and "The Geisha," the famous actor, Mr. Martin Harvey, and the equally celebrated comedian, Mr. Hartley Wright; Graham Moffatt's new play, "Don't Tell," just arrived from England, and others of equal quality.

Mr. Phillips has decided that Peterborough is ripe for the big shows, and has made his bookings accordingly. Much, of course, depends upon the patronage. If productions like "Hello Alexander!" which comes to the Grand on Thursday night, are not patronised, it is likely that other big attractions will be cancelled. In other words, if the playgoers want the best shows, they must show it by attending the Grand.

Aug. 19—"Hello Alexander!"
Aug. 21—"Vanity Fair."
Aug. 26—"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."
Aug. 28—Edna Goodrich in "Sleeping Partners."
Aug. 30, 31—"The Maple Leaf."
Sept. 1, 2—Blackstone, the Magician.
Sept. 4—Graham Moffatt's "Don't Tell."
Sept. 9—"Soldier Girl."
Sept. 10, 11—Stuart Whyte's new Pantomime, "Babes in the Wood."
Sept. 17, 18—Gus Hill's Minstrels.
Sept. 20, 21, 22—Arlie Marks.
Sept. 23—"The Katzenjammer Kids."
Oct. 1—"The Firing Line."
Oct 2—"Experience."
Oct. 9—"San Toy."
Oct. 15—"Light of the World."
Oct. 22, 23—The Dumbells.
Oct. 28—"The Maid of the Mountains."
Oct. 30—"The Wanderer."
Nov. 4—"Twin Beds."
Nov. 6—"Bringing Up Father."
Nov. 20—"The Masquerader."
Nov. 26, 27—The Dumbells
Nov. 29—"Mutt and Jeff."
Dec. 11—Huntley Wright.
Dec. 23—"Mamma's Affair."
Dec. 31, Jan. 1—"The Maple Leafs."
Jan. 10—Stuart Whyte's Pantomime
Jan. 15—Devereaux, the Magician.
Jan. 23—"The Captain and the Kids."
Jan. 27—"The Geisha."
Jan. 31—"Wedding Bells."
March 26—"Buddies."
March 30—Fiske O'Hara.
April 14—"Good Morning, Judge."
April 18—Martin Harvey.
April 27—"The Passing Show."
May 2—"The Tiger Rose."

In addition, many other shows will be booked, while the Grand with its shadow box screen and the best of moving pictures when road shows are not on the boards, will not have a dull moment until the end of the season.

FAIRY GODMOTHER.

Omemee is bragging about its new fire truck. But it must be about the first addition to the town's assets in years which has not come from its thoughtful benefactress, Lady Eaton. If Orillia had such a fairy godmother many much needed finishing touches around town might arrive. Won't somebody adopt us?—Orillia Packet.

ROADS GOING TO PIECES.

Motorists complain that they never saw the Lindsay-Omemee road in such a wretched condition and so badly cut up as just now. The eight miles to Reaboro is particularly bad. It is also reported that the expensive piece of road, built under the Good Roads System, is very choppy and fast going to pieces. On the road from Omemee to Millbrook the hills are badly washed out and covered with rolling stones.

SPORTING NEWS, VIEWS AND GOSSIP

CRACK BRIGHTON TEAM HERE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

The fans will be glad to learn that the Peterborough Central League Club have succeeded in securing the crack Brighton team for an exhibition game at Riverside Park on Saturday. The Brighton aggregation is composed principally of American visitors and college players who are summering at Preque ile, near Brighton. They have a great record this season, their victims including a number of Central League clubs, including Oshawa, who were beaten on their own grounds. Last year the Petes lost at Brighton and could not do better than tie the visitors in the return game. As the Brighton outfit is much stronger than last year it looks as if the Solomon crew will have their work cut out for them on Saturday. The return game will be played in Brighton on Wednesday of next week.

Manager Solomon intends to arrange as many games as possible in order to keep the Petes in shape for the O.B.A.A. play-off.

The Universals, runners-up in the Riverdale League, Toronto, will be here on Labor Day, and other games will be arranged. In the meantime the Petes are practising as usual. There was a good work-out last night and there will be practises on Wednesday and Friday evenings, at which full turnouts are requested.

M'GRAW RECEIVED SEVERE BEATING

CASE OF GIANTS' LEADER WILL GO BEFORE GRAND JURY.

NEW YORK, August 17.—District Attorney Swann said here that he would lay before the Grand Jury early this week the facts in connection with the discovery early last week of John C. Slavin, comedian, unconscious on the sidewalk in front of the apartment of John J. McGraw, manager and part owner of the Giants. The District Attorney said:

"First, the courtesy was extended to McGraw to call at my office of his own accord. Then he was requested to come here, and now he has refused admittance to my assistant and to a County physician. Therefore, I have decided not to pay any further attention to him. There is no other alternative but for me to present the matter before the Grand Jury.

"I have given instructions to have the witnesses in the case appear before the Grand Jury early this week. There will be no let-up in the case."

Mr. Swann Gets Facts.

The complete tale of the injuries of McGraw, suffered on Saturday night, when, according to The Lambs' Council, he was the aggressor against William H. Boyd, Broadway leading man, with most disastrous results to himself, was unfolded by the District Attorney's Office yesterday. It was said that McGraw was laid up with several lacerations of the scalp, with bruises of the face in general and two black eyes in particular, and other injuries. That there had been a slight concussion of the brain also was thought possible. Swann in person learned these particulars of Mr. McGraw's disabilities in a telephone conversation with Dr. William F. Bender after he had received a letter from Dr. Bender, which said:

"I have been attending John J. McGraw at his home since Sunday last. He is in no condition to leave his home. He may be confined there for some time.

"Dr. William F. Bender."

This is the first official inkling received of the seriousness of the injuries to McGraw. Assistant District Attorneys Unger and Marro said it was apparent Dr. Bender's letter was a response to the unsuccessful effort of a process server from the District Attorney's office to serve a "request" subpoena on McGraw on Thursday.

Dr. Bender was quoted at the District Attorney's office as having seen McGraw at the Polo Grounds on Sunday afternoon and persuading him to return to his apartment and to go to bed under a physician's care. That, it was said, was why all attempts by newspaper reporters to reach McGraw had failed.

SCHOOLS' COSTS INCREASE.

Orillia schools will cost $25,000 more this year than last. This large increase is chargeable chiefly to additions in salaries and the higher cost of fuel. This means about $3.50 $3.50 additional taxes for every man, woman and child in the town, and it is probable that the increased expenditure in this line will be permanent.

"THE GIRL OF THE SEA" DREW CAPACITY HOUSE TO THE GRAND

The Grand Opera House re-opened yesterday with "Girl of the Sea," an unusual photoplay with the Caribbean Sea as its setting, as the feature attraction. A tale of adventure and romance is woven about the submerged reefs and tropical keys of the Caribbean Sea, where adventure and romance walk hand in hand even in the twentieth century.

This is the latest Williamson submarine production, photographed under the sea by means of the patented Williamson devices. An extraordinary thrill is produced by the fight with the octupus at the bottom o the sea. The submarine scenes are particularly interesting and beautiful but serve only as a background for a tense, gripping story whose plot is distinguished by a continuity often lacking in motion pictures.

The pitcure is almost wholly a tale of the sea and smacks of the salt atmosphere throughout. The wrecking of a ship by two unscrupulous adventurers in order to further their own ends leads to many out of the ordinary twists of plot. A little girl is cast upon an island shunned by ships because of its reputation for being a haunt of the octupus and grows to womanhood by the sea alone. The son of the murdered sea captain comes to the island to clear his father's reputation and meets the "girl of the sea." Their love and their fight for the conviction of the two men who were responsible for their hardships form a gripping story to which thrills are added by the undersea fights with octupuses.

LOCAL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

EXECUTIVE MEETING TO-NIGHT —MARRIED VS. SINGLE AT EXHIBITION GROUNDS—OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A special meeting of the Peterborough Football Association will be held to-night in the G.W.V.A. rooms at 8 p.m. prompt. Business important.

For the second time within a few weeks the Comrades and the Canadian Woollens' friendly games ended in a draw. The Comrades tried out a new goalkeeper, who gave a good account of himself; also a new inside left forward in the person of McDougall, who hails from Inverness, Scotland.

In the game between the Vets and C.G.E. last week the Vets' captain received a severe toe injury that will keep him a little while out of the game. The Vets' left half, Peel, is on the injured list with a strained ankle.

A game will be played to-night at the Exhibition grounds between the married men and the single men of the Caledonians. Matt Shaw made the new grade last week, but do not bring the axe.

It is expected that the new league schedule will be placed before the executive to-night, and the first games will be played on Saturday, August 21st.

The second game in the W.F.A. intermediate finals was played last week between Listowel and Milverton and, as in the previous game, resulted in a scoreless draw. Over 1600 spectators were present.

A prominent C.G.E. supporter when asked his opinion of class of football given by C. G. E. and Caledonians said: "It is the best game that has been played here during the last 15 years. I am a C.G.E. supporter and the Caleys play the best football and C.G.E. always lucky to defeat them." Of course, goals count.

During the week the Comrades signed Cowie of the C.G.E. team of last season.

The teams for the Caledonian married versus single men to-night, will be: Married Men—C. Fenner goal, J. Willsahw and A. Duthie, backs; Harry Taylor, T. McArthur and John Shaw, half-backs; J. Terrace, Matt. Shaw, J. Allan, Jas. Shaw and R. French, forwards. Single Men—J. McFadden, goal; J. Scrace and McMillan, backs; McFeat, Frost and McMillan, half-backs; Crosbie, Dingwall, McKay, Hannah and Service, forwards. Referee, Mr. Alex. Dick.

The Canadian Woollens will practice to-night at the Oval at 6:30 prompt. A full attendance is requested.

AT THE ALLEN

Miss Normand is very fond of dill pickles and in one of the scenes in her latest Goldwyn production, "The Slim Princess," she has to put two pickles in her cheeks to make them bulge. Each time she was handed a pickle it managed to slip down her throat instead staying in her cheek where it belonged, and it was only after Director Victor L. Schertzinger promised to send her a couple of jars of "57 Varieties" that the pickles managed to stay "put" in her mouth. This picture may be seen at the Allen Theatre, for last time to-day.

MABEL ELAINE
Champion Lady Clog Dancer with "Hello Alexander"

"HELLO ALEXANDER"

McIntyre and Heath, the real monarchs of minstrelsy, are coming to the Grand. They have as their vehicle, "Hello, Alexander," one of the most sumptuous extravaganza ever presented along the Gay White Way, and which since early autumn has been playing to very large business at the 4th Street Theatre, where it was presented by the Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert, and whence it comes to the Grand for an engagement of one night, Thursday, August 19th. Aside from the elaborateness of production which is in two acts and six gorgeous scenes, there is a cast numbering nearly one hundred people, including some of the most popular entertainers in the musical comedy world.

The stars of the production, James McIntyre and Thomas Heath, have been provided with an unusually funny vehicle by the authors of the book, Edgar Smith and Emily M. Young. As in their former great success, "The Ham Tree," in which they appeared for several seasons, the partners in mirth impersonate two darkey characters, Henry Jones and Alexander. Jones is still the proprietor of the "Ever-Ready Minstrels" and continues persuing the always hungry Alexander. In order to win him over, Jones paints rosy verbal pictures of the land that he is bound for; of the goopus beds on which the men folks rest all day, and the champagne fountains that never run dry. His strategy is successful and Alexander once more become his employee. Their ensuing adventures supply most of the merriment. Their travels bring them from Tampa, Florida, to Mississippi and thence to New Oreleans. One scene in particular, a levee on the Mississippi, is delightfully spectacular. The Misses Vivian Holt and Lillian Rosedale, as colored "mammies," sing several southern melodies while the chorus done up as plantation lads and lassies, lend much color and charm to the picutre. Prominent in the cast are, Homer Dickinson and Gracie Deagon, Vivian Holt, Lillian Rosedale, Mabel Elaine, Betty Lewis, Dorothy Moore, Dan Quinlan, Edward Scanlon, Dan McNeil, Earl Richard, Phyllis Ray, Newport and Stirk, Chic Barrymore and others. Alfred Bryan has written the lyrics of "Hello, Alexander," and Jean Schwartz composed the music, of which there are more than twenty numbers, most of them staged in sumptuous fashion and utilizing the largest singing and step dancing chorus on tour this season.

BELLEVILLE'S SWIMMING WONDER.

Belleville has produced an amateur swiming wonder, who recently swam 5 1-4 miles on a dare, doing the distance in 2 hours and fifteen minutes.

VANITY FAIR

A wonderful show is the expression used by every manager who has had the fortune to play Boyle Woolfolk's "Vanity Fair of 1920."

This attraction has toured the principal theatrical circuits for the past six years and its orignator and founder has the distinction of over a hundred musical successes to his name.

Last year, in addition to "Vanity Fair," Mr. Woolfolk presented "Honeymoon Town," one of the popular musical hits of the year, and the composer of the music in this classic, Mr. Felix G. Rice, has outdone himself in this season's "Vanity Fair," in whistly and popular airs.

The "Vanity Fair" chorus is the pride of the organization, and are gowned equal to any musical attraction on tour.

Among the new songs this season bound to be popular are "Fiddling Around," "Will You Love Me in America as You Do in France?", "Art Is a Wonderful Thing," "When the Famous Women of the Past Do the Dances of To-day" and many others. The engagement is for one day only, matinee and night, Saturday, August 21st. This company is one of the most pretentious of the big attractions that will tour Canada this season and is now making the tour from coast to coast.

Beans will take the place of meat for two meals each week.

JUVENILES IN POLICE COURT

SEVERAL CASES DISPOSED OF THIS MORNING.

Juvenile Peterborough has evidently discarded the timeworn protest, "I'll tell my big brother on you" for "I'll tell the police." This morning the Police Court was filled with 'teen age boys, all having a grievance to air. One youngster alleged that the father of his playmate had choked him because he was taking the boy away from his work. The case was dismissed with a reprimand for the father.

Another thirteen-year-old told a story of a juvenile hold-up in daylight on Aylmer Street, in which one punch and one kick were alleged to have been exchanged for a bicycle.

Mr. G. W. Hatton conducted a vigorous prosecution, and Mr. G. N. Gordon defended the alleged hold-up artistes, who vociferously interjected bovish denials into the evidence.

The Court considered it a plain case of robbery, no matter what spirit of boyish mischief may have entered into it, and the two perpetrators paid $5.00, and costs of $10.10 each, for the privilege of riding Fred Garden's bicycle.

WEEKLY PAPER FOR PETERBORO

WILL BE KNOWN AS THE "WEEKLY CHRONICLE,"

Peterborough is to have another weekly newspaper, "The Peterborough Weekly Chronicle," published by the Chronicle Publishing Company in the plant formerly occupied by the Merchants' Press. The new company is being backed principally by labour subscriptons, and T. Tooms, M.L.A., s managing director. A press and machinery have been purchased and are now being shipped, and it is expected that the first edition will be published on Saturday, 28th August.

Mr. Tooms stated this afternoon that though the new paper is being published by capital subscribed by labour, it will treat labour problems only on a broad basis, and will publish all news without fear or favour. Its editorial policy, Mr. Tooms said, would be based on broad and democratic principles.

"The Chronicle" will publish weekly news and articles on subjects of import.

Its subscription list so far, according to Mr. Tooms, is satisfactory, as the various labour organisations are giving it their support.

A job printing plant will be operated in connection with the paper, of which Mr. Alex. Miller is manager.

A RECEPTION AT MOUNT ST. JOSEPH

FIVE POSTULANTS RECEIVED THE HABIT THIS MORNING.

Five postulants Miss Jean Morin in religion Sister Mary St. Hildegrade Miss Agnes White of Lindsay, in religion Sister Mary St. William, Miss Anna MacDonald, Arnprior, in religion Sister Mary Celesta, Miss Regina Windle, North Bay, in religion Sister Mary Jeanne D'Arc, Miss Mary Burke, Almonte, in religion Sister Mary St. Roch, received the habit of St. Joseph in the Chapel at Mount St. Joseph this morning and seven novices Sister Mary De Pazzi, Sister Mary Bernice, Sister Mary St. Maurice, Sister Mary St. Andrew, Sister Mary Elmyra, Sister Mary Inez and Sister Mary of Calvary made their vows at the conclusion of the first service.

The Sermon.

Using as his text "I will draw thee with the bonds of love". Father J. A. Sholly, C.S.S.R., Toronto, who preached the retreat, preached an eloquent sermon saying in part, "We have witnessed to-day a spectacle to God, to angels and to man. To the world at large and even to some of the so called broad minded Catholics this is an empty service. To many it appears a shame that these young women should go into the Church and bury themselves behind convent walls. It is not an idle ceremony, nor yet folly but one of the grandest spectacles on this side of the grave. It proves to us that the influence of Jesus is still working in the hearts of men. We should rejoice to know that in the midst of the rush for worldly success these young could have turned their backs to the world and taken up the Cross to follow in His steps. They follow the example of the Savior in drawing hearts to the Father."

Sacrifice Lives.

In addressing the postulants Father Sholly said' I congratulate you all. You have come not to celebrate nuptials but to give your hearts and lives to the Creator. You need not heed the opinion of the world, your example(is showing the poser of Christ's teaching and your deed is a spectacle to the world at large. I congratulate also those who have knelt here like you previously and like you have said they, wished to follow God.

To-day after having gone through their noviatiate, tried ou the rules of St. Joseph, you do not regret the offering made. You have thrown aside worldly splendor and girded your selves with the girdle of the love of Christ. To-day you want to complete the sacrifice. Like Mary you have chosen the better path. The world calls you foolish. You have learnt the lesson that the world makes promises only to break them. You like the martyrs of old have laid down your lives in the spiritual sense.

The world calls you foolish. As long as there is a religious soul on earth God will be known and it is your part not only to follow the ten commandments but to live as a friend and spouse of Jesus.

Father Sholly dealt at length with the three promises Poverty, Chastity and Obedience made by the postulants. Continuing he congratulated the Bishop and the people of the diocese upon having amongst them such blossoms of virtue, the young ladies who heard the call and had the courage to came. "This", he said, addressing parents and friends, "is not time for tears, your children have entered the grandest calling next the priesthood. Therefore parents I congraulate you. Midst your tears let thrills of joy run through you and give thanks to God."

In Conclusion.

In conclusion Father Sholly reminded the congregation of the great need the world feels to-day for young men and women to enter the religious life. "We need not money, great schools and churches as much as we need workers who with the Grace of God will leave the world and train the young people in the love of God." Again addressing the postulants the speaker said the sacrifices you must make will be great but the edge will be taken off by the love of Christ.

Celebrated Mass.

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien who celebrated mass assisted by Dean McColl, Father Reynolds of Killoe, while Rev. Father Phelan acted as master of ceremonies; in a brief address said in part "I rejoice with you to-day, and with you yesterday when thirty one of the sister renewed the temporary vows of St. Joseph Community. Thirty one who made their vows last year were ready and anxious to make their temporary vows for another year and at the end of still another year to make their vows for life.

To-day you have made your vows for one year. You are willing to make a sort of bargain with God, that you are willing to dedicate yourselves to Him if he is willing to receive you. We have a number of novices entering the noviate who will endeavour to follow God and Holy Religion.

God's ways, His Lordship continued are not mans. God has decreed that His work shall be carried on through the instrumentality of human beings. Never, he said, is a family so blessed by God as when one of the family is called upon to carry on His work. None of these young women who have made their vows are essentially different from any of the rest of you except in yielding to God's will.

Needs Religions.

The world at present needs religion and the religion of Christ may not be carried on through angels but by human beings. The best proof of our love of God is in following Him.

In conclusion His Lordship hoped that a great many more might soon join the community of St. Joseph.

In the Sanctuary.

The priests in the Sanctuary were, Monsignor Casey, Lindsay. Father Hurley, Father McAulley, Father Meagher, Father Collins, Father Costella, Father Corkery, Father John O'Brien, Father Cantillon, Father McCarthy, Norwood and Father Kelly of Stanleyville.

Five little girl sRuth Tracey, Annie Donohue, Helen Brady, Mary Doris and Helen Hayes actd as maids of honor of the postulants.

OPENED FIRE ON THE HARVESTERS

FATAL RIOT TOOK PLACE IN NORTHERN QUEBEC.

(Canadian Press.)

QUEBEC, August 17.—Word has been received by the Attorney-General's Department of a fatal riot which took place at O'Brien, Northern Quebec, when a crowd of harvesters travelling west on the C.N.R. tried to break into a store yesterday.

Special constables had been posted around the store in expectation of a raid when the train came in. They opened fire on the harvesters as they approached the place, and one man was killed and two badly injured.

BELFAST, August 17.—The town of Templemare, County Tipperary, underwent a grim ordeal of reprisal lost night following the murder of District Inspector Wilson, according to a press despatch received here today.

The police and military turned out to avenge him, and with bombs and bullets speedily cleared the streets.

The Town Hall and several shops were wrecked. The disorders lasted several hours.

MEET MIMICO IN LACROSSE ROUND

The Peterboro Lacrosse Club has been notified that it has been drawn against Mimico in the second round of the intermediate series of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association.

Harry Tudhope received a telegram this morning to the effect that the first game would be played here next Saturday. He at once notified Secretary Dundas that the Riverside Park was preempted by the baseball team but that it might be available on the 28th. He said the local club was willing to play at Mimico next Saturday.

Nothing further was heard from the secretary this afternoon but definite information was expected at once for the lacrosse club. The members have been practicing faithfully and it is generally recognized that they will need to be in good condition for the Mimico games.

TAKE PHOSPHATE WITH MEALS IN SUMMERTIME

Your Nerves Demand It. Your Blood Needs It, Say Physicians.

There's not enough phosphorus in modern foods to benefit nearly one-half of the men and women of American scientists declare.

To overcome this lack of an element of your body that is necesary to your health, your happiness and even your success in life, weak, anaemic, nervous, run-down people are advised to take Bitro-Phosphate as dispensed in leading drug stores in the original package.

Speaking of people who are easily fatigued, who lack ambition, nerve and are ofttimes thin, weak and sadly lacking in firm, healthy flesh, Joseph D. Harrigan, formerly Visiting Specialist North Eastern Dispensary, N. Y., says:

"Patients who were apparently physical wrecks, who foolishly thought they needed only a blood tonic to enrich the blood, have come for treatment trembling and shaking, their nerve froce almost exhausted and in many such cases the administering of Bitro-Phosphate has produced seemingly magical results."

People who feel the heat of summer, tire easily and often become irritable and depressed, will find Bitro-Phosphate an inexpensive and helpful friend.

Druggists report a wonderful increase in the demand from men and women who are anxious to renew old-time ambition and who are making an honest effort to become vigorous and keen-minded with a power of endurance that denotes almost perfect health.

They ask for Bitro-Phosphate because they know they need an inexpensive organic phosphate.

RECORD CROP OF OATS

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 17.—W. H. and Kenneth J. Warren, of Rockfield, dispute the claim of Addison to possessing the record Leeds County oats for 1920. They have pulled a stem on their farm six feet in length, and having 173 kernels as well as five more kernels not yet filled, as these oats were sown late. They are an American variety, sown for the first time on this farm.

When the personal effects of the once-famous dancer "Rigolboche," who died recently in Paris at the age of 80, were sold at auction, an old silk dress was knocked down to a secondhand clothes dealer for a mere song. On examining the garment the purchaser found concealed in the lining a bundle of French bank notes to the value of $1,060.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greasless. It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

ACCUSES BOLSHEVIKI OF SAVAGERY TO POLES

NEW YORK.—Miss Mary Corwin Lane, who until she left for England in 1916 to volunteer her services as a nurse in the war was a teacher in the Flushing Hospital, returned home her. Since April, 1919, Miss Lane has been attached as a Red Cross nurse in Poland.

"The Bolshevist advance was characterized by more atrocities and savagery than even the great war," declared Miss Lane. "I have seen the bodies of cavalry officers without eyes, ears and hands. The Bolsheviki had gouged their eyes out. In some casse strips of flesh were cut from the legs to imitate the stripes of their uniforms.

"Nurses of the Polish Red Cross captured were tortured or killed. A Bolshevist cavalry patrol penetrating the lines some distance massacred wounded Polish soldiers in a hospital. I have seen these bodies between Kiev and Warsaw. No quarter is given to prisoners by the Reds.

"When we were leaving Poland the Bolshevist invasion was on and 240 demobilized Polish troops who were recruited in America were being sent home .These men had already passed quarantine and were prepared to sail the following day. When they saw the plight of their country they decided to re-enlist.

The evacuation of Eastern Poland before the Bolshevist advance was being carried out in perfect order and as thoroughly as Poland's limited means of transportation permitted. While the possibility of the advance of the Red troops to the Vistula was considered when we left Poland on July 26, few people had left Warsaw."

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

THE WATCHER.

She always leadned to watch for us;
Anxious if we were late,
In winter by the window,
In summer by the gate.

Who had such foolish care,
And though we mocked her tenderly,
The long way home would seem more safe
Because she waited there.

Her thoughts were all so full of us—
She never could forget!
And so I think that where she is
She must be watching yet.

Waiting till we come home to her,
Anxious if we are late—
Watching from Heaven's window,
Leaing from Heaven's agte.
—Margaret Widdemer.

Money you earn yourself is much brighter than any you get out of dead men's bags.

Don't be whining about not having a fair chance. You need not be a horse because you were born in a stable.

There is an old saying that "truth crushed to earth shall rise again," but there is not much hope held out for the man who does the crushing.

Many is the blase person who has searched the world over for beauty and, tired of looking, gives up the quest. The wonders of the earth cannot move him. Yet his child, innocent and pure, will find beauty in the snowflake, in the fern, in a dozen objects every day. One may look the world over for beauty, but unless he carries it with him he finds it not.

Harsh criticism of others causes so much unhappiness, yet it is becoming so general in our modren life. Sometimes a man who is so generous hearted that he would give his last crust to a brother in need, will be the most bitter critic if that same man makes a mistake and steps a little to one side of the stranght and narrow way. Some times people criticize because if they do not they fear others will believe they approve. Surely we may follow the teachings of the Master in this as in all things; "let him who is without sin cast the first stone." If everyone would follow this teaching where would the slanderer and the gossip find himself?

Trouble is a hard master but a thorough one. Sometimes those of us who have had a large measure of trouble look with envy upon the light-hearted ones who go singing on their way heedless of all but their own joys. We should not envy them for they are not living; they are only touching the froth and the bubbles of life. Trouble puts us in tune with our fellow men. Only those who have been initiated with an abundance of vexation and heart aches and compromises with life can give that secret grip of comfort to others who are struggling on. It is through trouble and adversity that we grow and everyone of us must attain full spiritual height before we can be admitted to our Father's presence. So do not envy those who go singing on unheeding. They must learn some time and some where.

Frankness is the best lubricating oil there is for the wheels of modern industry. Human motives in every line are bound to be in some degree selfish. However, the employer knows this; his men know it. Everyone is working for his own ends and there is no use in trying to make people believe your efforts are purely philanthropic. Why not admit this mutual selfishness and try to get some degree of mutual benefit from your efforts instead of constantly pulling in opposite directions.

Frankness on both sides would do much to straighten out the tangles in the modern industrial world. Just as sure as an employer tries to disguise a selfish motive under a cloak of some supposedly philanthropic endeavor his workmen are going to discover his deceit and their confidence in him will vanish instantly. Their imagination will supply much darker motives than he had ever thought of. If he had told them frankly of his plans, possibly the gain to themselves would have been as great as his gain. Then all would have been well. The majority of people have about the same amount of gray matter and they are pretty keen to see through any motives that are going to interfere with their best interests.

Anyone Now Can Have Pretty Curls and Waves

Hair tortured with the hot curling iron is bound to become dry, harsh and brittle, as so many know from sad experience. It's far more sensible to use the simple silmerine method which cn do no harm and which produces a curliness much prettier and more natural in appearance. And the effect lasts much longer, particularly is hot, moist or windy weather. Silmerine is also a fine dressing for the hair, preserving its texture and health keeping it delightfully soft and glossy

Liquid silmerine is not sticky or greasy and it won't stain or streak hair or scalp. Get a few ounces from the druggist, pour a little into a saucer and with a clean tooth brush apply evenly to the hair just before doing it up. The added glory to your "crowning glory" will be quite remarkable.

PROTECTION OF PUBLIC IN FOOD PURCHASED

PUBLIC HEALTH OFFICIALS ISSUE CERTIFICATES FOR CLEANLINESS.

TORONTO, August 17.—As a protection to the public for the food they consume in restaurants or purchase at stores, the Department of Public Health has started its system of issuing certificates to the restaurants and stores whose premises are in a clean condition. The certificates are quite imposing documents and already a large number of them have made their appearance in the eating houses and groceries. It is to the interest of the holder of such a certificate to post it up in plain sight, as it is an advertisement to his customers that his supplies are clean and that the public are safe in doing business with him. Those who are not able to post up such a certificate also do their own advertising, but in a contrary way. This is what the M.O.H. says about those who cannot earn a certificate:

"We warn the public against the partaking of food or the purchasing of food at or from the various industries that are not in possession of one of these certificates, which will always be placed in a conspicuous place." Any person who is anxious to learn the names of the safe eating houses in the city can do so by getting a copy of the latest bulletin issued by the Department of Public Health, as the bulletin has a list of some fifty restaurants, thirty-seven refreshment rooms, and twenty-one confectionery stores which have earned the certificate.

The M. O. H.'s bulletin also discusses the unwrapped loaf of bread. "Unwrapped bread is probably one of the most filthy articles that is placed on our tables," is Dr. Hastings' comment. "It may be necessary for us to enforce military discipline in order to compel the people to protect themselves." The report goes on to show that the public are negligent in asking for the wrapped bread, and that the bakeries are much more willing to supply the bread than the public are to demand it.

CONVICTS HEADED WEST.

PREPARING GRAINS FOR FALL FAIRS

SECRET OF SUCCESS IS THOROUGHNESS.

It pays to advertise. There is no better advertisement than to be a prize-winner at the Fall Fairs, and no crop on the farm can be exhibited to better advantage than the cereal crop. To attain the best results, a special plot sould be maintained and kept thoroughly clean, free from weeds and ll impurities. Harvesting should be done by hand, keeping the sheaves as neat and straight as possible.

First and foremost the grain in the sheaf must not be weathered, it must be perfectly dry and of good colour. The best results are obtained by the use of slightly immature straw, as it will be found to be less brittle and easier to handle. The straw should be spread in thin layers in the sun to dry; the sun will bleach the straw as well as dry it. Use only straight, uniform straws to make the sheaf; two or three sheaves should be collected in the field to allow for waste.

The majority of persons have the idea that all the straws should be the same length and the heads all placed on the same level. This would give us the square head, in which, when tied, the majority of the straws would break off below the head. The ideal sheaf has a rounded head with a gradual curve. This rounded head is procured by allowing the central straws to stand a little higher than the surrounding straws and each layer of heads that are added, to gradually slope away from the centre. The large sheaf may be conveniently formed by first making a number off small sheaves and then placing them together as though they were individual heads, gradually sloping them off in the same manner. To finish the sheaf a layer of individual heads should be placed around the whole, producing a finished exhibition sheaf. All the loose leaves should be plucked off the outside of the sheaf with a jack-knife, leaving only the wite shining straws, and all heads that do not conform to the symmetry of the head may be cut off, leaving a perfect sheaf. Coloured ribbon about one-half to three-quarter inches wide, may be used with good effect to cover the binding strings.

Threshed by Hand.

The remainder of the plot should be threshed by hand. This will form the bulk sample for the Fair. If the plot were kept pure in the field there will be very little that will need to be done to the threshed sample. A good fanning mill will remove all shrunken and small kernels, all chaff and dirt. The fanning mill must be clean; many an excellent sample has been ruined by a dirty fanning mill. Thoroughness is the secret of a good sample; the fanning mill should not be spared even if it means fanning away 50 per cent. of the original sample.

The bulk sample may be double bagged for shipping to the Fair. The sheaf should be shipped in a box, three-quarters of an inch longer and one-half inch broader and deeper than the sheaf. The sheaf should be wrapped in paper and tied, fitted into the box, and kept in position by supports.

With our present day standards always improving, great care must be taken in preparing the exhibits for our Fall Fairs. No prize will be won by the farmer who puts up a rough sheaf or a poor sample. The secret of success is thoroughness.

A PROMOTOR DROPS IN.

"It is, sir," replied the editor.

"My name is Blobbs, sir, J. Vanderdyke Blobbs of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston."

"Glad to meet you, Mr. Blobbs."

"Do you mean to say you came all the way from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston just to do great things for Toadville?"

"I did, sir."

DRUGGIST COMES OUT WITH ALL THE FACTS

"We Have Never Had a Medicine in the Store That Gave Such Satisfaction," He Declares.

"After my personal experience with the medicine, I do not hesitate to say that Tanlac is the finest tonic system purifier that was ever handled over a druggist's counter," was the very remarkable statement made by Alphonse Le Cavalier, druggist at Dr. LeDuc's drug store, 1658 St. Catherine St. East, Montreal, recently.

"I had had acute indigestion for the last three years, and could find nothing to relieve fe. After every meal I used to feel as though I had swallowed some hard substance. The gas would form so as to nearly suffocate me and cause my heart to palpitate. I had no appetite whatever and my food semed to have no flavor. The distress caused by indigestion was especially bad at night, and hindered me from sleeping. I was fidgety and nervous, and when at last I did drop off to sleep, I would have the most frightful nightmare, and wake up with a start to find myself in a bath of perspiration. My complexion was very sallow, and I got so weak that I felt as though I must give up altogether and go to bed. In fact I was in a complete state of nervous prostration and exhaustion.

"We never had a medicine in the store that sold like Tanlac, or that gave such general satisfaction. So many people who bought it told me that they had been benefited by it, that I decded to try it myself. The result exceeded all my expectations, for Tanlac did more for me than any other medicine I ever tried. I now have a splendid appetite and my digestion is perfect. I have the most refreshing sleep a night, undisturbed by nightmare. My complexion is fine and healthy. I have gained several pounds in weight, and feel as well and strong as can be. After this I shall take special pleasure in recommending Tanlac, for I know from personal experience what it will do."

MARKET GARDENERS SUFFER.

Extensive cultivation of vegetables by Lindsay's householders is affecting the retail trade in vegetables, and there has never been so little garden truck offered in the stores as this years. A large number of citizens are growing their own gardens, and the crop of beets, beans, potatoes, onions, carrots, greens, and all kinds of berries has been bountiful. The result has been that many small gardeners have had more than they can use and some have been selling to the dealers, crowding out the larger gardeners, who have been supplying the trade or years.

THE YOUNG LADIES HELD SOCIAL EVENING

A very pleasant social evening was given to the young ladies of St. James' Church under the auspices of the X. L. Mission Circle.

The rooms were nicely decorated in the Circle Colors, yellow, white and green, and with wild daisies galore.

The very interesting and appropriate reading, entiled "Her of the Hemlocks," given by Mrs. Rev. J. F. Chapman, was the chief feature of the programme, and was warmly applauded.

Games, music and a general good time followed.

A dainty lunch was provided and served by the ladies of the W.M.S.

Notwithstanding the hot weather, the August meeting of the Mission Circle proved a great success.

LESS WATER USED IN PETERBORO

CITIZENS MUST HAVE CONSUMED MORE WHISKEY DURING HOT SPELL.

During July the consumption of water in the city was less than that of the same month last year by one sixth of a million gallons, there being three and a third million gallons a day used during July of this year against three and one-half million gallons a day last year. The decrease is mainly due to the cool, damp weather. So far August has seen about the same consumption as last year.

M. LOIS FINLAY

At the General Hospital, Toronto, early on the morning of August the 6th 1920, there passed away one of Fraserville's most estimable young ladies in the person of Miss M. Lois Finlay, only daughter of Professor Henry Finlay, Principal of the Engineering College of Kansas City, Missouri, and his wife, Minerva A. Curtis, formerly of Wheeler, Ind.

Lois was born at Omaha, Nebraska, on March 6th 1895, and shortly after her mother's death, which occurred on Aug. 10, 1899, she came to live in with her uncle and Aunt Mr and Mrs James E Clarke of Cavan Township near Fraserville, where under their training and examole she grew into a most useful, lovable and honored young womanhood In the home she was always busy and bright, in the church rendering willing service, in the choir using her musical ability with great acceptance and occasionally presiding at the organ, in the Sunday School as a teacher, leading her pupils so that many now gladly follow her example, in the Ladies Aid, a willing worker and in the Epworth League as Vice-President of the Christian Endeavour Department for several terms giving expression to her thought and to her knowledge of God and His Word, in well-prepared papers and exercises. It was with great regret that her many friends in this community learned of her death.

The funeral service was held in the Methodist Church Fraserville on Monday, August 9th, and was conducted by her pastor Rev. M. W. Leigh, B. A., who fittingly referred to her life as a sun in its shining and her death as a beautiful premature sunset. A former pastor, Rev. W. T. Wickett of Tyrone, added suitable tribute to her excellencies of character.

The pall bearers were Walter Moncrief, Fred Lewers, Fred and Bruce Elliott, Ottowell Pue and Williard Waterman. The bearers of the many beautiful floral tributes were six girl friends. There are left to mourn her departure, her father, two brothers, Ray C. and H. Edgar, B.A., her uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Clarke, John Finlay of Tolston, Man., Rev. R. E. Finlay of Oyen, Alta, Mrs. A. Might and her son, Rev. Albert E. of Edmonton and many friends and associates. —M. W. L.

POLITICAL PARTIES WILL MAKE STAND IN EAST ELGIN

WEST PETERBORO WILL BE CONTESTED LATER—MEETING IN EVERY PROVINCE FOR ORGANIZATION.

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.— The East Elgin by-election will be held on November 22; the Yale-Cariboo by-election, it is expected, will not be held much later. The "National Liberal and Conservative party" will have candidates in both constituencies. The nomination will be two weeks earlier. The reason alleged for the delay is to give the farmers a chance to vote and attend political meetings. The date for the West Peterborough by-election has not yet been announced.

From now on the new party will make strenuous efforts to regain the ground lost in the public estimation by the Government's determination to cling to office as long as it can be done.

Others Come Later.

West Peterborough, now vacated by J. H. Burn . . . and Leeds, to be vacated shortly by Sir Thomas White, will be contested later. The steadiness of the Government machine when Parliament is called on January 20 next will depend much on what happens at the by-elections.

It will wobble badly if a Minister is defeated, and the East Elgin by-election result will be regarded as the handwriting on the wall. If the Government wins there will be celebrations; if not, sackcloth and ashes and noise of lamentations.

The Sing Sing Prison Paper is Discontinued

MYSTERY VEILS THE CAUSE

NEW YORK, Aug 18— Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing prison announced yesterday that the Sing Sing Bulletin, the prison newspaper, which had been in existence for twenty-one years under various names, had ben discontinued. The announcement was made when visitors to the prison asked for copies of the August issue, which was to have come off the presses yesterday. It came as a surprise to employees and prison attendants who believe that the suppression of the paper is due to political friction among State officials.

Warden Lawes would make no comment when asked why the paper had suspended publication. It is known, however, that the warden himself had nothing whatever to do with the move. On the contrary, he was very enthusiastic over the work the paper had been doing, and he had devoted considerable time to making it representative of the best in prison management and administration. Recently an order came from the office of Charles F. Rattigan, State Superintendent of Prisons, ordering the warden to cut the monthly issue of the Bulletin from 5,000 to 1,500 copies.

"Did anybody in the State Prison Department suggest a further cut in the issue, or did they suggest doing away with it entirely?" Warden Lawes was asked.

"All that I can say," he replied, "is that the Bulletin has suspended publication."

Political Intrigue

It has been common gossip in State political circles within the last few months that a clique of politicians who possess considerable influence at Albany have been trying to hamper Warden Lawe's administration of Sing Sing in every way possible, and the suspension of the Bulletin is considered another attempt along this line. This clique opposed the appointment of Lawes from the beginning, but Gov. Smith ignored them and went personally to ask Lawes to take the job.

The reorganization of the Bulletin, among other things, increased the hostility of the politicians, who are the same group that Warden Edward V. Brophy said 'annoyed and embarrassed him until he had to resign to retain his self-respect," and it is believed in prison reform circles that they brought about the suppression of the prison paper.

B. Ogden Chisolm, who is prominent as a prison reform advocate, said yesterday that he had sent a protest to the Governor against the suspension of the paper. Prison employees believe that the Governor knew nothing of the matter until he received Mr. Chisolm's letter.

Chisolm Protests.

"I learned about it," said Mr. Chisolm, "when I inquired at the prison office for a copy of the August issue I believe politics is behind it, and I think it is an outrage. I don't believe that Gov. Smith will stand for it."

The Bulletin was the first prison newspaper published in the United States, and has always been regarded with much interest by prison reform workers. It was started by Warden Omar V. Sagg in 1899 under he name of the Start of Hope. It was then a bi-weekly. Warden Thomas Mott Osborne started another newspaper, the Bulletin, in 1915, and two years later this paper and the Star of Hope were consolidated under the name of The Star Bulletin.

Last winter Warden Lawes, put Charles E. Chapin, formerly city editor of the Evening World and now in Sing Sing for the murder of his wife, in charge of the paper as editor and changed the name to the Sing Sing Bulletin.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM LOOKS FOR DOMINION ELECTION BEFORE END OF PRESENT YEAR

To The Examiner to-day Mr. J. H. Burnham says that he feels it his duty to call the attention of the electors to the fact that if Mr. Meighen's Ministers are defeated on 20th September, the Prime Minister must go back to the Governor-General and tell him that the people have rejected his Ministers, and then Mr. Meighen must hand in his resignation. It is quite plain that the Government has decided to hold no more bye-elections until this crucial fact is decided. That the Ministers will be defeated is almost certain, and candidates being brought out here should, to prevent confusion, be those who intend standing at the general election for all Canada, which will be, beyond doubt, called for December or earlier.

VARIOUS MUNICIPALITIES WILL JOIN IN THE MOVEMENT TO OPPOSE COMPANY'S REQUEST—RATES ARE CONSIDERED TO BE TOO DRASTIC.

TORONTO, Aug. 18. — From the tenor of public opinion throughout the country it now looks as though there will be organized oposition to the increased rates asked for from the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners by the Bell Telephone Co.

In Toronto every business and commercial house holds that its office expenses would be considerably swollen by the increased rates applied for, and most of them quite frankly admit that it would be the "dear public," from whom the Bell Company would ultimately get their additional millions in rates.

While organized oposition by various public bodies has not yet been aranged such action is confidently looked for.

Officials of the various associations were reluctant to speak yesterday on behalf of the bodies with which they were connected. Sgveral of these organizations however are expected to hold executive meetings to consider the question within a few days, including the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Board of Trade, the Wholesale Grocers' Association, the Stock Exchange Committee and the Bond Dealers' Association. It is possible that action similar to that announced in Montreal, will be taken in Toronto, namely the holding of a citizens' mass meeting to make plans to fight the company's demands.

Says it's a Bluff.

J. C. Marriatt, president of Toronto's Board of Trade, said: "I really think that their application is so extraordinary and so excessive as compared with anything that was needed in the past to maintain their dividends, renewals and depreciation, that I can only assume that they are asking something which will stun the public in the hope that they may succeed in obtaining a portion of their demands,"

But he thought the public would be willing to pay what increase the company really need, in fairness; this to be determined after a complete and exhaustive examination of the company's books and resources.

C. Elvin, the advertising manager of the Imperial Life Assurance Co., declared his offices' phone bill would be increased by about $1850 a year. The message rate would also tend to hold up business, he believed, adding that in his opinion, this was not justified and pointing out that the servce was poor. However, he was opposed to public ownership of the telephone.

Want the Earth.

A. W. Carrick thinks the Bell Company want the earth. Their attitude is hogging and greedy, he said, and he urged a conference of merchants in opposition to the rates. "The Telephone Company has received many concessions from the Government, and now when it comes to a little bit of tightening it wants to raise its rates."

doubted that the Bell Company are justified in their demands. He said: "Look at the rest of us in bad times when things are going against us. We cannot expect to make money always, and have to draw on reserves. We have no Dominion Railway Commission to which we make take our troubles. We have to submit. Why should not the Bell Telephone Company and Hugh Blain, President of Eby-Blain Co., Limited, wholesale grocers, all other corporations, with their big reserves, also submit and draw to some extent on these reseryes. Every increase given such as this will coce back to the consumer with a great deal added. It is just these series of inflations when things are commencing the fight of citizens against it. beneficial result," he continued.

Mayor to Make War.

Mayor Church of Toronto, is determined to war on the increase by leading the fight of citizens against nt. It was understood yesterday that His Worship will call a public meeting next week to organize and prepare the city's case, for presentation to the Railway Board. The Board of Control will appropriate $25,000 to engage counsel and fight the company's application.

Ald. Ryding declared the increased rates would prove a "black eye for Toronto," while Ald. Plewman is strong "for a monopoly of 'phone service under public ownership."

This aspect of the situation is, to be reported on shortly by a special committee appointed by Toronto City Council.

Board of Education Hit.

These proposed new rates, it is estimated, mean an increase to the Board of Education from its present telephone yearly expenditure of $8,905 to $30,200 next year.

Opposition Service.

Francis Dagger, telephone expert, of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, said yesterday, in reply to a question, that roughly he would estimate that it would cost between $13,50,000 and $18,00,000 to establish an opposition service, with automatic telephones, in Toronto. He based this estimate on 90,000 customers, the number using the Bell service, at $150 to $200 a station.

Means Huge Increases.

London in Special Class.

London City will not be affected by the general increase asked, that municipality being in a special class. However, this latest demand for increases has stimulated certain members of the Council to interest themselves in municipally-owned telephones. Certain aldermen say they "will move in the Council to have the Public Utilities Commission and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission report on the cost of a telephone system for London."

What Hamilton Thinks.

Hamilton's business men generally think that the Bell Company's application for an augmented rate might be justified to a certain extent by increased costs of everything. But they strongly object to the small limit put on calls and the price wanted for all additional calls. The city and the Chamber of Commerce will likely join in fighting the company's application for the rates announced.

Automatic Telephones.

Another question raised in Toronto is, Does this application for an increase mean that the Bell Company desire to maintain a hold, so far as telephone monopoly is concerned, on the people of Canada? In this connection it is pointed out that the Northern Telephone Company has acquired the Canadian patent rights owned by the Automatic Electric Company of Chicago, together with the right to manufacture and sell the so-called Strowger type of automatic telephone equipment in Canada and Newfoundland.

Advocates of the automatic telephone refer to the "enormous saving" in operation costs. The day of the automatic telephone is undoubtedly coming, some experts agree, and it may be that the Bell Telephone Company wants to ensure a continuance of high rates under present conditions before going ahead with a larger installation of automatic equipment.

PLEADING THE CAUSE OF THE IMPRISONED WINNIPEG LEADERS

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, August 18.—Pleading the cause of the imprisoned Winnipeg strike leaders, a deputation, headed by F. J. Dixon, leader of the Labourites in the Manitoba Legislature, waited upon the Government yesterday afternoon. It is understood that their plea was to the effect that the recent election in Winnipeg demonstrated the people's confidence in the imprisoned men, and served to show that the bulk of public opinion is bshind the attitude of the men in forcing the general strike, also that few people believed the men had any seditious intentions.

Senator Robertson admitted the men who waited upon him and the Hon. Hugh Guthrie, and stated that the matter would be laid before their Cabinet colleagues.

Friends here believe that there is every prospect for the release of the imprisoned strike leaders.

Russian Soviet Terms Are Read to the Poles

THE POLISH ANSWER WILL BE RETURNED TO-DAY—FRENCH MUNITION SHIPS HELD UP—WAR NEWS FROM EASTERN FRONT.

(Canadian Press.)

MOSCOW, August 18.—The Russian Soviet terms were read to the Polish delegates at the first meeting with the Soviet representatives in Minsk to-day.

The Polish answer will be returned to-day.

WILL LOSE TERRITORY.

(Canadian Press.)

MOSCOW, August 18. — Pravda warns the Russian Soviet Government to hurry the offensive against General Wrangel in Southern Russia, saying that otherwise the Soviet Government will lose the Don District, with its great coal mines, and also Caucasia.

MUNITIONS FOR POLAND.

(Canadian Press.)

WARSAW, August 18. — Several French munition ships are now anchored outside Dantzic. Mr. Tower, according to a report from the French Ambassador to Poland, takes the attitude that he has not sufficient Allied troops to preserve order if further munitions are unloaded at Dantzic. He has asked the Supreme Council for new instructions.

MUNITION SHIPS.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, August 18.—A despatch from Dantzic says it is reported that Sir Reginald Tower, High Commissioner at Dantzic, under the League of Nations, has issued an order that no ships with munitions for Poland shall be permitted to enter Dantzic. Should such ship arrive, he will submit the whole matter to the Council of Ambassadors.

The despatch adds that one ship from Antwerp already has been ordered to remain at sea.

RUSSIANS DRIVEN BACK.

PARIS, August 18. — The Polish counter offensive, with Thorn as its base, has successfully cleared Dantzic Corridor of Russian troops, according to a report received from the French Mission in Poland to-day.

The Polish forces are still driving eastward, the report says.

NEW FRUITS AND VEGETABLES COMING ON PETERBORO MARKET

Thimbleberries were one or the few fruit crops which failed in this district and practically all the cane was winter killed. What few are on the local market are setailing at 35 cents a quart box and none came through the wholesale houses. The early variety of peaches have come into the city this week very freely and are retailing at $1.25 and $1.50 an eleven-quart basket. The yellow variety of peaches are expected in the city from Niagara in about two weeks' time and the large crop indicates fairly easy prices. Plums, which are very plentiful, are selling at $1.50 a basket.

Pears of a very small variety have been placed on the market, retailing at $1.50. The crop is very short this year. What few raspberries there are are still on the market and are retailing at 28 cents a box.

Vegetables Easier.

Tomatoes, retailing delivered at the door at 65 cents an eleven-quart basket, will probably drop to 50 cents during the week, and the market gardeners are hastening to sell at almost whatever price they can get so heavy is the crop and so quickly are they ripening. Potatoes are wholesaling at $1.75 a bag and retailing at $2.25, with a probability of even lower prices toward the week-end. Cabbages rae very plentiful and selling at 10 cents each.

Pickling Season.

All ingredients for pickles are very cheap, and the retail merchants claim they can scarcely keep the wants of the housekeepers supplied. Pickling cucumbers are selling at 90 cents a basket, beans at 8 cents a pound, cauliflowers at 15 and 20 cents each, and green peppers at 5 cents each.

Imported Fruit.

All imported fruit is high. Bananas are selling at 60 cents a dozen, California peaches at 60 and 80 cents a dozen, and pears t 75 cents a dozen. With the heavy supply of local fruit on the market, comparatively little imported fruit is being used.

LLOYD GEORGE TO VISIT DOMINION

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, August 18.—A special despatch from Washington, printed in The World to-day, declares that Premier Lloyd-George is to discuss the Anglo-Japanese Treaty with the Premiers of the British Dominions at a conference to be held in Vancouver this autumn.

The World says: "Premier Lloyd-George will cross the Atlantic in October to meet the Premiers of all the British Dominions on the Pacific for the conference on the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese relations. During his stay in Canada, Premier Lloyd-George will be invited to Washington."

HUNGER STRIKERS HAVE TO SUFFER

THE AUTHORITIES WILL NOT RELEASE THEM.

(Canadian Press.)

DUBLIN, August 18.—The warning that the hunger-striking prisoners awaiting trial, who were arrested for murderous attacks on policemen or soldiers or upon clear, direct evidence of complicity in such attacks, or further serious offences, will not be released unless acquitted of charges against them, and that the Government assumes no responsibility for the consequences of their abstention from food, is given in an official statement issued at Dublin Castle la. t night.

It has been decided, however, to release temporarily twenty-two prisoners in Cork Jail awaiting trial for less serious offences.

One hundred and sixteen thousand applications have been received for Merchants Service War Medals.

REMINDER OF THE MARNE

LONDON, August 18.—The Poles at Warsaw are on the edge, it seemed to-day, of duplicating the first battle of the Marne, in which Paris and France were saved early in September, 1914.

Late reports tell of the fighting at many points, frequently with bayonets. At points here and there, there have been Russian successes, but the big successes have gone with the Poles, who seem to have definitely checked the mighty sweep of the Bolshevist armies.

The situation to-day carried many reminders of the Marne battle, at which the French, under Joffre and Foch, aided by the small British army under Sir John French, turned the tide. On that occasion the Uhlans had reached the outskirts of Paris. On Saturday the Red cavalry crossed the Vistula River and got within eight and one-half miles of the Polish capital.

The French communique on the first day of the general French attack merely recited that "an engagement with the enemy to the north resulted to our advantage." It was the beginning of the action that drove the Germans back toward the trenches along the north-west of France and four years later back to Germany.

Foch's Right Hand Man There.

In Warsaw to-day the official communique is as simple as the French which told of the turning of the German tide. It read: "The counter-offensive is developing successfully."

Close to General Pilsudski is General Maxime Weygand, chief of the French Mission to Poland. General Weygand was the adjutant and right hand man of General Foch when the latter was generalissimo of the Allied Armies. Like his chief, he believes that the morale can best be sustained by attack. The re-organised Poles are attacking.

They have retreated on their communications, while the Bolshevists with every step of advance have increased the distance to their base of supplies. The Poles are defending the capital of their native land. The positions are the strongest they have occupied during the war. The men on the battle lines are constantly strengthened in spirit by seeing fresh troops going into position.

The fighting close to the city is no longer a matter of pure tactics. It is tactics plus the enthusiasm of soldiers who have just paraded the streets of their capital, who have had their women folks blow kisses to them, shower them with flowers, and demand pledges of them that they would save the city.

At Siechanow, the first of the larger towns along the Dantzic-Warsaw railroad, heavy fighting has taken place, and the Poles have gone forward 15 miles over a front of roughly 20 miles.

The Russians claimed advantages in the fighting at Novo-Georgievsk, where, their report says, they ocupied villages; and on the Wyra River, where they claim to have effected a crossing. They also report the capture of six guns.

Warsaw itself is confident.

Praga, a suburb, is practically a first-aid dressing station. Wounded men receive attention there and come back through the city in ambulances, motor trucks, and horse-drawn vehicles. Some come afoot.

QUIET STRENGTH.

Along the street is sound of fife and drum,
And lo! the people shout that strength is come;
But mightier far, though trumpted the less,
Is strength that walks in ways of quietness;
The music fades, the lustre disappears,
Into the mist of long-forgotten years.
But while in dust the pomp and pageant roll,
The quiet harvest of an earnest soul,
Shall stand forever, heedless of decay,
And grow more perfect to the perfect day.

WESTERN AVENUE WANTS POWER FOR HOUSE LIGHTING

REFUSED BY THE UTILITIES COMMISSION THEY WILL APPEAL TO SIR ADAM BECK.

Residents of Western Avenue, North Monaghan, say they have a grievance against the Utilities Commission for refusing to supply them with electric power for domestic lighting. Their application was turned down because the Commission objected to stringing wires beyond the city's boundary into the township, especially with copper wire at 35 cents a pound and labour at 60 cents an hour at the very least.

The Western Avenue people point to the service on High Street on Morrow's Hill, west of the new school. This street is in North Monaghan, but the Utilities Commission say that the service was installed by the old power company.

"They pay their taxes to the township, and yet they expect the city to deliver them light," said a representative of the Commission to-day. "The houses are scattered over that part of North Monaghan, and the work would cost just that much more. I don't see any reason why we should lose any sleep over these North Monaghan people. I believe in getting all the domestic demand we can, but let them wait a little longer and we'll get out there."

The residents say they will appeal to the Hydro-Electric Commission in Toronto.

"They'll learn something then," remarked the Utilities respresentative.

A THREE-CORNERED FIGHT LOOKED FOR.

(Special to The Examiner.)

ST. THOMAS, Ont., August 18.—A three-cornered fight is likely in the East Elgin bye-election.

WORKERS STRUCK NOON YESTERDAY

PROTEST AGAINST WAR BETWEEN RUSSIA AND POLAND.

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, August 18. — French troops clashed with the inhabitants of the town of Kattowitz, an important mining centre in Upper Silesia, today.

Eleven persons were killed and twenty-sir wounded.

Polish troops attempted to break up mass meeting at Rybinka, about 25 miles away, and in the resulting disorder, one person was killed and four wounded.

The workers in all the towns in Upper Silesia struck at noon yesterday as a protest against the war between Russia and Poland.

SUGAR STILL ON THE DOWN GRADE

LOWER PRICE QUOTED IN VANCOUVER---REFINERIES FACE A LOSS

No set price is quoted in the city for sugar as the prices vary according to the supply the retail men have on hand, but there is no doubt the market is broken. Yesterday one wholesale man offered a George Street merchant yellow and white as low at $21 a bag f.o.b. in Toronto, and the retail price will probably come down materially in the city in the course of a week.

Large Stocks.

All the refineries are quoted as having big stocks on hand and should the predicted slump come they stand to lose heavily. One refinery stated yesterday that if the price slides much lower his firm will lose several million dollars.

Sugar Drops $.00.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 18. — The wholesale price of all grades of sugar dropped $1.00 a hundred yesterday.

A. O. HUNTER, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who says Tanlac has certainly proven its worth in both his own and his wife's case. He wasn't able to work when he began taking it.

"Last fall I had the 'Flu' and it left me in a very weak and run down condition with no appetite at all and such a weak stomach that even the smell of cooking made me sick. I was awfully nervous and night after night I couldn't sleep to do any good. I would get up in the mornings tired and worn out and was so short of breath that a half hour's job would tire me as much as a whole day's work use to. In fact I finally had to give up a good job.

"When I first started on Tanlac I was working for the Goodyear Rubber Co. in Akron, Ohio. I decided that anything that was being talked about so much was at least worth an honest trial. It worked like a charm in my case. It helped me right from the start and by the time I had taken my third bottle all of my troubles were gone and I found myself well and strong again.

"While in Akron my wife got so she couldn't eat. She lost weight and got very pale. Tanlac was doing me so much good I got her to try it and after taking two bottles, she is looking fine again. Her appetite is just splendid and she looks like a different person. It certainly has proven its worth to both of us and has come up to every word I have read and heard about it."

The above statement was made by A. O. Hunter, 106 W. 7th St., Cincinnati, Ohio, a well-known mechanic now in the employ of the Cincinnati Abatoir Co.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

MR. R. GRANT SEES MANY CHANGES IN THE OLD LAND

Unrest is evident throughout the British Isles due principally to labour conditions Mr. R. Grant, of the firm of Grant & Thorpe who with Mrs. Grant returned to the city this week after three months spent abroad told the Examiner to-day. It is of courdse difficult to realize waht the course difficult to realize what the people over there have been through during the war, what they had to contend with and how difficult it is to them to resettle down to some semblance of a prewar basis.

One disturbing element is the prices. Everything has doubled and redoubled away out of the reach of the ordinary working man who though he may be getting many times what he received in 1914 is unable to touch anything but the bare necessities of life. And even bare necessities are limited for sugar is still rationed, each person being limited to one half pound a week which costs twenty eight cents a pound. Should a house wife, desiring to preserve with for any more than her ration ticket calls for she must prove what it is wanted for and pay 33 cents a pound for what is called free sugar.

Clothing Easier

Clothing while much dearer than in pre-war days is of a better quality than may be bought in Canada and is silghtly less expensive.

Splendid Spirit.

Mr. Grant said that the splendid spirit with which the English people are taking the taxation is wonderful and the majority of the people are bearing up wonderfully under an income tax or thirty three per cent. and an excess profit tax rate of 60 per cent. It is claimed by prominent men however that the latter tax is creating a state of extravagance as the merchants are turning the profits back into luxurious buildings and alterations.

Immigrant Arriving.

Immigration to Canada has commenced in earnest and the boat "Canada" upon which Mr. Grant returned brought over some two hundred and fifty. These he said were of a fairly good class but due to exchange difficulties brought over but little money. Most of the immigrants were induced to come to Canada by the hope of bettering their living standard, they believing that the high cost of living here would not be as bad as a home.

Business Prosperous.

Business in the British Isles is very prosperous and new industries are opening up daily, due probably to England finding out her power to produce what she had formerly bought from Germany. In spite of this German goods are finding their way back to the English market again.

Socialism.

Socialism is rampant in Scotland but so many factions have sprung up each calling themselves by some different name it is difficult to follow the course of the movement. The soap box orators at times refer in the vilest of language to the King, the Prime Minister and the upper classes.

In Scotland there is a bill passed applying to Scotland only, whereby the government will endeavour to introduce local option and a plebecite will be taken at the end of the year. The liquor interests, however, are very well organized and it is questionable whether it will go through as the general sentiment seems to be against outside interference. Whiskey is selling in Scotland under a controlled price of $3.50 a bottle.

Housing Problems.

The housing problem in England is even worse than in Canada. The war time law, prohibiting the expelling of tenants, still exists and the land owners are not allowed to raise rentals above the existing prices. There is a law, however, passed with in the last few weeks authorizing a thirty per cent. raise which is bitterly resented through the country.

Sewerage Disposal.

In conversation with Mr. Tetley, ex-Lord Mayor of Bradford, England, Mr. Grant learned that sewerage disposal in Bradford is being operated to yield considerable revenue, through the by products of the plant.

These two officers it is stated have had long and intimate connection with the Canadian militia and rendered distinguished service overseas.

NOTHING KNOWN AT THE CAPITAL

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.— Nothing is known at present here of any arrangements for meeting of the British Premier with Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, as announced in a despatch from New York to-day. There is a general understanding among government members however that a conference of Premiers of overseas Dominions is likely to be held some time this year to discuss Anglo-Japanese alliance.

Lazy Stork Cuts Baby Carriage Trade in Half

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—A bit in advance of its figures on business conditions throughout the country, the United States Chamber of Commerce has let out information that the demand for baby carriages has fallen off just one-half in the last six months.

A number of reasons are suggested for this stagnation in the baby buggy business. Housing conditions are poor nearly everywhere. Domestic servants, to act as chauffeurs for the infant riders, are few and far between. The cost of baby carriages has gone skyward along with everything else.

The really big underlying reason for this trouble though, according to the manufacturers, is that the birth rate has fallen off alarmingly. They insist the lazy stork is more to blame than any other single cause.

GIRLS TO USHER AT THE GRAND

On Monday the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., took over the work of ushering at the Grand Theatre, and are supplying six of the members for each of the shows to be put on. Another welcome addition to the Grand much appreciated by the theatre-goers is the alterations to the stage setting —very handsome furniture, floor lamps, and curtains having replaced the wings at the side and back of the stage, which give the necessary air of luxury to the show. Having studied the theatrical profession for a number of years throughout the big cities of America, Mr. Phillips, the resident manager, has brought the handling of a theatre down to a fine point, and is making any alteration, regardless of expense, for the comfort of theatre-goers.

CANADA IN BELGIUM.

Canada's little band of athletes in the Olympic Games at Antwerp have not been overly successful but there is no reason why some newspapers should deprecate the sending of a team to the International athletic contests. No matter how the handful of athletes to wear the maple leaf — there are only thirty of them altogether against three thousand of the world's picked athletes—may fare in the Olympic competitions, Canada's laurels as far as Belgium is concerned were won early in 1015 when the first Canadian contingent stopped the Huns at Ypres. The Canadian athletes, who are giving of their best in an effort to win further honours for Canada, include some of those who did their bit in the bigger game that was fought from 1914 to 1918. They may not win many points in the Olympic Games, but they will go down fighting against odds just as so many of their comrades went down in the World War, and there is no reason for Canadians to hang their heads over the showing of the maple leaf athletes. Canada's fame in Belgium is too deep set to be shaken by failure on the running path or in any of the other events in the Olympic programme.

FREIGHT RATES.

There is much truth in the advice tendered by The Farmers' Sun to the Railway Commission to remember that the whole is greater than a part and that the prosperity of the whole Dominion is more important than that of a few privileged railway shareholders or a few thousand railway employees. The application to increase freight rates is undoubtedly an attempt on the part of the railways to shoulder their troubles on to the public. Railway unions demand more and more money in salaries, and the management has found it much more convenient to give them what they ask and then present the bill to the people than it is to cut into their own revenues or fight the unions. There is no prophesying were the matter will end if the present application is successful. If the railway employees know that any demand for wage increases, no matter how unreasonable it may be, will be granted by the companies, the latter confident that the public will have to furnish the funds, it is certain that further requests will not be long in making their appearance.

STONEY LAKE SERVICE.

If the Railway Committee of the Board of Trade has not already considered this matter, the members might find a profitable field for action in undertaking to effect, if possible, an improvement in train accommodation to Stoney Lake and other Kawartha Lake points. Doubtless the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association would be glad to co-operate in such a movement and ready with suggestions that would improve the conditions.

Stoney Lake is an asset to Peterborough to an extent that is scarcely realised, and anything that could be accomplished by the Board of Trade along the line suggested would be a profitable investment. A conservative estimate of the number of people temporarily domiciled at the Lake last week, the height of the season, is 3,500. In other words, there were half as many people visiting at various points on Stoney Lake last week as live in Lindsay. And Peterborough supplies nearly all the necessities of life for that big summer population. By far the greater part of their supplies are either bought directly in this city or from the lake stores, which are in turn stocked from Peterborough, so that it is distinctly to the advantage of the city that any action that will make conditions more comfortable and convenient for these hundreds of visitors should be taken. That there is room for improvement is admitted.

WAR TALK.

Most of the papers in England and Canada and most of the English statesmen are engaged in discussing the pleasant possibility of a war with Russia, instead of emphasising its disastrous probability. There is no imperial sentiment behind any movement for war with Russia, it is extremely doubtful if there is even a national sentiment in favour of such a move. There exists a general impression that the Polish situation has been badly handled, and that the plight in which the Poles now find themselves is largely their own fault and partly the fault of the Allies in not taking very urgent steps to prevent the Poles from making their mad assault on Bolshevist Russia. The Allies are in an awkward position. Their efforts to stabilise Russie were successful in one way; they solidified the Russian Empire into a strong Bolshevist state. This should have satisfied them, but it is alleged, with apparently some reason ,that the implements of war and the financial backing of war were supplied by France and England to the Poles, who went to war out of motives of pure national self-interest. The Poles invaded Russia and the Allies watched the event with sympathetic eyes. The Russians rallied and drove the Poles back. The Allies, in alarm, immediately call upon the Russians to make peace with Poland. The answer of the Russians is the only answer that could reasonably be expected. They recommend the Allies to go to the devil. Apparently the only thing that can prevent a clash is the immediate announcement on the part of England and France of a determination to deal in future with the Russians as a competent nation, and not as a band of unattached outlaws. War is something that should be prevented at almost any cost. It is impossible to foresee the result of another general European conflict which would be almost sure to follow direct hostilities between France and England and Russia, but there is no possibility of any result that would not be desperately disastrous. It is difficult to see how war, at the present time, could mean anything but the utter collapse of Europe, the disappearance of thrones, governments, and boundaries, the cancellation of law, the overthrow of finance, and the destruction of organised production. Th last war brought honour and victory to the Allies; it showed that modern man was capable of tremendous endurance and unthinkable sacrifice, but every man who lived in those interminable trenches during those interminable days knows that the whole business was inhuman, terrible beyond imagination, cruel beyond expression, unreasonable, devilish, vile, and horrible. The resurrection of such a thing by the madness of a handful of Poles is intolerable.—Turner's Weekly.

AFRICAN PRINCE RIDICULES MOVE FOR BLACK STATE

NATIVE KINGS WOULD OBJECT TO INTRUSION OF AMERICAN NEGROES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.— Marcus Garvey, leader in the movement to reclaim Africa for the negro, and the members of the Universal Negro Improvement Association are likely to have a discouraging task if they attempt to set up a nation or impose a ruler on the native Africans, according to Prince Madarikan Deniyi, of Lagos, Nigeria. The Prince, who is in New York learning to operate a motion picture camera so as to entertain his people when he returns home in a few months, called at the Times office yesterday and registered a protest against the "Free Africa" movement.

"I cannot understand what Garvey means when he says that the negro intends to plant the banner of freedom on the continent of Africa," Prince Madarikan said. "The African negro enjoys the greatest freedom and resents the interference of outsiders. He certainly would not stand for interference on the part of North American negroes who are the descendants of slaves.

"If it is impossible for a slave to become a native chief or king in Africa at present, Marcus Garvey or his friends certainly have not a chance of ever holding office and guiding the destinies of the people of his race. There is no friction, generally speaking, in Africa, and there will not be unless outsiders come in and stir up trouble. The native chiefs and kings perform their functions unmolested by the Governments owning the territories."

The Prince then gave out the following statement:

"Africa is a large continent, divided into States just as other continents. Each State has so many black Kings, chiefs and Presidents that one King alone cannot control the whole State on account of the various tribes. As it is impossible for the Governor of New York State to control the Governor of Missouri in North America, so it is impossible for the King of Abyssinia in Northeast Africa to control the native Kings and chiefs in West Africa. Therefore Marcus Garvey, a native of British West Indies, cannot elect himself as the new leader of the world or President of Africa to rule the African people and control 300,000,000 black people in the world.

"He can only have himself elected as President of the Universal Negro Improvement Association in New York City. The black republic of Liberia in. West Africa has elected her own President, and Marcus Garvey must respect him if he intends to establish headquarters of the association there. The native chiefs and Kings will not allow any new negro leader to bring his schemes and tricks into those States. The trouble with Marcus Garvey and his followers is that they talk too much."

20,000 IN AMERICA ARE MILLIONAIRES

THAT NUMBER HAVE INCOMES OF $50,000 A YEAR, THEY REPORT TO REVENUE BUREAU.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Millionaires are growing as fast as weeds in the United States. Already about 20,000 residents of this country have sworn that their incomes during 1919 reached $50,000 a year. And a man with an income of $50,000 is classed as a "millionaire," inasmuch as that is the lowest probable return on $1,000,000.

However, not all of these "millionaires" are actually the possessors of $1,000,000. Men with incomes of $50,000 as salaries would come in this classificataion, and many of these have no large sums in bank. Some indeed, live on their salaries and have no investments.

But contrasted with these "millionaires" are the two million persons in the United States whose incomes are $2,000 or less. The Internal Revenue Bureau estimates that half of the 1,000,000 individuals who have rendered statements come within the $2,000 class.

There are two men in the country who have incomes above $3,000,000 annually, twenty-eight with incomes above $2,000,000, and thirteen with incomes between $1,5000,000 and $2,000,000. It is said 162 have incomes of $1,000,000, and ninety possess incomes of more than $750,000.

More than 6,000 of the men with incomes of more than $50,000 live in New York State, and about half of these reside in New York City. Of the twenty-eight richest men in the United States about half also live in New York State. Two of them reside in Delaware and are said to have engaged in munition making on a large scale. Another whose name is celebrated lives in Michigan. One lives in Ohio, two in Pennsylvania, one in Texas and one in Rhode Island. Of course, the identity of these men is secret, but the fact that they live in certain States establishes their identity with many persons.

RED CROSS SAVED RUSSIAN GENERAL

WRANGEL OBTAINED CLOTHING FROM UNIT AFTER FLIGHT.

SEBASTOPOL, Aug. 17.—General Baron Peter Wrangel, the new leader of the volunteer forces in Russia, is commonly supposed to be of German or Russian origin. Neither of these beliefs is correct. The Baron is of Swedish lineage, his great forefather having fought in the Thirty Years' War. The Wrangel line is still in Sweden. One branch of it settled in Germany, which explains the fact that there is a Baron Wrangel in Berlin today. Another branch went to the Baltic provinces when they were under the control of Sweden.

At the battle of Poltava in 1709 when the forces of Peter the Great opposed those of Charles the Twelfth of Sweden, there were six Wrangels on the former's side and six on the latter's. The present General Wrangel's forefathers became landowners in the south of Russia in the reign of Catherine the Great. The general's home is in Rostov. Wrangel Island, northwest of Alaska, is named after the Wrangel family.

Contrary to popular belief, General Wrangel is not a Cossack, but wears the uniform of a Cossack. He is about 42, tall, lithe and slender. He is a man of great force of character and of strong convictions. His friends describe him as "tenacious, determined and steel willed." He is a brilliant cavalry officer and was the most successful general in the army of General Denekine, whom he succeeded as commander-in-chief.

He has a wife and three children, who are being looked after by the American Red Cross on the island of Prinkipe, near Constantinople. His wife was a Red Cross nurse throughout the great war and accompanied her husband on all his military expeditions. On one occasion when the Bolsheviks confiscated all her surgical instruments, dressings and medicines, Baronness Wrangel carried her "first air" outfit in a hat box along the line of march and gave prompt treatment to the sick and wounded.

One of the stories that the general's friends like to tell about him is how he was left without clothing at the last battle of Rostov. The Red army had advanced upon the city so rapidly that there was no chance for anyone to get away with anything except their lives. The general's entire adornment consisted of a pair of pyjamas. Then the Red Cross Unit attached to the Volunteer Army came to the rescue and gave the baron a complete outfit of clothes and shoes.

WOMAN CLAIMS SHE WAS "LEASED" TO COLORED MAN

LONDON, Aug. 17.— At Pontypridd, in an affiliation case, Ada Harris, the applicant, admitted in cross-examination by Mr. Harold Lloyd that she had been "leased" to a colored man for eight years and two children had been born. At the expiration of the contract he had desired its renewal, but she refused. She then kept company with a Mountain Ash collier, named Charles Manley, who, she alleged, was the father of the third child.

A sister-in-law of the applicant admitted full knowledge of the "lease" referred to.

The Bench made an order of 7s. 6d. a week against Manley.

The Simplicity of a

MAXWELL

is Due to Special Steels

A Maxwell is a simple car. Its engine, axles, clutch, transmission and gears are the utmost in simplicity, which is the goal of scientific engineering.

Special steels have made this possible. They are steels made to Maxwell's own formulae, the result of thousands of tests and years of analysis.

In this way complicated construction has been avoided. Simple design has naturally followed and to this simplicity rare strength has been added by the use of these special steels.

Strains, twists, thrusts, shocks and blows are protected against in many other cars by reinforcements, extra weight in metals used, and a design that obviously is anything but simple.

In a Maxwell this simplicity has made the car easier to build, and it therefore is better built, easier to drive, and easier to care for.

That this should win friends for Maxwell is almost too obvious to call attention to.

Nearly 400,000 persons now drive a Maxwell, which is a very definite endorsement.

"I don't know," she said, shaking her head. "I wonder."

'I have no hard feelings towards her—now," he said slowly. "I've been responsible for much. At the bottom of course, we should never have married, that's the plain fact. All other explanations are beside the point. I have left the matter in her hands." He stopped and then added significantly, "I think I know what she will do"

'You are quite sure that this will mean nothing to you?" she said, resting her glance on him a moment.

"It may mean everything to me," he said directly. "You must understand, of course, what I mean."

She nodded and looked away.

"You are fortunate."

"I?" he said, startled.

"You have no children," she said sadly. "Children complicate everything!"

"Good heavens, Irma," he exclaimed, 'you are the one I marvel at—how can you go on?"

"And yet I do."

"But why—why?" he cried. "Every one knows the situation. No one would blame you." He checked himself. "I won't talk of that to-day—your side of it—but you must have considered possibilities."

"Considered! Of course, of course!"

In the distance he saw the lazy pennants of the Yacht Club and the thronged piazzas.

"Some time we will talk the future over honestly, without fear,—not now," he said hurriedly. "There's a big life ahead for both of us."

She did not answer. Her head bent, her glance deep in the multicolored bouquet of sweet peas.

"You understand," he said gently. He laid his hand over hers. His touch had always a magnetic power over her. She looked up at him, a smile on her lips, sadness in her eyes.

"What a pity, Andrew!" she said, shaking her head. "If I thought you could be happy with her, I would sacrifice myself—oh, yes, a hundred times over."

"No, no, not you—wait, wait a little longer," he said huskily, and his hand closed over hers in a sudden tension which woke up Mon Amour and sent him into a furious yapping.

VI

Amy Forrester was already in the white throng which crowded the veranda and streamed over the green lawns. She came up bravely to meet them, waving her handkerchief.

"Good gracious, what lazy people! Really, Irma, if you run away with my husband like that, I shall be getting jealous," she exclaimed loud enough for several persons to hear.

"Is she going to fight for him?" thought Irma, while Andrew was divided between irritation at an attitude which he knew to be false and admiration for the gameness with which she bore it.

"Well, she stands up to the guns," he thought gratefully Under the merciful shade of the lace sun hat she wore, he detected the shadows of a sleepless night. Unaccustomed to the manners of society, to its stoic etiquette and its hidden sorrows, its ambuscades, its treacheries and its smiling hatreds, it shocked him profoundly to see the two women join arms and move into the crowd. He followed more slowly, revolting at the comedy he saw they would be forced to play.

"Is there an interesting match on?' said Irma mechanically.

"Yes, inded, Tody and Jap are playing against the Bartons, one set all," she answered. The pressure of Irma's arm burned her. Yet, determined on her role, she said with calculated lightness, "Why all this mystery, dear? Only too delightful if you'll wake Andrew up a bit. It's just what he needs!"

Despite the nonchalance of her words, her eyes fastened eagerly on Irma, seeking to learn from her expression the true state of affairs. All night long, in wakeful turning hours, she had asked herself how far it had gone? What was she capable of? Was it possible that Irma herself cared; and if she did, what then?

"Of course you'll think I'm fibbing," sai Irma pleasantly, "but it really was an accibental meeting."

"And his going for you this morning was too, I suppose?" said Amy quietly, "Oh, Irma, Irma, at least play the game."

"What was I thinking of to come here with him?" thought Irma uneasily. The ring of emotian in Amy's voice made her wonder how far she could trust to the other's breeding—some women would make a nasty scene.

"Where is Monte—this morning?" she said pleasantly.

"It is serious. He has told her everything," Amy thought instantly. They were by the tennis courts, picking heir way through the crowd on the lawn to their seats which Gladys Challoner was holding for them. Above, on the elevated stand, Monte Bracken was refereeing the match. He looked up, started, at their arrival, and then ceremoniously lifted his hat in response to Irma's fluttered waving.

"There'," said Amy to herself, studying the faces which turned curiously toward them, "if any one has seen them together, he'll know now how perfectly indifferent I am to what they do."

She did not see clearly what was happening on the courts. Tody and Jap were baunding about, indulging in antics which set the crowd in roars of laughter. She saw only the faces of Irma and Andrew at her side and at times, far off as in a mist, the glance of Monte Bracken turning toward her. When the match ended and the crowd rose to return to the veranda, Ktity Lightbody, jubilant at the victory of the boys came up rapturously.

'Wasn't it grand, my dear; wasn't Tody just splendid? I won a hundred on them bless them!" She drew Amy aside and whispered, "Well, you might thank me!"

"Thank you? What do you mean?" said Amy. She was watching Irma.

"For leaving you alone with Monte of course," said Kitty, astonished.

Amy was so irritated at this unwelcome reminder that she lost her temper.

'Kity, don't be a fool! You know perfectly well that I'm exceedingly annoyed at what you did."

"Annoyed!" said Kitty, so startled that the china eyes rolled comically.

'Certainly annoyed. You made a very embarrassing situation for me. The last thing I wanted was to go home alone with Monte Bracken. I don't see how you could have been so thoughtless."

"But, my Lord, you needn't be so fierce! You weren't really alone,' said Kity indignantly. "And say, look here, who wanted to get rid of Tody in the first place?"

Amy was aghast. She had blundered again.

"I'm sure I didn't mean to be cross," she said hastily. 'Forgive me, but I particularly don't want to be talked about, as you ought to know."

She left Kitty Lightbody, still murmuring in her astonishment, and went in quest of the others. She had already forgotten her, her mind intent on surprising the two in some revealing moment. Brocken was talking to Irma. During the morning he had studously avoiding Amy, divining the irritation his presence might bring. She came up restlessly.

"Monte, you lunch with us—get a table for four!" she said, determined to carry out her part to the end.

"And Kitty and the others?" he said, seeking a way out from this tragic intimacy.

"Oh, they'll manage for themselves!"

He started to object, saw how agitated she was, and finally bowed acquiescence. "Yes, very glad to."

She would have liked to have carried Monte away from Irma, but for fear of showing too much eagerness she left them and went up herself to select a table.

Andrew was standing on the steps taking to Mr. Gunther and a group of the older men, who were listening to his exposition of Mexican affairs.

GERMAN PAPER SUITS UNFIT FOR WEAR HERE

THEY STICK TO ONE IN HOT WEATHER AND HAVE TO BE REMOVED IN PIECES, CHICAGO MAN SAYS.

NEW YORK, August 18. — Walter H. Burton, a Chicago woollen merchant, who returned from Europe last week, said at the Waldorf-Astoria that the paper suits made in Germany, which were apparently being boosted by certain officials of the Administration in Washington, would be of no use in this country on account of the heat.

"During the long war," Mr. Burton continued, "the Germans had to fall back upon all kinds of materials to make clothing out of as they had no wool or cotton to make cloth. Their manufacturers did wonders with paper. They made shirts, underwear of all sorts, collars, caps, sheets, towels and bed coverings. The tablecloths in the hotels when I was in Germany three weeks ago were nearly all made of paper except at the Atlantic Hotel in Hamburg, which is owned by the Hamburg-American Line, and has been furnished from the supplies that were intended for the ships.

"The paper suits and underwear are all right to keep people warm in cold weather, but they are very trying in the summer, even in Germany, where the temperature is much lower than in New York, and there is less humidity.

"The underwear and the shirts stick to one when they become soaked through with perspiration, and have to be removed in pieces. The suits look to be O.K. until the rain comes, and then good bye clothes. They shrink up and are apt to fall apart suddenly in a maner that causes confusion to the wearer. People who wear these paper suits have to take to shelter directly a shower comes on and then wait until it is over which might mean several hours.

Mr. Burton said that he saw good serviceable suits sold retail in London in the stores of Maabs Deely, a member of Parliament, and other tailoring establishments, for the equivalent of $14 in American currency. He added that the duty on low grade woollens in the United States was about 35 per cent., so that allowing for duty, freight and profit the suits could be imported and retailed here at $30 each for the coming winter. The fit was not quite the regulation Fifth Avenue style he added, but with a little alteration would be quite presentable and would wear well for business purposes.

FARMER'S SCHEME TO SECURE HIRED MAN

Last summer a farmer living in Victoria county had much difficulty in ting a hired man to stay on the job. Man after man would start, but after working just a few days would quit. Finaly he got up a notice and tacked it up at his front gate, with the result that he got a man who stayed wih him unil freeze-up. The notice read: Hired man wanted—Hired girl is a good looker; piano music every evening, pie three times a day, three spoons of sugar with every cup of coffee, hammock, feather beds or leather couch at your option for sleeping, free use of the automobile. Rising hours at 9 a.m., three hours rest at noon, quit work at 5. The boss tends to the horses, milks the cows and feeds the hogs.

Remain an Owner of Victory Bonds

You are now an owner of bonds. That experience, prior to the Dominion of Canada Loans, was widely believed to be reserved for the wealthy only.

You are satisfied with your purchase—that goes without saying!

The Minister of Finance announces that "Canada has finished borrowing". You therefore possess bonds of an issue which will not be added to, and for which the demand will increase as time passes. This means eventual enhancement in value.

Your first concern should be to hold the bonds you already own, and as you have cultivated the habit of thrift, your next and wisest step is to add to your holdings as substantially as your income will permit.

We recommend 1934 Maturity Victory Bonds at 96 and interest, yielding nearly 6%.

The Truth About Telephone Profits

IN 1879 the telephone business in Canada was disjointed.

In 1880 a number of men determined to link up the scattered companies, improve their equipment, standardize their methods and give better telephone service. This was the Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

Like Christopher Columbus in his quest of a new road to Cathay, like most leaders of great enterprises, the new company was moved by the ancient and honorable desire for profit.

And it made a profit.

But the venture was new, the future so uncertain, that the company decided that adequate provision must be made for replacements, for emergencies and the requirements of an ever changing art.

Surplus earnings were re-invested in the business and a margin of safety built up.

The wisdom of creating this fund was soon apparent. The constant demands for replacements and extensions were met without too frequent appeals for new capital.

Not unnaturally the shareholders expected—and with good enough reason—that the earnings of these new extensions of service would be added to their own profits—that their self restraint would bear fruit.

But as a matter of fact the benefit did not go to the shareholder but to the subscriber. The increasing costs of operating the telephone system ate up all the profit there might have been on the newly extended plant. The re-investment merely enabled the company to continue its moderate dividends on the shareholders' initial investment without any increase in telephone rates commensurate with the increase in costs.

That is the story of the Bell Telephone Company's profits. Every cent of its surplus and reserve amounting to over $20,000,000 is re-invested in the business.

This then is the answer to those who say, "Let the Company use its Surplus and Reserve if it wants new capital"!

It has already used these funds!

The only hope of obtaining such sums as the $10,000,000 essential this year for extensions, lies in the sale of new securities.

Last year telephone rates yielded barely enough to earn 4% on the company's telephone property. This year they will earn even less!

Are You Sinking Into the Rut of Ill-Health Because Your Blood Is Starving For Iron?

Physician Explains Why Modern Methods of Living Sap the Iron From The Blood and Why So Many Men and Women Are Benefited By The Strength-Giving, Up-Building Effect of Organic Iron like

NUXATED IRON

Many a man or woman is wearily trudging along the road of life steadily becoming more weakened and run-down simply because their blood is getting thin, pale and watery—starving for a want of strength-giving iron. At any moment they run the risk of sinking into the Rut of Ill-Health, and by not building up their physical condition in time—they often sentence themselves to a lifetime of misery and regrets.

"Without iron there can be no strong, sturdy men or healthy, beautiful women," says Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, in commenting upon how the strain of modern methods of living sap the iron from the blood and break down the health and strength.

"Seldom do you find a weakling in a place of real power. The men who reach the top in business are those who do not neglect their physical or mental development. The women who become the front in commercial or social life, and the ones who are most successful in the home are those who realize the value of health.

"You can look around and see any number of such people and you can tell that every one of them is possessed of rich, red blood—the kind with plenty of iron in it to build strength and energy. Yet, there are thousands of people who are weak, nervous and run-down for the lack of iron and do not know what to take. In cases of this kind, I always prescribe organic iron like Nuxated Iron for I find that by enriching the blood and creating new red blood cells, it helps strengthen the nerves, rebuild the weakened tissues and give renewed energy to the whole body. Through my own tests of Nuxted Iron I am convinced it is one of the best strength and blood builders any physician can prescribe."

Among other physicians to comment on the need of rich, red blood to increase the power and endurance of weakened, run-down men and women, is Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Out-door Dept.), N. Y., and the Westchester County Hospital, who says: "There is little doubt, in my opinion, that many men and women would be stronger, more energetic and vigorous in body and mind, and therefore more successful in life, if they would only enrich their blood with organic iron and thus fortify and invigorate their whole system.

"There can be no success or happiness without the rich, red blood—full of iron—that always goes with health. Wherever you go you can tell the fellows with iron in their blood; they are the strong, vigorous, dominant, successful ones brimming over with Life and Energy. In my opinion, the best way to build up the strength and endurance is to take organic iron—Nuxated Iron. I have prescribed it with remarkable results and in many instances it has increased—the strength and endurance in two weeks' time. I cannot recommend it too highly for men or women who are weak, nervous and run-down."

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Each tablet of genuine Nuxated Iron is stamped as follows and the words Nuxated Iron are stamped into each bottle, so that the public may not be led into accepting inferior substitutes. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in tablet form only by all druggists.

ASK REMOVAL OF DUTY FROM IMPLEMENTS

FARMERS ALSO WANT BRITISH GOODS ALLOWED IN FREE.

WINNIPEG, August 17. — The elimination of the duties now levied on farm implements entering this country and the taking off within five years of duties now levied on British goods coming into Canada, will be asked for by the representatives of the United Farmers of Alberta who will appear before the tariff commission hearing in Winnipeg, September 15th. This announcement was made by W. R. Wood ,Secretary of the United Farmers.

D. J. Dyson, President of the prairie branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, said that the branch here would have representatives watching the proceedings.

He said that so far as he personally was concerned, he could see no grounds to oppose either of the requests to be made by the farmers. He declared that production was essential and he thought that no levies which interefered with production should be permitted.

RADIUM IS FREE FOR TREATMENTS

NEW YORK STATE TO OPEN PUBLIC CLINIC IN BUFFALO.

NEW YORK. Aug. 18.—The people of the State of New York own nearly a quarter of a million dollars worth of radium. Any one of the people is entitled to its use as a curative agent. And moreover, through the generosity of the State, any citizen of the United States is to be given permission to use its curative properties free, although the citizens of the State have first rights.

This is the first time in the history of civilization that a nation or a State has purchased a therapeutic agent for the sole use of its citizens. It is a step in methods of social science as well as an important step in medicine.

Director Harvey R. Gaylord, of the Institution for the Study of Malignant Deceases, on Sunday issued a statement which he declared "would account to the people of New York for the stewardship over the purchase of 2 1-4 grams of radium for which $225,000 was appropriated by the State."

"The experiment in state ownership of a therapeutic agent, as exemplified in the purchase of this radium for social utility, will have a far-reaching effect. This is a development of State medicine to which no one can object."

"Any citizen of the United States may avail himself gratuitously after October 15th of treatment with this radium, the first gram of which was delivered by the Radium Chemical Corporation of New York last week. Preference, however, will be given to citizens of New York State.

First Gram in Vaults.

"The first gram is now in the vaults of the institution, at Buffalo, and the appliances necessary for its use in the treatment of cancer are now in the course of construction. The engagement of a competent physician to work with this radium is also announced.

"The radium we are using is an American product, mined in Colorado, brought 2,000 miles across the continent in the form of 125 tons of carnotite ore to the extraction plant at Orange, N.J., where it is reduced by fractional crystalisation to its present form. The first purchase by any State of radium marks a step in the health activities of an American commonwealth.

"The value of radium has already arrived at a stage where states, and if necessary, the Federal Government, should make available gratuitously and beyond the realm of financial limitations, radium for cancer treatment.

"The usefulness of radium for the treatment of neoplasms is still in its infancy, but there are already certain kinds of cancer in which its use offers advantages, and the results are an improvement upon any means we have heretofore possessed. It must, however, be remembered that our main reliance in the treatment of cancer is surgery, but radium in combination with surgery frequently improves the prospective cure.

"The purchase of the radium has other significance than merely its use for the treatment of cancer. It gives an opportunity for research, and its use under scientific conditions is sure to increase our knowledge of cancer.

PLACED IN CANADA BY ENGLISH SYDICATE—AGGREGATE $7,500,000.

TORONTO, Aug. 18.—F. H. Yapp(secretary of the Canadian Woolen Manufacturers' Association, who has just returned from England, where he has been for some months negotiating business for the Canadian trade, brought back with him orders aggregating $7,500,000 for the textile manufacturers of Canada.

These orders were placed through an English financial syndicate who are representing Roumania and the goods will be shipped to that country. The orders are for cloth and knitted goods. Included in the orders for cloth are khaki serge, which is being purchased by the Roumanian Government for their troops. Other lines are frieze, curl cloth, blanket cloth and oxfords. The knitted goods include hosiery, sweaters, knitted underwear, jerseys and woollen socks.

Much More Business.

The business brought back by Mr. Yapp this last trip is supplementary to many millions of dollars' worth of business he has placed in Europe for Canadian textile manufacturers, and there are other orders awaiting him when he returns to England in two weeks' time to close out the business.

A meeting of the Canadian woollen manufacturers was held in Toronto last week, which was attended by about 90 mill representatives, and at which the orders were distributed.

Excellent Field.

At the meeting, Mr. Yapp said that Europe continued to offer an excellent field for Canadian products and that there was still much business to be had there in the various textile lines.

TWO WOMEN IN MORTAL COMBAT

INTERESTING FRACAS ON CHARLOTTE STREET LAST EVENING.

The peace of west Charlotte street, generally broken only by the "cut-outs" of speed fiends, suffered a shock last evening when a neighbours' quarrel led to words and blows.

The combatants, two women whose identity is unknown, met on Charlotte street near the corner of Downie street, and one immediately struck the other a blow between the eyes, saying, "I'll teach you to talk about me." The other retaliated with screams and for the next five minutes the two held a pow-wow. Violent action, however, was suspended and the two parted with divers and sundry remarks.

CLOCK CABLES ARE BEING REPLACED

Rust Eats Through Cables That Support 800-Pound Timepiece.

The Market Clock is being thoroughly overhauled for the first time in 22 years. It was stopped last Friday, and probably will not be running before a week from Monday. The firm of C. S. McClelland is working on it.

The exposed position of the clock makes it particularly susceptible to the action of the elements. The supporting cables become easily rusted, and unless kept clean and well scraped, are likely to be eaten by the rust. Should the cables break, the 800-pound clock would fall through the two floors. In fear of this, the City Council some years ago had a buffer constructed below the clock to break the force of its fall should the cables ever give way.

Consequently it is necessary to inspect and repair the works frequently. This time, however, the whole clock is being carefully overhauled, cleaned, and repaired.

Women in Chicago Jail May Puff Cigarettes Now

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Captain George F. Lee, warden of Chicago's famous Cook county jail, has sanctioned smoking by women inmates of the jail. Captain Lee says: "The women prisoners are citizens just like the men. I 'won't' discriminate. Just as long as the women follow the army system of returning their burned match ends to their match boxes and don't throw them on the floor they are welcome to enjoy a nice little smoke like the men prisoners. We are living in an age of 'women's rights' and what's good for the men must be good for the women."

REGISTRATION CARDS TO GO POST FREE AGAIN.

Order for Their Prepayment Cancelled by Department.

OTTAWA, August 17.—The order issued a month ago by the Post Office Department that all registration cards for births and notices addressed to the City Hall must be prepaid by the sender, has been cancelled. Word to this effect was received to-day by City Clerk Lett.

The cancellation of the order means the restoration of conditions which existed during fifty years, when clergymen, doctors, etc., filled in forms on the registration cards and mailed them free of charge to the City Hall.

The decision to discontinue the charge for postage on registration cards, is most gratifying, as many people seemed unable to get accustomed to the idea of affixing stamps and this resulted in endless confusion and entailed considerable expense.

TRAGEDY SHOCKS BASEBALL WORLD

HUSTON ADMITS BITTERNESS LIKELY BECAUSE OF DEATH OF CHAPMAN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—New York baseball fans paid final tribute to-night to Ray Chapman, shortstop of the Cleveland American League team, whose death resulted early yesterday from the blow he received from a pitched ball in the game between New York and Cleveland.

During the day, while the players body lay at the undertaker's rooms, hundreds of baseball fans called there to view it, and last night a large crowd gathered at the Grand Central. The assemblage acted as an escort as the coffin was placed on a trunk car that carried it through the station to the train. The fans formed an aisle near the gates, and stood with bared heads as the car bearing the body of the dead ball player passed through. While the death of Chapman has caused sorrow among baseball magnates, players and fans, none seemed as deeply grieved over the accident as Carl Mays, the New York underhand pitcher, who delivered the ball in the game that resulted in Chapman's death.

Mays Overcome by Grief.

After the game Mays went to his room and denied himself to all, even his intimate friends and teammates on the New York club. He paced the floor of his room during the night, and when word came to him that Chapman had died, he pitcher broke down completely, and said he desired to give himself up to the District Atorney as soon as possible.

On his visit to the District Attorney's office, Mays was accompanied by Charles McManus, business manager of the Kilties, Manager Tris Speaker and Secretary Walter McNichols of the Cleveland club.

Mays made his statement to Assistant Attorney John F. Joyce. The pitcher, eyes filled with tears, and barely able to tell his story, said:

"It was a straight, fast ball, and not a curved one. When Chapman came to bat, I got the signal for a straight fast ball, which I delivered.

"It was a little too close, and I saw Chapman duck his head in an effort to get away from the ball. He was too late, however, and a second later he fell to the ground. It was the most regrettable inciden of my career, and I would give anything if I could undo what has happened."

"Death Purely Accidental."

After hearing May's story, Mr. Joyce said he thought Chapman's death was purely accidental. Manager Tris Speaker of the Cleveland club, talking with Col. T. L. Huston, one of the owners of the Kilties, said the accident was unavoidable.

Grief for the popular shortstop cut deep into the hearts of his admirers here as soon as it became known that an operation had failed to save his life. The thought that the diamond tragedy would spoil the chances of both the Cleveland and New York teams for the American League pennant was general among the baseball fans.

At her hotel Mrs. Chapman, who entered an uneven race with death, last night, arriving from Cleveland several hours after her huhband breathed his last, refused to receive the proffered consolation of her husband's friends and team mates. Except for Tris Speaker she would see no one, spending the day in her room. Early in the day she announced her intention of going to the undertaking parlours, but later, when it was learned that the body could be moved to Cleveland on an early evening train, she changed her mind, and declared she would wait until her arrival at home.

An Inter-cranial Hemorrhage.

The post-mortem examination of the body brought no new information. According to the surgeon's report Chapman died from a blow on the left temporal region which fractured the skull, depressing a portion of the bone, which caused an inter-cranial hemorrhage.

Colonel T. L. Huston, part owner of the Kilties, said he was deeply touched by Chapmans death, though he refused to make any statement on behalf of the club. "I am terribly sorry that Chapman was killed," Mr. Huston said. "I'm sorry such an accident had to happen in our park or that any of our team had any connection with it. It is unfortunate that it should have been Mays who pitched the ball too, because of the publicity he has already had. I can't say any more than that."

Colonel Huston admitted there would be bitterness on the part of the players as the result of Chapman's death, but said he had assurances from Tris Speaker that he would do all possible to prevent an attitude of antagonism becoming general among Chapman's old team-mates. Thousands of fans, most of whom did not know that Chapman had succumbed to his injuries, gathered at the Polo grounds early to-day to see the scheduled game. They dispersed when told by league officials and a force of detecties that the shortstop had died and that the game had been called off.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor, — Dear Sir: I would like to ask you, and also your readers, if advertising such as that for the "Vanity Fair of 1920," is to be allowed?

I desire to enter my protest against it. It is not only shocking to one's religious feelings, but misquoting the Scriptures is a breach of good taste. And when one thinks of Who it was that gave the gracious invitation to "the weary and heavy laden," and the comfort it has been to countless numbers, it is unthinkable that it should be used in commercial advertising.

Yours truly,

MAY PUNISH LEADERS OF THOROLD RIOT

ARE WELL KNOWN TO POLICE AS NO ATTEMPT AT SECRECY

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 18.—The people of Thorold are breathing easier to-day because their town escaped the notoriety of ushering lynch law into Canada. Now that things have quieted down, people are asking themselves how Monday night's lawlessness could have been possible.

Counting the Cost.

The cost is to be counted now. The Town Hall,, which was partly destroyed by fire, had just been rebuilt and refitted at a cost of several thousands, and it will take over a thousand to repair last night's damage. the fire was started in the Assessor's office, and pracically everything in that office was destroyed, including the town sewerage plans, which cannot be replaced.

The floor of the hall where David McNeal and the police and reporters were besieged for seven or eight hours is covered with rocks and bricks, and the surprise is that some of the besieged men were not killed.

Proceedings Against Leaders.

It was stated here that proceedings are to be taken against the instigators of the riot. They are well known. All through the trying time yeserday afternoon these men could be seen by the besieged party from the windows, going about in the crowds, and the police named several. There are not the slightest attempt at secrecy or disguise. ? The men who rushed ino the Town Hall with armsful of hay and cans of gasoline and set the building on fire were plain to the view of the watching crowds and the police upstairs. One would have thought it was a bonfire they were making, as they could not have done it more openly. There seemed to be a spirit of "anything goes in order to get McNeil."

It was stated here by a man who was in the confidence of the plotters that McNeal's life, after all, was saved by the lucky incident of Reuben Boucock, the father of Margaret, attacking him in the court-room.

The Original Plot.

It has been arranged that there would be no disturbance, but that when McNeal was led down the stairs after the commitment he would be quietly taken from the two or three officers and hanged. Boucock had agreed not to make any move, but he says when McNeal called him a coward he lost control of himself. George F. Peterson, counsel for McNeal declares McNeal did not. All he said to Boucock was: "Let the law settle this thing, Reub."

Another Murder Theory.

Sentiment in Thorold with reference to McNeal's guilt is changed. Many were so impressed by his words last night, when he addressed the crowd fully convinced he was on the point of certain death, they believe he told the truth. The suggestion was made here that the same fiend who killed the Goldberg boy in Toronto and horribly mutiliated him might have killed Margaret Boucock.

McNeal Collapsed in Car.

David McNeal was given a quick trip from Thorold, the auto carrying him the ten miles in half an hour. He collapsed in the car. At Welland Jail he was given medical attention and he will be none the worse for the rough usage of the mob. He will not have to appear in Thorold again, but will have his trial at the coming Assizes.

George F. Peterson, his lawyer, said to-day he would apply for a change of vehue. "McNeal could not get a fair trial in Lincoln or Welland," he said. He blamed the newspapers for working up sentiment against his client unconsciously.

POST TOASTIES

WAR VETERANS UNDECIDED YET ON POLITICAL ACTION

FAILED TO REACH A DECISION LAST NIGHT, BUT WILL WATCH DEVELOPMENTS.

The Great War Veterans are still undecided and unpledged on the proposal to enter a candidate in west Peterboro's anticipated federal bye-elecion. Last nights' general meeting produced a long and illuminating discussion, but from all accounts the Veterans preferred to remain a little longer in the side lines as spectators of the shuffle that is already beginning to show distinguishable results.

In the meantime something may turn up and also the opinions of the Veterans may in contemplation of the prospects take clearer and more definite shape.

Last night's meeting brought out a frank exchange of ideas on the question of entering politics, and disclosed a rather strong sentiment among members of uncompromising opposition to factional politics. Veterans who view with misgivings the present breaking up of the Canadian electorate into groups that are animated by selfish interests advised the G.W.V.A. not to set up another faction. It was stated that the meeting unanimous that the returned men are entitled to consideration from the several parties in the selection of their respective condidates and also that the Association should at least take steps to press the claims they feel they have a right to urge.

Whatever service the veterans rendered individually to Canada during the war they realize that the ballot simply levels and equalizes all citizens, at the same time the G. W. V. A. principes of Canadianism are held as worthy of the support of every elector. It was reported that the Association was cauioned against any precipitate action that would not secure the unanimous support of the entire membership. It was also argued that the G.W.V.A. had mutual benevolent purposes which should take precedence over politics in the use of the Association's funds. In the event of an election some members felt that it might be sufficient to support any candidate whose personality and character appealed to the G.W.V.A. or pledges to the association would be as desirable as independent political action.

No action, however, was forthcoming from last night's meeting and the entire question is reported to be still in the air with the special committee to carry on in the meantime.

PURSE OF GOLD TO REV. JAMES PRICE

CONGREGATION OF ST. MARK'S CHURCH APPRECIATE PASTOR'S SERVICES.

As an evidence of the congregation's appreciation of his services and ministrations Rev. James Price was presented with a purse of gold this morning by Mr. John Dickson representing the people of St. Mark's Church, Otonabee. Rev. Mr. Price is returning to England next week after a pastorate of eight year's at St. Mark's and the congregation desired to give tangible expression to their regrets at his departure and to recognize Rev. Mr. Price's work and the harmonious relations that have prevailed during those eight years.

BRICKLAYERS QUIT TRADES COUNCIL

ACT UPON UNSATISFACTORY REPORTS FROM DELEGATES.

The Bricklayers and Masons' union at their regular meeting last night decided to withdraw from the Trades and Labour Council. The reason for severing their affiliation with the central Council is announced as being due "to the unsatisfactory reports of our delegates to that body."

"We intend to stay out of the Council until it is re-organized" said one of the members of the local. "Things have been going from bad to worse and we concluded that it was not in the interests of our Union to tolerate the conditions that have been developing in the Council for a year or more. If they suit the other locals they are welcome to them, but we certainly feel that a reorganization of the Council is in the interests of organized labour in this city."

It was stated that the Bricklayers' delegates have brought back reports to their local during the last year that were considered unsatisfactory. The resignation of two delegates last night brought the dissatisfaction to a head and the Union decided to cut adrift from the Trades Council. The delegates who resigned last night were Messrs. T. Parks and Fred Tuggey. Asked as to whether an aftermath of Mr. Tuggey's criticism of the Hunter street bridge work influenced him in resigning as delegate to the Council, one of the members said, "Well you know he got a raw deal up there."

Salvation Army Bandsman's Testimonial in Favour of

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets

Mr. Russell Reeve, 23 Cornhill St., Chatham, Ont., says:

Gentlemen: Just a few lines to thank you for the wonderful benefit I have received from Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. For 25 years or more I have suffered from Catarrh of the head, brought on by going under the water too much. I had a very disagreeable discharge from my ear, which was very annoying as well as loathsome. I had tried several different treatments that were recommended to me, but they did not appear to help me. I purchased a box of your Herb Treatment and after using it for a time the discharge had ceased and it has never bothered me for over a year. I am certainly gratefulful to your agent for ever selling them to me. You can use this letter in any way that you choose for the benefit of others.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are not a "Cure all." It is simply a combination of herbs, roots, barks and juice of fruits that act directly upon the important internal organs, aiding them to perform their functions properly and thus to expel wastes and poisons from the system. In this natural way the body is given a thorough internal cleansing and then the forces of Nature can act vigorously and freely in rebuilding and restoring the affected parts. Try a box and watch the results. Price, 25c, 50c and $1 per box at WARNE'S DRUG STORE, Peterborough.

BRIGHTON GAME STARTS AT 3.30

The Brighton team, which will clash with the Petes here on Saturday afternoon, are a pretty awkward proposition for any man's team, and the Solomon crew will have to be at their best to carry off the honours. Most of the Brighton players hail from across the line and they know the game thoroughly and know how to play it. The clash, although it is an exhibition affair, should be one of the best of the season. The fans are asked to note that it will be called at 3.30 instead of at 3, as announced on the bills. The Petes practice to-night and Saturday night in preparation for the game.

THE SIXTH ANNUAL FIELD DAY AT INDIAN RIVER

Will be held on Labor Day, Monday, September 6th, at Evans' Bridge, Indian River.

A fine programme of athletic sports has been arranged for, for which valuable prizes will be offered. There will be a baseball match for the Thompson Silver Cup, and a grand concert will be given in the evening.

Ice cream and hot tea will be served, but those attending are asked to bring their own refreshments, which will be partaken of in picnic style.

The last five field days held at Indian River have been exceptionally successful.

DAVE HILLYARD HAS PASSED AWAY

WELL KNOWN LONG DISTANCE HITTER OF 1913 PETERBORO CANADIAN LEAGUE CLUB IS DEAD.

Baseball fans who used to watch big Dave Hillyard of the 1913 Peterborough Canadian League Club punish enemy pitching at Riverside Park to all parts of the field, will be grieved to learn that he has passed away in Seattle after a short illness. Hillyard made a flock of home runs in the Canadian League and was one of the two players who succeeded in driving the ball over the top of the red barn in deep left field at Riverside park. Cunningham, the Hamilton pitcher, was the only other player who performed this feat. The Sporting News says of Hillyard::

"Dave Hillyard, who started the season as manager of the Seattle team of the Pacific International League, but soon resigned, died at his home in Seattle after an illness of less than a week. He was 29 years of age and was a native of Louisville, where he began his baseball career when the Louisville Club gave him a tryout in 1912. The next year, Johnny Ray, scouting for Decatur of the Three-I League, signed him for that club, but he joined the Peterborough team of the Canadian League instead. That fall Toledo drafted him, the Toledo Club then being owned by the Cleveland Americans and he played with the Cleveland-Toledo Association team in 1914, after which he went to the Far West, playing with Portland, Tacoma, Butte, Vernon and other clubs. When the war broke out he took charge of baseball activities in a Seattle shipyard and proved a capable manager, so that when the U.I. League was organized he was put in charge of the team. He could not make it a winner, however, and soon resigned as manager.

VANITY FAIR

Boyle Woolfolk, producer of many musical comedies of note, will present his latest and most brilliant musical comedy success, "Vanity Fair," at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, August 21st, matinee and night. Mark well the date. It is a genuine event of the theatrical season.

This musical comedy is presented exactly as it was seen in New York. During its long engagement, "Vanity Fair" was declared to be the finest musical comedy of the entire theatrical season; it has since then lived up to that reputation, being acclaimed wherever it is presented as one of the finest musical comedies of its kind ever presented in the theatre.

Mr. Woolfolk has spared nothing to make his presentation of "Vanity Fair" one of the high lights of the theatrical year. The cast stands for the best in the theatrical profession and the stage settings and costumes are more than elaborate. "Vanity Fair" comes here, heralded as something decidedly worth while. Theatregoers will never cease to regret it if they allow it to come and go without their seeing it. "Vanity Fair" is a genuine red letter event in the local theatre season.

"HELLO ALEXANDER"

The Mssrs. Shubert announce the engagement of the irrespressible and side-splitting old-timers, McIntyre and Heath, in the funniest vehicle yet provided for their mirthmaking. They will start creating miles and miles of smiles at the Grand to-morrow night. They will be seen in "Hello Alexander", a legitimate descendant of "The Ham Tree" and other productions made famous by the two most popular fun-makers in the world

"Hello Alexander" is by Edgar Smith and Emily M. Young, the lyrics by Alfred Bryans, and the music by Jean Schwartz. The American stage has not had two comedians who have equalled the popularity of James McIntyre and Thomas Heath. In their line they are inimitable. In their new musical comedy, "Hello Alexander," Edgar Smith and Emily M. Young have provided McIntyre and Health with a series of screamingly laughable scenes. Alfred Bryan who provided the lyrics, wrote "Peg O' my heart", "Joan of Arc," and a long list of song hits, and Jean Schwarts, who wrote the music for "Hello Alexander", supplied the music for McIntyre and Health's great success of years back, "The Ham Tree," Among those prominent in the cast are Homer Dickinson, and Gracie Deagon, Vivian Holt, Lillian Rosendale, Mabel Elaine, Betty Lewis Dorothy Moore, Dan Quinlan, Edward Scanlon, Dan McNeil Earl Richard, Phyllis Ray, Newport and Stirk, Chic Barrymore and others.

KAISER IN DEADLY FEAR OF TRIAL, REPORTS SAY

Reports from Holland have declared that the Kaiser is a broken man and that he is deadly in fear of being put on trial before the nations of the world. This conception of him is followed in "Beware," the motion picture sensation which will be shown at the Allen Theatre for two days, starting to-day. The story is by former Ambassador James W. Gerard, who represented the United States in Germany for two years after the other Allies had joined the conflict, and therefore is probably better informed as to the real German feeling since the start of th war than any other man. Mr. Gerard wrote "My Four Years in Germany," which will be long remembered among motion picture productions.

FREIGHT RATE INCREASE BEFORE RAILWAY BOARD

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, August 18.—The arguments by counsel was not proceeded with when the Railway Board this morning resumed its consideration of the application of the Canadian Railway Association for increased freight rates. It developed that there were few additional witnesses to be heard, but the chief interest in the sitting was centred in the cross-examination by counsel opposing the demands of the railways of W. J. Moule, the Canadian Pacific Railway's statistical expert, who last week submitted figures to show that without higher rates the company would have a deficit of $62,000 for the year which will close with 1st June, 1921.

A determined and sustained attack on these figures was inaugurated by A. C. McMaster, counsel for the Toronto Board of Trade, who submitted an imposing array of figures to show that the company's operations for the twelve months would show a surplus of at least nineteen million dollars.

Mr. Moule declared thot Mr. McMaster's calculations were fallacious, and maintained that in many respects his own calculations had been made up on too conservative a basis.

Examining Mr. Moule, S. Symington, counsel for the Government of Manitoba, brought out that if the railways had a natural increase of twenty per cent. in traffic over 1919 during the present year, and were also granted the rate advance requested, their total increase would amount to $243,000,000.

Of this amount the Canadian Pacific Railway would get 44 per cent., which would amount to $106,000,000. Mr. Moule would not state positively that an increase of twenty per cent. in traffic could be relied upon, but he agreed that it might be that much.

OPENING GAME ON THURSDAY

LINDSAY AND LAKEFIELD WILL MEET.

The first game in the O.B.A.A. intermediate series between Lindsay and Lakefield will be played at the Fair Grounds in Lakefield to-morrow afternoon, starting at four o'clock, with Alex Kay as umpire.

The Lakefield team took on the Bohunks for a final work-out last evening, the Peterborough team winning by 4 to 2. As the Bohunks defeated a team, picked from the Lindsay Town League and the Lakefield team to-morrow meet Veterans, the champions of that League, the dope indicates a merry battle.

The series has created considerable interest locally, and Peterborough fans will be well represented at the game. If a third game is necessary, it will be played at Riverside Park.

are very disconcerting to the individual and when appearing upon the face are especially annoying. Of course such symptons indicate that the blood and other circulations of the body are in bad condition. What to do?

Suppose you had a pail of water that was impure. Would it be better to put some other poison into the water to purify it, or would it be better to eliminate the impurities and stop them at the source?

No, the blood stream would not contain impurities if there was not a reason or a cause for it so to do. If poison cannot be eliminated normally from the body, they must remain in the blood stream and be excreted some other way. In the presence of the above symptoms it is obviously through the skin. VOL. VIII No 34 PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1920 PRICE THREE CENTS

WEST PETERBORO WILL BE CONTESTED LATER—MEETING IN EVERY PROVINCE FOR ORGANIZATION.

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.— The East Elgin by-election will be held on November 22; the Yale-Cariboo by-election, it is expected, will not be held much later. The "National Liberal and Conservative party" will have candidates in both constituencies. The nomination will be two weeks earlier. The reason alleged for the delay is to give the farmers a chance to vote and attend political meetings. The date for the West Peterborough by-election has not yet been announced.

From now on the new party will make strenuous efforts to regain the ground lost in the public estimation by the Government's determination to cling to office as long as it can be done.

Others Come Later.

West Peterborough, now vacated by J. H. Burnham, and Leeds, to be vacated shortly by Sir Thomas White, will be contested later. The steadiness of the Government machine when Parliament is called on January 20 next will depend much on what happens at the by-elections.

It will wobble badly if a Minister is defeated, and the East Elgin by-election result will be regarded as the handwriting on the wall. If the Government wins there will be celebrations; if not, sackcloth and ashes and noise of lamentations.

The Sing Sing Prison Paper is Discontinued

MYSTERY VEILS THE CAUSE

NEW YORK, Aug 18— Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing prison announced yesterday that the Sing Sing Bulletin, the prison newspaper, which had been in existence for twenty-one years under various names, had ben discontinued. The announcement was made when visitors to the prison asked for copies of the August issue, which was to have come off the presses yesterday. It came as a surprise to employees and prison attendants who believe that the suppression of the paper is due to political friction among State officials.

Warden Lawes would make no comment when asked why the paper had suspended publication. It is known, however, that the warden himself had nothing whatever to do with the move. On the contrary, he was very enthusiastic over the work the paper had been doing, and he had levoted considerable time to making it representative of the best in prison manage ment and administration. Recently an order came from the office of Charles F. Rattigan, State Superintendent of Prisons, ordering the warden to cut the monthly issue of the Bulletin from 5,000 to 1,500 copies.

"Did anybody in the State Prison Department suggest a further cut in the issue, or did they suggest doing away with it entirely?" Warden Lawes was asked.

"All that I can say," he replied, "is that the Bulletin has suspended publication."

Political Intrigue

It has been common gossip in State political circles within the last few months that a clique of politicians who possess considerable influence at Albany have been trying to hamper Warden Lawe's administration of Sing Sing in every way possible, and the suspension of the Bulletin is considered another attempt along this line. This clique opposed the appointment of Lawes from the beginning, but Gov. Smith ignored them and went personally to ask Lawes to take the job.

The reorganization of the Bulletin, among other things, increased the hostility of the politicians, who are the same group that Warden Edward V. Brophy said annoyed and embarrassed him until he had to resign to retain his self-respect," and it is believed in prison reform circles that they brought about the suppression of the prison paper.

B. Ogden Chisolm, who is prominent as a prison reform advocate, said yesterday that he had sent a protest to the Governor against the suspension of the paper. Prison employees believe that the Governor knew nothing of the matter until he received Mr. Chisolm's letter.

Ch'solm Protests.

"I learned about it," said Mr. Chisolm, "when I inquired at the prison office for a copy of the August issue I believe politics is behind it, and I think it is an outrage. I don't believe that Gov. Smith will stand for it."

The Bulletin was the first prison newspaper published in the United States, and has always been regarded with much interest by prison reform workers. It was started by Warden Omar V. Sage in 1899 under he name of the Start of Hope. It was then a bi-weekly. Warden Thomas Mott Osborne started another newspaper, the Bulletin, in 1915, and two years later this paper and the Star of Hope were consolidated under the name of The Star Bulletin.

Last winter Warden Lawes, put Charles E. Chapin, formerly city editor of the Evening World and now in Sing Sing for the murder of his wife, in charge of the paper as editor and changed the name to the Sing Sing Bulletin.

SUGAR STILL ON THE DOWN GRADE

LOWER PRICE QUOTED IN VANCOUVER—REFINERIES FACE A LOSS

No set price is quoted in the city for sugar as the prices vary according to the supply the retail men have on hand, but there is no doubt the market is broken. Yesterday one wholesale man offered a George Street merchant yellow and white as low at $21 a bag fo.b. in Toronto, and the retail price will probably come down materially in the city in the course of a week.

Large Stocks.

All the refineries are quoted as having big stocks on hand and should the predicted slump come they stand to lose heavily. One refinery stated yesterday that if the price slides much lower his firm will lose several million dollars.

To The Examiner to-day Mr. J. H. Burnham says that he feels it his duty to call the attention of the electors to the fact that if Mr. Meighen's Ministers are defeated on 20th September, the Prime Minister must go back to the Governor-General and tell him that the people have rejected his Ministers, and then Mr. Meighen must hand in his resignation. It is quite plain that the Government has decided to hold no more bye-elections until this crucial fact is decided. That the Ministers will be defeated is almost certain, and candidates being brought out here should, to prevent confusion, be those who intend standing at the general election for all Canada, which will be, beyond doubt, called for December or earlier.

VARIOUS MUNICIPALITIES WILL JOIN IN THE MOVEMENT TO OPPOSE COMPANY'S REQUEST—RATES ARE CONSIDERED TO BE TOO DRASTIC.

TORONTO, Aug. 18. — From the tenor of public opinion throughout the country it now looks as though there will be organized oposition to the increased rates asked for from the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners by the Bell Telephone Co.

In Toronto every business and commercial house holds that its office expenses would be considerably swollen by the increased rates applied for, and most of them quite frankly admit that it would be the "dear public," from whom the Bell Company would ultimately get their additional millions in rates.

While organized oposition by various public bodies has not yet been aranged such action is confidently looked for.

Officials of the various associations were reluctant to speak yesterday on behalf of the bodies with which they were connected. Several of these organizations however are expected to hold executive meetings to consider the question within a few days, including the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Board of Trade, the Wholesale Grocers' Association, the Stock Exchange Committee and the Bond Dealers' Association. It is possible that action similar to that announced in Montreal, will be taken in Toronto, namely the holding of a citizens' mass meeting to make plans to fight the company's demands.

Says it's a Bluff.

J. C. Marriatt, president of Toronto's Board of Trade, said: "I really think that their application is so extraordinary and so excessive as compared with anything that was needed in the past to maintain their dividends, renewals and depreciation, that I can only assume that they are asking something which will stun the public in the hope that they may succeed in obtaining a portion of their demands,"

But he thought the public would be willing to pay what increase the company really need, in fairness; this to be determined after a complete and exhaustive examination of the company's books and resources.

C. Elvin, the advertising manager of the Imperial Life Assurance Co. declared his offices' phone bill would be increased by about $1850 a year. The message rate would also tend to hold up business, he believed, adding that in his opinion, this was not justified and pointing out that the servce was poor. However, he was opposed to public ownership of the telephone.

Want the Earth.

A. W. Carrick thinks the Bell Company want the earth. Their attitude is hogging and greedy, he said, and he urged a conference of merchants in opposition to the rates. "The Telephone Company has received many concessions from the Government, and now when it comes to a little bit of tightening it wants to raise its rates."

doubted that the Bell Company are justified in their demands. He said: "Look at the rest of us in bad times when things are going against us. We cannot expect to make money always, and have to draw on reserves. We have no Dominion Railway Commission to which we make take our troubles. We have to submit. Why should not the Bell Telephone Company and Hugh Blain, President of Eby-Blain Co., Limited, wholesale grocers, all other corporations, with their big reserves, also submit and draw to some extent on these reseryes. Every increase given such as this will coce back to the consumer with a great deal added. It is just these series of inflations when things are commencing the fight of citizens against it. beneficial result," he continued.

Mayor to Make War.

Mayor Church of Toronto, is determined to war on the increase by leading the fight of citizens against nt. It was understood yesterday that His Worship will call a public meeting next week to organize and prepare the city's case, for presentation to the Railway Board. The Board of Control will appropriate $25,000 to engage counsel and fight the company's application.

Ald. Ryding declared the increased rates would prove a "black eye for Toronto," while Ald. Plewman is strong "for a monopoly of 'phone service under public ownership."

This aspect of the situation is, to be reported on shortly by a special committee appointed by Toronto City Council.

Board of Education Hit.

These proposed new rates, it is estimated, mean an increase to the Board of Education from its present telephone yearly expenditure of $8,905 to $30,200 next year.

Opposition Service.

Francis Dagger, telephone expert, of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, said yesterday, in reply to a question, that roughly he would estimate that it would cost between $13,50,000 and $18,00,000 to establish an opposition service, with automatic telephones, in Toronto. He based this estimate on 90,000 customers, the number using the Bell service, at $150 to $200 a station.

Means Huge Increases.

London in Special Class.

London City will not be affected by the general increase asked, that municipality being in a special class. However, this latest demand for increases has stimulated certain members of the Council to interest themselves in municipally-owned telephones. Certain aldermen say they will move in the Council to have the Public Utilities Commission and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission report on the cost of a telephone system for London."

What Hamilton Thinks.

Hamilton's business men generally think that the Bell Company's application for an augmented rate might be justified to a certain extent by increased costs of everything. But they strongly object to the small limit put on calls and the price wanted for all additional calls. The city and the Chamber of Commerce will likely join in fighting the company's application for the rates announced.

Automatic Telephones.

Another question raised in Toronto is, Does this application for an increase mean that the Bell Company desire to maintain a hold, so far as telephone monopoly is concerned, on the people of Canada? In this connection it is pointed out that the Northern Telephone Company has acquired the Canadian patent rights owned by the Automatic Electric Company of Chicago, together with the right to manufacture and sell the so-called Strowger type of automatic telephone equipment in Canada and Newfoundland.

Advocates of the automatic telephone refer to the "enormous saving" in operation costs. The day of the automatic telephone is undoubtedly coming, some experts agree, and it may be that the Bell Telephone Company wants to ensure a continuance of high rates under present conditions before going ahead with a larger installation of automatic equipment.

CHANDOS LOSES A NONOGENARIAN

MRS. NELSON HOARD PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY.

The township of Chandos lost its oldest inhabitant on Aug. 5th, when Mrs. Nelson Hoard quietly passed away at the ripe old age of 97 years year and 10 months. Although she had been ailing for some time her death was unexpected and came as a shock to her friends. Mrs. Hoard, in spite of her age was in full possession of her faculties and was remarkable for her keen memory. She was of a most lovable and gentle disposition and her loss will be keenly felt in the community.

The funeral service was held in St. Andrew's Anglican church, Owenbrook, by the Rev. C. A. G. Spence, and was attended by nearly 100 persons, almost all of whom were relatives and descendants of the deceased down to the fourth generation. Mrs. Hoard was the mother of eight children ,seven of whom survive. Four of them were present, two sons hale and hearty at seventy-five and seven-two years respectiely. The deceased's sister, two years her junior, died last year.

PLEADING THE CAUSE OF THE IMPRISONED WINNIPEG LEADERS

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, August 18.—Pleading the cause of the imprisoned Winnipeg strike leaders, a deputation, headed by F. J. Dixon, leader of the Labourites in the Manitoba Legislature, waited upon the Government yesterday afternoon. It is understood that their plea was to the effect that the recent election in Winnipeg demonstrated the people's confidence in the imprisoned men, and served to show that the bulk of public opinion is bshind the attitude of the men in forcing the general strike, also that few people believed the men had any seditious intentions.

Senator Robertson admitted the men who waited upon him and the Hon. Hugh Guthrie, and stated that the matter would be laid before their Cabinet colleagues.

Friends here believe that there is every prospect for the release of the imprisoned strike leaders.

Russian Soviet Terms Are Read to the Poles

THE POLISH ANSWER WILL BE RETURNED TO-DAY—FRENCH MUNITION SHIPS HELD UP—WAR NEWS FROM EASTERN FRONT.

(Canadian Press.)

MOSCOW, August 18.—The Russian Soviet terms were read to the Polish delegates at the first meeting with the Soviet representatives in Minsk to-day.

The Polish answer will be returned to-day.

WILL LOSE TERRITORY.

(Canadian Press.)

MOSCOW, August 18. — Pravda warns the Russian Soviet Government to hurry the offensive against General Wrangel in Southern Russia, saying that otherwise the Soviet Government will lose the Don District, with its great coal mines, and also Caucasia.

MUNITIONS FOR POLAND.

(Canadian Press.)

WARSAW, August 18. — Several French munition ships are now anchored outside Dantzic. Mr. Tower, according to a report from the French Ambassador to Poland, takes the attitude that he has not sumcient Allied troops to preserve order if further munitions are unloaded at Dantzic. He has asked the Supreme Council for new instructions.

MUNITION SHIPS.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, August 18.—A despatch from Dantzic says it is reported that Sir Reginald Tower, High Commissioner at Dantzic, under the League of Nations, has issued an order that no ships with munitions for Poland shall be permitted to enter Dantzic. Should such ship arrive, he will submit the whole matter to the Council of Ambassadors.

The despatch adds that one ship from Antwerp already has been ordered to remain at sea.

The French Government intends to protest energetically against Sir Reginald's decision, it was learned to-day.

RUSSIANS DRIVEN BACK.

PARIS, August 18. — The Polish counter offensive, with Thorn as its base, has successfully cleared Dantzic Corridor of Russian troops, according to a report received from the French Mission in Poland to-day.

The Polish forces are still driving eastward, the report says.

NEW FRUITS AND VEGETABLES COMING ON PETERBORO MARKET

Thimbleberries were one or the few fruit crops which failed in this district and practically all the cane was winter killed. What few are on the local market are setailing at 35 cents a quart box and none came through the wholesale houses. The early variety of peaches have come into the city this week very freely and are retailing at $1.25 and $1.50 an eleven-quart basket. The yellow variety of peaches are expected in the city from Niagara in about two weeks' time and the large crop indicates fairly easy prices. Plums, which are very plentiful, are selling at $1.50 a basket.

Pears of a very small variety have been placed on the market, retailing at $1.50. The crop is very short this year. What few raspberries there are are still on the market and are retailing at 28 cents a box.

Vegetables Easier.

Tomatoes, retailing delivered at the door at 65 cents an eleven-quart basket, will probably drop to 50 cents during the week, and the market gardeners are hastening to sell at almost whatever price they can get so heavy is the crop and so quickly are they ripening. Potatoes are wholesaling at $1.75 a bag and retailing at $2.25, with a probability of even lower prices toward the week-end. Cabbages rae very plentiful and selling at 10 cents each.

Pickling Season.

All ingredients for pickles are very cheap, and the retail merchants claim they can scarcely keep the wants of the housekeepers supplied. Pickling cucumbers are selling at 90 cents a basket, beans at 8 cents a pound, cauliflowers at 15 and 20 cents each, and green peppers at 5 cents each.

Imported Fruit.

All imported fruit is high. Bananas are selling at 60 cents a dozen, California peaches at 60 and 80 cents a dozen, and pears at 75 cents a dozen. With the heavy supply of local fruit on the market, comparatively little imported fruit is being used.

LLOYD GEORGE TO VISIT DOMINION

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, August 18.—A special despatch from Washington, printed in The World to-day, declares that Premier Lloyd-George is to discuss the Anglo-Japanese Treaty with the Premiers of the British Dominions at a conference to be held in Vancouver this autumn.

The World says: "Premier Lloyd-George will cross the Atlantic in October to meet the Premiers of all the British Dominions on the Pacific for the conference on the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese relations. During his stay in Canada, Premier Lloyd-George will be invited to Washington."

HUNGER STRIKERS HAVE TO SUFFER

THE AUTHORITIES WILL NOT RELEASE THEM.

(Canadian Press.)

DUBLIN, August 18.—The warning that the hunger-striking prisoners awaiting trial, who were arrested for murderous attacks on policemen or soldiers or upon clear, direct evidence of complicity in such attacks, or further serious offences, will not be released unless acquitted of charges against them, and that the Government assumes no responsibility for the consequences of their abstention from food, is given in an official statement issued at Dublin Castle last night.

It has been decided, however, to release temporarily twenty-two prisoners in Cork Jail awaiting trial for less serious offences.

EXONERATED BY THE AUTHORITIES

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, August 18.—Carl Mays was exonerated by the authorities from blame for Chapman's death. The players still threaten reprisals.

WARSAW DEFENDERS HAVE GONE FORWARD FIFTEEN MILES AT ONE POINT.

REMINDER OF THE MARNE

LONDON, August 18.—The Poles at Warsaw are on the edge, it seemed to-day, of duplicating the first battle of the Marne, in which Paris and France were saved early in September, 1914.

Late reports tell of the fighting at many points, frequently with bayonets. At points here and there, there have been Russian successes, but the big successes have gone with the Poles, who seem to have definitely checked the mighty sweep of the Bolshevist armies.

The situation to-day carried many reminders of the Marne battle, at which the French, under Joffre and Foch, aided by the small British army under Sir John French, turned the tide. On that occasion the Uhlans had reached the outskirts of Paris. On Saturday the Red cavalry crossed the Vistula River and got within eight and one-half miles of the Polish capital.

The French communique on the first day of the general French attack merely recited that "an engagement with the enemy to the north resulted to our advantage." It was the beginning of the action that drove the Germans back toward the trenches along the north-west of France and four years later back to Germany.

Foth's Right Hand Man There.

In Warsaw to-day the official communique is as simple as the French which told of the turning of the German tide. It read: "The counter-offensive is developing successfully."

Close to General Pilsudski is General Maxime Weygand, chief of the French Mission to Poland. General Weygand was the adjutant and right hand man of General Foch when the latter was generalissimo of the Allied Armies. Like his chief, he believes that the morale can best be sustained by attack. The re-organised Poles are attacking.

They have retreated on their communications, while the Bolshevists with every step of advance have increased the distance to their base of supplies. The Poles are defending the capital of their native land. The positions are the strongest they have occupied during the war. The men on the battle lines are constantly strengthened in spirit by seeing fresh troops going into position.

The fighting close to the city is no longer a matter of pure tactics. It is tactics plus the enthusiasm of soldiers who have just paraded the streets of their capital, who have had their women folks blow kisses to them, shower them with flowers, and demand pledges of them that they would save the city.

At Siechanow, the first of the larger towns along the Dantzic-Warsaw railroad, heavy fighting has taken place, and the Poles have gone forward 15 miles over a front of roughly 20 miles.

The Russians claimed advantages in the fighting at Novo-Georgievsk, where, their report says, they ocupied villages; and on the Wyra River, where they claim to have effected a crossing. They also report the capture of six guns.

Warsaw itself is confident.

Praga, a suburb, is practically a first-aid dressing station. Wounded men receive attention there and come back through the city in ambulances, motor trucks, and horse-drawn vehicles. Some come afoot.

A POSSBILE DEBATE.

Mr. Burnham's challenge to Premier Meighen to stage a debate in Peterborough on the propriety of holding a general election, having resulted in nothing more than an exchange of letters and a little publicity for the ex-member for West Peterborough, the latter mght now turn his attention to arranging a joint meeting with Sergt. Harry Flynn to discuss the question of gratuities for Canada's soldiers and the equally interesting topic of increased sessional indemnities. These matters should furnish material for an evening of interest and profit and as an added attraction Mr. Burnham might invite Mr. Tooms, M.L.A. and Mr. R. Scott to debate the question whether the U.F.O. Labour candidate in the local by-election should be a Labour man or a farmer. The Burnham-Flynn debate and a verbal contest between Messrs. Tooms and Scott would be as strong a drawing card as the visit of the Premier and the Examiner throws out the suggestion for what it is worth.

BORROW FROM BRITAIN.

The United States holds Canadian securities to the total of $524,000,000. What with being the second largest importers in the world of American products and this huge securities debt Canada is a pretty valuable customer to the United States. It now behooves us to increase our own production and population to help us carry and redeem this debt and to reduce the amount of our imports. One of Canada's great objectives should be to export more and import less. British capitalists are now looking toward this country for investment in our undeveloped resources, which development would eventually more equalize our export and import transactions. Then it is preferable to borrow in our own family when possible, and the rapid improvement in Britain's financial position now in evidence lends itself to the British advancing loans to this country for municipal and other requirements. Financial dealings with the Mother Country should be sought and encouraged to the limit when borrowing is necessary.

CANADA'S NAVY.

One welcomes the thought that the five war vessels presented to Canada by Britain are expected to reach Halifax in September, and that in their type they are modern vessels, especially the cruiser "Aurora," which is an oil burner. While the Mother Country feels no sacrifice in handing these vessels over to Canada out of Britain's superabundance of her fighting machines accumulated in the late war, still the gift is doubly appreciated in that it both recognizes Canada's services in the world-struggle for Empire preservation, and offers this Dominion the nucleus of a fleet of her own capable of filling no small part in this nation's defence, and that of the Empire of which Canada is a valued member. It now remains for this country to formulate a permanent naval policy which will eventually provide for the protection of Canada's Atlantic and Pacific sea boards. For generations the Mother Country has assumed this duty, and surely it is not too much to expect that with this Dominion's growth and increasing prosperity she will relieve the Motherland of that burden. Empire unity, of which we hear so much these days, includes Empire defence, to which each branch should contribute by maintaining a navy capable of at least showing preparedness to take a formidable share in naval operations should the ocacsion arise. This British Empire of ours, on which the sun never sets, is so scattered over the world that maintenance of the sea's freedom is a vital necessity. More and more, year by year, does the freedom of the seas grow in importanec to Canada herself, with her now developing merchant marine and growing trade connections abroad. And until the lion and the lamb can sleep peacefully side by side, if ever, this freedom will have to be guaranteed by a show of naval strength.

THE PREMIER AND UNITY IN CANADA.

We like Premier Meighen's pledged policy to wipe out all unnecessary taxes, as not a few Canadians of all and every political leaning have a notion that there is room for the elimination of some measure of taxation imposed upon them these days.

But what will be particularly acceptable, of all his pledges made at Stirling, to the broad-minded Empire-loyal citizen is his declaration that he stands for unity in Canada, for solidarity of conditions and freedom of enterprise within our own borders; and that he will oppose with every legitimate weapon at his command and with every ounce of his power the forces of destruction and disruption, the forces that in this and other lands wish to tear down the structure of responsible government and destroy the fabric of civilization woven through centuries of toil and care.

Taking these words in connection with his reference to the Bolshevism of Russia, the I.W.W. and O.B.U. of America we conclude that the Premier intends to crush with an unsparing hand all attempts of any unrest-creating faction to undermine Canada's industrial and national progress under British conception of civilization. Bolshevism has at times raised its ugly head in Canada, and its insidious whisperings are heard here and there suggesting the destruction of institutions not in keeping with its own levelling precepts. Taking Premier Meighen at his word, this country will look to him to leave no stone unturned for crushing, absolutely and positively, all efforts on the part of misguided fanatics to foster in this country a spirit of distorted democracy similar to that which has created a blood-red Russia, and is credited with having a place in the councils of even British unions. The Premier cannot be too strong on this point, for Canada, which gave of her best blood in defence of civilization, should with conclusive finality, vigorously stamp out from her midst all Russian-born fires of that principle of Sovietism and Bolshevism which now threatens civilization.

MENNONITES AND CITIZENSHIP

The Privy Council has quite properly dismissed the Mennonite application to appeal from the decision of the Manitoba courts, which upheld that province's rights to insist on conformity in the School Attendance Act of 1916. These Mennonites have settled in thousands in Manitoba, and other western provinces, and while a desirable class of settlers, as European foreigners go, from a point of industry, still they wish to retain their nationality and language, and reject public school attendance by their children, as insisted on by the laws of Manitoba province. Since coming to Canada they have acquired thousands of acres of land, vast herds of stock, and have also accumulated considerable capital. Therefore as an industrious and thrifty race no fault can be found with them, other than that they decline to assimilate Canadian characteristics, and hold out for the right to educate their children in their own language. Early this year trouble between Manitoba's government and the Mennonites, grew to an acute stage, and obtained wide publicity. As a result of this, these people were invited to settle in the Western States, where they were assured freedom in the exercise of their own peculiar national characteristics without interference in the way of language or education. Ostensibly they acepted the invitation, although in reality but comparatively few left for the States, where, we understand, they are not now very welcome unless willing to subscribe unreservedly to the laws of the State which allows of their settlement.

Canada welcomes desirable settlers on her superabundance of untilled land, but no matter how industrious, thriving and property-acquiring a race of people may be, unless they give promise of loyal Canadian citizenship, subscribing to her laws and adjusting themselves to our conditions, Canada should deport them to whence they came. The Germans make both industrious and thrifty settlers, but both Canada and the States, in the late war, sustained a rude awakening to the embarrassening experience that far too many of them, even unto the third and fourth generation, were at the beck and call of their Fatherland., Above all things Canada must maintain and foster her statehood, and if alien immigration is to be welcome within our gates it should be of such a character as will eventually lose its cast-off national identity in loyal citizenship of the land of its adoption.

And surely from France and Britain, who gave this glorious country try its first pioneers of the world-respected nation into which Canadians have developed, there are enough and to spare of desirable immigrants, without catering to Mennonites or any other race, who evidently wish to maintain their nationalities, even unto succeeding generations, while sharing with true Canadians those privileges and benefits peculiarly the heritage of National and Empire loyalists.

CANADA IN BELGIUM.

Canada's little band of athletes in the Olympic Games at Antwerp have not been overly successful but there is no reason why some newspapers should deprecate the sending of a team to the International athletic contests. No matter how the handful of athletes to wear the maple leaf — there are only thirty of them altogether against three thousand of the world's picked athletes—may fare in the Olympic competitions, Canada's laurels as far as Belgium is concerned were won early in 1015 when the first Canadian contingent stopped the Huns at Ypres. The Canadian athletes, who are giving of their best in an effort to win further honours for Canada, include some of those who did their bit in the bigger game that was fought from 1914 to 1918. They may not win many points in the Olympic Games, but they will go down fighting against odds just as so many of their comrades went down in the World War, and there is no reason for Canadians to hang their heads over the showing of the maple leaf athletes. Canada's fame in Belgium is too deep set to be shaken by failure on the running path or in any of the other events in the Olympic programme.

STONEY LAKE SERVICE.

If the Railway Committee of the Board of Trade has not already considered this matter, the members might find a profitable field for action in undertaking to effect, if possible, an improvement in train accommodation to Stoney Lake and other Kawartha Lake points. Doubtless the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association would be glad to co-operate in such a movement and ready with suggestions that would improve the conditions.

Stoney Lake is an asset to Peterborough to an extent that is scarcely realised, and anything that could be accomplished by the Board of Trade along the line suggested would be a profitable investment. A conservative estimate of the number of people temporarily domiciled at the Lake last week, the height of the season, is 3,500. In other words, there were half as many people visiting at various points on Stoney Lake last week as live in Lindsay. And Peterborough supplies nearly all the necessities of life for that big summer population. By far the greater part of their supplies are either bought directly in this city or from the lake stores, which are in turn stocked from Peterborough, so that it is distinctly to the advantage of the city that any action that will make conditions more comfortable and convenient for these hundreds of visitors should be taken. That there is room for improvement is admitted.

THE FARMER-LABOR ALLIANCE.

A combination of farmer and labor members has enabled Mr. Drury to carry on the government of the Province of Ontario. Only by such a combination could he command the necessary support in the Legislature. The alliance can hardly be regarded as a natural one. The aims of the farmer party are certainly not those of organized labor. One of the chief purposes of the labor leaders is to restrict the hours of work to less than the ordinary time. The farmer, on the other hand, finds all the available hours too short a time to accomplish what he desires to do. If class interests have to be considered, the interests of the farmer and the interests of the city worker are likely to be found in conflict. Nevertheless, it must be admitted that the farmer-labor alliance at Toronto held together pretty well during the recent session of the Legislature, and that for amateurs the Drury government made a good sessional record. There are signs, however, that the alliance cannot be regarded as a permanent one. The proposals of the Hydro-Electric Commission for the operation and extension of railways are putting a severe strain on the alliance. As the Province is called on to endorse the bonds issued by the municipalities for the proposed railways, Mr. Drury thinks that before going further in that further direction he should have an enquiry into the whole subject by a Commission appointed for the purpose. Warm advocates of the Hydro-Electric scheme can see nothing to enquire into. They want to go ahead on the lines of that scheme. They regard suggestions for enquiry as obstructions in the way of what they claim is a popular movement. The tendency of organized labor is to favor the Hydro-Electric project and to resent the hesitation of the Drury Government. Mr. Drury's labor colleagues are finding their position somewhat embarrassing. A further indication of trouble between the farmer interest and the labor interest is found in an article in the Toronto Farmers' Sun, the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario, which characterizes the demand of the railway workers for increased wages as "simply outrageous." "A farmer," says the writer, "on 100 acres of good average land does well if his income, representing the wages of himself and family, and allowing nothing for interest on a $12,000 investment, equals that demanded by a railway switchman. That farmer would be considered in the plutocratic class whose yearly income, on the same basis, equalled that of a freight conductor."—Journal of Commerce.

WOMAN CLAIMS SHE WAS "LEASED" TO COLORED MAN

LONDON, Aug. 17.— At Pontypridd, in an affiliation case, Ada Harris, the applicant, admitted in cross-examination by Mr. Harold Lloyd that she had been "leased" to a colored man for eight years and two children had been born. At the expiration of the contract he had desired its renewal, but she refused. She then kept company with a Mountain Ash collier, named Charles Manley, who, she alleged, was the father of the third child.

A sister-in-law of the applicant admitted full knowledge of the "lease" referred to.

The Bench made an order of 7s. 6d. a week against Manley.

By OWEN JOHNSON

"Yes, I'm afraid so!"

The Tampico incident and the consequent failure in Osaba shares, with the aftermath of the ball incidental bills, had been soul-trying.

"When does he get up again?"

"Any time now," said Amy.

"Little spat over?"

"Yes, indeed!"

"That's right—be firm," said Fifi, with a nod. "Irma is right. When husbands growl nowadays, it's usually financial dyspepsia. I say, let's shut up—this is too gorgeous!"

Amy, nothing loath relapsed into silence. In the three weeks of her husband's absence, she had no word of his plans. The day after his leaving, she had received a short, business like note, informing her of the allowance which he wished her to observe and requesting the total of her present debt. She had sent them—that is, almost all—and they had been paid through his office immediately She had been surprised at his liberality —even touched by it. There was, at any rate, nothing petty about him. At least she could admire him. But that was all. There had been no further discussion. She accepted his decision as an ultimatum. After all, why discuss? They had never really talked openly to each other, and they probably never would. No compromise was possible with one of his obstinacy. In a way, the decision was a relief —constant daily contact would have been more difficult.

"Drop me first, Monte" said Fifi waking up at last. "No; it's not man waking up at last. "No, it's not manners or etiquette. Just simply moods, that's all. If I were left alone with you, I'd be nasty."

Amy started to protest, for she was apprehensive of a tete-a-tete, but all at once she reassured herself by the thought that this would be a good moment to open up the subject of Fifi.

"Why don't you spend the night with me?" she said half-eartedly.

"No, No! Commming with nature's got on my nerves," said Fifi. "Home for me!"

They left her at the old family residence on lower Fifth Avenue, just off Washington Square, and started up-town, over the vacant streets, across which an occasional taxi went sputtering, a milk wagon rattled, or a newspaper truck screamed on its breathless rush for the outward mails. She had come into the front seat beto a colloquial pace.

"Nice time to talk, don't you think? side Bracken. The car slowed down in Not sleepy?"

"Quite awake."

"Yes; you always are," he said, turning toward her with a smile. "And tremendously alive."

The slightest compliment, even the most obvious from him gave her an instant pleasure. But to-night she feared an approach to intimacy, so began resolutely.

"You knew that Claire wished you to marry Fif.?"

"What? Oh yes."

She hesitated, then went on with some difficulty:

"You would be very happy in your own home, with someone to work for and some one to help you. But I suppose you don't believe in marriage."

"On the contrary, yes—I do very strongly," he said quietly. "I think my brother the most fortunate man in the world. He lives as human beings were meant to live. He's part of the soil, part of his time and part of his community. The rest of us are just transients."

"Then the most reasonable thing you could do would be to marry Fifi," she said resolutely. 'She cares for you I'm certain, and she has lots of the qualities of your sister-in-law—if she only had a chance to bring them out."

"Fifi's good stuff," he admitted.

"Then why not?"

"Why?"

He asked the question as though to himself and relapsed into a moody silence. Madison Square, with its calm, green pools of darkness, its beggars huddled on benches, and the high, fairy tower with its golden clock, was at their side; the great thoroughfare deserted, save for a wandering shadow, a flare-up of gasoline at a fruit stand and a late car switching noisily over the echoing stones.

"Why?" he repeated. "Because I never do anythir reasonable. I suppose. Kismet. I'm made differently or started wrong. Even Fifi sees that she wouldn't change me. You must have realized that about me," he said, turning and looking at her.

"I don't know," she said faintly. His head was in shadow, but she felt the luminous eyes looking down into hers.

"They say a lot of nasty things about me, I suppose. If they only knew! I'm the one who pays. It's seeking an ideal—chasing a will-o'-the-wisp—the longing for beauty."

"You must have suffered," she said involuntarily, "suffered a great deal. Is it worth it?"

"It is worth it," he said solemnly. "And I am willing to suffer all again," he added, in a low voice.

In all this there was nothing personal, yet every word he said came directly to her. She sank her head in the furs till only her eyes showed under the low brim of her hat. The light of an arc- lamp flashed across his set lips, and the eyes that burned darkly in the soft face—no, there was nothing tame about him.

"Why does he say this to me?" she asked herself, held half by terror and half by a leaping sensation of joy. She did not know the answer, but she did not ask the question of him.

"However, there comes a time," she said resolutely, "when you need other things of life."

"Perhaps."

"I'm going to persuade you yet."

He did not answer this, except to increase their speed with a sudden release that sent them flying up the avenue, past Forty-second Street with its tinsel lights, past the married towers of the cathedral plunging into the blossoming stars, into the opening spaces at the foot of the park, and quickly into the quiet street.

"Now that all good things come to an end," he said, turning to her, "I'm going to say an impertinent thing. I shan't forget those hours—"

"Those unreal hours," he continued "back in the days of Louis XIV. When I think of you, dear lady, I shall always think of La Mode Louis Quatorze. If we could only live like that," he said, in sudden rebellion.

"We can't."

"No, of course not."

He descended; helped her out with exact deference—no more— and opened the door with the key she gave him. Then he took off is hat.

"Good night —and thank you for this half-hour," he said, smiling at her. "You have the quality of painting memories that last. Everything about you is gentle and exquisite." He took the hand she extended to him with a feeling of drowsy lightness in her head, and raised it to his lips.

" Ala mode Louis Quartorze," he said.

She went up to her bedroom with a feeling of happiness. She assured herself that he had not trespassed beyond the limits of a sympathetic friendship. She had shown him plainly that she did not intend to encourage a flirtation. She had kept her word to Claire Bracken, and the consciousness of her own virtue gave her an extraordinary self-satisfaction There was so much good in him—Claire was right; he would respond so wonderfully to a real home, to children, and a wife who would give him strength. How readily she understood these needs in him!

"Yes; he must marry Fifi," she said, with determination.

Toward morning, she awoke in a troubled wakefulness that defied all her efforts to return to sleep. The memory of Monte Bracken haunted her. How sympathetic they were, even to the unspoken thoughts, the moment of delicacy which each divined.

"I must not see too much of him," she said turning on her pillow. "We understand each other too easily. I must be careful." She looked back, in the light of her acquired self-knowledge, at the girl who, in the old-fashioned garden, had decided her life so rashly so irrevocably, and, in the same revolt which had come to Andrew as he had faced the image of himself the night of the ball, she cried

"If I had only known then what I do now!"

PART III

I

Kitty Lightbody came in puffing and red, making such a racket as she passed the tables, that the lecturer on the news of the week, a thin, grayish woman in poke bonnet, momentarily interrupted her flowing nasal comments.

"Thought I'd never get her, dear," said Kitty loudly, embracing first Irma and then Amy. "Eleven o'clock's like a dawn tea." She settled into her seat, rose again to shed a brilliant topaz sweater coat, and, oblivious of the waiting audience, resumed her whispering. "I'm just crazy about the idea, aren't you? I wish she'd read the new books and magazines for us. Has anything exciting happened last week?"

"At home, as you probably all know," took up the lecturer, "the week in Congress has been an eventful one."

In the pleasant music room of the Chilton Yacht Club, two score of women were scattered in groups of twos and threes, giving a painful attention to the light, gliding phrases of the lecturer, who, for three dollars a ticket, relieved them of the fatiguing daily search of the newspapers by these fashionable Monday mornings, felicitously named "Half-Hours With the World." The windows were open to the blue flash of water and the glare of white sails hung against a glowing June sky. From outside came the call of the players on the tennis courts and the subdued sounds of a phonograph, where, at the further end of the veranda, a group had begun to dance.

"My Lord that new fox-trot is catchy!" cotinued Mrs. Lightbody, with a sigh. 'Its' too distracting, and I must listen. It's so instructive, isn't it?"

A girl in white flannels, swinging on the sill of the open window, half in the room and half out, was listening by fits and starts, snickering with a young fellow who, from the veranda was trying to upset her gravity.

"At Washington, the terms of the new Federal Reserve Bank law have been generally discussed," said the voice of the lecturer, "but I won't trouble you with such dry details."

"Excuse me," said a large, square woman, militantly, "but that's just I what I do want to know."

"Yes; please do tell us." said a piping voice up front, "I can't make head or tail out of it."

"The Federal Reserve Bank law can best be explained in this way—" began the lecturer.

'Absurd to waste time on such subjects," said Kitty wearily. She turned to Irma. "Has she said anything about that Newport scandal yet? My dear, he wasn't a count after all!"

"Be quiet, Kitty," said Mrs. Dellabarre, with a frown, as there came a sudden impatient craning of heads in her direction for the disturbance.

Mrs. Lightbody's china eyes momentarily fixed themselves in a solemn contraction. At this moment, Jap Laracy wandering in, in search of amusement, installed himself behind Amy.

"Fine day for the trip. Monte's coming up to the dock now."

Amy glanced at her wrist impatiently—there were still ten minues to be spent instructively.

"In England, the tension between the Irish Nationalist and Ulster has become exceedingly acute—"

"Jap, dear, who is our vice-president?" said Mrs. Lightbody, relaxing "I tried to remember, but—do you know? — I couldn't to save my life."

"William Jennings Bryan," said Laracy solemnly.

"Of course." She looked at him a moment suspiciously and then appealed to Amy.

"Abroad a rather important bit of news is announced in the morning's papers," continued the monotonous tones on the quiet June morning. "At Sarajevo the Archduke Ferdinand of Austria is rumored to have been assassinated."

There was a stir of surprise. A woman's voice was heard exclaiming.

"I read the papers, but I didn't notice that!"

"Now, that is exciting," said Kitty Lightbody, sitting up. She frowned on the incorrigible Jap, and said, with an admontory shake of her head. "Behave, Jap; we must concentrate!"

But Laracy was not so easly subdued. A salad of pink and green trimmings on a platter of a hat in front of him had caught his eye.

'It excites all the little birdies on the bonnets," he said, in a whisper. "Look—look, how they're trying to reach it!"

Mrs. Lightbody forgot the triviality of another assassinated Archduke and began to giggle at this banality. Thus encouraged, Laracy passed the audience in review, according to his own peculiar style of wit. Amy glanced again at her watch. A year ago, she would have shared Kitty's amusement. To-day, she scarcely gave ear. The antics of the household pets had no longer their first charm. She had passed beyond playing with children into the more dangerous need of stronger emotions. Dawson, Pardee, and Laracy and their kind were still useful, but only to fill in. At length, with a sigh of relief, she sprang up. The lecture was over.

"Goodness, what awful names they select! Sara—Sara—I shall never get ti," said Kitty Lightbody. She turned to Amy, who was chatting to a group. "Amy dear, what news of friend husband?"

"Down in Mexico, of course," said Mrs. Forrester, lightly. She turned on the brilliant red parasol, which she held from her to give length to her arm and free the line of her graceful body, and, knowing that the pose was becoming, she held it a little longer while exclaiming to the group of women whose eyes devoured greedily the Gainsborough hat and the flowing line of her new gray taffeta dress, "Oh, I'm getting used to the role of a neglected wife. We all come to it, don't we?"

But suddenly remembering her engagement, she freed herself from the group and linked arms with Mrs. Dellabarre.

"Irma, really, can't you arrange to come?" she said, in final entreaty.

"I would if I could, my dear," said Irma, shaking her head. "It's quite impossible for me to leave the house to-day. I must be there when the doctor comes to see Doris."

"I know—don't make it harder."

"But that leaves us with an extra man," said Amy frowning.

"Don't worry; Kitty'll take care of two," said Irma with a smile. Aloud, she said: "It's not a twos-ing party at all. We keep together!" She turned to Mrs. Lighbody, "Well, if we're going to make New York for lunch, we must be off. All the same," she thought, as they passed into the glare of the sun and made their way down the dock, 'it's going to be a bore having an extra man. The extra man, of course was Tody Dawson."

"Nor I."

"She's done it on purpose," said Mrs. Lightbody, with a convinced nod "Unless—unless it's a question of Rudy. He's been in a dreadful state lately, have you noticed?"

"I've a mind to leave Tody behind," said Amy pensively.

"Oh, my dear, it would break the poor boy's heart!" said Kitty instantly. "His nose is out of joint as it is."

"He's going to be dreadfully in the way. You will have to look after him."

"Don't worry, my dear; I know my role!" said Kitty, laughing.

At this moment, Dawson, as though divining her thoughts, came up.

"I say, Amy, if Irma's backed out, I'll walk the plank if you say the word."

The look of entreaty in his eyes, the perfect docility of his attitude moved her to compassion.

"Poor boy, he's still dreadfully in love with me," she thought and aloud she added, "No, indeed, Tody: wouldnot leave you out for the world."

At the smile with which she favored him, his face lighted up. A moment before the sky was tumbling down Now, just to be nearer, to watch her covertly from a distance, to hear the sound of her voice and fill his eyes with her loveliness, changed the face of the world.

"By George, you are a trump, you are!" he said incoherently, and he went hastily up the dock. He adored her as a pagan worships, with his head to the soil. No woman could be so angelic, no woman!

Monte Bracken, in white flannels, was at the gangway of the speedy little motor-yacht that had its red-and-white awnings out. The next moment, they were lounging in lazy, cushioned chairs, the spray curling whitely at their sides, rushing across the mackerel waters to New York.

II

Amy Forrester, like most women of her bringing up, had dramatic moments of good impulses which surprised even herself, but these once over, the old habits of irresponsibility and self-indulgence resumed their sway. Old habits led her to satisfy her desires without further tax on her conscience than the need of deceiving herself as to her motive. She wished to see Monte Bracken, so she easily persuaded herself that the new intimacy which developed was in reality working for his happiness and the intersets of Fifi Nordstrum. But, a week before, that independent young lady clarified the situation by announcing her engagement to a Western engineer without a cent or a social connection, sublimely confident in his own star—a conviction which Fifi cheerfully shared. After her surprise had subsided, Amy was well-enough pleased with this denouement. She had performed her whole duty, and she was now absolved. Monte Bracken in future would be on the basis of any other attractive man of the world, forewarned of the terms and limitations of the intimacy permitted.

A certain stiffness settled on the party, respite the determined efforts of Kitty Lightbody and the usual minstrel patter of Jap Laracy and Tody Dawson. It had neither the intimacy of a tete-a-tete nor the opportunities of a crowd. Bracken was in bad humor; the conversation plainly bored him and, having no intention of descending to its level, he retired behind his cigar. Amy shared his impatience. It was not thus that she had looked forward to this excursion. Tody Dawson, knowing himself in a false position, floundered on heavily, seeking to conciliate Amy by being amusing without perceiving how much he bored her. At such moments the gentlest of women are capable of a refinement of cruelty.

'Really, Tody," she said, with a shrug of her shoulders, "if you are going to be amusing, you must learn some new tricks. Those jokes are very old. I know them by heart."

"It's too far to swim," he said, glancing at the distant shore with an attempt to cover up his misery. He turned up his collar and said, with a submissive bow: "I'm crushed. Put me in a corner and punish me."

He went up forward in gloomy dignity where, in a moment, Kitty Lightbody, after an exchange of glances with Amy, went to console him with Jap Laracy.

"Now, I suppose I'v hurt his feelings,' said Amy, "but really those boys do get on my nerves sometimes."

Bracken's good humor returned instantly.

"No great harm's done. They'll amuse themselves." He drew up his chair by hers. "I can't abide the type Haven't you progressed beyond them?"

"It's rather hard to drop them all at once," she said pensively, "and they are so convenient."

He looked at her, his amusement returning as his ill-humor cleared.

"Yes; of course they are convenient," he agreed. "I suppose they fill a place in the livse of you women that real men could not. We ought to be grateful for that."

"Are you in a very bad humor, Monte?" she said, glancing up at him. In the last month they had progressed to the intimacy of their first names.

"Not names. Can't we manage to lose them in town somehow?" he said suddenly. "The ride home, oughtn't ot be spoiled."

She shook her head slowly.

"No; I can't do that," the answered firmly. She had often, in self- defense, fallen back on her intention to remain a virtuous wife. The phrase flashed into her mind, but she decided not to employ it on Monte. Instead, she added decidedly, " Iwon't be talked about."

"You're a strange person," he said impatiently.

"I'm like that," she said quietly. "You know my ideas."

"At the bottom," he said rebelliously, "I believe one man is just the same to you as another. Despite all you say about the Tody Dawsons in this world—"

"Well?" she said, as he stopped.

"Total docility and innocuousness are quite sufficient."

She laughed.

"I give you permission to abuse me."

Monte Bracken had returned into her life at a critical moment. It was not that she was tired of society, but that she was momentarily tired by it. The dramatic thrill of her personal triumph at the Versailles fete had been the climax of her season. After those dazzling hours, everything else seemed tame in comparison. She had felt let down. A new mental progression had come—that moment which arrives to every brilliant woman. In the whole world, nothing, for the moment, interested her so much as herself. She wanted to annex Monte Bracken, because she felt the need of some superior mind, capable of understanding her, of explaining her, and of admiring her completely, even to the smallest trifles which escaped the ordinary-eye. Whether Bracken flattered her or humorously dissected her, her interest was always the same—as long as the subject discussed was herself. Perhaps if anything she liked him in his savage moods, for then, underneath his sarcasm, she divined how completely she had established her empire over his imagination.

"I can understand Kitty Lightbody turkey-trotting through life, but I can't understand you," he began assuming at one of raillery which she disliked because to her, like most women it was the only male weapon she feared. "Are you going to be contented with nibbling at life? Women like that have only passions for great emotions like ping-pong, bridge the tango, ice-skating."

"And I?"

"I wonder."

"You warned me once I was not like that."

"Yes; I gave you credit for a heart." he said, smiling.

"And now?" she asked, drawing back and half veiling her face with the collar of her golden polo coat. There were times when she found it difficult to face him.

He looked into her eyes steadily until, at last, she turned hers away. Then he said quietly,

"I still believe it."

"That I still have a heart—after all the bad things you believe of me?" she said ,raising her eyebrows to their characteristic angle. "And you "

"Too much," he said, with a laugh "Some day, I'll make a confession."

"It's such fun to play with you, Monte," she said brightly. 'And now, please say some nice things to me. No one can say them so nicely as you."

"To-night—if we are alone."

"No, no—and no!" she said, so delighted to refuse him that she punctuated each rising negation with a tap of her parasol.

"What a strange emotion it would be to you' 'he said in the same light tone 'to do just one thing you wanted to do—one thing unconventional—to dare once!"

"Undoubtedly but I don't intend to do it" she said complacently. She looked at him a moment and said, "Were you very much in love with Irma?"

"I tried to be."

"I don't think she's ever gotten over it."

"You mean she's not gotten over my getting over it."

"Do you suppose that's the reason she wouldn't come to-day?" she said looking down at the tip of red parasol and thinking of the compact she had once sworn not to trespass.

"Dellabarre's in a bad state."

"Really? But he's always been hasn't he?"

"Not like at present."

She felt the conversation was slipping from the subject which interested her. She glanced out over the flurred back of the Sound. Far off, the low outline against the horizon was growing out of the gray vold, the tiny towers of New York, shooting up like reeds emerging from the water. Another boat or two breasted the foam and cut sharp trails; a yawl with brilliant sails stood out in dazzling whiteness against he infinity of blue. All at once, the prospect of the matinee ahead lost its anticipated zest.

"Somehow, going into a stuffy theater doesn't appeal to me," she said dreamily.

"Why do it, then?"

She glanced ahead significantly.

"There are others."

This time, he suggested no alternative.

"You said something rather puzzling a moment ago," she began slowly, leaning over the rail and flirting with the swirl of the cleft waters, one hand extended.

"What?"

'You said you tried to be in love with Irma. Why tried?"

"Because I am a great comedian—though I don't know it at the time."

He had the instinctive sense of drawing women on without seeming to make any effort to attract them. He was in love and he knew it, though he still was ignorant as to the extent to which he had let himself go. He felt that he had played too easily into her hand by giving her the opportunity to refuse his request, and he determined to regain his supremacy.

Amy glanced at the group in the bow. Tody Dawson was covertly watching them. She shifted her chair to shut him out, rested her chin on her hand, and said,

"Why do you tell me that?"

"Just to play fair," he said carelessly. 'We are both much alike—rather irresponsible children."

"Go on."

"You say I play well. I do. I have too much curiosity. I suppose to be really able to love. I am curious about women. I want to delve into their minds and, when I have done so, I end by being disillusioned. I fool myself. I always have, and I probably always shall. That's why I say I am a great comedian."

"And you have nothing on your conscience?"

"No. I think I understand the sort of women I am thrown with. They want to be amused until dinner-time," he added, smiling. "Women of the world, if you wish, but without depth to hold a real wound I come into their life—in their need of amusement —on the same basis as their dressmaker, the cabaret, or a new variety of Pekingese. Some men are deceived by looking into their eyes. I'm not. Sometimes," he added, with gathering amusement in his eyes, 'sometimes in a humorous way I like to consider myself as an avenger of my sex. Very conceited, isn't it? But awfully frank. Now you know the worst about me."

She perceived that, under pretense of confession, he had been amusing himself with a description of herself.

"I don't like you when you are ironical," she said, when he had glanced at her for her verdict. She rose and summoned Kitty Lightbody and the boys, to whom she made amends by being particularly gracious. But during the matinee she was so bored that when Kitty alleged the need of an errand, she accepted the excuse, gratefully and they separated to meet a Lazare's for tea.

"Shall we go there directly?" he asked.

She hesitated.

He called a taxi, assuming to have understood her wish.

"Twenty minutes' run in the Park. We'll be the first at that."

He helped her in, took his place, and waited for her to decide the note of the evening. She looked up, caught his waiting expression, and, despite her first intention, began to laugh.

"War or peace?" he asked, relaxing.

"You can be horrid," she said pouting.

""Don't try to be conventional coquette then," he took up instantly. "You're much nicer than that."

She turned away hastily to hide her smile. Then, after a moment, she said gravely,

"Are you always such a great comedian?"

"I believe so,' he answered solemnly.

"But I couldn't go home with you alone to-night," she protested.

"Of course not—I only objected to the way you refused."

"What was wrong?"

"You should have answered, 'I can't, but I'm dying to do it.' "

"Well, but that's true," she said frankly.

When they reached Lazare's, Amy was in a mischievous good humor. daughter of Eve, the taste of stolen fruits was sweet.

"I hope they'll be late," she said, with shining eyes.

"Amen."

Lazare's was already well filled. They passed among the tables in the central hall, seeking a quiet corner. All at once, Amy stopped, with an exclamation. Ahead down the aisle, directly facing her, was Irma Dellabarre.

"Monte, do you see her?"

"Irma? Yes."

"The wretch! That's what she's up to!" she cried, delighted. "Well, this time, I've caught her!"

She hurried ahead with merry eyes her curiosity bubbling over. The next moment, she stopped, incapable of word or movement. The man whose back was toward her was Andrew—her husband.

III

To go forward and find some glib word of greeting, to master herself and hide the rushing consternation which swept over her seemed impossible, and yet she did it. The shock was too unexpected, the situation too inexplicable for her to comprehend it. What she did comprehend was that she was in the midst of a hundred acquaintances who were watching her and that a false step meant a public scandal. She felt the leaping heat in her cheeks and her voice sounded strange to her ears but she went on, and said cordially,

"Well, this is a surprise!" Then she added incoherently, "How are you?"

Irma Dellabarre was quite self-possessed.

"It looks terribly dramatic, doesn't it?" she said, smiling, "but it's quite simple. I came in, after all, and the first person I should meet was Andrew."

"Of course, my dear!"

She knew it was a lie, and, despite herself, momentarily she gave a note of scorn to the exclamation. But instantly she caught herself. Husband and wife looked a each other, each cut to the quick at the humiliation they had to stand and take unflinchingly before these sudden strangers.

"I did not expect you," she said, to say something, and she looked at him in order not to look at Irma. "Are you coming out to Chilton?"

"Perhaps" he said coldly looking at her steadily. "I thought you were in a party."

"Yes we are", she said slowly. To stay longer was humanly impossible. "Well then, I may see you —at Chilton?" She nodded and went down a ways to where the head waiter was standing at a table for two.

"Table for five, please," she said sharply, mistress of herself as she had been the night of the fete, when Tody Dawson had blundered in the minuet. She saw someone bowing ot her in the haze of things, and bowed with a smile in the beneral direction.

"Sit down here," said Monte Bracken's voice. She took the chair he indicated, with her back to her husband, and drew off her gloves slowly, a mist before her eyes. The waiter stood at her side for his orders. She was not aware of his presence.

"Tea and buttered toast for two," said Bracken quickly. "Or—no might as well make it for five, Philip," he added, summoning the head waiter, who knew him. "Leave word at the door where we are. Mrs. Lightbody will join us."

Then he sat down.

"Talk to me," she said. "Keep talking to me."

Gradually under the pleasant sound of words which she did not comprehend, she regained a long breath, but here yes remained on her plate. "It's strange Kitty doesn't come. What time is it?"

"Half-past five."

Not for an instant had she the slightest doubt that Irma had lied of her. She had seen the truth in Andrew's eyes in that bitter moment of mutual humiliation. How long had it been going on? All her anger was directed toward the woman. Yes; she had taken her revenge threefold.

'She wasn't embarrassed at all," she thought bitterly. "Quite delighted, of course."

"Tea now?"

"I don't see why they don't come," she said nervously.

"Kitty never is on time, you know."

"Yes; but I want them to come," she said dully. Andrew must see all the difference that existed between his situation and hers.

"They may be waiting outside. Shall I see?"

"Please."

She thought of the anger she had shown in the first shocked moment of recognition. That had been a mistake. It had only played into Irma's hands. She should have stayed and shown her indifference, treated the situation with lightness, covered up the wound to her vanity. What a delicious revenge she had given Irma!

"What a fool I was!" she said angrily. "But she shan't have him alone."

To be forced to continue her little game under the eye of the wife would be the last thing Irma would relish.

"She shan't have things her own way," she said determinedly, and rose. The thing to do was to accept Irma's declaration that the meeting had been accidental, and force them, under appearance of cordiality, to join the party. To her consternation, when she turned their table was empty. She was still standing when Monte Bracken returned.

"I am sorry—they haven't turned up."

"It doesn't matter now," she said abruptly.

He glanced at her brilliant eyes and feverish cheeks, wondering just what to offer.

"I'm afraid they won't come at all," he said slowly.

As a matter of fact, from the first he had never expected that they would turn up.

"It doesn't matter," she said impatiently.

"Curious thing," he said, frowning. "Do you know whom I thought I saw just now? Rudy himself!"

"But he's in Chilton," she said, answering him mechanically.

"He was this morning," he replied thoughtfully.

Her imagination was racing. At one moment, she repeated to herself what she should have said to them in the first moment of her surprise. The next, it jumped to the future, constructing the scene of her reproaches to Irma—the way she should demand an explanation from Andrew. The next moment, she switched to the past with feverish alarm, seeking some remembered indications which could clarify the present unbelievable revelation. Andrew—Andrew of all men! She could believe all things but that!

"I'm afraid the others have gone off on their own boat," he repeated. "What do you want to do?"

She passed her hand hastily over her forehead, touched her lips to a glass of cold water, and said,

"If you don't mind, Monte, I think I'd rather have a bite to eat now and go right home. I'm sorry to be so stupid."

"Do anything you like," he said hastily, moved by the suffering in her eyes. "We can dine here and go back by the train?"

"By the train?" she said, perplexed. "And why not by the boat?"

"I prefer not, Amy," he said kindly. "Oh, I see what you think," she said slowly.

They ate their dinner rapidly. He saw her perturbation and refrained from addressing her. When the meal was ended, she said, out of a clear sky,

"I prefer to return in the yacht."

He shook his head.

"You are not in a mood to decide," he said gently. "I don't want you to do a thing you'll regret."

"You don't understand the situation," she said, looking at him. "It has nothing to do with Andrew. My husband and I have been nothing to each other for months."

"Are you sure?" he said gravely.

"Quite. Yes; I am upset, mortified, hurt, but it's not on his account. It's—it's to be deceived by her."

"Really, I had rather we did not go back alone," he said frowning.

"But if I wish it?"

"Very well."

She glanced at him.

"You are not annoyed at me?"

"I couldn't be."

"Please don't be annoyed, Monte—whatever I do."

In the antechamber, an idea came to him. He stepped in the cafe for a quick glance. He had not been mistaken. At a corner table, huddled over his glass, was Rudolph Dellabarre.

CHAPTER IV.

Andrew was already home, in the broad, gabled cottage he had taken for the summer. By the time they made the landing, she had not the slightest doubt that he would be would be there. Irma would have seen to that. If she had any one to thank for even this momentary return, it was the woman's need of safe-guarding appearances. She gave her hand hurriedly to Monte Bracken.

"You are very kind," she said gratefully. "Good night—and I shan't forget how you've been."

"I will do anything I can—at any time—for your happiness," he said, in a low voice.

He sprang back on the deck; the yacht backed out, and she watched it glide over the silky waters. At the bow, silhouetted against the tapestry of stars, his dark figure continued standing, still looking back at her. He had been very much of a gentleman, tactful and respecting her reticence, the true Monte Bracken of the finer metal that occasionally flashed out below the adroit and brilliant flaneur of the world. He had left her in long silence to the tumult of her own emotions.

"It's Irma—Irma I can't forgive," she repeated to herself dully, in long contemplation, as the shadowy goblin palaces of New York, the fiery lacework of vaulted bridges, the crowded throngs of electric lights fell behind and sank into the waters of the night. Across the bay, a few sentinel-lights followed their shooting progress—faint and distant as all mankind in the complexity of the stars which hung from the firmament above her and swam up from the deeps below. What did she really feel Was it only the treachery of a friend? At times, she had felt the tears wet on her cheeks—tears of bitter disillusions, she had told herself.

The veranda and the parlor were ablaze as she came slowly from the pier.

"Mrs. Lightbody and the others will be home later," she said to Gregory.

"Mr. Forrester has arrived, madam."

"Mr. Forrester? How lon ghas he been home?"

"About an hour, madam."

She waited a moment, half expecting some message from her husband, a demand for an interview, and then went up to her room, dismissing Morley as soon as she had removed her hat and ulster. Would he come to her? The odor of tobacco was in the upper hall. He was awake.

At the end of ten minutes, which seemed an interminable hour, she made up her mind suddenly and going to his door knocked.

"Who's there?" said her husband's voice.

"It is I."

She entered. He had been in his shirt-sleeves at his desk and had stopped to slip into a dressing-gown. A year ago, he would never have thought of that.

She stood by the door, watching him uneasily.

"Why, he isn't angry at all," she thought, troubled, "unless he is concealing it very well."

He closed the window, but, perceiving the lighted cigar on the desk, crossed over.

"I'd better get rid of this, too, I suppose," he said, tossing it into the fireplace.

She felt like screaming out.

But she controlled herself and murmured, "Thank you."

Whatever happened, she was determined he should not have the satisfaction of perceiving the slightest trace of irritation. She refused the chair he indicated—to remain still was impossible — and going to the mantelpiece, she rested her arm on the ledge in an attitude of coquetry which had become unconscious.

"I didn't expect you back before the end of the month," she began lightly.

"Yes; I got off earlier than I expected."

"Then things are going better?"

"In a way—thank you."

"I am always glad to know something of your affairs," she said gently.

He threw himself into an armchair, crossed his legs, caged his hands and looked at her.

"I am sorry you left Lazare's so quickly. I wanted you to come back with us."

He did not reply.

CHEMONG REGATTA ECLIPSED ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS FOR ATTENDANCE

WEATHER WAS GOOD AND AN EXCELLENT PROGRAMME WAS PROVIDED—DANCE IN EVENING.

Favoured with good weather the annual Chemong Park Regatta under the auspices of the Chemong Park Regatta Committee was the most successful in every way.

The attendance was very gratifying to the committee, who had worked unceasingly to ensure this. Hundreds of visitors were at the park from Stoney Lake, Lakefield, Peterborough, Pigeon Lake, Buckhorn Lake and Sturgeon Point, making the trip either by boat or motor. Peterborough was represented by a large number of citizens who motored out and Bobcaygeon sent a large number to the event on the Lintonia. The events were held off McClellan's cottage, the judge's boat (Mr. H. Wolfe's) being anchored about 75 yards off shore.

The balcony and cottage wharf was lined with people and the white and light coloured dresses of the girls, the white ducks and cream flannels of the boys and men stood out in striking contrast to the dark green background of grass and trees, the gay blazers sweaters and variety swimming suits adding a touch of colour and animation to the whole scene. A gentle breeze blowing up the lake served only to assure the many crafts on the lake that the sailing races could be held and to alleviate in some measure the oppressive August heat. Smiles of satisfaction at the fine weather and the good attendance forecasting a most successful regatta were worn by all of the officials before the events started and as each event came off smoothly with good entries and excellent races the smiles were not relinquished. The regatta was far in advance of last year's. Close competition in all the events, the fine spirit of sportsmanship shown by the participants, for which the committee is deeply gratified.

The Judges.

There was no slacking on the part of the officials and the committee. All day they had worked completing the final arrangements. The judges were Messrs. H. Wolfe, W. G. Thomson, W. R. Breyfogle, Rev. Robert Gay. The starters were Messrs. A. Brown and G. H. Roper. The clerks of course: Messrs. G. Sullivan and Edgar Burnham, and the announcers: Messrs. W. J. Hancock and Andrew Jobe.

The events opened shortly after two o'clock with the canoe sailing for the McClelland Cup. The breeze was too light for a fast run. Otto Glidden and Reg. Dixon fought for first place over the entire three miles, Glidden won, covering the course in 55 minutes. R. Russell came third.

Boys single canoe (16 years and under—1st, Mr. Kitchener, of Sturgeon Point; 2nd, Mr. Sherin, of Lakefield; 3rd, H. Bradburn, of Chemong.

The third race was the 14 ft. dinghy sailing for the Chemong Cup. There were four entries—Kemp, of Sandy Point; Flavelle, of Sturgeon Point; C. R. Widdifield, of Peterborough, and H. Knapman, sailing W. G. Hopwood's "Arrow." The wind was light and the boats drifting lazily along until the last leg. Flavelle hung hard onto Kemp, but the Bobcaygeon craft won. Widdifield, with "Sam Pan," Vincent Eastwood's old prize winner, took third honours handily. Knapman had trouble with his boat. Kemp covered the course in 37 minutes.

Men's single canoe—1st, Mr. Blewett, of Kawartha Park; 2nd, D. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield; 3rd, H. Long, of Chemong.

Men's fours (canoe)—1st, D. Fitzgerald, Mr. Blewett, H. Long, G. McClelland; 2nd, R. Dixon, P. Bennitt, R. Russell, V. Walker.

There were six entries in the ladies' tandens canoe. Miss Knowlsop and Miss Flavelle, of Sturgeon Point, won with a close second in Miss Eastwood and Miss M. Bull, of Chemong.

Fourteen tries in the crab race made an exciting hilarious free-for-all. Luckily there were no upsets despite many collisions. Mr. Kemp, of Sandy Point, won with Reg. Dixon second.

Mixed tandern canoe (9 entries)—1st, Miss McCallum, of Kawartha Park, and Mr. Blewett, of Kawartha Park; 2nd, Miss Knowles and D. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield.

The gunwale race caused no little tle excitement, but it is said that nothing as interesting occurred as when the boys were practising before the race. Proficient handling of the canoes was responsible for but one upset, that of Pat. Burritt, who had only got fairly started when over he went. It was a close race between McClelland and Dixon. 1st. McClelland; 2nd, Dixon; 3rd, Mr. Kitchener.

Admittedly the premier event was the tilting, in which there were many entries. Upsets were numerous and this event provoked more enthusiasm on the part of the spectators than any other event.

Dixon and Roper won from Wright and Bradburn; Webster and Breyfogle from Gledhill and Thompson. The latter upset.

Halpine and J. Matthews upset O. Glidden and P. Burritt, but went over themselves.

H. Long and G. McClelland upset McLean and G. Matthews.

H. Crane and Belcher upset F. Brooks and V. Walker.

D. Carmichael and Strathey won from Webster and R. Breyfogle.

Crane and Belcher defeated Dxon and Roper. Carmichael and Strathey won from G. McClelland and H. Long.

Crane and Belcher, using ramming tactics, defeated Halpine and Matthews, and won in the finals with Carmichael and Strathey.

Ladies' Swimming.

Miss Stewart, of Peterborough, won the ladies' swimming race with Miss Charles, of Chemong, second. There were five entries. The course was from McClelland's cottage to the judge's boat.

G. McClelland and his organized gang of nine other paddle handlers won the punt race from Gordon Matthews' aggregation, when the punt went under and the crew had to take to the water.

In the men's tandern canoe, Blewett and D. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, won with H. Long and R. Dixon a close second.

There were five entries in the men's swimming race. D. Fitzgerald won by a few yards from J. Gillespie, of Peterborough, with Mac Halpine, of Chemong, third. Owing to Fitzgerald having already won three firsts he could not, in keeping with the rules, be given a prize, and Gillespie and Halpine were awarded first and second prizes respectively.

A special boy's canoe race, 16 years and under, was run off. G. Matthews, of Chemong, and Mr. Kitchener, of Sturgeon Point, coming first and second.

There were only two entries in the ladies' canoe—Miss S. Mills and Miss McCallum, of Kawartha Park. Miss Mills won.

Mr. Sherin and Miss D. Cleeg won the boy's and girl's under 16 tandern canoe race. Mac Halpine and Miss D. Davidson came second.

The handicap motor boat race was the last event. It was after six o'clock when this race was called. The race was a disappointment. Mr. Wolfe's fast boat was unable to enter and Kemp, of Bobcaygeon, with his "Marconi" had the race to himself as far as speed went. Fred Roy's "Pup" nearly defeated him nevertheless.

The handicap was given by starting the boats at once with throttle wide open and then firing the pistol as a signal for turning. The fast boat cannot turn as quickly and get back on the course again and is handicapped in this way. Five or six boats were in the race. The little "Pup," a much slower boat than Kemp's, had only gone as far as the Marconi when the shot rang out. It had a good lead on the fast boat on the return, but Kemp overtook the "Pup" winning by a boat length. The V. S. R., owned by Christopher Rutherford, came third.

Dance in Evening.

This marked the conclusion of the afternoon sports. In the evening the annual regatta dance was held, and the presentation of prizes made. Excellent music was furnished by the Syncopated Four, under the leadership of Otto Gliddon, and until after midnight the dance went merrily on, the gay event being a fitting climax to the never-to-be-forgotten day.

Mrs. A. Elliott made the presentation of the prizes. Mr. Fred Roy, the chairman of the Regatta Committee, announced the prizewinners.

Mr. Roy thanked all who had in any way participated in the regatta, in making it such a success, and hoped that next year they would have as successful a regatta.

Dance Committee—H. Bradburn, chairman; R. Dixon, Mac Halpine.

Programme and Prize Committee—G. McClelland, chairman; G. Matthews, R. Best, H. Long.

Park and Course Committee—Fred Roy, chairman; H. Wolfe, A. Elliott, J. Gemmel, W. Thompson, E. Burnham, C. S. McClelland.

THE FEE SYSTEM FOR THE COUNTY POLICE IS DONE

SYSTEM SHOULD BE REPLACED BY SOMETHING MORE TANGIBLE.

High County Constable A. Moore has invited three or four Examiner reporters to assist him in the task of rounding up highwaymen and others varieties of thugs. The remuneration is to be the same as provided by statute covering the operations of county constables. The offer has been declined with thanks. Much as the press would like to assist in this work his delicate bit of sarcasm was all out lic in other ways. Another reason the offer was declined is because the remuneration the Constable offered in his delicat bit of sarcasm was all out of proportion to the duties involved. —Perhaps if the recommendations of the Provincial committee to be appointed to investigate he fees paid to county constables succeed in abolishing the antiquated system now in force and inaugurating a system under which county constables will receive adequate compensation for their services the offer might be accepted.

An Example.

An example of what an increase in salaries of such officers will do is that of the fisheries inspectors. When fisheries inspectors worked under a fee system similar to tha under which county constables now work there was a great deal of poaching because the smallness of the fees made it necessary for the inspectors to have some other means of livelihood and thus they were unable to pay the needed attention to their duties. When this system was abolished and a salary system introduced even though the number of inspectors was reduced the efficiency of the force greatly increased.

No man can have two occupations and give his complete attention to both, especially when one is such an exacting position as that of a constable. There has been some criticism of Constable Moore's work especially of late for which there may be some grounds but if he were not compelled to follow a second means of livelihood in order to add sufficiently to his fees as county constable he might be able to give his undevoted attention to the County's business.

LOCAL GROCERS' LOOK FOR DROP IN SUGAR PRICES

LOWER PRICES IN NEW YORK BOUND TO HAVE EFFECT.

Local grocers look for a drop in sugar prices during the coming weeks due to the predicted drop in price in New York and several who have several hundred bags stored by for higher prices are viewing their hoard with apprehension. After the long and trying seige of high prices the joyful news of a coming drop brought the housewives to the stores in great numbers to-day, all demanding the decrease in price anticipated for New York. The forecast of lower prices has had a somewhat disastrous result on the fruit dealers, the majority of the housewives maintaining that it will be economy to await the drop before doing any further canning.

POLICE FOUND BLOODY KNIFE

BELIEVED TO BE WEAPON USED BY MURDERER ON PHILIP GOLDEBERG.

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—An analysis is to be made of supposed blood spots on a knife found in a patch of clover about 33 feet from the scene of the Goldberg murder yesterday afternoon. The knife was found by Kenneth Blythe, age 10, of 26 Fern avenue, while he was wandering around the place ,and handed over to Detective McIllrath of Cowan avenue station.

Inspector of Detectives Guthrie is inclined to believe that the reddish spots on the knife blade are blood, possibly the blood of eight-year-old Philip Goldberg. There is just a chance, too, that the stains may be merely rust. However, the knife has been handed over to Dr. Rowe, who will ascertain by pathological means whether the stains are blood or rust.

Yesterday little Brodie Parker, 24 Baldwin street, told the police that, about three weeks ago, he had been accosted by a man while standing outside a picture show near McCaul street. The boy gave a description which tallied with that of the man sought.

APPLES WERE PLENTIFUL AND PRICES LOWER ON MARKET TO-DAY

Loads of apples on this morning's market served to remind the many city dwellers that fall is rapidly approaching. The fact is daily brought home to the farmer, but the urban dwellers, not as constantly in touch with nature as the farmers, are not apparently aware that the harvest is about half over and threshing will commence in a week or two. The apples sold at from 25c to 40c a peck, depending, of course, on variety and quality. Harvest apples and Red Astrakhans prevailed, both varieties selling very readily.

New Potatoes.

New potatoes were on the market in large quantities, selling at 40c and 45c a peck. The majority of the potatoes were of excellent quality, large and fine skinned. One farmer displayed Pink Buckeyes, asking 50 cents for them. Irish Cobblers by the bag were $2.25.

Exceedingly large, fine cabbages could be had for 15c and 20c, and cauliflowers brought the same price. Nice crisp celery sold for 20 cents. Green peas were only 5c a quart and wax beans 5c and 10c. Tomatoes sold at $1.00 a large basket or 65c for a small one. A small quart basket containing three or four sold for 10c. White and red radishes sold at 5c and lettuce at 5c. Big bunches of carrots and beets or onions were only a nickle. White squash were 10c, and the bottle-necked variety could be had for 5c. Cucumbers sold for 3 for 10c or 5c a-piece. Long 12 or 15 inch ones, grown in a greenhouse by one dealer, sold for 15 cents and up. One lady asked 80 cents a basket for pickling cucumbers.

Berries Getting Scarce.

All the boxes of raspberries that were on the market could have been easily counted—25 cents was the prevailing price, whether purple or red. While it is the very last of a very long drawn out season, some of the berries were firm and of fine flavour. Others were the opposite extreme. Huckleberries, declared to be the last of the crop by the seller, sold at 30c a quart or $2.25 a basket. At this price they went quickly. Green and red plums, the vanguard of the crop, brought 20 cents a quart. Honey sold at 32 cents a pound.

Upstairs Market.

High prices prevailed in the upstairs market. Little chickens not much larger than sparrows were laid out on the tables with the regulation little slip of paper on them. When moved by curiosity to examine the little slip on the remains, they read something like this: "$1.00—2 pounds and so many ounces." The lady in charge verified this apparent illusion, stating that the chickens were 45 cents a pound. The price ranged from 40c to 45c a pound. Eggs were 60c. This high price, they declare, is due to the heat affecting seriously the hens' egg producing. Butter was 65 cents a pound.

On the outside market this year's white Leghorn roosters were on sale at $1.00 a piece and Plymouth Rock pullets at 50 cents.

A new stand on the market to-day attracted no little attention. In a truck were several wash tubs and pails of water, containing large white water lilies, a sign behind them telling the world that they were 2 for 5c, 6 for 15c, or 12 for 25c. Water lilies may yet replace sweet peas and other tender little flowers in Peterborough households of this truck appears every Saturday.

The Auction Mart.

An inspection of the articles up for auction is a never-failing source of interest to many citizens. Reminiscences of bygone days are seen here. Old pictures and picture frames, frames of plush and old brass gilt were on sale to-day. Old crockery, some household furniture, a few books, a heavy rifle, and a barber's chair of ancient vintage, and cabinet with glass doors for mugs and general tonsorial display purposes were sold to-day.

FOR THE NOMINATION TO BE MADE AT THE CONVENTION ON AUGUST 28TH—UNITED FARMERS PREPARED TO FIGHT A LONE HAND IN FEDERAL CONTEST.

I.L.P. MAY SUPPORT

The U. F. O. call for a convention to be held in the Sons of England Hall on Saturday evening, August 28, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the forthcoming Federal election, indicates that the farmers of West Peterborough are prepared to enter the political lists alone, if needs be, unconcerned whether they receive help from the Independent Labour Party, G.W.V.A., or other group.

Five names have been mentioned among the township U.F.O. leaders, who for a month or more have been in conference with the I.L.P. executive. The strong men of the rural section of the riding seem to be Warden Nicholls of Smith, ex-Warden John McIntosh of North Monaghan, Mr. Charles E. Moore, of Smith, Mr. Harry G. Webber of Monaghan, and Mr. John Collins of Ennismore. Mr. James Campbell of South Monaghan is regarded as an aspirant but it has been objected that because his township is included with Peterborough only for Federal elections and consequently cannot lend assistance to any local cause in provincial contests, his claim for preference is held lightly alongside that of the Warden, for example.

From all accounts the U.F.O. are determined to nominate a farmer for the approaching election precipitated by Mr. H. Burnham, and they are so determined upon certain choices that local men who have participated in recent negotiations state that they will be surprised if the farmers agree upon one man with unanimity enough to enlist the entire rural vote.

It is plain that they have told the Independent Labor Party in words or in significant attitudes that if the fusion that was largely effective in electing Mr. Tooms is to continue it must be behind a member of the U. F. O. In the first conversations between the I.L.P. and the U.F.O. following the Burnham defy to the Union Government, the advantages of nominating a member of the I.L.P. were emphasized, so much so that ex-Warden Scott of Smith, who is credited with booming Warden Nicholls plainly and rather sharply told Mr. Tooms in a published letter that his activities were hurting rather than helping the cause of cooperation which had elevated him to the Provincial Assembly.

Reports from the several meetings of representatives of the two groups declared that the farmers demanded the allegiance of the I.L.P. in the coming election, and although at one stage the statement was given out that a difference of opinion had been referred to the respective provincial executives, it has since been intimated that any advice from above will be of little avail against the farmers' decision to carry on with or without the support of the Independent Labor Party.

It is understood that in the negotiations that have been held up to the present there have been no definite proposals held forth, no resolutions to interfere with continued affiliation. However if the Independent Labor Party lines up with the U. F. O. it will not be without the relinquishing of ambitions which if not officially announced were generally reported on the streets and discussed by several members of the I.L.P. executive.

If instead of getting closer together in their debates the I.L.P. and U.F.O. have drawn farther apart they can't place the blame on outside influences. Members of both groups declare that the incipient cleavage started from within. It has been further intimated by several prominent workers in the old fusion that if it is to endure the honours must be passed around, that one section is watchfully waiting the course of events to ascertain whether the new movement is as broad as its promoters implied or whether the "hewing of wood and the drawing of water" is to be the sole lot of a very considerable section who have put forward no claims and doubtless will not do so, but who none the less expect some of the honours of partnership as well as he labours.

SEVERAL BARNS DESTROYED BY STORM WHICH SWEPT OVER PETERBORO COUNTY

SEASON'S CROPS GO UP IN SMOKE —WORST STORM IN MANY YEARS—COTTAGES STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Leaving destruction in its wake, the worst electrical storm which has visited the locality in years, swept over Lakefield and the surrounding country on Saturday afternoon at about two o'clock. The storm commenced on the Smith side of the river, followed the river down to the village of Lakefield, went across to Douro and shifted to Stoney Lake.

At about 2.30 a large barn in the rear of Mr. David Miller's house in Smith township, was struck and was instantly in a blaze. All attempts to save the contents of the barn, which were valued at several thousand dollars, proved futile and Mr. Miller lost all his spring and fall wheat, several calves valued at $200, a bull, a wagon load of grain brought in on Saturday, and a hound dog. A collie which was in the barn with the hound, escaped, but had its eintire coat burned from its back. None of the Miller family, who were in the house, felt any ill effects from the storm.

Escaped Death.

In Douro township, close to Pine Grove cheese factory, Mr. Wellington Hunter who also suffered severely from the storm, had an extremely narrow escape from death. He had just finished cleaning a pig sty and walked into the yard when he felt what he thought to be a violent blow on his head and turning around found his new barn, built in 1916, and from which he had just emerged, in flames. Any attempts to save the contents of the barn proved practically useless and the barn, measuring thirty-five by ninety feet, was burned to the ground, his pigs, twelve old ones, one mother pig and nine little ones valued at $1,000 burned, also his entire harvest, which included twenty-five tons of hay. A driving house close to the barn was destroyed by fire also a binder which was in the driving shed. Only the fact that the wind was in the right direction saved the house. All occupants of the house were severely shocked.

Judge Rogers Injured.

At Stoney Lake, where the storm had spent its fury, lightning struck Judge G. M. Rogers' cottage, shocking the nine occupants, who included the Judge, and shattering a wooden bed to matchwood. No fire resulted, however, from the lightning.

Severe Shock.

Near the number seven school in Smith township, on the fourteenth concession, Mr. Sam Trude, son of Mr. Wm. Trude, who was helping his father in building a silo, had a very close call. He was standing against a wire near some steel rods which were being used in making the foundation of the silo when lighting struck the wire and threw Mr. Trude to the floor. He was carried to the house and only after working with him for several hours his family was enabled to straighten his twisted body out. In the vicinity where the storm raged for about two hours, the sky was practically as black as night, lightened only by the practically incessant purple lightning.

Lakefield Escaped.

While the storm was extremely severe in Lakefield the village escaped with practically no damage, outside of the destruction of a few trees. In Strickland's Grove, in the centre of the village, a tall pine which has been struck several times previously, was totally shattered.

At Burleigh.

Mr. Ira Dunford's barn at Burleigh was destroyed by fire, resulting from lightning.

FAIR DIRECTORS HAVE BIG PROGRAM FOR FIRST FOUR-DAY EXHIBITION

MAPLE LEAF CARNIVAL COMPANY WILL AUGMENT MIDWAY ATTRACTIONS—PARK STREET GATE WILL BE OPENED ESPECIALLY FOR AUTOMOBILES.

With this year's fair only a month away the directors met on Saturday evening at the Exhibition Park and put in two hours laying out the grounds for the midway, exhibits, special attractions and otherwise advancing the arrangements towards completion.

It was announced that a carnival company with the impressive title of "The Maple Leaf Attractions and Superior Shows United" has been engaged for the four days of the exhibition. They are perhaps not so large as the Sheesley and Pollack shows, but they guarantee a whip, merry-go-round, ferris wheel and aerial swings, and Berzac's Mammoth Circus. These attractions will be placed next to the manufacturers' building. The midway will have its old stamping ground from the secretary's office to the grand stand. Locations for concessions have been mapped out and can be secured from the secretary at any time.

It was decided that automobiles may enter the park only from the Park street gate, which will also be equipped to admit the general public.

Grand Stand Performance.

Launching a four-day exhibition this year, the directors have spared no expense in engaging grand stand attractions that assure an exceptionally good programme for the afternoon and evening performances. The following are the features of the grandstand attractions:

The Okuras—Japanese acrobats and jugglers.

The Bluchs—Comic aerial bar stunts; also hay waggon act.

Ed. Holder and his mule—A trained animal act that is guaranteed to please.

Ed. Zola & Company.—An entirely new idea in comics and burlesque pantomime.

Okura—The Japanese master of equipose. A feature of this act on a slender wire are the hand-embroidered costumes worn by the equilibrist.

The McDonald Trio — America's noted cycling experts.

Sigsbee's dogs—Said to be the best canine performance before the public to-day.

This is the present grand-stand programme. It has been secured with the object of making Peterborough first four-day fair a memorable one. Band concerts and displays of fireworks will be added to the evening performances.

A MODERN MIRACLE

What Mr. Robert I. Buchanan, of Sarnia, Ont., has t ay:

It is with great pleasure that I can testify to the great curative qualities of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets and Hou-Tan Ointment.

The summer of 1902 I took typhoid fever which left me with inflammatory rheumatism. My legs used to swell and the pain at times was almost unbearable. In January, 1903, I was compelled to go to bed and one month after my leg broke open at the knee. I was removed to Sarnia Hospital, where I spent almost one year and during that time had four operations. A part of the femur was removed from my leg and they made an incision through the other leg which went right through the bone. I left Sarnia hospital in February, 1904, and started to treat with other remedies but they failed to do me any good. In November, 1906, I was taken to Toronto hospital. At that time my right leg had gone back knocked-kneed until it was at right angles. They put a Thomas splint on to straighten it up and opened up the wound again. I left the hospital in February, 1907, and remained at home until July, 1907, when I returned to Toronto hospital again. They broke my leg just below the knee and straightened it. I came home in December, but the sore in my leg was still open. I was then using the cupping treatment which helped a little for a time. I tried a number of different Ointments, but they did not appear to help me.

In July, 1908, your agent left me a box of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets and Hou-Tan Ointment. After using them for about six months my health has been fully restored and the four different sores on my leg are completely healed.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets and Hou-Tan Ointment are for sale at WARNE'S DRUG STORE, Peterborough. Herb Tablets $25c. 50c and $1.00 per box. Hou-Tan Ointment 50c. Ask for Pamphlet and free sample of Tamblets.

STONEY LAKE NEWS

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 17.—Regatta week is the very height of Stoney Lake's social activities and the week has been a busy one for the "fashionables" at the lake. Afternoon teas and card parties have been the oredr of the day.

The dances of Juniper on Wednesday and Saturday have been especially popular and the young people have been having the time of their lives literally. The popular picnic spots have always more than one party enjoying them on these hot August days. Eel's Creek is a popular resort for a canoe trip and the trip to the high falls well repays a visit, though at this season of the year the falls are not as beautiful as later in the season. June is the best month to see the falls when the water is high.

Mr. G. O. Cameron, of Peterborough, is at Mount Julian for the holiday.

Good Fishing.

The fishing has been very good all week and the 'lunge fishermen have had a great time as they have been biting well. Whatever the real reason is there is a time each season when the 'lunge don't bite. Some wiseacres say they are losing their teeth, others smile at this and refer to the week growth which is the real reason. tOhers put forward the theory of the fish going into deeper water in the hot weather. Whatever the reason the 'lunge fishing never was better on Stoney Lake than at present.

Mushrooms and tomatoes stewed together are delicious.

David McNeal Saved Himself From Hands of Angry Thorold Mob

CROWD THREATENED TO LYNCH MAN WHO WAS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL ON CHARGE OF MURDER OF BOUCOCK CHILD.

(Canadian Press.)

Set Hall on Fire.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 17.—Canadian common sense and spirit of assisting to save the prisoner and in preventing the burning of the town hall, is considering what action shall be taken against the ring leaders of British fair play at Thorold last night saved the life of David McNeal, who had been committed for trial in that town during the afternoon on a charge of having murdered 4-year-old Margaret Boucock on July 13 last. The mob which clamored for possession of the prisoner numbered several thousand people, and the Town Hall was set on fire, after the prisoner and police officers had been smoked out of the Town Hall, which the mob had set on fire. About 10 o'clock, when darkness had set in, the mob, which had grown to immense proportions, determined to get McNeal, and began to storm the Town Hall with bricks and stones. Beore long every window in the newly-built building had been shattered and then the mob attacked the doors. McNeal and the police officers saved their lives by crouching in corners and holding chairs in front of them as volleys of rocks swept through the building. At first several shots were fired out of the upstairs' windows to frighten the crowd ,but it did not hinder them. Then flares were thrown through the shattered windows and a couple of men rushted a bundle of hay saturated with gasoline into the ground floor. Soon the flames burst out and eventually the smoke and flames drove the men who had been besieged since early afternoon down the stairs and out. "We surrender," yelled McNeal as he came down the stairs, with Chief Frank Collins, of Thorold, hanging to his steel wristlet. A Buffalo reporter, Howard White, was just ahead of McNeal, and the crowd seized him and were rushing him off. He showed his badge and they let him go.

McNeal was seized and rushed over in front of the Town Hall to an auto. A rope taken from the town flag pole was run up a pole and preparations made to hang him. McNeal had been terribly manhandled with bricks and sticks, and his face was completely covered with blood. He screamed for mercy, while the mob howled like demons. "Give him a chance," called someone, and that met with popular approval. "Men, if you are men, give me a chance to make a statement," cried the poor blood-stained wretch. "It may be my last words on earth."

Protests Innocence.

McNeal spoke for half an hour before a hushed crowd. He swore by the eternal he had not killed Margaret Boucock, "only a degenerate could do such a thing."

The crowd demanded why he had not made a statement before, and he said his counsel had told him not to speak.

In the course of his long speech, McNeal appealed to the crowd as a citizen of the United States who had endeavored to become a good Canadian, referred to his love of children, and appealed on behalf of his wife and her widowed mother. "As Britishers, give me a fair trial," he repeatedly remarked.

The firemen were fighting the flames, which were burning the Town Hall ,so it was necessary to move from the place. The crowd allowed McNeal to go onto the Public Library steps. There he stood and pleaded for his life, and finally the whole spirit of the crowd changed. From one section of the great audience came insistent appeals, "Give the man a chance, hand him over to the police." Finally others took up the cry, only a few dissenting, and before long it was almost a unanimous cry. When McNeal ceased speaking there was no further talking of lynching. The crowd was almost jovial. No one touched McNeal as Chief Mains and his men supported the prisoner to an auto, and he was rushed off to Welland before there was time for the crowd to change its mind.

The First Disturbance.

When the magistrate at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon announced his decision committing the accused for trial he promptly ordered the courtroom closed. The voice of the magistrate was the signal for a rush by a large number of the 500 people who crowded the hall, some hurling chairs and others upsetting tables; still others reaching for the prisoner with their firsts and several landing blows.

The police were successful in clearing the room, but the mob outside, which had by this time grown to nearly 1,000 persons, surrounded the building, and it was felt that an attempt to remove the prisoner would have serious results.

Appeals For Armed Men.

An appeal was made to Colonel McCordick, of St. Catharines, for 50 armed men to escort the prisoner to the jail. The reply was that there were no men, and that Thorold was outside his jurisdiction. Chief Greene, of St. Catharines police force, was appealed to but could not spare one man. Captain Vandersluys, of Niaga Falls, was asked for a military guard, but none was available.

Mayor Foley and Crown Attorney Cowper, the latter visibly bearing the marks of the onslaught of the crowd in the courtroom, decided that nothing could be done but wait for the crowd to melt away, or for the arrival of sufficient mounted police.

When Magistrate Munro had formally committed McNeal for trial and had gone downstairs, Chief Mains, of the Frontier Force, and other officers, asked the spectators to leave the court room.

"Why," yelled a woman in the crowd.

"Because it's all over," said Chief Mains. "Please now, boys, go away quietly."

Prisoner Attacked.

Suddenly a dark object went flying through the air like a shot and it proved to be Reuben Boucocp, father of the murdered girl, who had unexpectedly taken a leap out of the front crowd at the throat of McNeal as he stood handcuffed to Constable Harry Dunn. Evidently this had been the signal, for men and women crowded in, wielding chairs and yelling, "Kill him."

The police, lawyers and court officials tried to protect the prisoner as the infuriated men rained blow after blow at him with chairs. How he escaped death is a conundrum. It would not have surprised your correspondent had he seen McNeal lying dead on the floor, but after things cleared McNeal was still standing beside the officer, his hair ruffled and his clothes in disorder, and his face and head showing marks of blows.

Crown Attorney T. D. Cowper had been sitting at the magistrate's table, writing at the time, and he jumped up to help the officers protect McNeal. Several times the chairs missed McNeal and hit Mr. Cowper, who jumped upon a chair and addressed the menacing crowd. "You good people of Thorold will surely stand by and protect the good name of your town and of Canada," cried Mr. Cowper above the pandemonium. "I warn you not to do anything to this man. You will regret it if you do. I warn you of this. This man is not proven guilty." The crowd met the warning with derisive cries and hoots.

Wild Scene of Disorder.

Women and foreigners took a leading part in the riot in the court room. One middle-aged woman, well-dressed, had to be held back. She wanted to get at McNeal. During the riot the magistrate's table was overturned and ink bottles flew in all directions. George F. Peterson, McNeal's counsel, barely missed a crack over the head with a chair, He, too, had been writing at the table.

W. A. E. Moyer, a St. Catharines newspaperman, thinks he saved McNeal's life by grabbing a chair out of the hands of a burly fellow who was just about to smash it over McNeal's head, he having a clear opening.

Evidently the idea had been to throw McNeal out over the verandah to the crowd below. Had they got him his life would not have been worth a moment's purchase.

After the first outbursts the crowd were more amendable to reason and before long the court room was cleared , the men and women yelling, "Bring him out and we will attend to him," as they went down the stairs.

Held Crowd at Bay.

After the court room had been cleared, Chief Mains and Constable McNamara, for the Ontario Police, Niagara Falls, held the angry crowd at bay with drawn revolvers at the stairway, while newspaper men and court attaches rubbed sore spots that had been received in the onslaught.

While stones were rattling on the Town Hall floor through open windows, and the police were busy keeping the crowd out of the door, the press had it's first opportunity for a statement from the prisoner. To the accompaniment of the yells from outside of, "throw him down," and an occasional rumble of a stone or tin can on the floor, McNeal quite calm and collected made his first statement. "Say that I am innocent," he declared, "I never did that awful thing, I'm as innocent as you are. I always liked little Margaret and left her at St. John's church corner that afternoon."

Maintains He is Innocent.

"Is there any truth in the statement that you and Boucock had a row previously?"

"Well I had a little trouble with Reub. I'll not deny that, but it was only a neghborly kind of a spat."

When the suggested motive of revenge was mentioned as being out of the question as far as McNeal was concerned, he was most emphatic in his manner, his remark being, "Good God, man, could any one let revenge get so far as to kill a baby?"

George F. Peterson, prisoner's counsel, also bore marks of the fray, McNeal had three very noticeable bruises on his head and face.

Just before sundown, the crowd having not materially decreased, Mayor Foley, mounted the door step and made a public appeal to the crowd to disperse and permit British justice to prevail. He was repeatedly interrupted, one remark being, "British justice costs money; give him to us; we can save a lot of expense."

Deputation From Mob.

Early in the evening, before the rit reached its climax, a deputation from the mob came to the besieged party in the Town Hall with the message that if McNeal would show himself on the verandah the crowd would disperse. Chief Mains considered this unwise, as there might be firearms in the crowd.

Then Reuben Boucock and his father and another man came up the stairs and asked to see McNeal. "If he will confess, we'll go away," said Reuben Boucock.

"But will the crowd disperse," Chief Mains asked.

"I have nothing to do with the crowd," said the young man. Chief Mains asked Boucock why he had attacked McNeal when he had promised not to.

"Because he told his counsel I was a coward and I heard him," said Boucock.

Canon Piper, in addressing the crowd, pleaded for them to allow the law to take its course.

TWO WOMEN IN MORTAL COMBAT

INTERESTING FRACAS ON CHARLOTTE STREET LAST EVENING.

The peace of west Charlotte street, generally broken only by the "cut-outs" of speed fiends, suffered a shock last evening when a neighbours' quarrel led to words and blows.

The combatants, two women whose identity is unknown, met on Charlotte street near the corner of Downie street, and one immediately struck the other a blow between the eyes, saying, "I'll teach you to talk about me." The other retaliated with screams and for the next five minutes the two held a pow-wow. Violent action, however, was suspended and the two parted with divers and sundry remarks.

PETERBORO MAN CONCLUDES TRIP TO OLD COUNTRY

Unrest is evident throughout the British Isles due principally to labour conditions Mr. R. Grant, of the firm of Grant & Thorpe who with Mrs. Grant returned to the city this week after three months spent abroad told the Examiner to-day. It is of couordse difficult to realize waht the course difficult to realize what the people over there have been through during the war, what they had to contend with and how difficult it is to them to resettle down to some semblance of a prewar basis.

One disturbing element is the prices. Everything has doubled and redoubled away out of the reach of the ordinary working man who though he may be getting many times what he received in 1914 is unable to touch anything but the bare necessities of life. And even bare necessities are limited for sugar is still rationed, each person being limited to one half pound a week which costs twenty eight cents a pound. Should a house wife, desiring to preserve with for any more than her ration ticket calls for she must prove what it is wanted for and pay 33 cents a pound for what is called free sugar.

Clothing Easier

Clothing while much dearer than in pre-war days is of a better quality than may be bought in Canada and is slightly less expensive.

Splendid Spirit.

Mr. Grant said that the splendid spirit with which the English people are taking the taxation is wonderful and the majority of the people are bearing up wonderfully under an income tax or thirty three per cent. and an excess profit tax rate of 60 per cent. It is claimed by prominent men however that the latter tax is creating a state of extravagance as the merchants are turning the profits back into luxurious buildings and alterations.

Immigrant Arriving.

Immigration to Canada has commenced in earnest and the boat "Canada" upon which Mr. Grant returned brought over some two hundred and fifty. These he said were of a fairly good class but due to exchange difficulties brought over but little money. Most of the immigrants were induced to come to Canada by the hope of bettering their living standard, they believing that the high cost of living here would not be as bad as a home.

Business Prosperous.

Business in the British Isles is very prosperous and new industries are opening up daily, due probably to England finding out her power to produce what she had formerly bought from Germany. In spite of this German goods are finding their way back to the English market again.

Socialism.

Socialism is rampant in Scotland but so many factions have sprung up each calling themselves by some different name it is difficult to follow the course of the movement. The soap box orators at times refer in the vilest of language to the King, the Prime Minister and the upper classes.

In Scotland there is a bill passed applying to Scotland only, whereby the government will endeavour to introduce local option and a plebecite will be taken at the end of the year. The liquor interests, however, are very well organized and it is questionable whether it will go through as the general sentiment seems to be against outside interference. Whiskey is selling in Scotland under a controlled price of $3.50 a bottle.

Housing Problems.

The housing problem in England is even worse than in Canada. The war time law, prohibiting the expelling of tenants, still exists and the land owners are not allowed to raise rentals above the existing prices. There is a law, however, passed with in the last few weeks authorizing a thirty per cent. raise which is bitterly resented through the country.

Sewerage Disposal.

In conversation with Mr. Tetley, ex-Lord Mayor of Bradford, England, Mr. Grant learned that sewerage disposal in Bradford is being operated to yield considerable revenue, through the by products of the plant.

BIRTH.

SMITH.—On Aug. 17th, 1920, to Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Smith, 593 Park street, a son.

PRESENTATION TO REV. C. A. G. SPENCE

MRS. SPENCE ALSO HONOURED BY APSLEY RESIDENTS.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. A. G. Spence, whose silver wedding day occurred on Saturday, Aug. 7, received an invitation to Mrs. Grant' house on Thursday evening where they were agreeably surprised to meet a large number of the congregations of the churches of St. George's, Apsley and St. Stephen's, Chandos. A very pleasant musical evening was spent and towards its close Mr. Tom Tanner read a congratulatory address and on behalf of the congregations presented Mr. and Mrs .Spence with a substantial sum of money.

Mr. Spence, completely taken by surprise, declared his inability to adequately express his deep appreciation of this token of their love and good will towards himself and his wife, and expresed the hope that he might be spared for many years to minister in this parish.

The happy event closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

The loss is parly covered by insurance.

Early Thursday morning a barn on the Hastings Road near Keene owned by J. B. Wood of Otonabee was totall ydestroyed by fire of unknown origin.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as in the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentry and colic are most prevalent. Any of these 'troubles may. prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DEFINES POLICY OF NEW GOVERNMENT IN STIRRING APPEAL TO FARMER AUDIENCE.

PROTECTION WANTED

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 12.—Beneath a great maple in protection from a gentle rain, speaking at Mr. E. Guss Porter's political picnic at Stirling, yesterday afternoon, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada, very significantly made his first appeal to an audience of Ontario Farmers a defense of the theory and practice of adequate protection.

His tariff talk was cunningly sandwiched in between an appeal to the patriotism of his hearers by ringing the changes in the old refrain, "We won the war," and another appeal for support on the ground that the new party with the threefold name as the only alternative to te waves of Bolshevism and Anarchy, now overrunning European countries, getting control in Canada. He did not mention in his speech the party now led by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, but he did say that only two real parties now exist in Canada, one party standing for law and order, and ruling the country according to the lessons of the past, and another a party of discontent, of dangerous Anarchistic proclivities of class as opposed to the common weal, and that man to change for the sake of novelty and innovation.

Must Have Protection.

The first party, he made evident, was the party with the threefold name, but the other party he left his audience — made up mostly of farmers and their wives— to name for themselves.

His speech, he said at the outset, was intended especially for farmers, but his practical bid for the support of farmers was in the promise that wherever the Tariff Commission beginning its travels in September finds a tax or schedule that is not absoluely necessary it will be wiped away. As, however, the trend of his whole argument was to try to prove that Canada must have adequate protection if the industries are to thrive the workingmen to say in the Dominion, and the adverse exchange situation with the United States be corrected, the hope of further reductions will not be a bright one. The Premier seemed satisfied that already the average tariff on dutiable goods was low enough, saying that it was 22.58 per cent., as against 29.98 per cent. in 1898 and 26.76 per cent. in 1910. He also claimed that since Confederation no tariff had weighed unduly on the farmers.

Government's Stewardship.

The Premier here gave a lengthy review of the government's administration since its inception in 1917, dealing with its enforcement of the Military Service Act, its after-war Reconstruction policy, the pension system and railway problems, and the government's relations with capital and labor.

The New Policy.

Mr. Meighen here, after outlining his new policy took up at length the extent of tariff duties now levied, declaring them to be the lowest in average for 40years, and lower considerably than had obtained between 1896 and 1911. He discussed in particular the duties on agricultural implements, and vigorosuly attacked both those who would overturn the system that had made indusrial Canada what it is and the smaller faction who would join hands with the wreckers, but who knew their policy to be destructive. The tariff opposition to the present Administration he described as composed of, first, free traders, and second, fiscal humbugs. Those who would go the farthest, indeed the whole road of free trade, those who would go the farthest regardless of consequence would be in absolute control if by any chance the present Governmen were defeaed. Mr. Meighen further discussed the tariff from a revenue standpoint,and referred to the limitation of other methods of revenue. These other methods this Government had been the first to apply, and had applied vigorously and to every sane limit.

Feeling of Unrest.

"I have dwelt strongly and at some length on the wisdom of reasonable duties on imports as a factor in the industrial development of Canada, but there is something else which just now is even more important to consider. I refer to the feeling if unrest prevalent in this country, as in other countries in a greater degree; the tendency to find fault with every Government, to instil prejudice, to tear down existing institutions, to undermine principles which lie at the root of Brtish forms of administration and to oppose everything perman ent and tried with conflicting groups of thought. This is, perhaps, natural, at least it is the recurring consequence of great wars. The world at such times seems to become topsy-turvy. Such movements as the Bolshevism of Russia and the Jacquerie and Jacobinism of France, the I.W.W. and O.B.U. of America, get a strong foothold threatening all established instrutions. We have in Canada, in addition, the ambitions of political groups to gain an ascendancy irrespective of the interests of others to whom they are opposed. Of course no group will admit its purposes are selfish. As I have already pointed out, such conditions do not injure to national cohesion, unity and strength. They are essentially destructive.

"The attitude of mind is unreasonably critical and censorious. Nothing that a Government can or will do is satisfactory. The people in the towns grumble at the high prices of farm produce. The farmers grumble at the high prices they have to pay for products of the town. The ordinary business man is complaining of the burden of taxation. Federal, Provincial and municipal. In the midst of it all, the Reds, the Soviets and the One Big Union are carrying on an insidious campaign in their lodge rooms, and by means of spoken and written propaganda, with the object of destroying everything not of their class, just as Bolshevism in Europe is wrecking nations and seeks to overrun the whole world.

Stands for Unity.

The Premier here declared that he stands for unity in Canada, for Solidarity of conditions and freedom of enterprise within our own borders.

"I shall oppose," he said, "with every legitimate weapon at my command and with every ounce of my power the forces of destruction and disruption, the forces that in this and other lands wish to tear down the structure of responsible government and destroy the fabric of civilization woven through centuries of toil and care. I want to see Canada a great, a peaceful and a united people.

An amusing commentary on Premier Meighen's speech occurred when Brig.-Gen. Ross attacked the administration of justice in Canada on the ground that it favored the rich man rather than the poor man, and that the penitentiaries were run with needless cruelty in some instances. The Premier had spoken of his party as being National, Liberal and Conservative, but Gen. Ross boldly called himself "one of the old guards," who believed in the principle and policies of Sir John A. Macdonald and of Sir James Whitney, "and the sooner we get there the better."

Dr. S. F. Tolmie, minister of Agriculture, spoke briefly on matters concerning his department, and referred to the Prime Minister as "one of the brightest young men in Canada."

Dr. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways was present but did not address the gathering.

(Canadian Press.)

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 12.— Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier, in a speech yesterday concluded his discussion of the tariff with the following outline of policy:

"The financial policy of this Government is to go in debt no farther.

"The financial policy of this Government is to get revenue to carry on the work of government and to pay our debts.

"The tariff policy of this country is to keep Canadian workingmen in Canada.

"When you find workingmen's houses put up in hundreds for sale you will soon find hard times for everybody.

"The policy of the Government is to enlarge the employment market and add to the size of Canada.

"The policy of the Government is to make goods here and keep people here with plenty of work for every class of man.

"The policy of the Government is to give Canadian industries of every kind just enough advantage in the Canadian market as to make it pay them better to stay here and expand than to diminsh their plants or to leave.

"We are starting now an inquiry, the most thorough we can make, to determine what is absolutely necessary to secure these ends.

"Wherever there is a tax or schedule that is not absolutely necessary it will be wiped out.

"We intend to see that no interests, however powerful, get more than those requirements.

"We intend to see that no wreckers or theorists, however enthusiastic, imperil the well-being of this country by blindly fixing less."

WINNIPEG, August 17. — The elimination of the duties now levied on farm implements entering this country and the taking off within five years of duties now levied on British goods coming into Canada, will be asked for by the representatives of the United Farmers of Alberta who will appear before the tariff commission hearing in Winnipeg, September 15th. This announcement was made by W. R. Wood Secretary of the United Farmers.

D. J. Dyson, President of the prairie branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, said that the branch here would have representatives watching the proceedings.

He said that so far as he personally was concerned, he could see no grounds to oppose either of the requests to be made by the farmers. He declared that production was essential and he thought that no levies which interefered with production should be permitted.

PALLID CHEEKS MEAN ANAEMIA

When a girl in her teens becomes peevish, listless and dull, when nothing seems to interest her and dainties do not tempt her appetite you may be certain that she needs more good blood than her system is provided with. Before long her pallid cheeks, frequent headaches and breathles nes and palpitation will confirm that she is anaemic. Many mothers as the result of their own girlhood experience can promptly detect the early signs of anaemia and the wise mother does not wait for the trouble to develop any further but at once gives her daughter a course with Dr. Williams 'Pink Pills, which renew the blood supply and banish anaemia before it has obtained a hold on the system.

Out of their experience thousands of mothers know that anaemia is the sure road to worse ills. They know the difference that good red blood makes in the development of womanly health. Every headache, every gasp for breath that follows the slightest exertion by the anaemic girl, every pain that she suffers in her back and limps are reproaches if you have not taken the best steps to give your weak girl new blood and the only sure way to do so is through the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

New, rich, red blood is infused into the system by every dose of these pills. From this new rich blood springs good health, an increased appetite, new energy, high spirits, and perfect womanly development. Give your daughter Dr. Wiliams' Pink Pills and take them yourself and note how promptly their influence is felt in better health.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Willaims' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MAY PUNISH LEADERS OF THOROLD RIOT

ARE WELL KNOWN TO POLICE AS NO ATTEMPT AT SECRECY

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 18.—The people of Thorold are breathing easier to-day because their town escaped the notoriety of ushering lynch law into Canada. Now that things have quieted down, people are asking themselves how Monday night's lawlessness could have been possible.

Counting the Cost.

The cost is to be counted now. The Town Hall, which was partly destroyed by fire, had just been rebuilt and refitted at a cost of several thousands, and it will take over a thousand to repair last night's damage, the fire was started in the Assessor's office, and pracically everything in that office was destroyed, including the town sewerage plans, which cannot be replaced.

The floor of the hall where David McNeal and the police and reporters were besieged for seven or eight hours is covered with rocks and bricks, and the surprise is that some of the besieged men were not killed.

Proceedings Against Leaders.

It was stated here that proceedings are to be taken against the instigators of the riot. They are well known. All through the trying time yeserday afternoon these men could be seen by the besieged party from the windows, going about in the crowds, and the police named several. There are not the slightest attempt at secrecy or disguise. ? The men who rushed ino the Town Hall with armsful of hay and cans of gasoline and set the building on fire were plain to the view of the watching crowds and the police upstairs. One would have thought it was a bonfire they were making, as they could not have done it more openly. There seemed to be a spirit of "anything goes in order to get McNeil."

It was stated here by a man who was in the confidence of the plotters that McNeal's life, after all, was saved by the lucky incident of Reuben Boucock, the father of Margaret, attacking him in the court-room.

The Original Plot.

It has been arranged that there would be no disturbance, but that when McNeal was led down the stairs after the commitment he would be quietly taken from the two or three officers and hanged. Boucock had agreed not to make any move, but he says when McNeal called him a coward he lost control of himself. George F. Peterson, counsel for McNeal declares McNeal did not. All he said to Boucock was: "Let the law settle this thing, Reub."

Another Murder Theory.

Sentiment in Thorold with reference to McNeal's guilt is changed. Many were so impressed by his words last night, when he addressed the crowd fully convinced he was on the point of certain death, they believe he told the truth. The suggestion was made here that the same fiend who killed the Goldberg boy in Toronto and horribly mutiliated him might have killed Margaret Boucock.

McNeal Collapsed in Car.

David McNeal was given a quick trip from Thorold, the auto carrying him the ten miles in half an hour. He collapsed in the car. At Welland Jail he was given medical attention and he will be none the worse for the rough usage of the mob. He will not have to appear in Thorold again, but will have his trial at the coming Assizes.

George F. Peterson, his lawyer, said to-day he would apply for a change of venue. "McNeal could not get a fair trial in Lincoln or Welland," he said. He blamed the newspapers for working up sentiment against his client unconsciously.

Why Do People Take Monkey Glands?

Rejuvenation, both physically and mental, can be acquired, much easier and more pleasantly than by taking or eating the glands from monkeys. The French have invented a Medicine, in tablet form, that does away with all other means of rejuvenation. These Tablets are now universally sold throughout Canada, and are known as VITAL Tablets. They supply the necessary Vigor and Youth. There is no need to import chimpanzees from Africa, to take their glands to inject into people. Why go to all this trouble, and expense, when VITAL Tablets can now be procured right in your own town from your drug store? VITAL Tablets taken for a short period, disease of every description, old age with all its aches and pains, will be a thing of the past. Young men and women with their pale faces, thin blood, impure blood, blotches on the skin, run down, worn out, tired people, can be placed in a state of good health, with pure blood, strong nerves, a strong stomach, a healthy body, full of youth and vigor. Every Tablet of this new medicine contains the elements to make you feel as nature intended you to feel, no matter what your trouble is, go to your druggist and procure a box of VITAL Tablets. If they do not do you good, go back and get your money. Get on your feet ,away with that pale, worn out look on the face. VITAL will bring back the rose of youth. Price fifty cents per box at all drug stores.

DEFINES POLICY OF NEW GOVERNMENT IN STIRRING APPEAL TO FARMER AUDIENCE.

PROTECTION WANTED

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 12.—Beneath a great maple in protection from a gentle rain, speaking at Mr. E. Guss Porter's political picnic at Stirling, yesterday afternoon, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada, very significantly made his first appeal to an audience of Ontario Farmers a defense of the theory and practice of adequate protection.

His tariff talk was cunningly sandwiched in between an appeal to the patriotism of his hearers by ringing the changes in the old refrain, "We won the war," and another appeal for support on the ground that the new party with the threefold name as the only alternative to te waves of Bolshevism and Anarchy, now overrunning European countries, getting control in Canada. He did not mention in his speech the party now led by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, but he did say that only two real parties now exist in Canada, one party standing for law and order, and ruling the country according to the lessons of the past, and another a party of discontent, of dangerous Anarchistic proclivities of class as opposed to the common weal, and that man to change for the sake of novelty and innovation.

Must Have Protection.

The first party, he made evident, was the party with the threefold name, but the other party he left his audience — made up mostly of farmers and their wives— to name for themselves.

His speech, he said at the outset, was intended especially for farmers, but his practical bid for the support of farmers was in the promise that wherever the Tariff Commission beginning its travels in September finds a tax or schedule that is not absolutely necessary it will be wiped away. As, however, the trend of his whole argument was to try to prove that Canada must have adequate protection if the industries are to thrive the workingmen to say in the Dominion, and the adverse exchange situation with the United States be corrected, the hope of further reductions will not be a bright one. The Premier seemed satisfied that already the average tariff on dutiable goods was low enough, saying that it was 22.58 per cent., as against 29.08 per cent. in 1898 and 26.76 per cent. in 1910. He also claimed that since Confederation no tariff had weighed unduly on the farmers.

Government's Stewardship.

The Premier here gave a lengthy review of the government's administration since its inception in 1917, dealing with its enforcement of the Military Service Act, its after-war Reconstruction policy, the pension system and railway problems, and the government's relations with capital and labor.

The New Policy.

Mr. Meighen here, after outlining his new policy took up at length the extent of tariff duties now levied, declaring them to be the lowest in average for 40years, and lower considerably than had obtained between 1896 and 1911. He discussed in particular the duties on agricultural implements, and vigorosuly attacked both those who would overturn the system that had made industrial Canada what it is and the smaller faction who would join hands with the wreckers, but who knew their policy to be destructive. The tariff opposition to the present Administration he described as composed of, first, free traders, and second, fiscal humbugs. Those who would go the farthest, indeed the whole road of free trade, those who would go the farthest regardless of consequence would be in absolute control if by any chance the present Governmen were defeaed. Mr. Meighen further discussed the tariff from a revenue standpoint,and referred to the limitation of other methods of revenue. These other methods this Government had been the first to apply, and had applied vigorously and to every sane limit.

Feeling of Unrest.

"I have dwelt strongly and at some length on the wisdom of reasonable duties on imports as a factor in the industrial development of Canada, but there is something else which just now is even more important to consider. I refer to the feeling if unrest prevalent in this country, as in other countries in a greater degree; the tendency to find fault with every Government, to instil prejudice, to tear down existing institutions, to undermine principles which lie at the root of Brtish forms of administration and to oppose everything permanent and tried with conflicting groups of thought. This is, perhaps, natural, at least it is the recurring consequence of great wars. The world at such times seems to become topsy-turvy. Such movements as the Bolshevism of Russia and the Jacquerie and Jacobinism of France, the I.W.W. and O.B.U. of America, get a strong foothold threatening all established instrutions. We have in Canada, in addition, the ambitions of political groups to gain an ascendancy irrespective of the interests of others to whom they are opposed. Of course no group will admit its purposes are selfish. As I have already pointed out, such conditions do not injure to national cohesion, unity and strength. They are essentially destructive.

"The attitude of mind is unreasonably critical and censorious. Nothing that a Government can or will do is satisfactory. The people in the towns grumble at the high prices of farm produce. The farmers grumble at the high prices they have to pay for products of the town. The ordinary business man is complaining of the burden of taxation.. Federal, Provincial and municipal. In the midst of it all, the Reds, the Soviets and the One Big Union are carrying on an insidious campaign in their lodge rooms, and by means of spoken and written propaganda, with the object of destroying everything not of their class, just as Bolshevism in Europe is wrecking nations and seeks to overrun the whole world.

Stands for Unity.

The Premier here declared that he stands for unity in Canada, for Solidarity of conditions and freedom of enterprise within our own borders.

"I shall oppose," he said, "with every legitimate weapon at my command and with every ounce of my power the forces of destruction and disruption, the forces that in this and other lands wish to tear down the structure of responsible government and destroy the fabric of civilization woven through centuries of toil and care. I want to see Canada a great, a peaceful and a united people.

An amusing commentary on Premier Meighen's speech occurred when Brig.-Gen. Ross attacked the administration of justice in Canada on the ground that it favored the rich man rather than the poor man, and that the penitentiaries were run with needless cruelty in some instances. The Premier had spoken of his party as being National, Liberal and Conservative, but Gen. Ross boldly called himself "one of the old guards," who believed in the principle and policies of Sir John A. Macdonald and of Sir James Whitney, "and the sooner we get there the better."

Dr. S. F. Tolmie, minister of Agriculture, spoke briefly on matters concerning his department, and referred to the Prime Minister as "one of the brightest young men in Canada."

Dr. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways was present but did not address the gathering.

Tariff Policy

PREMIER MEIGHEN MAKES SUMMARY OF TARIFF POLICY OF HIS PARTY.

(Canadian Press.)

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 12.— Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier, in a speech yesterday concluded his discussion of the tariff with the following outline of policy:

"The financial policy of this Government is to go in debt no farther.

"The financial policy of this Government is to get revenue to carry on the work of government and to pay our debts.

"The tariff policy of this country is to keep Canadian workingmen in Canada.

"The policy of the Government is to enlarge the employment market and add to the size of Canada.

"The policy of the Government is to make goods here and keep people here with plenty of work for every class of man.

"The policy of the Government is to give Canadian industries of every kind just enough advantage in the Canadian market as to make it pay them better to stay here and expand than to diminsh their plants or to leave.

"We are starting now an inquiry, the most thorough we can make, to determine what is absolutely necessary to secure these ends.

"Wherever there is a tax or schedule that is not absolutely necessary it will be wiped out.

"We intend to see that no interests, however powerful, get more than those requirements.

"We intend to see that no wreckers or theorists, however enthusiastic, imperil the well-being of this country by blindly fixing less."

ASK REMOVAL OF DUTY FROM IMPLEMENTS

FARMERS ALSO WANT BRITISH GOODS ALLOWED IN FREE.

WINNIPEG, August 17. — The elimination of the duties now levied on farm implements entering this country and the taking off within five years of duties now levied on British goods coming into Canada, will be asked for by the representatives of the United Farmers of Alberta who will appear before the tariff commission hearing in Winnipeg, September 15th. This announcement was made by W. R. Wood Secretary of the United Farmers.

D. J. Dyson, President of the prairie branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, said that the branch here would have representatives watching the proceedings.

He said that so far as he personally was concerned, he could see no grounds to oppose either of the requests to be made by the farmers. He declared that production was essential and he thought that no levies which interefered with production should be permitted.

PALLID CHEEKS MEAN ANAEMIA

When a girl in her teens becomes peevish, listless and dull, when nothing seems to interest her and dainties do not tempt her appetite you may be certain that she needs more good blood than her system is provided with. Before long her pallid cheeks, frequent headaches and breathlessnes and palpitation will confirm that she is anaemic. Many mothers as the result of their own girlhood experience can promptly detect the early signs of anaemia and the wise mother does not wait for the trouble to develop any further but at once gives her daughter a course with Dr. Williams 'Pink Pills, which renew the blood supply and banish anaemia before it has obtained a hold on the system.

Out of their experience thousands of mothers know that anaemia is the sure road to worse ills. They know the difference that good red blood makes in the development of womanly health. Every headache, every gasp for breath that follows the slightest exertion by the anaemic girl, every pain that she suffers in her back and limps are reproaches if you have not taken the best steps to give your weak girl new blood and the only sure way to do so is through the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

New, rich, red blood is infused into the system by every dose of these pills. From this new rich blood springs good health, an increased appetite, new energy, high spirits, and perfect womanly development. Give your daughter Dr. Wiliams' Pink Pills and take them yourself and note how promptly their influence is felt in better health.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Willaims' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MAY PUNISH LEADERS OF THOROLD RIOT

ARE WELL KNOWN TO POLICE AS NO ATTEMPT AT SECRECY

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 18.—The people of Thorold are breathing easier to-day because their town escaped the notoriety of ushering lynch law into Canada. Now that things have quieted down, people are asking themselves how Monday night's lawlessness could have been possible.

Counting the Cost.

The cost is to be counted now. The Town Hall, which was partly destroyed by fire, had just been rebuilt and refitted at a cost of several thousands, and it will take over a thousand to repair last night's damage. the fire was started in the Assessor's office, and pracically everything in that office was destroyed, including the town sewerage plans, which cannot be replaced.

The floor of the hall where David McNeal and the police and reporters were besieged for seven or eight hours is covered with rocks and bricks, and the surprise is that some of the besieged men were not killed.

Proceedings Against Leaders.

It was stated here that proceedings are to be taken against the instigators of the riot. They are well known. All through the trying time yeserday afternoon these men could be seen by the besieged party from the windows, going about in the crowds, and the police named several. There are not the slightest attempt at secrecy or disguise. ? The men who rushed ino the Town Hall with armsful of hay and cans of gasoline and set the building on fire were plain to the view of the watching crowds and the police upstairs. One would have thought it was a bonfire they were making, as they could not have done it more openly. There seemed to be a spirit of "anything goes in order to get McNeil."

It was stated here by a man who was in the confidence of the plotters that McNeal's life, after all, was saved by the lucky incident of Reuben Boucock, the father of Margaret, attacking him in the court-room.

The Original Plot.

It has been arranged that there would be no disturbance, but that when McNeal was led down the stairs after the commitment he would be quietly taken from the two or three officers and hanged. Boucock had agreed not to make any move, but he says when McNeal called him a coward he lost control of himself. George F. Peterson, counsel for McNeal declares McNeal did not. All he said to Boucock was: "Let the law settle this thing, Reub."

Another Murder Theory.

Sentiment in Thorold with reference to McNeal's guilt is changed. Many were so impressed by his words last night, when he addressed the crowd fully convinced he was on the point of certain death, they believe he told the truth. The suggestion was made here that the same fiend who killed the Goldberg boy in Toronto and horribly mutiliated him might have killed Margaret Boucock.

McNeal Collapsed in Car.

David McNeal was given a quick trip from Thorold, the auto carrying him the ten miles in half an hour. He collapsed in the car. At Welland Jail he was given medical attention and he will be none the worse for the rough usage of the mob. He will not have to appear in Thorold again, but will have his trial at the coming Assizes.

George F. Peterson, his lawyer, said to-day he would apply for a change of venue. "McNeal could not get a fair trial in Lincoln or Welland," he said. He blamed the newspapers for working up sentiment against his client unconsciously.

Why Do People Take Monkey Glands?

Rejuvenation, both physically and mental, can be acquired, much easier and more pleasantly than by taking or eating the glands from monkeys. The French have invented a Medicine, in tablet form, that does away with all other means of rejuvenation. These Tablets are now universally sold throughout Canada, and are known as VITAL Tablets. They supply the necessary Vigor and Youth. There is no need to import chimpanzees from Africa, to take their glands to inject into people. Why go to all this trouble, and expense, when VITAL Tablets can now be procured right in your own town from your drug store? VITAL Tablets taken for a short period, disease of every description, old age with all its aches and pains, will be a thing of the past. Young men and women with their pale faces, thin blood, impure blood, blotches on the skin, run down, worn out, tired people, can be placed in a state of good health, with pure blood, strong nerves, a strong stomach, a healthy body, full of youth and vigor. Every Tablet of this new medicine contains the elements to make you feel as nature intended you to feel, no matter what your trouble is, go to your druggist and procure a box of VITAL Tablets. If they do not do you good, go back and get your money. Get on your feet ,away with that pale, worn out look on the face. VITAL will bring back the rose of youth. Price fifty cents per box at all drug stores.

LIABLE TO ARREST.

LINDSAY, Aug. 18.— Constable Parkes is of the opinion that Coleman and Robertson, the two travellers mixed up in a peculiar cheque deal, are liable to arrest for their dealings in Lindsay and Fenelon Falls.

General Wrangel Making Good Progress in Offensive Movement

A CONFERENCE WAS HELD AT FIRE CHIEFS OFFICE

PROMISED INVESTIGATION WILL BE STAGED ON TUESDAY EVENING—PEACE PREVAILS AT THE FIRE HALL.

Mayor McIntyre, Ald. Morrison and Fire Chief Grange held a conference in the Chief's office at the Fire Hall this morning. All three declined to say anything for publication further than that the investigation into the affair at the Fire Department would probably be opened at the City Hall on Tuesday evening. The original intention to hold the initial meeting on Monday night has been discarded in view of the fact that a meeting of the Special Bridge committee is scheduled for Monday evening.

An effort was made to get in touch with the members of the Fire, Water and Light committee in order to sound them as to their opinions regarding the latest developments at the Fire Hall was unsuccessful.

An air of peace and quiet pervaded the Fire Hall this morning. Chief Grange, who upon two occasions ordered Examiner reporters from the Fire Hall some time ago, following what he evidently considered an indirect criticism of the work of the Department, was very affable when seen this morning.

The manufacturers and property owners are manifesting a keen interest in the proceedings as they are anxious to learn the true state of affairs. They are anxious to know whether the city possesses a capable fire department. The matter of the men belonging to a union or holding union meetings in the fire hall is of much lesser importance to those who have property to protect.

GIRL AGED TWO YEARS BURNED TO DEATH

WAS DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. SEWARD ARMSTRONG, FORMERLY OF LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, August 21.—Mrs. M. Clark, Peel Street, received word on Thursday night that her niece, little Marjorie Armstrong, of Oshawa, had died in the hospital from the effects of burns.

From the information received, it appears that that afternoon the unfortunate girl had been playing around the garage and got a quantity of gasoline on her clothes. She stood near the fire and was instantly enveloped in flames. Her clothing was burned off and she was rushed to the hospital where she died an hour later.

Marjorie, who was scarcely two years old, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seward Armstrong, formerly of Lindsay.

ATTEMPTED MOTOR THEFT IN LINDSAY

LINDSAY, Aug. 20. — An attempted automobile theft or joy ride caused a stir on Thursday evening for a few minutes about 9:30 o'clock.

Mr. Cashore had left his car standing in front of the G. W. V. A. club rooms on York street, and was then across the street talking with some friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. Glass. After a few minutes Mr. Cashore intimated that he had to be going and must get his car, when Mrs. Glass exclaimed that some people had just driven of in the machine and had put the top down apparently. Mr. Cashore ran to Kent street and at once took up the chase in another car and also notified the police. A quick run about town failed to disclose the fugitives so an investigation was made in the neighborhood of the club house.

Neatly parked in the lane behind the Presbyterian church the car was found with lights burning and top up and in apparently quite the same condition as when driven off. The promptness with which the thieves were pursued seemed to deter them from trying to make a getaway, or attempt a joy ride through the country.

AMERICAN MILLERS GOT EXPORT ORDERS

HAD ADVANTAGE BECAUSE OF EXPORT TAX ON THE CANADIAN PRODUCT.

OTTAWA.—It is rather surprising to be told that, when Canadian flour millers were looking anxiously for orders last winter, the United States mills were shipping flour to Greece which should and might have been sold to Canadian manufacturers. Information was received here this week to the effect that in December 1919, and January, 1920, flour, to the value of about $8,000,000 was shipped from the United States to Greece; and that flour was made from Canadian wheat. The orders would have come to Canada but for the fact that the United States millers were able to quote a little lower price. That they were able to do so is said to be because of the handicap imposed on Canadian exporters charging a tax of from one to two dollars a barrel on flour for export from Canada.

Whether the Board had a right to impose this tax is a question which has been asked several times; and what is to become of the product of the tax is also interesting to grain growers, millers and others. It must total in the millions.

Although the Grain Exchanges open on the sixteenth of August, the Wheat Board is still in control, and will be until the 1919 crop is marketed which will probabaly not be until the end of August or the first of September. After that the accounts will have to be wound up; so that it will probably be six weeks or two months at least before control is lifted.—Financial Post.

TRIED TO HOLD UP LINDSAY MAN

LINDSAY, Aug. 20.—The automobilists of this section should use extra precautions in locking their cars and not leave them with any loose articles on the seats, as just now all kinds of thieving and holdups have been reported from different sections. Only a couple of nights ago a Lindsay man was driving into town from the north when he observed a car placed right across the roadway, blocking it almost entirely. Suspecting trouble from the odd position of the machine, he whipped up his horse and drove furiously into the ditch and past as two men rushed out to grab his horse's head. The car did not follow, but started northward. Possibly the Millbrook holdup gang has moved this way.

BRITISH DESIGNER WILL CONSTRUCT THE YACHT MAPLE LEAF.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, August 20.—J. A. C. Ross, the promoter of the All-Canadian challenge for the America Cup, has cabled Charles G. Nicholson, the designer of Shamrock IV., to inquire whether he would accept a commission to come to Canada to design the new Maple Leaf.

Mr. Ross desires that the yacht should be Canadian in every possible particular, from the men who will build her to the crew who sails her.

Mr. Nicholson accepts the commission, providing the preliminary work is carried on in England, where he wishes moulds to be constructed and then shipped over to Canada.

Officers Murdered

RECENT EVENTS IN MESOPOTAMIA MAY INVOLVE GREAT BRITAIN.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Fears are expressed here that recent events in Mesopotamia will involve Great Britain in costly military campaign. Official report how that country is in state of Anarchistic rebellion against British administration particularly north east and west of Bagdad and Mohul. British garrisons have been infested railways cut and British officer murdered. Already there are seventy thousand British and Indian troop in Mesopotamia and ten thousand or more with artillery are on their way thither from India but apparently many more such reinforcements will be required to restore order. Revolt is presumed to be against methods of British Administration which is wholly in hands of British political and military officers.

IMPROVEMENT IN FUEL SITUATION

Some Improvement in Production and Transportation

PITTSBURG, August 21.—Moderate improvement in production and transportation of coal took place during the last week. With the official ending of the strike in the central western fields, bituminous production is estimated at over 11,000,000 tons a week once more. Elsewhere strike troubles are only sporadic, and have had little eect on output. Cars are moving a little better to destination, and operators report a somewhat improved supply furnished the mines. The decision of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, forbidding railroads to supply open top cars to mines which load their coal on waggons and are not provided with tipples, is expected to help the situation in that state.

AGREEMENT WITH THE BOLSHEVIKI

New Move Reported on the Part of the Reds.

(Canadian Press)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 21.—Soviet Russia has concluded an agreement with Armenia by which the Provinces of Karabagh and Zanzegour in Southern Armenia will be neutralized. Entente circles here are alarmed regarding this convention, which they believe is equivalent to permission by Armenia for Bolsheviki to cross the country from Baku into Anatolia, where Soviet forces can join these led by Mustapha Jemal Passa, leader of Turkish Nationalists.

Progress Reported

GENERAL WRANGEL HAS OPENED UP A NEW OFFENSIVE IN THE SOUTH.

(Canadian Press).

PARIS, Aug. 21.—The French Foreign Office announces that General Wrangel, leader of the South Russian Government, began an offensive on a wide front three days ago, on receiving the first news of the Polish rally. Details are lacking, but good progress is reported everywhere in this new campaign.

Landing Parties.

(Canadian Press).

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 21. — General Baron Wrangel, anti-Bolsheviki, commander in South Russia, has landed three additional invading forces in Kuban ports with the purpose of encouraging Kuban uprisings against the Bolshevik. Landing parties are reported to aggregate over ten thousand, and were landed on the coast of the Sea of Azov, on Taman peninsula and on the Black Sea coast. French warships covered the landings, which apparently had as their design the envelopment of Novorossisk and Ekaterinodara, and the severing of the Bolshevik railway and highway communication southward. General Wrangel took five thousand prisoners on the Lower Dnieper, in the Alechi region, where he permitted the Bolsheviki to cross the river and then cut them off by a speedy cavalry charge and giving his infantry, which had feigned repulse, a chance to attack the surprised enemy. In the northeastern sector Wrangel has taken a thousand prisoners and many guns. Don Kuban, Terek and Astrakhan Cossack chiefs have signed an agreement to support General Wrangel on the condition that he does not touch their internal affairs until the conclusion of the civil war that is going on.

Deny the Position

LITTLE CHANGE IN THE SITUATION IN IRELAND—THE PREMIER'S STAND.

LONDON, August 21.—Something, but nobody quite knows what, is happening behind political scenes in Ireland, particularly in Ulster. Although stout denials are offered by Belfast Unionists, the press there has some reason to believe that the non-possumous attitude of Orangemen with regard to Dominion Home Rule is weakening, and that many influential north-enders who have hitherto been associated with Edward Carson's policy are now ready to declare that if Irish peace can be secured by the award of a measure of Dominion self-government, with guarantees to Ulster, they are ready to form a bridge between the North and South.

On his return from Lucerne, the Premier will be waited on by a deputation of forty Ulster Unionists, who will urge him to drop the present Bill and substitute another granting Ireland Dominion Home Rule under two Legislatures and one Parliament, with complete fiscal autonomy, but with the Army and Navy, peace, war, and foreign relations reserved. Identity of the forty Unionists is not revealed, but that they really exist as a Home Rule deputation is beyond doubt. The Carsonite Belfast News Letter declines to read into the Premier's answer, on Monday, any declaration that the Government is willing to go beyond the limits of the present Bill.

Lloyd-George's Statement.

Lloyd-George said the Government was prepared to discuss any proposals put before them, that (1) secured separate treatment for counties of north-east Ulster; (2) involved no direct or indirect separation of any part of Ireland from the United Kingdom; and (3) safeguarded security of these Islands in wartime. On these terms, the Government was willing to negotiate with any representative body of Irishmen, whether Sinn Feiners or otherwise.

The Ulster Unionist press considers that condition (a) closes the door on the possibility of Dominion Home Rule, and the Belfast News Letter comments as follows:

"What about that deputation of Ulster Unionists whose going to London was signalised as the disruption of the Carsonite party and the triumph of Dominion Home Rule scheme? We put this to all forty of them, whoever they may be. Is it worth while, taking into acount the cost of travelling, and in face of the Premier's statement to make themselves ridiculous by pretending they represent any opinion in the six counties, other than their own?"

The Ulster Unionist position will not be clear until the publication of these delegates' names reveals the extent of the secession from Carsonism.

Much importance attaches to a conference in Dublin next Tuesday, of moderate men drawn from every political party outside of the Sinn Fein. Dublin papers advertise this gathering as the Irish Peace Conference. Meanwhile, the question is being asked, Where is Northcliffe? Some weeks ago his papers announced with significant repetition: "Lord Northcliffe has left, and will not return before the end of September." His name cannot be discovered among lists of visitors to well-known continental resorts, and the inference is drawn that he in person is applying to Ireland, and particularly to Ulster, the "mass suggestion" tactics he found so successful during the later stages of the Great War.

LOW LEVEL FOR RUBBER PRICES

Quotations on Crude are Lowest Ever Recorded.

Crude rubber at from 28 cents to 30 cents a pound is selling at the lowest prices ever recorded for the commodity. Current quotations represent a gradual decline of about 20 cents a pound from price of 50 cents at which crude rubber sold about six months ago. During 1919 the price of crude rubber ranged between 44 cents and 55 cents. In 1913 it sold for more than $1.00 a pound.

NEW SOVIET TERMS WILL RECOGNIZE INDEPENDENCE IN PEACE WITH THE POLES

WANT MORE JUSTICES FOR BRAZIL'S COURT.

(United Press).

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 21.—The supreme court of Brazil is about to sound the S.O.S. for more justices. It is six years behind in its work

In 1891 when Rio became the capital of a republic instead of the seat of an empire, the first decree of the new government created a supreme court of justice similar to the highest tribunal of the United States. Since that time the number of cases before the court has steadily mounted until now they reach into the thousands in a single year.

At present there are fifteen justices. Last year there were 1,600 cases presented for hearing. Only 600 were decided, however, in that time.

WAS A FREQUENT VISITOR TO CITY

UNCLE OF MR. H. O. FISK DIED IN MONTREAL.

Rev. Alphonse de Lignoir Therrien, one of Canada's eminent divines, died on Friday morning in Montreal at his residence, 1538 Hutchison Street. Deceased, who was an uncle of Mr. H. O. Fisk, 204 McDonnel Street, was a frequent and well known visitor in the city, and occupied the pulpit in the Baptist Church on many a memorable occasion.

Rev. Mr. Therrien was probably one of the best known men in the Province of Quebec, having been identified with various social and temperance works for many years. He was the son of Guillaume and Madame Therrien, and was born in Notre Dame de Stanbridge, Quebec, in August, 1848. He was educated at the Feller Institute, Grande Ligne, Quebec, and was later Honorary Doctor of Divinity of McMaster University, Toronto. He was licensed to preach in 1865, and was ordained to the Baptist Ministry in 1870. He married Miss Sara L. Fisk.

At one time Rev. Therrien was superintendent of the Grande Ligne Mission Field. He was also pastor of L'Oratorire in Montreal; St. Pie, Roxton; Burlington, Vermont, and in Grande Ligne. He afterwards returned to take the pastorship in Montreal, and had been with the local Oratoire since 1886.

Mr. Therrien had for many years been a writer in both the English and French press in Montreal, and was the author of the novel, "New Hearts in New France."

At one time he was president of the Montreal Ministerial Association, and drew up an address to Her late Majesty Queen Victoria with Archbishop Bruchesi, at the time of the Diamond Jubilee.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon in Montreal.

HEAVY FIGHTING.

(Canadian Press.)

Further to the north Soviet and Polish armies are engaged near Wyszkow and Stanislow, while in the region north of Brest-Litovsk fighting is proceeding along the line of the western branch of the Bug river. MID-SUMMER DOLLAR DAY

PETERBORO'S BIG SEMI-ANNUAL SHOPPING EVENT WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 25TH.

Peterboro's Mid-Summer Dollar Day is scheduled to take place on Wednesday next, August 25th. To merely announce the date of this great Shopping Event is about all that is necessary to insure its success; for Dollar Day is anticipated with the greatest eagerness by thousands of people in the city and county who make Peterboro their shopping centre.

Dollar Day is a day of profitable shopping. It is the greatest event of its kind during the entire year and citizens have learned from experience that the merchants have bargains in store for them on that day that cannot be obtained at any other time. Because of the uncertainties of the markets at present, many lines of merchandise are difficult to procure and the indications are that prices will be even higher in the future. In spite of this, the Dollar Day Merchants are preparing to offer some genuine bargains for the coming event, which will make the day a boon to the consumer—a fact which the buying public should bear in mind.

As an additional attraction for Dollar Day the Merchants have made up a Treasury Fund of $175 to be given away to the shoppers in sixteen splendid Cash Prizes. Read about the plan in the big advertisement and everybody enter the friendly competition to see who will secure the grand bonus of $50.00 or one of the other fifteen prizes offered.

FARM COLONIES IN MEXICAN STATES

(Canadian Press)

MEXICO City, Aug. 21.—To satisfy the land-hunger of the Mexican peasantry, the Government is establishing farm colonies in the states of San Luis Uotosi and Guanaiuato. Other settlements will be founded as soon as these first two are completely launched.

In these colonies, the small proprietors will live like the Mormons in Chihuahua and Sonora—each community having its own streets, market, garden, mixed school and moving picture theatre. Apportionment of the adjacent farm lands will be made so that each petty landholder will literally have his own "row to hoe," thus obviating one of the greatest causes for the many recent uprisings that have occurred in Mexico. Each farmer will be furnished with agricultural implements and seed.

These farms will be non-transferable in any form, whether by mortgage, sale or exchange. They may be inherited, however, and are to be free from taxation.

It is planned to establish the proposed communities near railroad lines, so that the products will find ready markets.

LOCAL MARKETS

With the biggest crop of potatoes, both early and late, Canada has ever known, the price still keeps dropping until to-day it has aproached something like a pre-war figure, potatoes seeling freely at $1.50, while at Trenton they are selling at 80c a bag. In many places in the country people who anticipated a shortage this year and planted an extra large crop, are offering them to anyone who will dig them for the digging. Cabbages also are practically being given away for the cartage. All reports of a blight on the potatoes, used as propaganda, by some, are denied by the amateur gardeners who have planted large lots and all claim that there is absolutely nothing in such reports, and nothing to complain of otherwise than that the potato bugs are plentiful, which the warm weather has brought out in large numbers.

Cheese and shortenings are slightly easier on the local market to-day, while meats remain steady.

INVESTIGATION INTO THE THOROLD RIOTS.

(Canadian Press.)

ST. CATHARINES, August 20.—The Provincial investigation into the riots in Thorold is in progress this afternoon before Inspector Boyd at the Thorold Police Station. A long list of the people known to have been about the Town Hall on Monday afternoon, during and after the preliminary hearing of David McNeal, are being summoned to tell all they know about the disorders, and the sidewalk is almost black with these people waiting to be questioned.

There has as yet been no issue of warrants.

ECZEMA IN RASH CUTICURA HEALS

On Face and Head. Itched and Burned. Disfigured.

"Last year I became affected with eczema. It started on the cheeks in a rash, and the water spread and made my face sore all around the ear and partly on my head. The skin was very sore and red, and the breaking out itched and burned so that I could hardly help scratching. My face was very disfigured.

"Then I used a free sample of Cuticura. It helped so I bought three cakes of Soap and one box of Ointment, and my face was healed." (Signed) Miss Martha Berger, Spanaway, Wash., Feb. 11, 1919.

F. WELSH SAVES TWENTY LIVES

Young's Point Man Adept at Life Saving.

In saving the life of Miss Dorothy Goodwin, of Hamilton, at Young's Point recently, Mr. Frank Welsh, of Young's Point added one more name to the list, which totals twenty of those who owe their lives to his work in rescuing them from watery graves

Mr. Young was fishing in a canoe when he noticed Miss Goodwin come down to the water's edge about one hundred feet below the Young's Point dam, as he thought to go in for a swim and saw her caught in the swift current apparently still swimming. Upon seeing her sink several times and rise to struggle, he realized that she was in danger and paddled to the spot, just as she sank for the last time and after she had been in the water for fully ten minutes. He reached down into the swirling waters and caught her finger and brought her to the surface apparently dead. However, with the assistance of Judge R. Ruddy, of Whitby, he got her to the shore and after a stiff fight, managed to resusciate her.

Miss Goodwin had been the guest of Dr. W. H. Lacey of Peterborough, who had been summering at Young's Point.

MEN ON TRIAL IN KIDNAPPING CASE

ABDUCTORS HELD TO ACCOUNT FOR DUMPING HIM OVER BORDER.

ESTEVAN,, Sask., Aug. 19.— Thomas Moore and George Hunter, two of the men involved in the alleged kidnapping of P. M. Christophers, organizer for the O.B.U., were sent up for trial here by Provincial Magistrate McEachern, at Bienfait, after preliminary hearing. Owing to the fact that counsel was unable to agree on putting all cases against the seven men involved together, it is necessary to hear each case separately, and at the close of the first day's proceedings only two cases had been heard.

Bail in substanial amounts was asked and given for the two.

Christophers himself was the chief witness in each case. We warmly defended his actions while in this district, stating that he was endeavoring on instructions from the general secretary, to organize the miners into a branch of the O.B.U.

He stated that his object was to work "in the interests of my class, who are generally called the working lugs or stiffs by men in the profession." He stated that he considered himself a working man in his task of organization for the O.B.U.

Christopher told the story of the alleged kidnapping, of the entry to his bedroom in the hotel, at Bienfait, at midnight, July 3, of a number of men, among whom were Munro and Hunter. These men indicated to him that they desired him to dress and go with them, and on complying with their request, he was taken by car first to Estevan and then south to Noonan, N.D., where he was unloaded from the car and left to shift for himself. He finally walked into Portal, but before his abductors left him he was warned that if he returned to Canada he would be tarred.

Christopher stated that he was an Englishman by birth, that his family lived in Canada, that he had never attempted to become an American citizen.

ILLINOIS COAL MINES CLOSED

RESULT OF FAILURE OF OPERATORS AND MINERS TO AGREE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — Almost one-third of the coal mines of Illinois were closed to-day and the state fears another strike because the operators and the miners failed to agree on an increase for company men after a five day session at Cleveland.

Reports from Indianapolis say that many of the Indiana mines are also closed.

Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners, has wired the men to stay on the job because a strike now will result in government action.

Operators and miners wired President Wilson, who called the conference, that they could not agree, the miners stating that they would try to make separate agreements with the operators in the various states.

30,000 HARVEST HANDS NOT ENOUGH FOR WEST

EMERGENCY ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR 10,000 MORE, AND PAY IS $6 A DAY.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 21.—Because the original estimate of 30,000 harvesters from the east to help gather the West's crops has proven totally inadequate, railway officials here began to make informal arrangements to bring at least 10,000 additional workers to the West.

When the reinforcements arrive all records for harvest excursions will be broken. The railways undertook in the first place to supply 35,000 men.

Saskatchewan alone needs 10,000 more men. The chief grain Province of Canada would be able to use 25,000 or more men this fall. Alberta will need about 5,000 more men than has been provided.

Late trains have helped the wheat crops tremendously in the northern sections of the Prairie Provinces, it is reported. Cutting is just beginning in the north.

Wages for harvest hands have reached the high water mark. Six dollars a day is the prevalent wage, but $7 a day is being offered in the further west districts.

If your hands cannot be usefully employed, attend to the cultivation of your mind.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The investigation into the affairs of the Fire Department requested at Wednesday night's meeting of the Trades Council, has been rendered imperative by the action of Fire Chief Grange in discharging the three firemen who were delegates at the meeting in question, and by the resultant indignation of the members of the Fire Department. The present condition of affairs certainly cannot be allowed to continue and the City Council should lose no time in grappling with the question. The fire department is costing the ratepayers of Peterboro a pretty sum every year, the appropriations having increased by leaps and bounds. If the city is not receiving anything like full value for the money expended it is time that all the facts were known. The incidents of the past few days have rendered an adequate investigation necessary and there should be no delay in taking the required steps. If the fire department is not efficient it is not because the council has been niggardly in its expenditures for fire protection. The facts must be brought out and the situation cleared up, no matter whose heads may have to fall, and what reorganization may be considered necessary.

THOSE PRIVATE CARS.

The Toronto Telegram, which has never ceased to nag at the Drury government since the U.F.O.-Labour administration came into power, has found a new grievance in the use by the cabinet ministers of government private cars. Hon. Beniah Bowman, it must be admitted, gave the Telegram a splendid opening for its complaints by taking a number of relatives with him in a government private railway coach on a trip to the north country, and now that Hon. Manning Doherty, called to Vancouver through illness in his family, has taken the government car "Whitney" with him, there will probably be a fresh outbreak from the Telegram, which professes to find in this use of the Province's private coaches a spirit that is not consistent with the government's oft-timed expressed desire for economy and for the elimination of non-essentials. There may be more than a grain of truth in that contention, but nevertheless the Telegram's objection to the use of government cars seems to be a sudden aversion, for there is no record of its having castigated other governments for doing the very same thing.

BUY AT HOME.

There is little comfort for Canadians in the trade reports for the four months of the fiscal year beginning April 1st, which show that the advice to buy Canadian goods has been neglected by the country. It is disquieting to find that the imports into Canada for the period under discussion were over one hundred million dollars more than the exports. To be exact, the goods imported into Canada during the four months totalled in value $473,572,000, while the products sent out of the country in the same time are valued at $342,112,000. Canadians cannot continue importing four million dollars of products every day if her exports are less than three milions a day. Our obligations to foreign creditors are accumulating at a rate that is most serious and the latest figures do not indicate any improvement in the situation. It was hoped that during the present year this country would reduce her foreign debt but the reverse is actually the case, and even the magnificent harvest, although it will have its effect on the balance of trade will not materially better the case. "Buy at home" is the only solution. If our debt abroad is to be lowered Canadians will have to reduce their foreign purchases to the minimum and buy nothing in the outside market than can be secured in the Dominion.

CONGRATULATIONS.

The ladder of success in many professions and industries throughout the Dominion finds many a Peterborough boy near the top rung. The young men from this city who strike out into the big world seem to have the faculty of climbing to the top. Mr. Orville B. Shortly, of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, is a notable example. Mr. Shortly has made rapid progress in the business world and his standing among his fellow insurance men has been strikingly demonstrated by his election as president of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada at the annual convention of the Association. His many friends here will be delighted to hear of the honour accorded him.

TWO NEW BOOKS.

Two of the most successful writers of to-day are James D. Abbott and Grace Livingstone Hill, whose stories are steadily growing in popularity. The J. B. Lippincott Company has just published new books by each of these authors which promise to surpass the success of the earlier works of these talented women. "Happy House" is Mrs. Abbott's offering and this appealing story the author of "Larkspur" and "Keineth' has perhaps done her finest writing. It is cheery reading, brimful of optimism and brightness. One critic has termed it "a sunshine story" and the description is apt, as all readers will agree. It is to be recommended for those whose outlook on life has become a little soured, for the cheerfulness of Mrs. Abbott's story will serve to dissipate the gloom and bring warmth and sunshine. The author has an easy style and a deft touch; her characters and situations are natural and recognizable and her types are true to life, which makes "Happy House" a book that is worth while. "Happy House" should make many a happy household.

Full of interest, too, is Grace Livingston Hill's latest effort, "Exit Betty," in which she has created a number of characters who will make a lasting impression on those who are fortunate to secure a copy of the story. There is a double romance that is very skilfully developed and a series of gripping incidents that hold one's interest to the culmination, which by the way takes an unexpected twist. There are no dull pages in "Exit Betty."

ACTIONS AND WORDS.

The statement issued by Secretary Colby, interpreting France's rejoinder to the United States' note to Italy must be read between the lines in order to comprehend its true meaning. Superficially it appears as a courteous and friendly note addressed to a Great Power which was associated with France during the closing stages of the European War. Its significance lies in the time and the occasion of its despatch.

Some days ago the United States, possibly a little nettled at the way she had been ignored as a nation in the discussions arising out of the Polish embroglio, addressed a letter to Italy which was intended for the whole world to read. France took the course which the publication of the letter gave her an opportunity to follow and expressed her warm approval of the language and the sentiments in which the note to Italy was couched. The United States, with the same appreciation of the niceties of diplomacy, issues a second note, in which she declares that the "responses of France is a notable declaration in every point and brings to the position taken by the United States a striking emphasis and a powerful support."

If these were just the amenities of international courtship they would arouse no comment. But they are more than this in that they are written at the very time when France has had a substantial difference of opinion with her foremost ally, Britain. It is perhaps a lover's tiff, but the estrangement is only emphasized by the diplomatic action of America.

With a full appreciation of the strong divergence of view between France and Britain over the Russo-Polish question, the language of Secretary Colby assumes a new meaning. That divergence is based almost entirely upon the attitude which France has adopted in acknowledging General Wrangel as chief of the Government of South Russia. There were slight differences of viewpoint with regard to the method of payment of indemnities, concerning the amount of coal which Germany was to deliver and the mandate of France over Syria. But these were all matters that could be decided by conference and conciliation. France took no positive action along a line opposed to the declared policy of Britain until twenty-four hours after the last Hythe conference, when she plumped openly for Governor Wrangel.

France declares its opposition to the dismemberment of Russia, and this attitude the United States finds "most gratifying." But the professions of France do not accord with her actions. It is difficult to conceive any policy which has a deeper threat of dismemberment than the support of a man who is warring against the government of the country. Moreover, whatever may be said as to the ethics of accepting the Soviet Government as the supreme authority in Russia—to which they seem entitled by the length of time they have held on to power—it cannot be said that to heap abuse upon Soviet Russia and the Bolshevists will tend to greater harmony in that country and to the holding of the nation together against the forces of dismemberment.

Secretary Colby finds himself somewhat on the horns of a dilemma. He is anxious to cement the friendship of America and France, but he cannot consistently support France in her acknowledgment of Wrangel. "America," he says, "is disposed to regard the declared agreement of France with the principles of the United States as of far more significance than any divergence of policy involved in the action of France in this respect." America regards the professions of France as of far greater importance than the "specific actions" which directly contradicts those professions. The latest note must be read in the light of an approaching presidential election where hostility towards England will count for votes. —Montreal Star.

By OWEN JOHNSON

"Then give me your hand."

His hand closed over the one she held to him, as she balanced on a ledge. She went several steps and then stopped.

"No, I've had enough of that," she said in a different voice.

She tried to draw her hand from his, but he held it firmly.

"Monte!" she said hurriedly. "Monte, don't do that!"

"I beg your pardon," he said, releasing her instantly.

Free, she had a feeling of terror. Her heart was beating so that she thought he must hear it.

"As you wish."

In her hurry to avoid the touch of his hand again, she sprang ahead and up the steps to the embankment, but at the top her scarf became caught in a ledge of rock, and before she could release herself he was at her side.

"I'm caught, I can't see how!" she said, her heart fluttering.

"Let me try."

He bent over so close that she felt a suffocation in her throat, a giddiness in her head.

"There!" he said at last, straightening up

She whirled, but the motion was again an unfortunate one, for it sent her scarf flying about him, where it caught on a button of his coat. The next moment she heard, as in the distance, her name called once, twice—and then everything went tumbling around her. She was in his arms, powerless to move. A feeling of terror and of joy swept over her. His eyes were looking down into hers, coming closer and closer. She could not cry out. She could not struggle. She felt a sudden pain across her heart, her eyes closed. It had come—an accident had decided for her. And then he kissed her.

That wild unleashed kiss burned her lips and cut across her soul like the sting of a lash. Something primevally rebellious rose up. Her brain cleared. She flung back her head. Her arm struck violently against his lips.

"Let me go!"

No longer helpless, but strong with the strength of anger, she wrenched herself free and stood from him, trembling in every limb.

"How could you—oh, how could you!"

She tried to speak—she tried to voice the scorn that rose unreasoningly against him. Words choked in her throat. This had been no kiss such as Tody Dawson had stolen. During the one instant of giddiness she had lain in his arms, seeing and hearing nothing, she had been under the absolute mastery of his will, dominated and crushed.

"Why, Amy!" he began in wonder ,and in the darkness she felt his hands coming toward her.

"Don't touch me!" she cried furiously, striking his hand away, "Don't you dare!"

"Amy!"

"Oh, what a brute you've been!" she cried hysterically. "You, whom I trusted—you! And this is the way you protect me—the way you respect me!"

"Good God!" he cried in amazed protest. "But I love you!"

"Love? No! That's not love! You've made me despise you—depise myself!"

"Wait!" he said hurriedly. "You don't know what you're saying—you can't, it's impossible!"

"Impossible? I've never been so humiliated—so hurt—and by you! Oh, to think that this could happen to me!" All at once she gave way and fell back against the wall, shaken by sobs. He stood stern and silent, without attempt to justify himself.

"Are you yourself now?" he said, when at length she had grown quiet. "Are you calm enough to listen?"

"I am," she said coldly. Of course, now he would seek to justify himself, to entreat her pardon.

"You said," he began slowly—"you said you despised me" He waited.

"Do you mean what you have just said?" he asked, in a tone which should have warned her.

"I do— exactly as I have said it!" she cried. At the moment her only thought was to humble him as he had humbled her before his sudden strength.

"By heavens!" he said with a flash of anger. "I beg your pardon—I guess I see— well there's only one thing to do. I'll rid you of my presence—and at once."

"I am glad you can at least perceive that!"

"My dear Mrs. Forrester," he said wheeling around as though he had received a blow, "I think you don't quite understand my reasons."

"There's no use in trying to jutify —"she started precipitately to say.

"Justify? Hardly", he cut in. 'You seem to quite misundrtsand the situation. I have not the slightest intention now or at any time of excusing myself for having in a moment beyond the control of any man who loves, lost my head in a perfectly human way".

"It is useless," she cried loudly, to still the feeling of uneasiness which was creeping over her. 'There is no excuse, none!"

"I'm sorry," he said in a low voice. "I had another ideal of you. I didn't think you were like the other crowd. I thought there was something genuine in you —something that yould mean something to some man.

"You have no right to—"

"Oh, yes I have. I have the right to say this, for I have protected you in trying moments. In the moment of your trouble I offered you everything —myself, my name, only after you gave me clearly to understand that you and your husband were on the verge of separation. That is something for a man to offer— to put at your feet, without demanding an answer. If I have made a mistake, you have led me to it; you have tried me beyond what a woman has the right to try a man. But understand this: when I offered you what I did—I did it in the belief that your feeling was not simply one of calculation, but that your heart was in it—and that you had a heart!"

"Monte, don't" she cried, recoiling and covering her face. She had never been able to see herself, nor to comprehend her own motives, and when some one laid them before her without mercy, she was always shocked.

"I beg your pardon, I didn't mean— I should have gone without saying such things—but it's been well, rather a shock!" He laughed, and said with forced gentleness, "The trouble is, Amy, you really are like the others —Irma and Gladys and the rest. You want to play with something you don't understand, something you don't need in your life. You're willing to take everything from a man and give nothing. You can't understand what you do, because you can't feel yourself. Well, to me that's more immoral than the woman who sacrifices everything because she does love. Possibly I am wrong in that opinion but I hold it." He drew a long breath and when he continued, his voice was even again. " You see, I am not a manikin. I am not a Tody Dawson. No, I can't make any excuses. If I lost my head to-night, honestly, blindly, like a human being, I had every right to do so. A woman who really loves doesn't act as you do— and if you don't love me and were only playing with my life like that, then Amy—" He stopped, checked the hot words on his tongue, shuddered and said, 'I mustn't say any more, it's dangerous. Well, I think I understand now. Good-by."

What! He was going—he was leaving her, when every word he had said had convinced her? Her head turned, she felt herself reeling. She stretched out her hand.

"Monte!"

He was already up the path, swinging rapidly with great stride.

'Monte, don't go like this—Monte, listen to me! Monte!"

She ran after him a few steps, faltered, and suddenly her knees bent beneath her. Then she was alone, huddled against the side of the verandah, helpless and weak. In the distance the sound of his retreating steps ceased on the gravel path.

PEACHES CHEAP FOR PRESERVING

D. M. MINNECOLA SHOWS ADVANTAGE TO HOUSEHOLDERS.

Peaches are the "good thing" on this season's fruit card, according to D. M. Minnecola, who sets out and substantiates his assertion in a simple arithmetical form. Customers have been objecting that the cost of preserving has been too high to buy the usual quantities of fruit.

"That might have been true of the small fruits," said Mr. Minnecola, "but look at the facts about peaches. Turning to last year's invoices you see that we were selling eleven quart baskets of peaches for $1.75. To-day the price is one dollar for the same quantity, and the price may go lower for there is a big crop. Sugar is perhaps ten cents a pound dearer than at this time last year. At that difference, if it takes five pounds of sugar to do down eleven qaurts of peaches the extra cost of sugar is fifty cents. But the peaches are 75c. cheaper than last year, so on that showing the housekeeper is actually saving twenty-five cents a basket on her peaches."

Mr. Minnecola recently made a trip through the Niagara district and found that all the reports of a big peach crops were not in the least exaggerated. He advises that it is econofical to preserve peaches at their present price. Grapes are also abundant but the wine-makers are expected to take most of the crop.

INCREASE IN DRUNKENNESS.

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Convictions for drunkenness in England and Wales in 1919 was nearly double the figure for 1918. The total was 57,948 as compared with 39,075, according to an official report just issued. Greater London and Northern England accounted for 93 per cent. of tre total.

Among some of the reasons given for the increase are that there are more men at home and fewer of them in khaki, more policemen and those less overworked available for street duty, more hours for drinking and stronger liquor.

BUY GOODS IN GREAT BRITAIN

SIR GEORGE PERLEY RETURNS FROM OLD COUNTRY.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, August 20.—Great Britain is having her troubles, and lots of them, but she will pull out all right and maintain her smile upon civilisation, is how Sir George Perley, Canadian High Commissioner in London, expressed himself to the Canadian Press to-day on his return from the Old Country, along with Lady Perley.

"Sound commonsense of the British people is simply wonderful. They talk of their troubles philosophically, and have managed everything exceedingly well during these trying times since Armistice Day."

Asked regarding Canadian trade with Europe, Sir George said the outlook was never so bright. He strongly counselled Canadian merchants to buy every possible dollar's worth of goods in Great Britain rather than in the United States. This, he said, would have a double advantage, in that it would strengthen the British Empire relations and also offset the exchange situation.

WILL RECOMMEND NEW WAGE SCHEDULE.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, August 20.—Because the belief that the failure to do so would precipitate a general railway strike throughout Canada, the Canadian Railway Association has decided to recommend to the Canadian railroads the adoption of the wage scale passed by the Chicago Labour Board of the United States.

This statement was made by Howard G. Kelly, President of the Canadian Railway Association and of the Grand Trunk before the Dominion Railway Commission this morning.

Why Milk is Good for Hot, Tired, Thirsty Youngsters

Get an extra quart of milk each day—for the children's sake. Give them this cooling, refreshing nourishment every time they come in "for a drink."

Give them milk as a beverage at meal-times. Light cereals with milk at breakfast, light puddings with milk at lunch or supper. Fresh fruit with milk for dessert. Creamed vegetables for supper.

Milk is the most economical food you can buy.

All milk that cannot be certified as clean, fresh and SAFE should be pasteurized.

OUR MILK IS CLARIFIED AND PASTEURIZED.

Clarified is Clean—Pasteurized is Pure.

STORY OF PETERBORO'S BRIDGES

(By F. H. Dobbin in The Canadian Engineer.)

From the first days of settlement at Peterborough the obstruction made by the river Otonabee to communication east and west was a serious one. The farming lands of the townships to the east found at Peterborough both a market and a buying point. As early as 1827 steps had been taken to erect the first bridge. This was built and the cost covered largely by grants from the legislature of Upper Canada and by contributions from the immediate territory, that of the Colborne district, in which the future town was municipally situated. Horace Perry was the builder, and the structure was of wood, of which there as a plentiful supply of the finest quality. The bridge was destroyed by fire in 1845 No sketches or photographs are extant of the structure, the dates being before the advent of pictorial photography.

Due to the great quantity of timber that was floated down the river in those days, all dams had to be constructed to allow of the passage of rafts during the spring floods and at high water. In like manner, all bridges had to be built to resist the onslaught of the timber raft, a danger pressingly imminent when the stream was at flood. Wide openings, glance piers and booms of immense strength had to be provided.

To replace the first bridge which was destroyed by fire, a very fine example of what was known as the "Howe Truss" form of construction was erected. Devised and patented in the state of New York, several of these bridges were erected in Upper Canada. There is one at Trenton, Ont., still in use after many years' service. At Peterborough the very best of timber was at hand and in unlimited quantity. This time funds were raised by the Colborne district council and by public subscription. The bridge was of two spans, one pier in the middle of the river, with shore abutments, all of cut stone. As a protection from the weather, the trusses were sheeted in with lumber and battens, and a roof extended over each truss. The floor of the bridge was not covered. The lower chord of the truss was built of pine, five thicknesses of 5 in. each, and 18 in. wide. The upper chord was of four thicknesses. Struts were placed diagonally and bedded top and bottom on oak shoes, gained into the chords. Strong iron bolts bound the truss, top to bottom. The whole structure was essentially rigid and gave promise of long life, under such traffic as prevailed at the time. Fig. 1 shows the bridge, the view being taken from the hill to the northwest of the approach. The site to the left of the approach is now covered by the large plant of the Quaker Oats Co. This fine bridge was destroyed by fire during July, 1871. Built in 1846-7, it had given twenty-four years of honest service, and would have given extended service had it not been destroyed.

Again, local effort was called on to supply a crossing. The town had in the meantime become incorporated, and was able from its own resources to find the funds for erection. After deliberation, and possibly carried away by the "spend your money at home" idea, a contract was made with a local firm, Whyte & Davis, to build a bridge of cast iron. It was fearfully and wonderfully designed and indifferently constructed. Of the so-called "bowstring" pattern, the bridge was of excessive weight and of faulty design, without provision for the extremes of temperature of Canadian summers and winters. No photographs or pictures are extant of this bridge. It was supported on the piers built to carry its predecessor. During February of 1872, one span collapsed, during a time of excessive cold, and fell on the ice and disappeared under the surface of the river at the deepest point. If the design was faulty the workmanship was still more so. Sections of the castings showed astonishing imperfections, filled in with putty and painted. After erection it was feared that the bridge could only support itself, let alone a reasonable load.

Wrought Iron Bridge Lasts 37 Years.

Temporary provision was then made for crossing the river, and a contract was entered into with the Canton Bridge Co., of Canton, Ohio, to construct an iron bridge of two spans of the pin-connected type. This bridge was erected and available for traffic in the autumn of 1873, and remained in use until taken down the present year to make room for the erection of the reinforced concrete structure (the Hunter St. bridge) now in process of building. Fig. 2 shows this bridge as standing and used for traffic. Again, the number of tracks truck and the behaviour of the bridge under fairly heavy loads necessitated provision for the needs of heavier traffic. Again, the number of trucks laid on the west side of the river to reach the buildings, storehouses, receiving cylinders and shipment buildings of the Quaker Oats Co. promised obstruction of road traffic, if not accidents. The most careful watchfulness had to be exercised, at a considerable municipal expenditure. At the prevailing rate of wages the cost of two men represented the expense, each year, of an investment of about $32,000 at 6 per cent. interest. In addition, there was the upkeep of gates and repairs.

By agreement with the Quaker Oats Co., and on the rebuilding of the company's extensive plant and buildings, it was decided to build such a bridge as would raise the road traffic above all danger, provide head room for rail traffic, and facilities for the local trolley line to cross the river and reach the district to the east. This had long been contemplated but never carried out. The city council of 1918 reached a conclusion, and the council of 1919 engaged Frank Barber, consulting engineer, Toronto, to prepare plans. The work of construction was undertaken by the Russell-Townsend Co., and is now in progress. The bridge comprises a central arch span of 225 ft. with several approach spans. The main arch will be the longest arch span as yet erected in Canada of reinforced concrete. Provision is made for a double-track trollery line, two roadways and two sidewalks.

While it will no doubt be a source of civic pride to contemplate this extensive work, the cost has been very heavy. The work has consumed all moneys appropriated, and an additional $100,000 has been voted to finish the structure. It must, however, be completed, although the total cost is now estimated to be close to four hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Another reinforced concrete bridge, shown in Fig. 3, crosses the river at Smith St. It was erected to replace wooden structures that successively gave out and were replaced. The bridge was designed and built under the supervision of the city engineer at that time, the late T. A. S. Hay. At time of building, some fifteen years ago, the proportions and details of reinforced concrete structures were not so well defined and standardized as they are now. Nevertheless, the bridge is a fine example of permanent work. It consists of three arch spans at present carrying only road traffic, but provision was made for trolley service when such is demanded.

It is the intention of the municipality to re-erect at Hazlitt St. the old Hunter St. iron bridge recently taken down, and thus provide another crossing of the river to serve a rapidly increasing residental district. Appropriation of funds has already been made for the purpose.

WAR TROPHIES FOR AMERICAN CITIES

LARGEST SINGLE COLLECTION FOR CLUB HOUSE IN MEMORY OF OFFICERS KILLED.

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. — Thousands of war trophies brought from the battle fields of France for use during the Liberty Loan and other drives are being distributed at the warehouse of the French mission here. The material includes guns of all kinds used by the French, British and Germans, cavalry swords, cuirasses, shells and soldier equipment.

Large demands for trophies have come from inland cities, according to Major Jean Malye, director of the Bureau of Information, Direction Generale Des Services Francais Aux Etats Unis, now in this city.

One of the largest single collections, with the exception of that given to Washington for the National Museum, was presented to the Army and Navy Club of America. The trophies will be preserved in a suitable environment to be included in the plans for the new $1,000,000 club house that is to be erected in honor of the officers killed in the war.

The collection of 50 pieces is made up of cannon, flame throwers, trench mortars, machine guns, bayonets, rifles, swords, cuirasses, wire cutting machines, trench stoves, brasiers, marmites, shells and shell baskets, marine signal flags and other interesting and valuable trophies. The selection was made by Captain Adrian Duane Boty, U.S. Signal Corps, representing the club.

Tanks and German field pieces weighing from one ton to ten recently have been given to cities like Chicago, St. Louis, Chattanooga and others as far away as Texas.

German Listening Post.

A huge German listening post has been given to Bloomfield, N.J. Montclair received a whippet tank, while the National Museum at Washington was awarded a large 16-man tank. Other valuable pieces were sent to Washington, including an airplane, sample pieces of all the foreign artillery used during the war, uniforms and field kitchens.

The prize of the collection, a Big Bertha, was claimed by Mt. Kisco, N. Y., and will be placed in a prominent position there. The State University at Baton Rouge, La., has requested the immediate shipment of a German minnen werfer. Chattanooga has been given a German 150 millimeter gun weighing three tons.

The Chicago collection was chosen by Colonel E. M. Marr. It will be shipped to that city within the next few days, Sergeant Fred Aneth, French Army, who has been in charge of the material for two years, announced. An idea of the demands made for trophies, he said, could be gained from the fact that more than 3,000 French helmets and an equal number of uniforms had been disposed of.

To various posts of the American Legion field pieces have been given. All requests are filed at the office of the director generale, 65 Broadway, before permission is given to inspect and select the trophies.

What to Use and Avoid On Faces That Perspire

Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must perspire —must expel, through the pores, its share of the body's waste material. Certain creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with elimination and breathing, especially during the heated period. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-ruined complexions. If they would use ordinary mercolized wax instead of cosmetics they would have healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, also unclogging the pores. Result :The fresher, younger under-skin is permitted to breathe and to show itself. The exquisite new complexion gradually peeps out, one free from any appearance of artificiality. Obtain an ounce of mercolized wax from your druggist and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream for a week or two, washing it off mornings. To remove wrinkles, here's a marvelously effective treatment, which also acts naturally and harmlessly: Dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel and use as a wash lotion.

PETERBORO TELEPHONE MANAGER EXPLAINS PROPOSED INCREASES FOR BELL TELEPHONE MESSAGES

MESSAGE RATE HAS BEEN IN USE IN GREAT BRITAIN FOR MANY YEARS —HOW PETERBORO WILL FARE.

"What are the outstanding features of the new telephone rates," the Examiner asked Mr. G. O. Cameron, manager of the Bell Telephone Co., to-day.

"The new schedule," said Mr. Cameron, "groups cities and town of approximately equal telephone development in such a way as to do away with the inequalities in rates that have grown up during the past twenty-five years. Time has altered the relation that existed between the towns of bygone days; present rates are inconsistent because of the unequal growth of different communities.

"For Toronto and Montreal, (in group 1) we are asking approval for a message rate schedule for business telephones. Individual line, business service, is fixed at $5.00 per month for 100 outgoing messages, with an added charge of 4 cents per message over 100. Individual line, residence service, unlimited as to the number of messages, is set at $4.00 per month, and two party residence service at $3.00 per month.

"The message rate basis," Mr. Cameron explained, will provide for payment for business subscribers in direct proportion to their use of the service for outgoing messages. Some users and those whose telephone traffic is largely incoming will get the benefit of their restricted use paying for the calls they originate.

Message Rate Service.

Mr. Cameron here referred to a copy of the London Times of July 13th and pointing to a report of a Parliamentary committee appointed to investigate the subject of telephone charges continued.

"You will note that Sir Evelyn Murray's committee appointed by the British Postmaster-General endorses message rate service, which has been in use since 1908 in Britain, as the only equitable basis of telephone charges. The report says:

"The flat or unilimited rate given an udue preference to the large as against the small user, encourages the overloading of fines and in other ways tends to restrict the development of the system. It should therefore be abolished."

"This finding, Mr. Cameron continued, "is in accordance with the exprience of telephone companies on this side of the water. In our case, especially as regards the larger cities in which we operate, a flat rate for business service high enough to furnish us a fair return for the service rendered would bear with aggravated unfairness on the small user. Just as in the case of gas, electric light and power service, message rates in large communities are inevitable. They work no hardship to the legitimate business of the community. Rather by wholesome restrictions and elimination of unnecessary calling, they are found to benefit the whole telephone using public, business and residence subscribers alike."

"Are any other cities besides Toronto and Montreal to have message rates service," Mr. Cameron was asked.

"For the cities in group 2 of our schedule, Hamilton, Ottawa and Quebec, we are also proposing a message rate business service. The rate for these cities is $4.50 per month for 100 messages and 3 cents for each additional message, with a flat rate residence service of $3.50 per month for individual line and $2.75 for a two-party line.

"The cities and towns in the remaining five groups under the new schedule continue on a flat rate basis as at present. The increases asked for are very moderate but long-standing inequalities are wiped out."

Long Distance Rates.

"We are asking approval for a plan of classification or grading of long distance business which we believe will be in the interest of the service.

"For example, when you call for a particular person at a distant telephone the operating labor and circuit time required is much greater than if you say that anyone at that telephone will do. We are therefore proposing a classification of long distance business into "station to station" and "particular person" service. The former service will be at the same rates as our present long distance tariff except that for distances less than 32 miles the initial perjod of conversation is 5 minutes instead of 3 minutes.

"For "particular person" service we are asking a rate approximately 25 p.c. higher than the "station to station' rate.

"There is another feature of our long distance schedule that perhaps I should explain. We are asking approval of a "report charge" of approximately 25 p.c. of the "station to station" rate. This means that when calls are placed for a distant party and we employ operation labor and valuable circuit time in repeated attempts to complete the call compensation is due. When a call is uncompleted and finally abandoned the Telephone Company is left with an expense on its books which must be met from revenues, and this from the application of its rate system.

"In this whole matter of our application, "Mr. Cameron concluded, "we are impelled by the necessities of the case. Costs of providing the service have risen to unheard of figures. Notwithstanding these facts, the rates proposed will compare very favorably with those in communities of equal development elsewhere and should be considered, I submit, in the light of the purchasing power of the dollar. Moreover, we shall do our utmost to provide the highest grade of service in our power.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS ELECT TORONTO MAN

O. B. SHORTLY IS NEW PRESIDENT AT OTTAWA CONVENTION— INSURANCE TOPICS

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—O. B. Shortly, who was elected president of the Life Underwriters of Canada at the annual convention of life underwriters, is a Toronto man and one of the best known insurance men in Eastern Canada. He is now manager for Central Ontario of the Metropolitan. He is a Peterborough boy, the son of a prominent Peterborough merchant. He lived in Ottaaw 14 years before being transferred to Toronto.

During the war he was very active in the Victory Loan campaigns, having been captain of a team in Ottawa.

Following are the Ontario members of the executive committee elected by the convention for 1920-21:

Belleville, A. F. Blakely; Brantford, W. B. Collins; Brockville, Thomas A. Mott; Chatham, J. M. Martin; Guelph, M. J. Barry; Hamilton, George Nixon and A. G. Bradley; Kingston, M. C. Johnston; London, M. C. Folman, C. B. McLean and F. P. Bourgeois; North Bay, A. H. Kilgour; Oshawa, C. C. Stenhouse; Ottawa, P. A. Holmes and W. B. Graham; Peterborough, A. J. McLellan; Sarnia, H. A. Link; Sault Ste. Marie, C. W. Pearson; Stratford, Thom s Joliffe; Sudbury, P. T. O'Gorman; Thunder Bay, E. Bonin; Toronto, J. B. Hall, W. A. Carson and H. W. Manning; Windsor, R. J. Henry; Woodstock, C. Schuyler.

The advantages of income insurance over a straight payment were enumerated by Mr. E. J. L'Esperance, of Montreal. The speaker said there was a tendency to spend the money too rapidly if received in a lump sum, but by receiving a stated amount monthly the beneficiary could utilize it to live on.

Mr. J. T. Cowan of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, dealt with the question of succession duties and life insurance. He pointed out that where a certain amount of life insurance composed an estate where the remainder was made up of real estate and other property, it simplified the matter of paying succession duties without resorting to the sale of part of the property. The bulk of the estate was thus left intact.

EXCLUSIVE EXCURSION TO IDYL WILD FOR POSTMEN'S CONVENTION

LETTER CARRIERS HAVE ARRANGED FINE TRIP THROUGH THE ASSISTANCE OF T. H. HOOPER—ONE HUNDRED DELEGATES EXPECTED FROM SEPT 1ST TO 4TH.

DOMINION CONVENTION

The Federated Association of the Letter Carriers of Canada, in their annual convention here from 1st to 4th September inclusive, will bring together delegates thoroughly representative ofth Dominion. Local associations from Halifax to Vancouver will be represented. Advance advices have already been received from more than sixty delegates, and the total attendance will exceed one hundred.

The local committee in charge of the arrangements have secured the Business College for the sessions, and will decorate them suitably for the occasion. Mayor McIntyre will officially welcome the delegates on behalf of the city. The Board of Trade has kindly offered to provide motor cars for a trip around the city, which will be followed by a theatre-party at the Grand on Friday, 3rd September.

Mr. Bob Reid has made a ten-strike in the chief entertainment feature of the convention. After considering various water trips, he finally arranged for an excursion to Ilylwyld on Saturday afternoon, 4th September. The steamer Stoney Lake has been chartered for a trip over the Lift Lock and a short sail up the Canal. The boat will then turn down the river, crossing Rice Lake to the private resort at Idylwyld. This decidedly attractive outing was secured through the good offices of Mr. T. H. Hooper, who has also been engaged for the catering.

The local Letter Carriers are delighted with this decidedly agreeable solution of a problem which had given the committee considerable concern. It was at first proposed to go to Stoney Lake and return by automobile, but this programme presented too many difficulties. It was then decided to go to Harwood or Gore's Landing, but with Mr. Hooper's assistance the committee are resting easy and are highly pleased with the prospect of taking their guests to Idylwyld. With the exception of the Masons' picnic, this will be the only excursion to Idylwyld this year, in fact, since the old favourite resort passed into its present ownership.

The local committee request the merchants to hang out flags during the convention as an expression of welcome to the delegates.

11 'REDS' FROM WEST.

Party Added to 45 at Ellis Island Awaiting Deportation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. — Eleven aliens, described as anarchists, arrived here to await deportation to their native land under the Act of October, 1918, which provides for the deportation of all anarchists who believe in the overthrow of Government by force and all extremists who preach the doctrines of revolution by violence. One of the party is a German, who was interned during the war as a dangerous enemy alien. He has two children with him, 6 and 8 years old.

The eleven "Reds" were placed in the detention quarters with forty-five other radicals now awaiting deportation. Harry R. Landis, Inspector in charge of the Chicago Immigration territory, said that most of the eleven came from Cleveland. He added that there was no lt up in the Weest in the crusade against anarchists.

BRAKE ANKLE AND ARM.

HALIBURTON, Aug. 19. — Last Thursday morning as Mr. Walter Hobden was driving one of Mulloy & Bryans' teams, one of the horses kicked him on the leg and broke it above the ankle. The same evening a little daughter of Mr. St. Thomas had the misfortune of having her arm broken. These two are under Dr. Bell's care and are doing nicely.

LITTLE GIRL DROWNS.

Playing With Brother, Falls Into the Welland Canal.

WELLAND, Aug. 19.—While playing with her brother on the banks of the Welland Canal yesterday the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Maranger of Port Colborne fell into the water and was drowned. The children were seen to be playing together shortly before 11 o'clock, and shortly after that time the little boy raised the alarm that his sister had fallen into the water. Dragging operations were at once commenced, but so far the body has not been recovered. The father, who is at present in Oshawa on business, has been notified of the accident.

OIL GREATEST HOPE OF RUSSIA; PRODUCT WHOLE WORLD SEEKING

BUT RUSSIA'S ABILITY TO EXPORT RAW MATERIALS IN NEAR FUTURE GREATLY OVERESTIMATED.

LIVE STOCK REDUCED

(Canadian Press)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 19. — Russia's ability to export raw materials in the near future has been greatly overestimated by foreign countries in the opinion of Colonel B. Engiehard, formerly a member of the Russian Duma and a student of economic conditions in Russia before and after the revolution. In a talk with The Associated Press correspondent he said that foreigners seem to fail to realize the collapse of the Russian transportation systems, reduced manpower and run-down condition of the Russian farm lands.

This comment was evoked by reports of the negotiations of Russian economic agents with Premier Lloyd George in London and the announcement that the United States had lifted prohibitions upon American trade with Soviet Russia.

Russia Will Come Back.

Colonel Englehard is confident that Russia will again play an important role in European markets but, he said, "the revival of Russian trade will not come until there shall be established a normal state of life when men shall renounce attempts of establishing immediately the paradise of communism."

"It should be borne in mind that European Russia has been greatly reduced in size," said Colonel Englehard. "Formerly it had over 5,000,000 square kilometers of land and 157,000,000 inhabitants. Poland, Finland, a great part of the Caucasus and several Baltic provinces, with about 50,000,000 inhabitants and about 1,250,000 square kilometers of land have detached themselves. The greater part of these detached territories ordinarily had a notable surplus of grain and other farm products which constituted the major part of Russia's expots.

Exports Decrease.

"In 1913, the last year when conditions were normal in Russia, exports were valued at 1,500,000,000 gold rubles, or $750,000,000. The greatest single item in the export list was grain. The total grain exports were 12,870,000 tons, valued at $325,000,000. European Russia used to harvest 58,500,000 tons of grain annually. With its reduced area, with the breaking up of big estates, lack of machinery and ruin wrought by continuous war in many of its most fertile areas it may be affirmed the grain harvest of the soviet republic will scarcely reach 31,500,000 tons annually. One cannot count on any considerable exportation of grain from Soviet Russia in the immediate future. So far as Siberia and the provinces in Central Asia are concerned they used to produce 800 pounds of grain for each inhabitant. The civil war must have reduced the normal very considerably and it is doubtful whether any considerable quantity of grain can be exported from Siberia."

Livestock Reduced.

Colonel Englehard says livestock of all sorts has been reduced so greatly by the war that it is impossible to consider the exportation of meat or live animals. The civil war in the Don and Kuban wiped out the sheep there and make the extensive exportation of wool impossible. The sugar industry is so disorganized and fuel so scarce he does not believe Soviet Russia will be able to supply its local market for many years.

Flax is the one farm product which Colonel Englehard believes Soviet Russia will be able to export in large quantities immediately.

Oil Greatest Hope.

Oil is the greatest hope of the Soviet Government, in the opinion of Colonel Englehard. Large quantities of oil still are stored and produced in the Baker fields and it is the product which all the world is seeking. Fighting has interrupted the Baku-Batum pipeline repeatedly during the last few months, but Georgia and the Bolsheviki have now reached an agreement and the prospects are better for oil sales in Batum. The Grozny oil field, which is entirely dependent upon the Vladikavkas railway for transportation, is also in the hands of the Bolsheviki, who have control of the railway and can readily transfer the product to Baku if rolling stock is available.

Nationalizing an Evil.

"But up to the present time the Bolshevik regime has only diminished the production of oil," said Colonel Englehard. "It seems certain that the nationalization of enterprises everywhere by the Communists will work the same havoc in the oil fields that it has in Russian industries as a whole."

MOB REFUSES TO ALLOW GERMAN BOATS TO LOAD

Clash With Police in Effort to Prevent Vessels Clearing.

RAMSGATE, England, Aug. 20.—A serious clash occurred yesterday between the police and a mob which was bent on preventing the loading of two German ships. The steamers arrived several days ago for cargoes of coke, but owing to the hostility of ex-soldiers and others because of the nationality of the vessels no attempt was made to load the craft until the morning, and the docks were placed under guard of the police and barred off with barbed wire. Shortly after midnight a crowd of men and women, learning that the vessels were about to be loaded, attacked the police with bottles and stones. The police eventually charged and dispersed the mob, but several policemen were slightly injured in the process.

LIBERALS OF AURORA WELCOME THEIR LEADER

AURORA, Aug. 20.— Liberals of this town and district accorded Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King an enthusiastic reception when he addressed them in Mechanics' Hall here last evening. The speech was similar to that which the Liberal leader had delivered at several points in North York during the past two weeks. He charged the government with using autocratic methods, showing a fondness, rather, for orders-in-Council, than for consultation of the Members of Parliament. Cases of such procedure, that he cited were the G.T.R. purchase, establishment of a merchant-marine and appointment of a minister to Washington.

CONSTANT TERROR IN RUSSIA

(Canadian Press)

Tokio, Aug. 21. — The Kokusai News Agency in a despatch from Harbin quotes a former officer of the Kolchak Government, who escaped from Irkutsk, as saying that the conditions there were "ghastly." The Bolsheviki, he said, seize the greater part of what little food is available. The remnants of the "intellegencia" live in constant terror of persecution.

PRINCE OF WALES MAY AVOID INDIA

REPORT THAT NEW PARTY AMONG MOSLEMS PLANNED TO MAKE RECEPTION UNPLEASANT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—According to advices received by the New York branch of a well-known London bank which has important financial interests in India and obtains its information from reliable sources, the British Government has decided that it would not be advisable for the Prince of Wales to visit India until conditions there have become more settled. It has been planned that the Prince should hold a Durbar in Delhi early in January to celebrate the introduction of the new reform Government for India. It is expected that the postponement of the visit of the Prince of Wales to India will be officially announced before he returns from his tour to the Antipodes.

When the news of this postponement was repeated yesterday to Lala Sultan Singh, Rai Bahadur, who is a banker and member of the Council of Delhi, and not an Eastern potentate, just before he sailed for England on the Cunarder Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, he replied that he was not at all surprised.

"When I left India," said Mr. Singh, "the new party among the Moslems, which is called the Non-Co-operative Party, numbered about 100,000 followers and was steadily gaining adherents under the leadership of their poet and writer, Gandhr of Bombay, who travels all over India, lecturing and delivering his pamphlets to the Mohammedans, who number 70,000,000.

"Their policy is one of passive resistance and self-sacrifice. Those who join the party first give up their titles, then any civil positions they may hold and decline to take any part in the government of the country or to assist in carrying out the laws.

Tells of Plan to Slight Prince.

"Their programme," he continued, "with regard to the visit of the Prince of Wales, which had been given out before I left India, was to close their stores in the streets and bazaars, to keep indoor and not to take part in any celebrations such as fetes or illuminations that might be given in their city during the Prince's stay there. This would not be very pleasant for the Prince of Wales, and in addition, the people of India generally are not satisfied with the business regulations that are a part of the new reform government which must be introduced at the beginning of 1921 if serious trouble is to be avoided.

"We have heard that the Indian Office will try to nullify some of the rules in the new form of government and representatives of the Hindu business interests have been sent already to London to watch this and endeavor to prevent anything that will cause dissatisfaction to the people of India. If the programme of reform is not carried out with fairness and justice to all alike, it may lead to very serious trouble for the Government and possibly bloodshed. The private letters that I have received from India this week have contained information to this effect.

Says India is Waking Up.

"India is waking up from its long lethargy and factories are being built and roads constructed so that automobiles and motor lorries can be used between the principal cities and towns. The Government is spending millions of pounds in making Delhi, the capital, into a modern city worthy of the great Indian Empire."

Mr. Singh added that there were steel mills in Central India which were producing 80,000 tons a month and that the small mills used their product of a few tons per month for making tools. Big tanneries have been constructed, and cotton goods for the bazaars and the cheaper trade are also being manufactured there. The natives have capital and are now investing it in industry.

Lala Sulton Singh has been stopping with his wife, who wears the native silken costume of a wealthy Hindu woman, at the Pennsylvania hotel since Monday, and has made trips around New York in an automobile placed at his disposal by the manager of an American automobile company. He said that he had enjoyed his stay here very much.

Lala Sultan Singh Rai Bahadur is an educated Hindu about 40 years old, and speaks English correctly. When asked about his second name, "Sultan," he smiled and replied that there was no accounting for the names that Hindu parents give to their children.

During his stay in London he will confer with his countrymen on the manner the British government proposes to administer its new policy in India next January.

NUMBER OF VICTIMS OF CURFEW LAW INCREASES

(Canadian Press)

DUBLIN, Aug. 21.—The number of persons who are victims of the curfew law increases weekly and the experience which they all must go through is exciting, if not comfortable. The majority of those taken by the military are persons who had no intention of violating the law but are detained at the home of a friend beyond midnight.

The usual procedure is this. A military motor lorry filled with soldiers each with a strong searchlight comes up along side of the unfortunate ones and calls upon them to halt. A request is made for a permit and if as is usual, there is none forthcoming, the Dublinites are taken into custody loaded into the truck which then proceeds on its way.

From time to time, joyful citizens, who have dined too well, are collected and join the party. When the searchers are through the whole load of violaters are taken to the Bridewell prison where they must spend the night. If the offenders prove to be obviously innocent citizens they are released in the morning and are none the worse off except for the ride in the lorry which they say is the worst feature of the experience.

Frequently attempts are made to hide from the approaching lorries but the searchlights reach the innermos tcorners of the doorways and passages and few escape.

INFLATION OF GERMAN CURRENCY ON DECLINE

(Canadian Press)

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—All the currency theorists in the world would be unable to give a definite, positive, answer to the question when an improvement might be expected in Germany's huge paper circulation, Director Von Glasenapp, of the Reichsbank, has told the Associated Press correspondent. The bank statement showed that tre paper in circulation July 15 totalled 53,847,000,000 marks. This was a decline of 108,000,000 marks as compared with the previous week.

"We shall certainly do all in our power to prevent further undue inflation of currency," he said. "As for Germany, there are only two ways and none other will avail. They are expressable in two words—word and thrift. Increased production will benefit both exchange and exportation. From that and a nation-wide return to frugal habits alone is an improvement in the paper money situation expectable."

The American vvulture that lives on carrion is immune against all disease germs and is believed to be instrumental in spreading the bubonic plague.

MAN OF STRONG PERSONALITY WANTED TO PREVENT NEW WARS IN BALKANS

JUGO-SLAVS ARE DETERMINED TO HAVE FIUME—PEOPLE CLAMOR THAT THEIR ARMY CAN MASTER ITALIANS.

(Canadian Press.)

BELGRADE, August 20.—What the Balkans now need to prevent new wars is a man of strong personality and charitable tendencies or a humorous Don Quixote, according to Premier Vesnitch, of Jugo-Slavia.

Whether it is within the compass of human intelligence to prevent the present war tendencies the next few weeks will show. The broader aspect of the situation is that for Central Europe or the Balkan countries to become a great battle field will be playing into the hands of the Bolshevik agents who are believed to be working industriously in each country circulating war rumours and fomenting quarrels for which there are already too many reasons.

That the Jugo-Slav Government certainly does not want war with any other country, the Associated Press is authorised to state from a high authority. It was pointed out that the Jugo-Slavs got all they could possibly hope for by the new peace treaties in territories from Hungary and Bulgaria, and a new war might set back the infant nation. But they are determined to have Fiume. The people make loud protestations that their army can master the Italian Army. The Jugo-Slav Army, they say, is regarded by outsiders as being in good shape, with 300,000 fresh troops ready. Also the word has been passed for mobilisation of th peasants as soon as the harvests are in.

Mobilisation Notices.

What the Jugo-Slavs do, it appears here, will be the signal for the Hungarians to jump after Transylvania and Slovakia and later to attempt to retake the enormously fertile Batchka from the Serbs.

Riding south from Budapest into old Serbia the correspondent found few evidences to the eye of war preparedness on either side of the frontier, yet all the peasantry were receiving notices of mobilisation. The Hungarians now within the Serbian frontier appeared to be heartbroken that they must belong to a country whose people they regard as of a culture lower than their own. They also complain they are unable to obtain passports to visit their friends in New Hungary.

While the Jugo-Slavs are said to be unafraid of war, yet they realise they occupy a perilous position with respect to international political dissentions, as well as concerning what the Bulgars and Greeks might do in case the Jugo-Slavs made war on Italy. Not counting the Hungarians, it is not believed in American circles here that the Serbs and Bulgarians will reach an understanding for common action. However, regarding the Spalato incident, it is believed if it is shown the Italians started the trouble, the Jugo-Slavs will insist strongly on an indemnity.

A crowd of Croats attacked Italian naval officers at Spalato, 11th July, and killed an Italian commander and several sailors.

A trip through the city streets convinces one that all is quiet. Citizens generally deny any war madness. During the recent celebration of King Peter's birthday, no demonstration of a war nature occurred during the large parade.

The Premier, prior to the celebration, issued a request to the people, asking them to refrain from unfriendly acts and to allow the Government to handle the affairs with Italy. He made a speech in Parliament of the same tenor, stating that he was willing to abide the investigation by the American naval authorities regarding the Spalato incident.

No Real Business.

The recent British loans and reports of a good harvest have improved the dinar exchange, the dollar being worth 16 to 17 as against 20 to 30 a few months ago. Prices, however, are high, meals in hotels costing from one to two American dollars. Cheap shoes may be purchased at from 20 to 25 American dollars. Country people are selling foodstuffs to Austria and to the Poles and Czechs, but otherwise no real business is going on, owing to the adverse exchange rates preventing buying abroad, and the demand of merchants for credit which few are willing to extend.

It is harmless.

HARVESTERS NEEDED IN THE NORTHWEST

LABOR NEEDED IN SASKATCHEWAN, NEW WHEAT REACHES WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 18.—Harvest is now in full swing in Manitoba and the Canadian spring wheat crop may be considered made.

There appears to be a sufficiency of farm help in this province, but there is a great demand for labour in Saskatchewan.

As regards the Saskatchewan crop a bulletin issued by the Provincial Department of Agriculture Saturday stated that the grain was ripening much faster than had been anticipated, and that the demand for farm help was urgent.

New Wheat Arrives.

Two cars of new wheat were on the market during the week. They were both remarkable samples of Manitoba hard wheat. Marquis variety, weighing 65 lbs. to the measured bushel. Both came from the Gretna district, Southern Manitoba.

There is no doubt but what the quality of the crop will be of remarkable excellence this season, given good harvest weather.

There may be some shrunk wheat where rust prevailed, but genetrally the grain was too far advanced for much damage from this pest. Rust has been far more widely spread than many believe, and some late fields have been rendered useless.

Equivalent Values.

Hail has done considerable damage in Southern Saskatchewan. The Canadian Wheat Board, which gave formal notice some time ago that it would accept deliveries up to August 1st will remain in the market a few days longer, probably until the Grain Exchange resumes wheat trading. The council of the Grain Exchange has not yet made on announcement on the date of the re-opening of the wheat marrket, but it is understood it will be early in the week. Based on the price of Minneapolis No. 1 dark northern and the difference in exchange, No. 1 northern in Winnipeg should be worth to-dav about $3.20 a bushel. This could not hold on any heavy movement to the south as premiums would decline and exchange ease up.

ARGENTINA FEDERATION LABOR WINS VICTORY

Foreigners Cannot be Expelled from Country Without Hearing.

(Canadian Press)

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 21.—The Argentine Federation of Labor, championed by Socialist deputies, has just won a victory in the lower house of Congress by securing the passage of a law which prevents the Government from expelling foreigners from the country without a court hearing. The Federation alleged in a recent petition to Congress that the "residence law," which has a provision for the deportation of undesirables, was being unjustly employed by the Federal police to expel from the country laborers of foreign birth who participated in strikes. They were arbitrarily judged by the police to be anarchists, it was charged.

The "residence law" has now been amended by the lower house to require that expulsion can only be decreed by a Federal judge after trial of the person accused. It is generally expected that the bill will also pass the Senate.

780 RUSSIAN WAIFS ON WAY FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO NEW YORK VIA PANAMA

REMAINS OF 6,000 CHILDREN SENT FROM PETROGRAD BY PARENTS WHEN REVOLUTION GRIPPED RUSSIA.

(Canadian Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Voyaging around the world to reach their homes, 780 Russian waifs, all that have been accounted for of probably 6,000 children sent out of Petrograd by their parents when revolution gripped the old Russian capitol, are on their way from San Francisco to New York by way of the Panama Canal. They came from Vladivostok under the care of the American Red Cross, of which they have been wards for two years. They are going back to Petrograd after suffering and wanderings that for some of them have blotted out every recollection of their parents, the places of their birth or even of their own names.

Little One's Experience.

Speaking of the experiences of the children, who range in age from 1 to 17 years, a statement by the Red Cross said:

"The long sea journey writes the last chapter in a history of wandering and adventure in a revolution torn country, that can hardly be matched in the whole record of the world upheaval in the last six years," the announcement says. "It seems almost a tale out of the Old Testament or Greek Mythology and a thousand years from now, it is perhaps not too much to say, the Russians with their dramatic instinct and mysticism will have made it a part of their rich folkfort."

Menaced by War.

When the revolution broke out in Russia, the report continued, many parents in Petrograd decided to send the youngsters into peaceful Siberia "until the trouble was over." They were sent east in charge of nurses and teachers.

Later, a barrier of fire marking the battle lines of the opposing Russian and Czech armies had been stretched between the youngsters and their homes. Months passed. Winter arrived, funds were exhausted and hunger and war horrors menaced the wanderers. The Omsk Government, appealed to for help, passed it on to the Red Cross.

Group after group was taken over by the Red Cross, which established colonies in Western Siberia and had apparently solved the problem of caring for its charges when the battleline swayed eastward and the Bolsheviki captured town after town. Groups of the children barely escaped capture. Finally it was decided to take them to Vladivostok

"Three trains of special, equipped box cars with a guard of American doughboys transported the precious cargo on a journey lasting weeks through a country stripped bare of provisions," the report continued. "It may be said that ingenuity was taxed to the utmost in obtaining supplies, avoiding disease epidemic areas and evading other troubles."

Some Are Musical.

Finally the children were settled at Russian islands in Vladivostok harbor in barracks with German and Austrian prisoners pressed into service to do the heavy work. Schools and hospitals were established, natural talents were cultivated and thirteen of the larger girls took a course of training which fitted them to be nurses. Several youngsters showed unusual abilities at music, painting and dancing.

The children will visit at Panama Canal ports and in New York City on their way home.

A total of 48,692 motor vehicles was in service with the American Expeditionary Force. Of this number there were 8,000 passenger cars and 26,000 trucks.

SUGAR REPORTED DOWN TO 17 CTS. IN DETROIT MARKET

TORONTO WHOLESALERS SEE NO SIGNS OF DECLINE IN CANADIAN PRICE.

The price of sugar in Toronto is 17 cents a pound, acoording to the Toronto Star. This price compares with Toronto quotations from 23 cents to 26 cents, and canners in Hamilton paid 21 cents on Thursday. The lowest price in Peterborough, according to advertisements, is five pounds for $1.00.

Referring to a news item in The Examiner recently, which reported a decline of 10 cents a pound in the United States, a local grocer stated that it had caused consumers here to expect a similar dtcline. He added the the public should have been informed that the United States price had reached a much higher level than the Canadian top figure, and that allowing for the 10 cent reduction, the price across the border was still in excess of that paid by Canadian consumers. This statement, however, does not agree with the Toronto Star's report of 17-cent sugar in Detroit.

The Star's account continues as follows:

A further surprising piece of information supplied by the visitor from Detroit was that he had been told by a grocer in Detroit that the reason the bottom had fallen out of the sugar market there, was that there had been large exportations from Canada.

The Detroit News of yesterday published the following:

"Retail grocers to-day offered unlimited quantities of sugar at prices as low as 17 cents a pound, indicating a sharp drop in the market from the price of 27 cents asked only a week ago.

The consensus of opinion, as gleaned from statements made by both retailers and wholesalers, is that the speculator has been caught between the wheels and is climbing out from under with ungraceful and unusual rapidity.

"Perhaps the factor most instrumental in bringing down the price of sugar is the recent check on the expansion of bank credits. This has checked speculation and the hoarding of the commodity for higher prices. Loans are being recalled and the speculator is anxious to unload, it is said, sometimes accepting a loss of from $7,000 to $8,000 a car.

"For a time," stated the head of one of the larger sugar houses, "America was the highest sugar market in the world, and naturally there were attracted to it sugars from all over the world. The supply on hand at present is more then sufficient to meet demands for some time to come. A break in the market had to come. It is here. No one may say how long the present price will continue, since European sugars, brought recently to the United States, are being resold for European consumption. Eight hundred tons of Javanese cane was loaded again for export in New York Harbour yesterday.

Cannot Understand It.

The Star this morning sought light on the sugar mystery.

"There must be som emistake in this," said Mr. A. C. Pike, secretary of the Wholesale Grocers' Association when interviewed in connection with the information from Detroit. "Here are the prices in New York yesterday: American fine granulated, $22.50; National fine granulated, $22; Arbuckle, $17.10. Over and above the last and cheapest quotation, the Detroit man would have to pay transportation charges and the wholesalers' profit. I don't see, according to that, how the retailer could sell at 17c.

"Of course, a retailer will often sell away below cost on sugar and make up on something else. This may account for the experience of the Detroit visitor."

Mr. Pike said that there had been no heavy exportation of sugar from Canada of late.

Mr. Pike pointed out that the lowest quotation in New York was $17.10 and to this would have to be added the freight charges and the 1½ per cent. profit allowed to grocers.

Enough to Go Around.

Mr. Hugh Blain, President of the Canadian Wholesale Grocers' Association, was asked if there were large quantities of sugar at present in Canada.

"There is evidently sufficient sugar for present requirements," he replied. "How long it will last is difficult to say."

"How do you account for one New York refinery selling so much lower than others?"

"They are evidently working on a cheaper importation of raws. I understand that the Canadian refineries are not looking for lower prices. They are working on the high-priced raws already bought. Up to just a short time ago Canadian prices were always below American."

"But it is stated that large quantities of sugar are being exported to the United States" ?

"They are evidently working on a "We have received offerings from the United States at a lower price than we received from the Canadian refineries," replied Mr. Blain, "but we don't want to buy from the United States. Trade conditions are bad enough in the American market without buying any sugar there if we can help it. Then, of course, there is the question of exchange."

"Do you see any slump in sugar in sight, Mr. Blain?"

"I don't see it in sight, and I don't know when it will come. The whole trouble in the sugar market is speculators profiteering in sugar and blaming it on the wholesale trade."

"Is speculating the reason for conditions in Detroit?"

"I think so. The banks are pressing them and they have been obliged to sell."

Wholesale Price.

The wholesale price at which sugar is offered to the retailers to-day is 24 cents, the price paid to the refiners on which the wholesalers are allowed 5 per cent. for handling, which they say is cut by a cent reduction to the retailers, and also the overhead and other charges. The retailer is allowed to charge a profit of 2 cents on the pound.

MAKE ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO RAISE SUNKEN BOAT

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 20.—Captain William Leslie intends to make another attempt to raise the setamer Keystorm which was sunk with a valuable cargo of coal in the St. Lawrence near Alexandria Bay some years ago. He has secured six pontoons from Buffalo and a wrecking steamer and will proceed to the scene of the sunken steamer in a few days. The equipment to float the boat is complete and arrived at the Canadian Locomotive Company's wharf from Buffalo on Wednesday evening.

Already several attempts have been made to raise the ship, but, as it is lying in 120 feet of water, the efforts have been fruitless. The boat has been examined a number of times and was written off as a total loss by the owners some time ago. However, Captain Leslie, whose qualifications as a wrecker are beyond question, and who has perfected a new type of pontoon, is hopeful that the vessel may be salvaged.

CAN SECURE DOMESTIC HELP FROM ENGLAND

Canadian housekeepers in need of domestic help are promised assistance by the Provincial Colonization Department working in conjunction with the Ontario Agent-General's office in London, England. One Lindsay householder has already communicated with the department applying for domestic assistance.

By advancing the sum of $100 for transportation the department is willing to try and secure domestic help for any household. The idea is to have parties come out periodically as transportation facilities will permit. The agreement made with the girls will provide for the repayment of the loan.

The parties will come out in charge of a superintendent, will be carefully selected, and will have to furnish references. At the same time the domestics brought out will be kept track of by the department and the people securing their services will also be asked to furnish references.

U.S. IMMIGRATION.

Inflow Has More Than Balanced Emigration.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—More than 5,000 immigrants are arriving daily at Ellis Island, the Department of Labor announced in reporting that the tide of emigration which set in after the armistice had been more than balanced by the increasing inflow of immigrants.

Only the lack of transportation facilities and the difficulties of immigration from Central Europe, officials of the Department of Labor said, have prevented the butstripping of all previous records during the last year.

Despite these unfavorable conditions, approximately 800,000 immigrants arrived in the United States during the twelve months ending June 30, as compared with 141,132 during the corresponding period the year before and the record of 1,285,349 in 1907.

Foreign steamship companies have reported to the immigration authorities that all available accommodations for a year in advance have been booked by prospective immigrants.

GOOD PICTURE AT THE GRAND

"Who is the most beautiful woman on the stage?"

Many have asked this question, and from many others have come this answer:

"The most beautiful woman on the stage is strangely not a woman—but a man.. Julian Eltinge, the most unique star in all stardom, is the cause of this paradox. It is Eltinge, female impersonator supreme, who is the most beautiful woman on the stage."

This fact is demonstrated anew in Julian Eltinge's latest Republic picture, "An Adventuress," showing at the Grand Thertre on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

"An Adventuress" is Eltinge's first work for the screen in a long time; the time lost and the disappointment suffered by thousands because of his absence is now made up by the remarkable excellence, zest, zip, thrills,

NEWSPAPER PLANT IN STATE OF PARANA, BRAZIL

(Canadian Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 21.—Representatives of o Swedish company have made proposals to the Brazilian Government looking to the establishment of a print paper manufacturing plant in the State of Parana. Among other advantages asked of the Government is that of free entry of necessary machinery.

According to the company's representatives there is an abundance of necessary material for print paper manufacture in Parana and other states.

Local publishers, who have for some months been occupied with problems growing out of the scarcity and high price of imported print paper, are unanimously in favor of the manufacturing project. In the meantime they are meeting frequently to discuss measures of economy at which reduction in the size of newspapers and increased advertising rates and subscription prices were under consideration.

MAIL AIRPLANE SERVICE.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 21.—A daily service for the despatch of mails by airplane between London and Amsterdam began on July 15th.

The air mail fee, which is in addition to the ordinary foreign postage charge, has been fixed at the low rate of 3d. (6 cents) per packet. The fee for express delivery is 6d. (12 cents) per packet. Express packets are delivered normally the same evening in Amsterdam and Rotterdam.

It is possible by this means for a London business house to receive a reply from Amsterdam within about 30 hours.

"THE LITTLE SHEPHERD OF KINGDOM COME"

No more agreeable play has visited this town recently than is "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," made by Sidney Toler, an able playwright from the "best seller" of the same name by John Fox, Jr. The play has a fine company whose work was carefully supervised and rehearsed by Argyle Campbell and the scenic investiture is atmospheric in every respect. The company includes a number of able players with George Simpson as Chad, Dorothy Dunn as Melissy and with Fay Brennan, a society girl from Washington, D.C.; James Kennedy and Ralph MacDonald as leaders. The play is due here Thursday, August 26th for one performance only.

"SLEEPING PARTNERS"

The way the French "do these things," in contrast to the American manner is exemplified in an extremely clever comedy concoction, "Sleeping Partners" which will serve Edna Goodrich as a starring vehicle the coming season and which will be the attraction at the Grand Saturday, August 28th.

It is totally different from anything seen in America. Translated from the French of Sacha Guitry by the clever hand of Seymour Hicks, the atmosphere is there, the adroitness of dialogue and situation and the consummate expertness of workmanship which characterize the French farce in its highest and most modern form.

The play tells a story of elusively delicate quality that would lose much in the mere description of the plot. It is a thing which evaporates like the whifs of perfume played over the rich furniture of the bachelor room and incidentally the audience. French to the core from the three raps and the gong which announce the rise of the curtain; through its unfolding of the typical French triangle, and the final unique situation of the husband falling asleep under the sleeping potion as the wife had done in the previous act, with the American as the "watcher." It's all very fanciful light and gay, amusing and witty, ingénious and clever, played by the Beautiful Edna Goodrich herself, supported by a company which brings out the full glint and gleam in the sparkling texture of the material.

MAID, JILTED BY HER LOVER, LEAPS INTO RIVER TO END LIFE

A note of pathos is struck in "The Yellow Typhoon," when a maid leaps into the river to end her life because her sweet heart wrote her that he could not marry her. The scene is shown in the First National picture, Harold MacGrath's greatest adventure story in which Anita Stewart stars. The picture will be shown at the Allen Theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

Sitting on a bench in a park near the Hudson river in New York she reads the letter over and over again until her numbed brain finally grasps its import. Still dazed and numbed by her bitter grief, she throws off her cloak and stumbles rather than walks to the river and throws herself in.

This is one of the key points in "The Yellow Typhoon," the story of two sisters, one bad and the other good, the bad one supposed to be dead, because when the body of the maid is found she had on her mistress' garments. Thus it is that one girl disappears from the world, only to turn up later, bringing out one of the greatest mysteries ever set forth in pictures.

VANITY FAIR

In the group of girls chosen for the chorus to go on tour with Boyle Woolfolk's sensational musical comedy success, "Vanity Fair," which will be seen at the Grand to-day, matinee and night, will be found a fair representation of this diversity of employment and social status. Twelve of the girls come from families of wealth and the weekly salary they receive means little to them. Of the twenty bewitching beauties with "Vanity Fair," six call New York their home. Of the others, two were born in California, one in Texas, one in Maine, one in Illinois, one in Michigan and eight in Canada.

MONTREAL LADY WINNER OF ALGONQUIN GOLF TOURNEY.

ST. ANDREWS, N.B., Aug. 20.—The Algonquin Golf Association events were concluded yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Alex. Wilson, of Montreal, defeated Miss Sargent, of Boston, one up in thirty-six holes, after the most strenuous match witnessed here in years. Stewart Stickney, of St. Louis, defeated A. H. Tomes, of New York, five and four.

TAKING CARE OF BIRTH PLOT OF WASHINGTON

(Canadian Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Every year Congress grants $100 for the repair of fences and for cleaning up and maintaining the 13-acre reservation at Wakefield, Va., where George Washington was born.

There is no dwelling on the place, but a monument marks the place of nativity of "the father of his country." Wakefield is 110 miles from Washington, and is not often visited because it is not easily accessible. It is a mile and a half from the Potomac and pilgrims going by water must also trudge overland to reach it. Excursion steamers no longer stop, the old government wharf having been partly carried away by ice and floods and never repaired.

TO BUILD $450,000 APARTMENT HOUSE

DISTINGUISHING FEATURE WILL BE DISAPPEARING BEDS—DECLARED AN INNOVATION.

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Presidents of Manhattan Island, in their eternal fight for space, have perked up their ears at the announcement by a New York realty syndicate that it will build a $450,000 apartment house, whose distinguishing feature will be "disappearing beds." Officials of the syndicate are silent as to what form the "disappearing beds" will take during the day time. They dismiss the matter by saying that "disappearing beds and many other labor saving devices will be installed."

Architects, however, have given their opinion on the proposed innovation.

"Disappearing Beds."

The beauty of "disappearing beds," the architects say, is that the bed cannot disappear while the occupant is lying in it on his back, with his knees up and his mouth open. This was the chief drawback to the old-fashioned folding bed. The architects made this statement to quiet the fears of many New York residents who had inquired as to whether the "disappearing beds" were similar to the old-fashioned folding bed, or contained any of the latter's cranky and uncertain tendencies.

Oil Painting by Day.

The architects say that a "disappearing bed" is a bed at night and an oil painting of a Gordon setter or something like that in the day time; that it can be slipped under the bath room floor or tucked away behind the acquarium; or that it may be sunk into a trap door in the floor and an Oriental rug placed over it, so that the tell-tale cracks may not be seen.

The apartment house of the "disappearing beds," the syndicate announces, is to be built on West End avenue, Manhattan.

WILL TELL ENGLAND ABOUT THIS COUNTRY

BRITISH TRADE PROPAGANDIST TO GET OUT SPECIAL EDITION OF MAIL.

"When I get back to England I plan to put out an issue of The Empire Mail of 200 pages which will treat with industrial conditions in Canada alone and which will have as contributors such men as Premier Meighen, Sir George Foster and Hon. Gideon Robertson, as well as many famous British industrialists and public men," stated Mr. Theodore Feilden, Director-General of the Imperial Trade Propaganda Organization to the Toronto press.

Mr. Feilden is travelling through Canada in the wake of the Imperial Press party with a view toward interesting Canadians in extending their dealings with the British Empire. It is to this purpose that the paper and organization which he represents are turning their energies.

He predicted that heavy taxes, notably the excess profits tax, would drive many British manufacturers to devote their surplus to erecting plants in Canada to care for Canadian and American trade. "Lloyd George is all right," he hastened to state when admitting that British manufacturers thought the taxes out of proportion. He credited Lloyd George with saving the nation.

FIGHT FOR INTERESTS OF SMALLER NATIONS

PLANS FOR ORGANIZATION OF INTERNATION COURT OF JUSTICE.

(Canadian Press)

THE HAGUE, Aug. 21.—In the course of the jurists' conferences which have been held here to draw up plans for the organization of an International High Court of Justice, Raoul Fernandez, the Brazilian delegate, found Elihu Root a strong supporter in his fight for the interests of small nations.

At two different occasions Mr. Root succeeded in inducing the conference to adopt articles which Senhor Fernandez proposed, but which only met with a cold reception until Root came to Fernandez's assistance.

The first case was the right of the country which had no judge in the court to name a judge to sit while that country's case was before the court.

The second case in which Fernandez and Root closely collaborated was when the latter's proposal to extend the power of supplementary judges was about to be rejected.

According to the originol plan the vacancies caused through the absence of judgts could only be filled when at least three judges were absent. Mr. Root, however, supported the Fernandez amendment, and the substitute takes the function as soon as one judge is absent. In these two cases the small powers are closely interested.

The small powers are to have a majority in the high court, there being five judges representing the big powers and six representing the small powers while also the substitutes belong to the small countries.

This majority was endangered by the old plan when in case of two absent judges the small powers vacancies would not be filled and the big powers would have a majority of five to four.

ONE CONSOLATION.

While disappointments oft are sore,
When Fate our plans molest,
It sometimes happens—such is life—
That all is for the best.

WILL LECTURE HERE ON HOUSING PROBLEMS

MRS HENRIETTA OCTAVIA BARNETT OF LONDON SAILS FOR CANADA SEPT. 4.

Impelled still by a desire to help the less fortunate ones about her, though her seventy years would entitle her to retire from active service, Mrs. Henrietta Octavia Barnett is leaving London for Canada on September 4, and after arrival in America will lecture in Canada and the United States on housing. The founder of the Hampstead Garden Suburb, Mrs. Barnett was for many years the co-worker of her husband in the east end of London. The two reformers founded the university settlement, Toynbee Hall, from which arose 400 similar settlements in London as a great testimony to the social value of the original project.

Mrs. Barnett's solution of housing difficulties in the cities was to get the people out into the country. So she built a garden village at Hampstead on town planning lines, and there she mixed the rich and the poor. She thought if the poor were properly housed the social contact would be as good for the rich as the poor. By her personal influence, Mrs. Barnett gathered around her a band of reformers who adopted the details of her scheme and made them practical. Her zeal in improving the conditions of the poor made her one of the greatest reforming forces in British history.

The story of her work with the Bishop in the east end includes the clearance of slums, and once the raising of a million dollars, the establishment of university settlements, and the building of a beautiful art gallery. Both firmly believed that radical reform meant the changing of the homes in the people so that beauty and comfort should be possible to the poorest. Mrs. Barrett was also instrumental in the reform of the "Barrack" schools.

She is to be in Ottawa about the middle of September under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club when it is expected many will take advantage of hearing the woman who has accomplished so much in social reform.

MANY WOMEN FROM TURKISH HAREMS ARE TURNED LOOSE

(Canadian Press)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 21.—Nowhere has the high cost of living been felt more keenly than in Turkish harems. Men who were formerly able to maintain many wives and concubines find their income insufficient to keep up large establishments and are forced to turn some of the women adrift.

American women relief workers who have been investigating social and economic conditions say the tragedies Turkish women have undergone as a result of the war are even worse than in other European countries because of the utter helplessness of women and their lack of training which might make them self-supporting.

The sufferings of Moslem women are worse in cities than in the country, for the country women are frequently trained to do farm work and are an asset to their husbands rather than a liability. Furthermore the economic conditions have not been disturbed so seriously in rural districts. Farming goes on much as usual. Women can find employment in olive groves, at silk culture, in fruit orchards and even in grain fields.

Robbed of Husbands.

Since the war has robbed so many women of the husbands, fathers or other male relatives upon whom they were dependent, many city women have forced themselves into employment which was never before regarded as proper for Moslem women. Turkish women with their veils thrown back from their faces may now be seen as saleswomen in scores of Consetantinople shops. They are even employed as street sweepers.

There has been a great outcry against Moslem women accepting employment whcih forces them into association with men, especially Christian men, but the economic pressure has been so strong that religious prejudices had to make way. The need for nurses with the army gave Moslem women their first opportunity to get hospital training and become nurses. That was the entering wedge which has opened the way into other employments monopolized by Greek and Armenian women. Turkish women may now be found in telephone exchanges. They are acting as cashiers, janitors and even street car conductors.

Women Gain Independence.

Stern necessity has won for Turkish women an independence which was undreamed of six years ago, and the wail of the untrained women forced to earn their livelihood has aroused Turkish leaders to a realization of the necessity for better and more practical education for women.

DECREE RUSSIAN FUR FOR MILADY'S DRESS

PARIS.—Milady's gowns and capes will be liberally trimmed with Russian fur this year, according to the rue de la Paix style "fixers," although just how the Russian fur will get here, in view of the Allied blockade against Russia, is still a mystery.

Kolinsky—not the Polish general—always has been popular, but there is a cheaper and better wearing Russian substitute known as "hamster" which promises to take its place among the American and European bourgeoisie, while persons wanting something more expensive will have a choice of African lamb and Astrakhan dyed pearl gray.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING TUESDAY

RESOLUTION FROM TRADES COUNCIL WILL BE DEALT WITH.

Mayor McIntyre has been notified that the members of the Union of Canadian Municipalities will meet in Montreal on Wednesday. The communication requests that Peterboro be represented in the present opposition to the Bell Telephone Company's application for increased rates. His Worship stated that a bridge committee meeting has been called for Monday night and a special meeting of the Council for Tuesday night. At this meeting the Council will decide whether they desire to be represented at Montreal. The resolution from the Trades Council asking for an investigation of the Fire Department will also be received at the Tuesday night meeting, and will doubtless be acted upon one way or the other at once.

APPLICANTS AT LABOUR BUREAU

LOCAL DEMAND FOR DOMESTIC HELP—BUSY WEEK.

Recently the district covered by the local Labour Bureau has been extended to cover most of Central Ontario, Muskoka being amongst the counties which have been taken in. The extension of territory is due to the closing of several similar bureaus in the Province.

During the past week, of 45 applicants 37 were placed and 43 vacancies filed.

The female department of the Bureau is still pretty quiet, pending the arrival back from the Lakes of the summer cottagers, who will, it is expected, immediately clamour for domestic help. Before the ink on an application filed for such work has dried, the applicant is, in most cases, snapped up.

Of 5 applicants last week, three were placed—one domestic and two factory hands.

SCORES KINGSTON'S CIVIC PROCEDURES

KINGSTON, Aug. 20.—"Conducted without any regard for the statutes, municipal by-laws or any other procedure." In this scathing sentence, Auditor Muir expresses his opinion regarding the business of the Works' Department during 1919. The accounting department of the Public Utilities Commission is also heavily scored. His report to the Council says in part:

"Seven months after the close of the financial year is rather late to submit a report. The reason is the same as for the past two years and is on account of difficulties in connection with the accounting department of the Public Utilities Commission."

"On July 20, 1914, the City Council passed a resolution in accordance with the Public Utilities Act, asking the local commission to submit quarterly statements of the business of the three utilities. As yet you have not had a statement except the annual reports which I have filed. If the accounting department was on an efficient and permanent basis, as it should be, there is no reason why these statements should not be submitted shortly after the end of each quarter.

"The deficit of the 1919 Council was $14,305.05, the Board of Works being responsible for the greater part. The municipal business of 1919 was the most poorly conducted that I have seen. For five months from July 1st, the city's business, especially the Work's Department was conducted without any regard for the statutes, municipal by-laws, or any other procedure, being done principally by the so-called round robins. I am very glad to see that so far the 1920 Council is trying to properly conduct the city's business, and it is to be hoped that future councils will not follow the example set in 1919."

WEDDING BELLS

HOPKINS—CALLIGHEN.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Danforth Avenue Methodist Church, Toronto, on Wednesday, August 18th, when Evelyn Aileen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Callighen, Fairview Boulevard, became the bride of Mr. Ernest William Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs R. Hopkins, of Peterboro, Ont. Both the groom and groomsman were members of the original 48th Highlanders, 15th Battalion, and were prisoners in Germany for nearly four years. Rev. R. J. Simpson performed the ceremony and Mr. George Boyce rendered the wedding music.

The bride who was given away by her father, wore a gown of palest pink satin and silver lace. Her tulle veil was arranged in the Russian style and held in place with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was of sweetheart roses. Miss Alto Hopkins, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, wore pale blue georgette, and carried Kilarney roses. Little Miss Bertha Callighen, as flower girl, wore a frock of white organdy with pink ribbon trimmings and carried a basket of pink cosmos. The best man was Mr. E. Osborne Callighen.

Mrs. Callighen held a reception after the ceremony wearing grey satin and georgette. Mrs. Hopkins, mother of the groom, was gowned in black crepe de chine.

Toasts were proposed by Rev. R. J. Simpson and very suitably responded to. For her wedding journey the bride wore a black and white suit, green Paris hat and white fox fur.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins will reside at 18 Fairview boulevard, Toronto.

GAMBLING AT G.T.R. STATION

POLICE MAKE A ROUND-UP—CASE PRESIDING.

Citizens have been complaining for several months of the cab drivers gambling at the Grand Trunk station which had assumed such proportions that some of the drivers had difficulty in dragging themselves away from the game to take passengers, and yesterday a number of the alleged gamblers were placed under arrest by P. C. Young.

Their case has not yet been brought into Police Court. Chief of Police Thompson was out of the city this morning and Acting Sergeant Lawrence said the case has not yet been disposed of.

During 1919, life insurance companies in the United States wrote new policies amounting to $8,700,000,000.

LARGE QUANTITY OF FRUIT WAS OFFERED ON FARMERS' MARKET

PRICES SHOW A DOWNWARD TENDENCY IN MANY LINES—CHICKEN HIGH IN PRICE—APPLES PLENTIFUL.

Lured by the hope of getting provisions at a lower price than they have been paying, seemingly half of Peterborough attended the market, only to find that practically everything offered was quoted at a few cents in advance of the store prices, notwithstanding the fact there was an abundance of all farm produce. Tomatoes bulked the market, and every other cart was laden with baskets of splendid specimens, which sold as high as 65 cents a basket, while the George Street dealers asked only 45 and 50 cents for a similar basket delivered at the door.

Apples Plentiful.

Apples followed second in order of quantity, and early varieties, many hall-marked by defunct maggots, sold at 45 cents a peck. Potatoes were a little easier than last week, selling at $1.75 a bag and 45 cents a peck.

Cucumbers, cabbages, which were exceptionally fine, and cauliflowers sold at 5, 10 and 15 cents each; carrots, beets and onions at 5 cents a bunch.

Small Fruit.

A small amount of small fruit found its way back to the market to-day, and splendid huckleberries sold at 30 cents a quart, black currants at 40 cents a box, and raspberries at 30 cents a basket. To-day's supply of small fruit is promised to be the last for the season.

Inside Market.

Chicken soared away beyond ordinary man's reach to-day, two-pounders selling at 90 cents. The quotation on one chicken this morning gave rise to an amusing controversy between a farmer's wife and a would-be purchaser, who, thinking $1.00 when quoted to cover the price of the pair, picked them up, handed in her dollar and blissfully sailed off with the farmer's wife in determined pursuit, insisting that $1 meant each bird. The chickens and the bill changed hands again.

Eggs, of which there was a large quantity, sold at 57, 58 and 60 cents a dozen, guaranteed to be fresh. Butter which was very scarce, sold at 65 cents a pound, two cents higher than most retail men are asking.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: I see in Tuesday's issue of the Examiner that there are five men aspiring for parliamentary honors, namely, Mr. Nichols, of Smith, Warden; Mr. MacIntosh of North Monaghan; Mr. Charles C. Moore of Smith; Mr. Harry G. Weber, of Monaghan, and Mr. John Collins of Ennismore. I will say they are all good men and any one of the five who would be elected would surely make a capable representative for West Peterboro.

But, Mr. Editor, will you permit me by means of your valuable paper to sugest another name to add to the five already mentioned—Mr. J. W. Kelly of Bridgenorth. I believe he would satisfy all requirements equally as well as any of the farmers mentioned.

He is well known by the farmers of the whole riding and I am sure would take a large percentage of the vote of the City of Peterboro, where he is also well known. I understand he has no politics, having always voted independently.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

MARKET STOCKS LOSE GROUND

TRADING BRIGHTENED TOWARDS END OF WEEK.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. — Stocks continued to lose ground in the first half of this week's dull sessions, but made up much if not all of their loss in the more active trading of the latter period. Technical conditions as again expressed by further foreign and domestic complications apparently favored very confident short interest but there was little actual liquidation move of selling emanating from professional sources.

ALSIKE TAKES BIG DECLINE

A few samples of alsike clover-seed have reached the city, but there cannot be said to be any trade in Ontario seeds so far. The price offered is extremely low, only $18.00 to $15.00 per bushel, as against $25.00 per bushel offered during the month of April and May. The demand, particularly in the United States is expected to be away below that of last year.

The market at the present time is weak and unsettled.

APPROVES APPEAL

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Dr. Stafford president of the Wesleyan Conference has issued an answer to a Lamboth conference proposed on re-union wherein he states that this appeal has stirred Christendom to utermost parts of earth. He says that it would seem impossible that Chriscian churches should ever again assume an attitude of mutual hostility or even armed neutrality and it was impossible to exaggerate satisfaction with which appeal was received by Wesley and Methodists.

FIFTEEN YEARS IN PRACTICE

The Nervous System
And Its Relation to Disease

No other system in the body has as vital a bearing on every diseased condition as does the nervous system. It is through this nervous system that that elusive something travels which actuates the entire human organism. It is upon the activity of the nervous system that every organ in the body is dependent for its function. The heart beats only because it receives through the nervous system, its normal quantity and quality of energy by way of the nervous mechanism. The digestive system functions because it receives its proper quota of vitality through the nervous system; and so we could go on and enumerate every tissue and organ of the body; and we would find that each is dependent upon the nervous system for its proper function.

Whether the organs of the body are normal or not is also dependent upon the activity of the nervous system in supplying them their proper amount of energy. That something, which is carried through the nervous system, is comparatively an unknown quantity; yet, experience proves its existence, and it has been designated by the term "mental impulse." These impulses are of different character. They may be impulses of nutrition, of contraction, of secretion and many others. Naturally, the well-being of any tissue is dependent, absolutely, upon the proper supply of these essential impulses. They originate in the brain, and from here are transmitted, through the spinal cord and nerves, to all parts of the body. If they are interfered with, disease results in direct proportion to that interference. This interference can only occur where the nerves emit from the spinal column, due to subluxations (misplaced vertebræ). If it happens that those nerve fibres are affected which supply the heart, then the heart is abnormal in its functions; and so this is true of every organ and tissue of the body.

The Chiropractor is trained to detect these subluxations, and correct them. He does nothing but restore the vertebræ to their proper positions, thereby insuring normality and perfect function.

SOME ALDERMEN REPORTED OPPOSED TO INVESTIGATION

RELIABLE INFORMATION SAYS THEY HAVE DECLARED THEY WILL NOT ATTEND MEETING —FIRE HALL DEVELOPMENTS HAVE ECLIPSED LABOUR COUNCIL EPISODE.

MAYOR CALLS MEETING

The special meeting of the City Council, called for the purpose of dealing with general business, tomorrow night, will be preceded by a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee at 7.30 o'clock. The communication from the Trades and Labour Council, asking for a public investigation of the Fire Department, will be laid before the Aldermen, several of whom have remarked that no progress will likely be made at this meeting, except arranging for an investigation which the statements of the dismissed men and junior officers of the department have, it is declared, rendered imperative. The men expect of course that the hearing of their grievances and the general enquiry itself will be, as requested, open to the public; in other words, that if the Council itself handles the investigation it will be in open Council and not in Committee of the Whole.

Discussing It.

Notice of a meeting of the Provincial Fire Fighters' Association includes a paragraph to the effect that Fire Chief Grange's reported remarks at the St. Thomas convention will be discussed. Local firemen point out that this shows that the statement attributed to the Chief has attracted widespread attention among firemen, and the Provincial Association may enquire into the correctness of the report which Chief Grange has denied, according to the local firemen's committee. However, the men point out that this question has been pushed into the background by the dismissal of the three men for alleged inefficiency. In turn, they declare that Chief Grange himself is responsible for whatever inefficiency exists, and the men assert that practices and drills have not been held in a long time. This is the question the City Council is asked to investigate, and it involves the dismissal of Firemen Copperthwaite, Menzies and LeBarr. Several local insurance men have indicated their interest in the allegations of the men.

Some Opposition Rumoured.

It was learned to-day that some members of the Council have intimated that they will not attend any meeting at which the question of investigating the department or the investigation itself is brought up. The reason ascribed for this attitude is said to be a certain objection to the Fire Fighters' Union having taken to the Trades Council their complaint against the Chief and the resultant discussion there of the inefficiency of the department. On this point the firemen have explained that they couldn't get their communications to the City Council, and that this was one of the grievances they mentioned at the Labour Council meeting.

Beyond that, however, it is pointed out that Chief Grange's dismissal of the three firemen and the reasons for his action comprise a question entirely separate from the wholesale allegations of inefficiency by the firemen and secondary officers, for which condition they have blamed Chief Grange's administration. If the Trades Council incident and resolution had never materialized, it is argued, the later developments at the Fire Hall demand, in the interest of the public and the ratepayers and fire insurance policy holders, the fullest enquiry into the Fire Department's conditions and management.

A former chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee expressed himself in favour of an investigation, remarking that the appropriations for the Fire, Water and Light Committee have reached a sum for which the ratepayers expect one of the most efficient fire brigades in this province.

ELEVEN-CENT SUGAR IS PREDICTED BY END OF THE YEAR

(Canadian Press)

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Eleven cent sugar for New Year's was the prediction to-day of R. J. Poole secretary of the city council's H. C. L. Committee.

Poole said his advice to the house wives was to purchase as little sugar as she can and watch the price down ward, as the holders of the sugar enter the market against enlarged beet sugar crops and incoming flood of Cuban cane sugar.

THE EXECUTIVE ISSUES APPEAL

WANTS LABOUR TO STOP "WAR WITH IRELAND"—CORK'S LORD MAYOR.

(Canadian Press.)

DUBLIN, Aug. 23.— Executive of Irish Labor party in appeal to British Labor to stop "war with Ireland" as they did with Russia and holding them responsible if it continues, says: "Military governments 'whom you have placed over us calculate that the death of the Lord Mayor of Cork will lead to an uprising which can be suppressed only by whole sale slaughter." The appeal also declares that some Secretary Shortt will be personally responsible if the death of the Lord Mayor ensues.

Constable Shot Dead.

BELFAST, Aug. 23. — Police Inspector Swanzy, against whom a verdict of wilful murder was given by a Coroner's jury in connection with the assassination of Mayor MacCurtain in March, was shot dead yesterday while proceeding to his home from church at Lisburn, to which town he had been transferred after the finding of the Coroner's jury.

The killing of Inspector Swanzy was among the most daring of a long series. The congregations were leaving all the Protestant churches at the time and converging on the scene of the shooting. The officer had been with his mother and sister in attendance upon the services at Christ Church and had reached the corner of Railway Street, where he resided.

Here three men, armed with rifles, confronted Swanzy and fired on him in the presence of his horrified family. Swanzy fell, but, to make doubly sure, the assassins discharged their weapons again into his body.

Turning, the assassins ran along Castle Street. The congregation was just emerging from Lisburn Cathedral. Captain Woods, Commandant of the Lisburn branch of the Ulster Volunteers, made a dash for the assassins, although armed only with a stick. The assassins fired on Woods, a bullet shattering the stick in his hand. He was not injured.

The murderers then fired at other persons who had joined in the pursuit, but without effect, and jumped into a waiting taxicab and drove off toward Belfast.

Seven Constables Killed.

Official telegrams received at Dublin Castle to-day indicate that there have been organized onslaughts against the Irish Constabulary and that thus far during the week-end seven have been killed.

A patrol sergeant and three men at Dundalk were suddenly confronted by six armed men who fired. Constable Brennan fell dead and Constables Isbell and Witherdon, recruited from the English army, were badly wounded.

Sergeant Maunsell was shot dead last night at Macroom, County Cork. A police patrol was ambushed near Naas, County Kildare, Saturday night. A constable was killed and a sergeant seriously wounded; two constables escaped.

Constable O'Hanlon was shot dead at Kilrush.

A police patrol was ambuscaded Sunday afternoon at Dundalk. One constable was shot dead and two constables were wounded.

THE WEATHER

The heavy rain of Saturday evening, which totalled .70 of an inch, brought clear cool weather in its train. The first occasion last fall when the temperature got down to freezing point was Oct. 8th; the year previous it was on Sept. 30th. White frost appeared each year at an earlier date but did no particular damage.—W.P.

Elusive A. Small

BAIT OF $50,000 HAS SO FAR FAILED TO LOCATE AMBROSE SMALL.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—On September 1 expires the offer of $50,000 reward for information leading to the return of Ambrose J. Small, and the committee in charge of the Small estate will discuss with Official Referee J. A. C. Cameron the advisability of renewing it. While renewal is deemed likely, the committee will be guided largely by the advice of the Attorney-General of the Province and the Chief of Police of Toronto.

The reward for information as to the whereabouts of John Doughty, the missing secretary, is almost certain to be renewed. In spite of repeated discouragements, the police say that it is only a matter of time before Doughty will be brought to Toronto and re-examined. At the present moment the eyes of the investigators are turned hopefully toward European police circles.

Because there has not been a tittle of authentic new information on the Small case, Toronto newspapers have of late not contained references to it. But the police say that their efforts have not relaxed, and that every clue is still being run down. Letters from spiritualistic individuals and soothsayers of every description continue to pour into police headquarters relative to the whereabouts of the missing millionaire.

LINDSAY MAN WILL BE HONOURED AT TORONTO EXHIBITION.

TORONTO, Aug. 23. — Private George Richardson, V.C., eighty-nine years of age, possessor of the Victoria Cross, won in April, 1859, at Cawnpore, India, and Canada's oldest holder of the coveted distinction, is coming to the city the latter end of the week from Lindsay to be present on Saturday at the opening of the Canadian National Exhibition, which will be Victoria Cross and Veterans' Day. He will be warmly received by the city, the Exhibition officials and the military.

The order of the Victoria Cross was instituted on Jan. 29th, 1856, at the close of the Crimean War and the honor of being the first recipients of the Victoria Cross were Crimean veterans. There are no grades to the medal; it is the same for the officers as for the men. It consists of a bronze Maltese cross bearing in the centre the Royal Crown surmounted by a lion, while on the scroll underneath is the inscription, 'For Valour." The ribbon is crimson for all services. A bar may be awarded for any additional act of gallantry. Conjoined with the decoration is a pension for non-commissioned officers and men of £10 a year, with an additional £5 for each bar.

Distinguished Company.

At the present time there are 540 men living who are proud possessors of the Order of the Victoria Cross, inaugurated during the reign of Queen Victoria. Two men who won it in 1855, five who won it in 1857 and one who won it in 1858, are still living. Next on the list is Private George Richardson, who was awarded the Victoria Cross in 1859 for a splendid act of bravery in Cawnpore, India, during the mutiny.

Private Richardson is a native of County Cavan, Ireland. He joined the 34th Border Regiment of the British Army in 1855 and served throughout the Indian Mutiny under Havelock and Sir Colin Campbell. One night in April, 1859, at Cawnpore the natives attacked in force. Richardson received a bullet through the arm which broke a bone and a sabre cut in his thigh. Despite this, when one of his officers was encircled by six burly natives he rushed to the aid of the officer, and between the two of them five of the natives were killed and the other fled. For this supreme act of courage her Majesty Queen Victoria pinned her cross on the bosom of the man from Ulster.

Carried Wife Through Flames.

After being discharged from the army Richardson came to Canada and for nearly twenty years lived on a homestead in western Ontario. Two years ago fire destroyed his house. His wife died of shock and the old soldier was nearly blinded taking his wife out of the flames.

Private Richardson of late has been a resident of Lindsay. Last year the veteran was most warmly received by the Prince of Wales at the City Hall in this city. Last fall at the Fair in Lindsay the old soldier went up in an airplane for a quarter of an hour. He is probably the oldest man who ever sailed through the air in Canada. Sir John C. Eaton's car will meet the old veteran when he arives in the city.

SEVENTY-FIVE THOUSAND PRISONERS WERE CAPTURED BY THE POLISH ARMY

GENERAL STRIKE IF MACSWEENEY DIES

DUBLIN, August 22. — The physician of the Cork jail has recommended the release of the men under arrest there who are on a hunger strike.

It is reported here to be extremely probable that Lord Mayor MacSweney, Cork, who is in Brixton Jail, London, on a hunger strike, is to be released. Should he be allowed to die in prison Ireland is threatened with a general strike, unprecedented demonstrations and further extensions of the boycott. The plans for all these have been arranged.

The question of a general strike is in the hands of the Labor party. The boycott even now is being extended beyond the police and military to the civil employees of the British Government. The latest victims of the boycott are members of the late John Redmond family, owing to the fact that Martin Green, husband of Mr. Redmond's daughter, holds a position as chairman of the Irish Prisons Committee.

Hotels catering to the tourist trade are receiving letters demanding that they refuse to shelter "enemies" of Ireland. The proprietress of the famous wooden bridge hotel in the Wicklow Mountains received such a letter but refused to recognize the demand unless it bore the stamp of the "Irish Republic."

TWENTY-NINE LOST THEIR LIVES WHEN SUPERIOR WAS RAMMED

BIG ORE CARRIER SINKS IN LAKE SUPERIOR AFTER COLLISION WITH THE WILLIS S. KING—EXPLOSION FOLLOWED IMPACT VIRTUALLY BLOWS OFF THE SHIP'S STERN.

SOO, Mich., Aug. 23.—Search for the bodies of twenty-nine persons known to have lost their lives when the freighter "Superior City" was sunk in Lake Superior, off Whitefish Point, after colliding with the Steamer "Willis L. King," practically was abandoned to-day.

All the rescue parties have returned here after finding scarcely any wreckage. Scores of vessels have traversed the spot where the collision and explosion occurred, without sighting any trace of the lost vessel.

No Chance For Escape.

With practically no chance to save themselves, 28 men and one woman, members of the crew of the giant ore carrier, Superior City, were blown to their deaths in the chilly waters of Lake Superior, off Whitefish Point, late Friday night, when the steamer Willis L. King collided with the Superior, punched a hole in her side through which a torrent of water poured down into her furnace room, causing an explosion which virtually blew off the ship's stern.

In less than two minutes after the crash, according to four survivors, the ship settled, her load of 7,500 tons of ore carrying her quickly to the bottom, in about 200 feet of water. The collision occurred four and one half miles northeast of Whitefish Point. The sea was calm, though the air just a trifle hazy, according to the survivors.

Four Survivors Have Hurts.

The survivors were: Captain Edward Sawyer, of Almont; Cal Lehne, Chimago, second mate; Peter Jacobson, Cleveland, wheelsman, and Walter Richter, Lorain, O., boatswain.

The King crashed into the Superior City aft of amidships, on the port side. All members of the crew of the Superior City were aft over the boiler rooms, scrambling for the life boats when the blast came. Not one of the four survivors knows more than that when he regained consciousness it was in the cold waters of Lake Superior and fighting for his life.

All the survivors bear evidence of their experience in bruises and burns. Captain Sawyer, with his face and head swathed in bandages to protect his wounds and raw skin, refuses to talk. He is heartsick over the fate of his crew and vessel and wary of divulging more facts about the wreck than he must.

The Boatswain's Story.

Walter Richter, boatswain, who was brought to the Soo on the J. J. Turner, late last night after being picked up from a hatch cover, says the explosion jerked the ship out from under him as he was attempting to get into a lifeboat. He had been in his bunk, but had ran aft with his fellows when the alarm was sounded from the vessel's bridge, that she was about to be rammed. He had nothing but his underwear on at the time and this underwear was blown from him completely, not a "stitch" remaining.

WARSAW, Aug. 23.—Polish forces have taken the town of Grudesk, twelve miles north of Ciechanow and have cut off the retreat of the Bolshevik forces north-west and west of this city by way of Mlawa and Przasnysz.

Eighteenth Polish division, which has been attacking Ciechanow, has been met by desperate resistance on the part of the enemy. Detachments covering the retreat of the Fourth Soviet Army, which last week advanced along the Prussian frontier until it threatened Polish defences along the Vistula. After capturing Ciechanow the Poles advanced rapidly northward and succeeded in cutting the only direct line of railroad running eastward from Polish positions. Volunteer Polish divisions are now attacking Przasnysz.

MID-SUMMER DOLLAR DAY

PETERBORO'S BIG SEMI-ANNUAL SHOPPING EVENT WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 25TH.

Peterboro's Mid-Summer Dollar Day is scheduled to take place on Wednesday next, August 25th. To merely announce the date of this great Shopping Event is about all that is necessary to insure its success; for Dollar Day is anticipated with the greatest eagerness by thousands of people in the city and county who make Peterboro their shopping centre.

Dollar Day is a day of profitable shopping. It is the greatest event of its kind during the entire year and citizens have learned from experience that the merchants have bargains in store for them on that day that cannot be obtained at any other time. Because of the uncertainties of the markets at present, many lines of merchandise are difficult to procure and the indications are that prices will be even higher in the future. In spite of this, the Dollar Day Merchants are preparing to offer some genuine bargains for the coming event, which will make the day a boon to the consumer—a fact which the buying public should bear in mind.

As an additional attraction for Dollar Day the Merchants have made up a Treasury Fund of $175 to be given away to the shoppers in sixteen splendid Cash Prizes. Read about the plan in the big advertisement and everybody enter the friendly competition to see who will secure the grand bonus of $50.00 or one of the other fifteen prizes offered.

FEW AMERICAN TOURISTS VISIT IRISH RESORTS

(Canadian Press)

DUBLIN, Aug. 21.—Killarney and other tourists' resorts in Ireland which have been expecting a big influx of American visitors, are experiencing some disappointment on account of the disruption of the railways, owing to the refusal of the men to carry armed police and soldiers. This has caused a slackening in the number of persons travelling, but the final blow came when the military decided to take over the hotels to replace the barracks which the Sinn Feiners had destroyed. It is announced that soldiers have occupied two of the largest hotels in Killarney and are erecting a wireless station there.

BOOT FACTORY BURNS.

THE PRICE OF SUGAR.

The sugar situation is such as to cause the man on the street to wonder what has become of the Board of Commerce. While the price is rapidly dropping in the United States, according to news despatches, there is as yet no evidence of a similar decline in Canada. One dealer is quoted as saying that in five or six weeks sugar prices in this country will drop in accordance with the quotations across the line. By that time the preserving season will be practically over and the decrease will be too late to permit the housewives to take full advantage of the magnificent fruit crop. There is natural curiosity as to whether or not the present Canadian prices are justified in view of the figures in the United States, and the situation seems to call for an explanation from the Board of Commerce or from what is left of that body from which very little has been heard in the last few weeks. If the Board has anything to communicate in connection with sugar prices it will find many ears wide open to hear what it has to say.

FIREMEN'S GRIEVANCES.

Inevitably connected with the coming inquiry into the affairs of the local fire department will be a consideration of the wisdom of allowing municipal firemen to become affiliated with the Trades and Labour Council. This of course, is not the main question at issue, which from the viewpoint of the citizens is whether or not the fire department is efficient, but nevertheless the trades union angle to the inquiry is bound to be developed and may as well be disposed of when an investigation is being held. There are many citizens who regard it as a serious mistake to permit the fire fighters to belong to an organization that allows them an opportunity of criticizing in public the actions of the head of their department. They claim that any complaints that the men have should be brought before the proper authorities, via the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee.

On the other hand the members of the department declare that they have experienced difficulty in having their grievances placed before the Council and that the Trades Council offered them the only opportunity of having these complaints aired.

There is a defect in the civic machinery somewhere if the firemen's contention is correct. Certainly the fire fighters should have every opportunity of having any legitimate grievances righted and there should be no obstacle to prevent them from acquainting the aldermen of wrongs they consider should be corrected. If there have been such obstacles in the past they must be removed.

It would be well if the inquiry into the affairs of the department could be widened to include this matter, which seems to be of considerable importance.

THE COUNTY POLICE.

The Examiner has several times drawn attention to the need of better police protection for the rural sections of Ontario and urged the abolition of the fee system by which the county constables are at present remunerated. It is pleasing, therefore, to find that there are indications that the fees are to be eliminated and a permanent force of men receiving regular salaries will be appointed. Improvements in the county police system are being considered by the commission of five appointed by the Drury government to reorganize the outside system of the Provincial Attorney-General's Department and according to the views of Mr. E. A. Pocock, of London, one of the members, the present organization, is to be scrapped and more adequate protection afforded. The many weaknesses of the fees method of remuneration are apparent. In the first place it does not provide sufficient salary for the county police with the result that many of the officials throughout the province do not give their whole time to police duties. Again it is claimed that the constables in many counties will not take the trouble of investigating a case unless they are sure of making an arrest and thereby earning a fee. The paying of salaries large enough to enable the police to devote their attention solely to the duties of their position might be more expensive than the present system, but with permanent policemen always available the counties would receive much better protection than at present.

What form the recommendations of the commission will take is unknown at present. Mr. Pocock intends to bring before his fellow commissioners a plan by which a force of five or six men would be stationed in each county. He suggests that each detachment should be under the command of a chief stationed at a central point in the county. Each member of these detachments mounted on a horse or a motor cycle would have a certain section of the district to patrol and would be required to keep in touch by telephone with headquarters so that the detachment could be quickly rushed to any part of the county where their services would be required. Rural Ontario will await with a good deal of interest the report of the commission.

A BAND QUESTION.

Last spring Peterborough had a band problem on its hands, occasioned by the fact that three bands desired a portion of the civic appropriation for music. Down in Brockville there is also a band problem, but of a different nature. Some people thought Peterborough had too many bands; Brockville is in a much worse plight for they have none at all, and whenever a band is needed the services of an outside organization have to be secured.

The Brockville Recorded and Times discussing the situation, says:

If the Chautauqua, whose admirable programme for 1920 has just been completed, did nothing more it justified its existence by the influence which it exerted towards the awakening of a community spirit in Brockville. The mingling of all classes on a common basis brought about by the Chautauqua did more to brush aside the petty differences and jealousies which cannot help but be an impediment to progress than would half a hundred exhortations from the pulpit or editorial broadsides.

The Chautauqua has unquestionably proved itself to be of value as an instrument for the attainment of concord in the community. Brockville is still provincial enough to succumb to the tender influences of another great peace-maker, a rattling good band.

We have become a laughing stock in the eyes of our neighbors. So indifferent do we appear to have become that we have permitted one of our greatest assets to pass out of existence with scarcely a lament. The town which prides itself on its wideawakeness and superiority over adjacent centres has been forced to take second rank to these centres, each of which posseses an up-to-date band, an A1 advertisement wherever it may play.

It is not for us to enter into a discussion of the causes of the band's demise—some say it died of poverty—but it is for us to exert every effort to bring about its resurrection and to ensure its successful operation in its new life. It is humiliating in the extreme for those in charge of public events here to be under the necessity of engaging outside bands; it is a source of glee in these places to see Brockville without a band and themselves in the possession of one.

It does not matter whence comes the band or whether it represents the militia, the trades council or the undertakers' union, so long as it is a band, so long as it can uphold Brockville's fair name and can bring back again the good old days of the Court House Square concerts. The promoters of the re-organized band claim that all this will be accomplished. The knowledge of Brockville people and their ability to carry to a successful conclusion anything which they may initiate leads to the belief that ther efforts will not be unavailing.

A KINGSTON VIEW.

In the course of a column article headed "The Premier and Burnham," the Kingston Standard has some caustic comment upon the former member for West Peterborough. Says the Standard:

Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P. of Peterborough, reminds us somewhat of the pet kangaroo of that celebrated humorist, the late. Artemus Ward, who was wont to boast that his pet was "an amoosin' little cuss." Certainly Mr. Burnham, be he regarded as little or big, is quite often decidedly "amoosin," and never more so than in his letter to the Toronto Globe, in which he declares, among other things, that "Mr. Meighen is Prime Minister by grace of Mr. Calder." To make matters worse Mr. Burnham premises this statement as well as adds to it with a lot of silly rubbish that one would scarcely have expected even from Mr. Burnham, who in his frequent contributions to the press, suggests somewhat the efforts of "Old Faithful," that wonderful geyser in the Yellowstone Park, that "spouts" every fifty or sixty minutes, day in and day out, rain or shine.

The difficulty, however, with the "amoosin" Mr. Burnham is that while he spouts more or less regularly, he doesn't seem to be particular as to what he spouts.

Mr. Burnham, being now out of public life of his own choice—the people at the next election may surprise him by agreeing with the wisdom of his choice— would be well advised not to seek further to emulate Old Faithful but, instead, modestly and gracefully to subside—but to subside in any event, even if he cannot do so either modestly or gracefully. The people are tired of his ebullitions on politics, prohibition and the like. It is bad enough to have the war petering along without being inflicted with everlasting Burnhamisms.

A DANGER SIGNAL—TENDER AND BLEEDING GUMS

Healthy teeth cannot live in diseased tissue. Gums tainted with Pyorrhea are dangerously diseased. For not only the teeth are affected, but Pyorrhea germs seep into the body, lower its vitality and cause many ills.

Pyorrhea begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the poisonous germs that breed in pockets about them.

Four out of five people over forty have this disease. But you need not have it. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection. And keep Pyorrhea away by using Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For The Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy, the teeth white and clean. If you have tender or bleeding gums, start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

THREE BANKS NOW HOLD $3,000,000,000 U. S. CASH

(Canadian Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—The combined "Lisle Thread National Bank," "The Old Sox Bank" and the "Feather-Bed-Mattress Bank" now hold more than $3,000,000,000 of the country's cash.

This is the estimate of William H. Hutt, acting governor of the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank, made of the loose cash being carried around in pockets and stowed away in various places. He was addressing an organization of business men.

Even a small proportion of this three billions invested in Liberty Bonds would bring them back to par, he pointed out, or if the money was deposited in savings banks it would inject new life into industry.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

VIII

The day of the yacht races a storm came up unexpectedly and by ten o'clock a nasty sea was on, with the wind still freshening. Several skippers, after a searching of the sky and a contemplation of the churning course, prudently withdrew. By the pier, a group of yellow slickers was discussing the prospect, a large element arguing for a postponement. Challoner and Bracken, however, having declared their intention to attempt the course, race or no race, an announcement was made that the test would be held. Of tweny-one boats entered, only five decided to stay, and in the sheltered waters the crews set to work on the busy preparations.

"Well, Jack," said Monte Bracken, as they went down to the landing wharf together, "this is the kind of weather that'll show 'em up."

"It certainly will," said Challoner grimly. "Bet stands?"

"A thousand; yes," said Bracken carelessly. "But winner to finish the course."

"Understood! Want to take another five hundred my tub comes in and yours doesn't?"

"Why, yes, Jack, that's a good bet."

A little flurry of rain came across the troubled water of the anchorage, flinging sharp pellets into his eyes. He pulled down the brim of his slicker, shouted an order to the crew, and went back toward the clubhouse on a restless impulse which he did not acknowledge to himself. Under the porch the spectators had gathered, the women in great coats and ulsters, the veils whipping to and fro about their shoulders. He saw his brother and Claire, who came hurriedly out of the crowd.

"Is it a race?"

"Sure it's a race," he said cheerfully

"What the devil are they thinking of?" said Allan, with an oath under his breath. "Monte, you're not going to be fool enough to try it?"

"My dear Allan, that's just what you can always count on my being," he said with a grin. "Want to come?"

"Thanks, no— I prefer to stay behind and inherit your property."

"You'll have a chance," he said instantly. "Well, the Water Sprite has not a show, but it'll be good sport You see, there's a bet up," he added lowering his voice, "and I'm not the one to drop out with the odds against me."

"Do be careful, Monte!" said Claire She had been standing silently until now.

"Careful?" said Allan. "He's just apt to get out under full sail with a spinnaker set."

"Well, no hardly that," said Bracken, with a glance at the bay, where the blue waves with foaming crests were storming from the northeast like gallant battallions surging to the attack

"Do be careful!" said Claire Bracken.

"There's not as much danger as that," he said cheerily He glanced up the piazza and added, "Tell Kitty she'd better hedge; the White Streak is the boat in a wind like this."

He went into the locker room, taking the long way around, his eyes eagerly on the crowd. Irma and Gladys were there, but Amy Forrester had not yet arrived. Since the night by the breakwater, he had fought desperately to put her from his mind. He had told himself that the break was final, that after the words he had pronounced no further intercourse was possible. He had not spared her in his mind. He had assured himself again and again that it was fortunate that he had found her out in time, while yet he could withdraw from the chasm of servitude which opened at his feet. She was like the others he had known, those virtuous wives, without constancy or depth to whom the passions they inspired were but a pastime and a variety. He her believed her different. She was not; the same light emotions sufficed, the same dread of appearance bound her. He had never sought an intrigue but love which would give purpose to his life. He had deceived himself as he always deceived himself. But when he had heaped up all these reproaches against her, when cruelly and bitterly he had shown himself that she only mconsequent, light, and a creature of style and fashions, there still remained one thing he could not destroy —the charm that her memory exercised irrestibly over his imagination. When she was absent, the sun was out of the day and the world a vast and desert place.

"Why the duece have I got to come up here just to get a glimpse of her," he said to himself angrily, "for that is what I'm doing, damn it—I might as well acknowledge it!"

He returned through the crowd, seeking the light and graceful figure which was the thrill of the day to his eyes, and went down to the wharf, where the crew was waiting for him impatiently.

"Five minutes to the first gun, sir," said Oscar, his sailor.

"That's enough."

He stopped into the dory and passed on to the deck of the Water Sprite which was tugging at her hawser like a restless racer. He took the wheel, and the boat, released from its moorings, shot across the waves. At this moment he looked up and saw the Forrester car turning into the club grounds.

'She has come!" he thought joyfully. "She could not stay away!"

'Don't know whether she'll stand so much sail, sir," said the sailor, with a glance up at the mast.

"Don't think so either, Oscar," he said, "but one thing's certain; if she can't, we haven't a ghost of a chance of a chance of winning this race, have we?"

"Well, damn it, but there are other races!" said Oscar, mumbling to himself.

"Don't worry !" he said joyfully. "I'll get you back. What's the time?"

"Twenty seconds more, sir."

"We'll tack then." He shouted out his orders, the zest of the struggle sending the fighting blood pulsing through his veins. If the mast would hold, he'd make a bid for it—now that he knew she was there watching. She too had suffered, for in the end she had not been able to stay away.

Amy Forrester, in fact, had had no intention of coming. Pretexting an indisposition, she had kept to the cottage for days. She knew that in the end she must se him, and yet she recoiled from it. She had waited, hoping that he would come, but as each day succeeded she realized that the decision lay with her.

"What is left for me to do?" she asked herself again and again in the quiet of the waking, in the hollow of the afternoon, in the long tortured sleeplessness of the night. If he had only stayed after his outburst of indignation there in the dark garden by the breakwater, there could have been but one answer. But he had gone, and now it was not the question of a dramatic impulse, but of deciding three lives coldly, without emotion, after long consideration. That was the difficult thing—to make the decision herself and not to have it made for her—not to be able to yield to forces of the moment which would sweep over her emotions.

'What am I? What sort of a woman am I?" she asked herself wearily, in the isolation she imposed on herself. Never had she held the mirror to her soul and looked into its clear verities. Now, there was no escape; no subterfuge would suffice. She could not shift the responsibility The decision lay in her hands alone. "If I see him again," she admitted to herself, "I must go to him, I must leave my husband. It's either that, or never to see him again!"

Monte Bracken had told her the truth, as Andrew in his chivalry had refused to tell her. She counted for nothing in this world. She had only been playing with forces she did not understand. It was all frightfully immoral. She had seen it in Irma, in Gladys and a hundred others—the selfishness and the cruelty. She had never sen it in herself. She had deluded herself with sophistries. She had believed that she sought only friendships and lulled her conscience with the belief that she ought to exercise a good influence in these intimacies.

Andrew was right, too, in what he had said and in the things he had left unsaid. She had never counted in his life. She had wanted to be surrounded by flattery and adulation. And the worst, was she had never counted in his life. She had been disloyal. She had allowed men to make love to her; more, she had sought that tribute She had wanted to be surrounded by flattery and adulation And the worst was, she had never intended to give anything in return. She had cheated always. The capturing of her prey had been sufficient to her needs. She had adored it until suddenly she had discovered that Andrew was doing the same thing. Then she had been willing to stop, if only he would stop. That, too, had been cheating, and all her reproaches, likewise.

"Am I as bad as that? What is wrong with me?" she asked herself.

Once she had the longing to rush over and lay her confession before Claire Bracken—Claire, with her calm and peace of soul, who saw her without illusion and without harshness.

"Ah, but I know what she'll say to me," she thought, "and I can't, I can't go on with Andrew! It isn't a ques-

NEW INDUSTRY FOR KINGSTON

KINGSTON, Aug. 21.—On September 10th Kingston ratepayers will vote on a bylaw to aid with a free site for a large machinery manufacturing concern which contemplates locating here. In order to talk business with this company the Civic Industries Committee first secured options on twenty-eight acres of land in Cataraqui ward close to the railways. This land will be sufficient for half a dozen industries, and the city by owning it will be able to deal with prospective industrial concerns much more quickly than if a hunt had to be made for a piece of property each time a company sought to locate here. The following recommendations of the Industries Committee, which were adopted by the City Council on Wednesday night, will tell just what is proposed:

That this land be purchased by the city for industrial purposes, and that a bylaw for $30,000 be presented to the ratepayers to authorize the sale of debentures to pay for the said lands together with the cost of a railway siding to serve manufacturers locating here.

That an agreement be entered into with Thomas Watson and the company to be incorporated, whereby the city will give to the company a site for factory buildings, exemption from taxation and a railway siding, the company agreeing to amalgamate their businesses at Woodstock and Mitchell, Ontario, transfer them to Kingston and erect a factory here for the purpose of manufacturing machinery, etc., and that a bylaw be submitted to the electors for their approval.

MEXICAN BOY SCOUTS.

(Canadian Press)

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21. — The Boy Scout movement in Mexico is being revived. A call has been issued by the leaders of the movement, for all lads between twelve and seventeen years of age to present themselves for enrollment.

The Boy Scous, or "The Corps of Mexican Explorers," as they are called here, formerly enjoyed a number of privileges from the Government which provided them with uniforms, shoes, and even a small money allowance to pay their expenses during their excursions.

During the revolution, the movement virtually ceased. It is planned to give it new impulse along the lines formerly followed.

SIXTY CENTS FOR SUIT OF CLOTHES

BUT THEY ARE GERMAN MANUFACTURE AND MADE OF PAPER.

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, Aug. 21.—A firm that imports German goods via Holland has had a range of suitings sent from Germany on approval which may be sold in Great Britain, made up and ready to wear, at from 2s. 6d. (60 cents) to 10s. 6d. ($2.50) per suit.

These suits are manufactured of paper and are cut in English styles. One thousand of them can be bought for 120 pounds sterling ($540.00). These are of "the very best class of paper texture.", Complete suits were permitted to pass the customs at the declared value of 10 d. (20 cents) per article.

The firm of agents dealing with the goods declare that under the system of buying the paper suits at the present rate of exchange, it would be possible for a Britisher to be "comfortably dressed" in a new suit every week for a year at the cost of one bought in the West End of London.

BELGIAN BARON TRAVELS THROUGHOUT CANADA

HAS VARIOUS DECORATIONS AND IS IN LIST OF "HEROES BELGIQUES."

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—To serve as a private in the Belgian army while British troops were garrisoning his 400-year-old chateau nearby, after they, with the Belgians, had driven out the German invaders, was one of the peculiar experiences of Baron Edouard de Blondeide Beauregard de Viane, a scion of an ancient noble Belgian family who is at present visiting Montreal, as commencement to a tour of Canada and the United States, in which he hopes to recover from his war efforts. The Baron is the heir to one of the oldest Belgian nobility, his family tree having roots traced back to about A.D. 1020, while a number of his ancestors took part in various of the crusades, and in more modern days the family became allied with certain Irish Kings, which probably accounts for his fighting blood.

He served throughout the war, always in the ranks, and was mentioned in despatches five times for distinguished services, also winning the Croix de Guerre Belgique and the Medaille Militaire, getting his decorations on the same day he was wounded. His name is also included in the list of "Heroes Belgiques."

TO REGULATE THE WIDTH OF TIRES.

That while the average country roads with reasonable repair have usually taken care of the traffic in a satisfactory manner, but since the introduction of the heavy auto trucks, our roads have failed to withstand the severity of the traffic, which has seriously injured our highways, and discouraged a growing sentiment for road improvement. This council do memorialize the Highways Department to pass such legislation as will regulate the width of tires in proportion to the weight of the load, or other regulations to meet the requirements as may seem expedient, it being evident, that two and four ton loads on heavy motor trucks with narrow tires will soon destroy our roads for traffic, particularly in wet seasons of the year.

The Financing Of Your Telephone Service

THE way in which telephone service has been financed is a matter of importance to every telephone subscriber.

If the service has been over-capitalized, then it is burdened by heavy dividend charges to be paid from rates.

If it has issued "watered" stock or "bonus" stock or stock sold below its par value, then a part of its rates have to go to pay dividends on these shares.

If the dividend rate is too big—then you as a subscriber must be paying too much.

But this is the story of your telephone finance—the financing of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

First: It is capitalized at only $33,485,000 (stock and bonds) —although its actual telephone property cost over $55,000,000. Obviously it is not over-capitalized.

Second: It has never issued "watered" stock nor "bonus" stock. Every share of Bell Telephone stock represents its face value or more paid into the treasury of the Company. Premiums on new stock amounting to $1,459,000 have been re-invested in the plant.

Third: The dividend rate, starting at 6% rose never higher than 8%.

All surplus earnings were re-invested for improvement and extension of the plant. They saved the Company thousands of dollars per year in interest charges it would have had to pay on borrowed funds. It added nothing to the dividend of the shareholders.

That is the financial history of your telephone system. It is a record of honest business, moderate profit and progressive administration.

LINDSAY AUTOIST RACES WITH A MOTOR COP.

Lively Spurt With Stranger Will Cost Dollar or Two.

LINDSAY, Aug. 20. — One of our local automobile owners, who enjoys a good joke, even though it may be on himself, tells a splendid story. He was driving over a good piece of road between Port Hope and Cobourg a few days ago, when a motorcycle drove alongside his car, and then moved a little faster as if inviting a race. This was too much for our townsman, and he opened up and took after the cycle and finally passed him in a cloud of dust. On arriving home he received a summons to call and settle, as he was charged with exceeding the speed limit. He had been racing with a motor cop. Ha! Ha!

OTTAWA IS BUILDING NEARLY 300 HOUSES

BUT IT IS ESTIMATED CITY NEEDS BETWEEN 500 AND 600 MORE HOMES.

OTTAWA, Aug. 23. — Nearly 300 houses are either in course of construction or have been built this year in Ottawa. Building permits to the middle of the present month show that 280 permits have been issued for residences, outside of apartment houses, of which there are about half a dozen. About 100 buildings have been erected for purposes other than residential.

Houses at present are fairly plentiful in the aggregate, but houses to suit individual tastes are scarce. H. C. Latham, secretary of the Ottawa Housing Commission, estimates that the city needs between five and six hundred more homes. The commission has undertaken the erection of 135 houses, the majority of which are situate at Linden Lea. Since the first of the year the commission has commenced building on 65 residences, only three of which are on individual properties. Apartment house space and rooms is being rapidly taken up and at increased rental over last year.

Shortage of cement has handicapped building operations here this year to some extent. Strike troubles also caused a loss of several weeks' work.

MINISTER GIVES FACTS TO PUBLIC

TELLS OF WONDERFUL CHANGE TANLAC BROUGHT IN HIS WIFE'S CONDITION.

Yet another minister of religion to give his unqualified endorsement to Tanlac as a medicine of remarkable merit, is the Rev. John Zaetschky, pastor of the Lutheran Church, Ohio Synod, Calgary, Alberta, who resides at 1920 5½ Street W., in a statement made at the Liggett-Findlay Drug Store recently.

"For nine years my wife suffered from dropsy," he said, "and for the past five years had been in a very bad state of health. Her appetite was very poor, and although she ate but very little, she always had a full feeling after meals. She had a drowsy feeling all the time from which nothing could arouse her, and felt tired both mentally and physically. She often complained of acute pains across the back which were so bad, that she had to let her work go entirely, and at night her sleep was very disturbed. Her nervous system became so shattered that the least thing would alarm her, and she was getting worse year by year. She tried all kinds of treatments, and even went to the hospital on several occasions, but always failed to get more than temporary relief.

"We had read much about the merits of Tanlac, and finally I bought a bottle. It seemed to do my wife good and so I continued with it. She has now taken three bottles in all, and a decided change for the better has been the result. She now sleeps the whole night through, and has lost that tired, drowsy feeling. She is so much improved that she can now do her housework with perfect ease, and the pains in her back have disappeared entirely. I would not go so far as to say that she is entirely relieved of the dropsy, but it does not bother her half as much as it did, and she has not been so well for many years past. Tanlac has helped her wonderfully, and we wouldn't be without it on any account. It is certainly a splendid medicine, and I take pleasure in recommending it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

INDIANS LOOK FOR HARD WINTER

GETTING READY TO HARVEST WILD RICE CROP ON RICE LAKE.

With the shortage of coal it will be interesting to the public to know that the Indians predict a long and severe winter. This they say is indicated by the huge crop of wild plums and nuts of which there are more this years than several previous years.

The wild grapes promise some compromise for the thirsty ones, every vine along the fences and clearings being laden down with them.

Will Harvest Rice.

Commencing September 10th the Indians will harvest the huge crop of wild rice on Rice Lake, and it is expected the price, which was 50 cents last year, will be slightly lower.

The only shortage in 1920 is wild ducks, of which there are very few.

POSTAL UNION TO MEET IN CANADA

HON P. E. BLONDIN AND DR. COULTER ARE GOING TO SPAIN.

OTTAWA, Aug. 23. — Hon. P. E. Blondin, Postmaster-General, and Dr. R. M. Coulter, Deputy Postmaster-General, will represent Canada at the meeting of the Universal Postal Union, which will be held this year in Madrid, Spain, in October. Senator Blondin and Dr. Coulter will likely leave Canada at the end of September.

This congress will be the first one held for several years. The war interfered with a meeting scheduled for 1914. The Universal Postal Union has met in Rome, the Hague and in United States. An effort will be made this year by Canada's representatives to bring the next meeting to this country.

The question of increasing the postal rate among the countries in the Universal Postal Union will likely be among the topics discussed at the meeting. There will likely be a number of the new republics, which have come into existence since the war, taken into the Union.

Voice Of The People

Western Ave.,
Brownton, Peterboro,
August 22, 1920.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—
Dear Sir,—Was much interested in an article in your issue of the 18th instant, re Light for Western Ave., and the Utilities Commission remarks on same.

Now the city has lots of money and did not go into the Hydro proposition to save money, but just to let the people of the City of Peterborough enjoy the benefits of cheap light and power. At the same time one would think that if they could make a little profit on an extension they would do so. Now, Mr. H. O. Fisk looked over this requested extension a few weeks ago and admitted —as I am informed—that it would be a paying proposition for the city, but of course Mr. Fisk is not a Commissioner, but only a practical man, so would hardly know much about the cost (!) I might say that this same request for an extension was turned down in 1916 under much the same pretext (cost) but labor was not 60 cents per hour then, nor was copper wire anywhere near 35 cents a lb. There are about 40 houses on the proposed line (of which ten are wired), in less than a mile and the Hydro officials state that if there are four users to the mile then the line would pay, so I fail to see why the Hydro Commission of Peterboro could not make it profitable unless they would rather not not make it too easy on the residents if Peterboro, lest they should be getting too rich.

Of course, I know we should be in the city, but unfortunately most of us outside residents have small families, and it is often therefore almost impossible for us to rent a home inside the city. We are not wanting something for nothing, as the article would insinuate and most of the residents of this locality have been forced out of the city by being unable to rent houses. But, I suppose we must do as the Commisisoner says go to the Hydro in Toronto "and learn something." Hoping that I am not encroaching too much upon your space, Mr. Editor, and thanking you for same,

Yours truly,
F. C. WALLWORK,
Western Ave.,
Brownton.

P. S.—I might call attention to the fact that the extension that was made along New Romaine street at the end of last year is outside the city, and was made under the Utilities Commissions' regime, and not by the old power company.—F. C. W.

WILSON STRONGER WEIGHT IS NORMAL

FULL STORY OF HIS ILLNESS HAS NOT BEEN TOLD.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The improvement in President Wilson's physical condition has become so marked that those who are daily associated with him are now willing to tell some details concerning his "come-back."

Heretofore there has been a pronounced reticence in regard to the President's illness, which some of his friends thought an unwise policy as it resulted in the circulation of sensational reports as to his state of health. No authoritative statesmen has come from the White House but enough is now told to give a clearer idea of how the President is getting along.

The fact that stands out in the disclosure about the President is that he now weighs 179 pounds. This was his normal weight when in the best of health. In the early part of his administration, the President made a trip in the Mayflower to Yorktown, Va., and while there was weighed on a public scale. He tipped the beam at 180 pounds. Some surprise was expressed over this by people who knew the President, as it was not supposed that he weighed so much, but it was stated at the time that it was his normal weight.

The story of the President's illness has never been told in any authoritative way. That he had suffered a cerebral stroke was disclosed by one of the medical specialists called in to attend him, but no confirmation has ever come from those at the White House privileged to speak on the subject.

It is believed that when the full story is told it will be found that the President was desperately ill for a considerable period, and that when his physicians announced in an official bulletin, shortly after his return to the White House from his Western speech-making tour in behalf of the League of Nations covenant, that "the President is a very sick man," his condition was critical.

BLACK KNIGHTS HELD THEIR ANNUAL CHURCH PARADE SUNDAY

INSPIRING ADDRESS BY THE REV. J. F. CHAPMAN—VISITING SIR KNIGHTS PRESENT.

Headed by the Salvation Army Band the Black Knights, L.O.L., held their annual church parade yesterday afternoon, and attended divine worship at St. James' Methodist Church, where Rev. J. F. Chapman delivered an eloquent and inspiring address. The local Lodge was joined by visiting Sir Knights from Oshawa, Millbrook and surrounding towns.

The Sermon.

My text, Mr. Chapman said, in part, "Matthews xv., 13, "Every plant which my Heavenly Father has not planted shall be rooted up," is a truth of great encouragement at the present time, when the hearts of the world are faint and discouraged, when people are looking breathlessly about wondering if the Church will stand still or the ways of God triumph. The Church, the speaker said, may change its ritual and its mode of service, but fail never. It is God's institution, and therefore cannot fail. If we interpret the text aright, superstition and evil of every kind shall be rooted up and truth alone will stand the shock of the ages.

World's Progress.

Tracing the world's progress up to the present day, the speaker said that Christ enunciated a great truth, not only the laws of the kingdom but of humanity in general, when He said "first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn."

In illustrating his point of Christ's words being true nationally, Mr. Chapman reviewed the history of Europe. A few centuries ago he pointed out it was a great plain over which warring tribes roamed and met in deadly combat, but finally settled down to bounderies. We are to-day trying to learn the lesson of international brotherhood, that the League of Nations should be ratified. It took the world nineteen centuries to leave the ox cart, while ninety per cent. of the great inventions have been accomplished during the past fifty years. British scientists continually tell us that we must have international brotherhood as, in the event of another war, science and invention have reached such a stage that cities and peoples would be annihilated.

Great Heritage.

The people of this age have entered upon a great heritage, especially Canada. The speaker referred first to Canada's heritage from a standpoint of territory, our country covering some 3,000 miles. Again, from a standpoint of location, we stand in the centre of the world's greatest nations, a highway between the East and West. But, he said, our moral and spiritual heritage is infinitely greater than any other nation. To take all the advantages of our country's heritage and forget our obligations would be the maddest of selfishness. Our forefathers threw us the torch and told us to hold it high.

Our Liberties.

Look, the speaker said, about at our liberties, freedom of speech, the open Bible—our glorious heritage. We live in the greatest day probably since the birth of Jesus, besides living in the land of greatest opportunity. The next ten years, he emphasized, will probably be the turning point in the world's religion, the day when we will either go forward or backward, having been reached. The next ten years will weigh materially upon the trend of nations.

Three Problems.

We have to-day three great problems confronting us which we must solve, the deepening of the St. Lawrence, the harnessing of the waterways and the development of mines. But the three greatest questions revolve about three other factors: the Church, the home and school. When we consider the first problem, its mission and influence, it leads us to commemorate the Sabbath Day. The glory of Canada is her home life. No one must be allowed to place unholy hands upon the home and separate husband and wife. In the school question, the future greatness of the Dominion depends upon a higher type of boy and girl, the future men and women. We should have one great international school where the Bible should be read for the opening meditation. We do not realize, Mr. Chapman said, that the greatest difficulty lies in the division of the Protestant Churches.

The Lamplighters.

In the mad rush for gain we have lost sight of the great things the speaker feared. Every man should be a nation builder. In conclusion, the speaker gave the illustration of Harry Lauder, who, returning from the grave of his son, after singing to several thousand blood-stained warriors, told them that they, like a man he had once seen lighting the lamps in the street, were the lamp-lighters of civilization. We are to-day similarly lighting the way of civilization.

The Music.

The musi at the service was exceptionally good. The choir sang the anthem, "Soldiers of Christ Arise," and a chorus, "Where the Flag of Britain Flies," and a double quartette, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Kitney, Mrs. McLaren, Miss M. Collins, Mr. E. Hotson, Mr. B. Cutmore, Mr. F. Pratt and Mr. George Cuff, was also a much appreciated item. The selection, "Comrades in Arms," by the Salvation Army band, added materially to the general success of the musical programme.

The beautiful and tasteful floral arrangements were carried out by the usual committee Miss A. Emmerson and Mrs. A. E. Prest.

The grass does not quit because it is stepped on.

"Pip-Pip, Toot-Toot, Good-Bye-ee"

Letters have been received from London and New York in which the phrase "Pip Pip, Toot Toot, Good-Bye—ee" is substituted for the customary "Yours truly" or "Yours faithfully." Considerable curiosity has been aroused amongst the recipients as to the origin of the queer phrase.

It turns out now that London has been captured by a new song with this unusual title, which translated into dictionary English means "Good-bye, Sweetheart, Good-bye." This catchy song has now "caught on" in New York and is becoming the dance riot of the Gothamites.

Local music dealers report the receipt of a few sample copies. The snappy, irresistible melody of the chorus and its wealth of classy London slang make a novelty song that is something new for America. It will, no doubt, be very popular with all the boys who served overseas, who will appreciate this breeze from music halls of Blighty—"Pip Pip, Toot Toot, Good-Bye—ee."

GOOD WHEAT CROPS REPORTED

LOWER PRICES ANTICIPATED—CROP REPORTS.

(Canadian Press).

ROME, Aug. 23.—Australia's wheat fields for the coming season are fifty per cent. larger than in 1919, and weather and crop conditions were reported good as late as August 17, says a bulletin of the International Institute of Agriculture. During July, Indian monsoon was generally favourable, and the price of wheat at Karachi is lower than at any date since July, 1918. Exportation of wheat from India, however, is still prohibited. The aggregate of wheat shipments from Argentina exceed all estimates of available surplus during 1920, the bulletin says.

Shock-Absorbers For False Teeth

CLEVELAND, Mar. 8.— Non-Skid Shock Absorbers for false teeth are the latest thing. Heretofore the principle of shock absorbers has been limited in appliction, but now a Cleveland chemical concern advertises a powder which sprinkled upon "sore teeth," form a smooth cushion, holds them firmly in place, and gives a "non-skid" effect while you gossip over the toughest roasting ears of corn and chew the stickiest candy.

One who has lost his natural teeth can supply himself with this antiseptic, adhesive comfort powder—Corega—at a drug store, and proceed to laugh and sneeze, crack nuts and do other hazardous things without risk of shaking his prized false teeth from their upper and lower berths. 50c at Druggists.—Adv.

SECOND CAR PASSED OVER MAN

After Injured Man Had Been Removed to Side of Road a Second Car Passed Over Him.

The court room at Bowmanville was packed at the inquest to inquire into the cause of the death of Henry Newlove on Saturday, August 7th. Dr. A. S. Tilley, Coroner, presided. Mr. A. J. Armstrong, Cobourg, represented the Crown, and Mr. H. J. Harkins, Toronto, the family.

Witnesses examined were: Guy Casey, W. J. Ross, W. Mills and Alan Morden, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Pollard, Harry Roberts, Dr. B. J. Hazelwool, Bowmanville; Fred. Cowan and Fred. Souch, Newcastle; Albert Belyea, Toronto, and Melville Newlove, son of deceased.

The evidence adduced showed that the late Henry Newlove, farmer, living a half mile east of Bowmanville cemetery, was on the night of Saturday, August 7th, struck by a Studebaker auto driven by Guy Casey, knocked down, the car passing over him, the body being between the wheels. Car was stopped from 5 to 6 feet from where the body was lying. Only wound noticed was a cut under the chin. Three men in car saw Newlove on road and agreed in evidence that he got in front of the car only a few feet from it, so suddenly, that no one could tell how he got there—his hands were extended at right angles to his body. He was struck by the radiator and fell on his back. Casey said the car was going about 18 miles an hour. Two of the Belleville men after the accident went to Major R. J. Gill's and 'phoned to Chief Jarvis and Dr. Hazelwood. Mr. and Mrs. Pollard came along in their truck and were stopped and asked if they could identify the injured man. Mrs. Pollard, after examining him, loosened his collar, had his boots removed and sent a man for water. The other two men had previously moved the body nearer the edge of the ditch to permit autos to pass. Later when several autos were stopped on the road, Fred. Cowan came from the west, and, turning to the south side of the roadway, passed where the body lay, his auto badly smashing the face and possibly causing other injuries. Fred Couch, who was riding with Cowan, said he heard a man call to stop and held up his hand, but Cowan evidently had not heard it in time and did not notice the man lying on the ground, possibly owing to glare of lights.

The injured man was placed on Mr. Pollard's truck and rushed to the hospital, but died en route about 11 o'clock. It was about 9.30 when the accident occurred.

The jury's verdict is to the effect that Henry Newlove's death was due to being struck by auto driven by Guy Casey and that there was negligence on his part, but did not state on what particular evidence this opinion was based.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

VANITY FAIR.

It was unfortunate for the "Vanity Fair" Company that they were billed in Peterboro so closely following the appearance of "Hello Alexander," for naturally the production suffered in comparison with the superb McIntyre and Heath offering, one of the finest extravaganzas that Peterboro has ever seen. "Vanity Fair," of course, did not approach the standard of excellence reached by "Hello Alexander," although it contained many entertaining features, some clever specialties and a lot of skilful dancing. The plot was of the usual musical comedy slimness with enough funny mix-ups to give Elmer Coudy a chance to show his ability as a laugh-producer. Mr. Coudy, a hard-working comedian, with an amusing method of delivering his lines, was easily the star of the company, and gave of his best to ensure the success of the production. Mme. Celeste contributed some clever dancing and Pat Barrett scored in several specialties, as did the Watson twins.

OPPOSED TO THE PROPOSED RATES

LOCAL MANUFACTURERS AWAIT DECISION OF ASSOCIATION.

Local business firms on the whole seem strongly opposed to the proposed toll system on business calls of the Bell Telephone Company. The Board of Trade has all available information on the subject of the proposed increased rates, and the matter will be considered by the Executive Council in the near future.

Most of the large manufacturers are waiting for the decision of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association regarding the matter, and will follow the course which the association advises.

Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, general manager of the De Laval Company, expressed himself this morning as strongly adverse to the toll system, and stated that in the event of the increased rates being granted by the Railway Board, a considerable cut in the number of telephones used would take place, and the Bell Telephone Company's business might suffer.

INCREASE IN WAGES.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Aug. 23.— Substantial increases in wages to employees of Toronto Railway Company, Toronto Power Company and Niagara Power Company are recommended in the majority award of the Conciliation Board. In general it gives six hundred men affected ten cents per hour increase, some however, receiving more and some less. Award is retroactive from June 16 and hour shave been fixed by previous Boards at 44 to 48 for shift employees

WAR VESSELS FOR THE CANADIAN SERVICE

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—Cable advices received by the Naval Department state that the Cruiser Aurora and Destroyers Patriot and Patrician will be in commission on October 1 and will probably proceed to Canada the week following. These three vessels, together with two submarines now in Canadian waters, comprise Canada's new fleet.

COULDN'T GET TAX COLLECTOR.

Nobody desires the position of tax collector in Wiarton. At least that is the finding of the town council after advertising for applications for the position and endeavouring to secure a collector for personal canvass.

There were no applicants and the town fathers were unable to persuade anyone to accept the position. As a result the council, at its meeting last Monday night, decided to have the taxes payable to the town treasurer until after the second instalment is due, and then the names of delinquents will be handed to a regular collection agency for further action. The treasurer will receive an additional $100 for the extra work.

COBOURG HORSE SHOW BEST IN ITS HISTORY

CLOSED SATURDAY WITH MANY INTERESTING FEATURES— KEENLY CONTESTED RACES.

COBOURG, Aug. 23.—With perfect weather for five days, the Cobourg Horse Show closed Saturday, having been the most successful in the history of the association. Its success can in no small measure be attributed to the energy and zeal displayed by the president, Mr. J. D. Hayden and to the indefatigable efforts of the secretary, Mr. J. H. Davidson.

Without a doubt, Cobourg has the best horse show in America, as no finer lot of horses are displayed anywhere. The entries were as diversified as on any of the other four days. The excitement reached fever heat when the high jumping contest was on, in which jumpers from Oakville, Toronto and Kingston participated. Other good classes were the hunt teams (lady and gentleman riders), the unicorns and the tandems and high steppers.

Two Races.

Two races were put on—an open handicap for a distance of one mile on the flat, and a steeplechase for the Arlington-Columbian gold cup, three times around the course, many remarking that the latter was the best race they had ever seen. The roadster pairs were greatly admired. All were deserving of first place, but in the opinion of the judges W. J. Crossen's "Lady C" and "Molly Chimes" were the winners with Black Beauty and Nancy McKay (W. H. Rutledge) a close second. The ladies' outfit, single or double, was a pretty sight. Here the horses counted 60 per cent. and the appointments 40. In the harness horses, there were six entries, and the competition was close, as the quality in each was so good.

Blewitt Wins Again.

Third prize in Class 27 comes to Peterborough, as follows:

Harness horses, 15.2 and under: 1, Flashlight, Crow and Murray, Toronto; 2, Marvel, Ryland H. New, Oakville; 3, Babe Ruth, S. W. Blewitt, Peterborough; 4, Golden Rod, Douglas Ness, Toronto.

SMOKE'S DEFEAT BECLOUDS CHEMONG

There's gloom among the Ojibways at the Chemong reserve to-day. Cable despatches from the Olympic games at Antwerp filtered through to the Indians but without the expected tidings of Albert Smoke who started in the Marathon race yesterday, but was not registered among the first thirty-two who finished in the amphitheatre. Disappointment over Smoke's failure to keep company with the winners was not so keen that the guides at the village were too overcome to row the visiting fishermen over the best-stocked beds.

Dan Whetung said he believed that Smoke had overdone himself in the first 15 miles. "I'll bet he was up with the leaders at that stage. That is the way it was in Hamilton," said Dan. "Smoke is a middle distance runner and few can beat him at 15 miles, but he has not had had enough experience in the longer races. I think he will continue running after this. He is young yet, and should win a lot of races in the middle distances."

STOCK MARKET

(United Press).

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Prices were generally irregular at the opening of the Stock Market to-day. U.S. Steel was unchanged at 88 7-8; United Retail Stores 68 1-8, off 1-8; Texas Co. 47½, off 3-8; Baltimore and Ohio 38½, up 3-8; Pan-American Petroleum 87, unchanged; Reading 89 3-4, up 3-4; Southern Pacific 92 5-8, up 1-8; Studebaker 62 3-4, up 3-8; Mexican Petroleum 160, up ¼; Bethlehem B 76 3-4, up ¼; Vanadium 73, up 3-4; Replogle 53, unchanged.

In the early afternoon the leading speculative issues showed recessions from the day's highs. American Woollen was quiet at 78 3-4, unchanged from the close last week. Woollen shares have been dull recently, despite reports of large earnings.

Replogle stocks were the feature of early trading. Replogle advanced 3 points to 84 after a low touched in the first hour, and Vandium moved up to 72 3-4 after selling at 71 5-8. This strength was based on a report of J. L. Replogle, upon whose return from abroad announced he had landed several large contracts.

EXCHANGE MARKET.

(United Press).

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The Foreign Exchange Market was easier at the opening to-day, with demand sterling $3.595, off ½; francs demand .0707; lire .0464; marks .0191; Canadian dollars .8835.

BRITISH AND GREEK COLUMNS ADVANCING

(Canadian Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 23. — British and Greek columns are advancing in the direction of Eskishehr, seventy-seven miles south-east of Brussa from Ismio area to put down the new offensive which on Saturday resulted in twenty killed, including one British officer, and sixty wounded. Offensive started against the Allies in that sector began Saturday with a surprise attack on Greeks bivouacing fifty miles east of Brussa. French troops are advancing from Aintab, north-east of Aleppo, to attack Marash, thirty-five miles further north-east. Hard fighting is reported.

TWENTY-NINE LOST THEIR LIVES

"I sank deep into the icy water, which evidently brought me to my senses," he said this afternoon. "I thought I would never reach the surface. Then I swam for about 5 minutes and up from the depths came a steamer's hatch cover upon which I climbed and hung for a half hour until the Turner arrived."

Had No Time to Escape.

"I guess God wanted me to live a bit longer," he said, "for where that hatch cover came from I could not figure. The small yawl which picked me up, hunted for a half hour longer to find other possible survivors, but with no result. I would not be surprised if most of the boys were blown to pieces from their places over the boiler house where they had lined up in order to get into the life boats, for wooden parts in the interior of the steel ships were blown clear through the sides, the men on the Turner tell me."

"The captain's alarm signal rang just two minutes before the crash," said Richter. "If we had had two minutes more no lives would have been lost. The crew kept their heads and all waited calmly for the boats to be launched, but there wasn't time. Several of the boats were torn away while the men were attempting to launch them. The boat I was attempting to launch was thrown overboard, carrying me with it."

Night Fairly Clear.

Peter Jacobson, wheelsman of the Superior City, was acting as lookout when the collision occured. He said it was a fairly clear night, with not enough haze to keep him from clearly seeing the approaching vessel. He reyorted to the bridge that the King was bearing down upon them, although the customary passing signals had been given.

"I hoped she would pass by without striking, but sounded the alarm and struck out aft," he said.

Jacobson was not blown away from the vessel, but was carried down with the sunction as it sank. He states that he had a hard fight to clear himself from wreckage and get to open water, swimming for about 20 minutes before being picked up by a boat from the steamer King. He had been struck on the head with a timber and was otherwise bruised.

What caused the King to ram the Superior is not made clear by any survivor or member of the crew of the King, which is lying here with a great stove in her bow. All officers refuse to answer questions. However, it is said that the King's captain is charging that the Superior City swung across her bow in violation of the previous understanding by whistle signals.

Searched All Night.

The true facts will probably be ascertained at an investigation, attorneys for both vessels having been secured here. Captain Sawyer was rescued in open water, clutching a life preserver which he had not had time to buckle on to him, and his second mate, G. H. Lehne, of Chicago, was found clinging to the bottom of a life-boat.

Not a sign was found of any other member of the crew, although the steamer King stayed at the scene all night and was assisted in the search by other passing vessels. Of the entire stream of ships passing the point of the wreck on Saturady not one has reported sighting any wreckage or bodies and it is thought that the explosion ground up the wreckage to such an extent that the flotsam parts were destroyed.

Included among those who probably perished are A. J. Eagles, second engineer and his wife.

The Superior was downbound from Two Harbors with ore and the King upbound.

Despite the statement of Captain Sawyer, of the Superior City, that the night was clear, Captain Herman Nelson and members of the crew of the Willis L. King declared to-day a heavy fog hung over the Asylum.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—I certainly agree with you in your leading article of Saturday that there should be a thorough investigation into the fire department of our city so that the public can have perfect confidence in that useful body. Let the investigation be without fear or favour to any of the parties concerned.

CITIZEN

WHY THIS GENERAL TENDENCY TO STEAL?

Private rights to liberty, rights consistent with the rights of others, and consistent with due regard for public rights, and with the fundamental principle of decency (the sanity line) include private rights to property. The principle of private right cannot be disposed of in part. Private right is a general principle and necessarily refers to all private rights. It includes therefore the private right of property. When the general principle of private right goes by the board so does private right to ownership of property. Then the principle of the community first and the rest nowhere becomes final. The door of the prohibition of the private rights of those who have committed no sin, and of those who when they have done so, are entitled to a fair trial, had no sooner been closed than many proceeded to clean up private property, beginning with potatoes, cabbage, plums, etc. In a few years it will be general. The fact that the special phase of the principle upon which it acts is not recognized by a statute, like the O.T.A., makes no difference. It is the same thing in every particular but that it is not "drink." It is no more a disregard of private right than the O.T.A.

People who meddle with innocent looking weapons sometimes find that they are loaded when it is too late. The propaganda of the prohibitionists involves, as the Pioneer, Mr. Spence's paper, truly said, the disappearance of "private" rights. To those to whom the example of Christ makes no appeal, perhaps this Red danger will appeal. It certainly ought to do so. Even the most self-willed and the least thoughtful must know that this is a fact. Look out for it. There are varieties of Bolshevism, and Bolshevism, all will admit, goes a little too far. The wisest "amongst them" have already taken pause, but the rest are still rushing madly on under able (and highly-paid) leadership. Perfection is not so easily attained as some suppose. It is a difficult matter and involves tremendous consequences. But all bad things carry with them their own destruction. Like the prohibition of the right to private worship, on the ground of the safety of the state, and of the general well being of the people—it is an impossible thing. But what shall be said of those who have lost their faith? Do they think they can supplant God, and the eternal principles which He ordained? Do they think themselves superior to the Saviour? Surely madness can no farther go. If I were a prohibitionist of any thing, and not a regulationist, I could not go on a jury and convict a thief who swore that what he had taken was more to the benefit of himself and family than to that of the owner. If "private right" is not an inviolable barrier in one case it is not in any. The right of the public alone then governs. If so, then let the public help themselves. That is "community-ism or Communism?

Truly we are on the brink of a precipice.

PROGRAMME AT GRAND TO-NIGHT

WELL-KNOWN FEMALE IMPERSONATOR WILL BE FEATURE.

A gowny, girly, figureful diversion entitled "An Adventuress" will bring Julian Eltinge, famed female impersonator, to the screen of the Grand Theatre for a three-days' showing, beginning to-day. As this feature represents the first acting performed by Julian Eltinge in a long time, it is awaited with no little interest and impatience by the many who have enjoyed his work for the stage and the movies.

"The Adventure ss" isa Republic picture directed by Fred J. Balshofer. Others in the cast are such capable and favorite players, as Fred Kovert, William Clifford, Leo White, Virginia Rappe, R. de Valentina, Stanton Beck and Charles Millsfield. The story is by Charles Taylor and Tom J. Geraghty.

Alpania is the scene of the play. For those who must know where Alpania is, let them take the road to yesterday and alight on the shores of the Balsatian Sea. Three young men with more daring than caution take it upon themselves to save the Republic of Alpania from conspirators. The three have more fun in the form of adventures than they bargained for. Julian Eltinge plays the dual role of Fedora and Jack Perry.

"THE LITTLE SHEPHERD OF KINGDOM COME"

Not only children, but their elders as well will be delighted by "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," just brought to the stage in elaborate and sympathetic fashion. This production, representing months of careful preparation and of rehearsal is due at the Grand, Thursday, Aug. 26th, for an engagement of one night only. The cast has distinction in its leading players and each member of the company was chosen from a number of applicants who were carefully considered as to type. George Simpson, Dorothy Dunn, Fay Brennan, James Kennedy, Ralph M. McDonald, and others who are well known in the profession, are in the various roles. The play is of mountaineers of Kentucky, and the love, thrills and the fun of the action are said to be finely transferred from the pages of the nove, to the stage. The sheep dog Jack, who is important in the second act trial scene is said to be one of the most intelligent canines to be seen on the stage.

FIRE DESTROYS ENNISMORE HOME

The house of James Sullivan, of Ennismore, was almost totally destroyed by fire on Saturday. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is believed that it originated from the chimney, as the flames were first noticed on the roof near the chimney. Efforts to stop the progress of the blaze were unsuccessful. The amount of the damage is not known, but it will probably be considerable.

CANADIAN GENERAL CUP HOLDERS AND VETERANS FAILED TO SCORE

GOOD GAME AT THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS ON SATURDAY— THE TEAMS.

Supporters of the Canadian General Cup holders, and the Great War Veterans, spent an afternoon of suspense at the Exhibition Park on Saturday, when the two teams opening the 1920-1 football season, went through the game without scoring. Incidentally it was the second occasion on which these two teams failed to get the ball through the goal, the former being the first Cup game.

Smart work by Griffin and Jones, and by the back division had a lot to do in holding the team scoreless, and throughout it all Bishop's fine playing against the strong attacks made by the Generals, was a big feature. The Veterans introduced a newcomer, Sid Williams, who in playing his first league game, did some nice work. Mann was the only regular missing from the Generals' line-up.

With the second half well advanced, and the spectators calling on their favorites for a score, Norman drove a low shot through the backs and also beat Griffin, but the ball bounded off a goal post and Griffin hustled it out of the danger zone. A matter of inches saved the C.G.E. and cheated Veterans out of a possible victory.

The teams:

C.G.E.—Goal, Griffin; backs, Davis and Williamson; half-backs, Williams, Turner and Bestard; forwards, Maunders, C. Hotston, Parkins, Bartley and T. Hotston.

G.W.V.A.—Goal, W. Jones; backs, Crowe and Bishop; half-backs, Burrows, Ryan and Williams; forwards, Monks, N. Jones, Norman, Edwards and Sharman.

ANITA STEWART PLAYS OPPOSITE ROLES IN LATEST SPECIAL PICTURE

TAKES PART OF VAMP FOR FIRST TIME IN HER SCREEN CAREER, BUT LIKES HER OTHER ROLE.

For the first time in her screen career Anita Stewart apears as a vamp in a motion picture, "The Yellow Typhoon," from the novel by Harold MacGrath, which will be shown at the Allen Theatre to-day and to-morrow.

She plays the double part of twin sisters, Berta and Hilda Nordstrom, the former a striking blonde of the Adventuress type and the latter a sweet brunette with characteristics quite he opposite.

Plays Double.

In essaying the role of Berta, whose golden hair and artful ways leave men broken as the reeds in the path of a storm and give to her the name of "The Yellow Typhoon" Miss Stewart portrays in convincing manner an unusual character part.

"While vamping is something new to me, except from observation," said Miss Stewart, nevertheless I have always felt that I could play such a part if only given the chance, and provided with the proper make up. That is why I jumped at this opportunity to prove to doubters that I could act like a really wicked woman.

Cares not for Vamps.

The blonde wig, the jewels and the clothes I wore made it easy for me to do this part. I will admit, however, that I could hardly care to play a straight vamp role, and the fact is that in 'The Yellow Typhoon' I also played as a twin sister of sweet and wholesome chaacter. Thus it gave me much satisfaction to show this contrast between good and bad.

"No; I have no love for vamps, but I rather enjoyed playing the part because I thought I could reveal in their true light the chaacter of those women who are the greatest enemies of man."

"SLEEPING PARTNERS"

Coming to the Grand, Saturday, Aug. 28th, will appear Edna Goodrich, in a new comedy adapted from the French of Sacha Guitry by Seymour Hicks, "Sleeping Partners," best described as a farce of the Parisian Boulevard. As "Faisons un Reve" it enjoyed a long run in Paris, while in its present form it ran for over a year in London, and also enjoyed a run of over seven months at the Bijou Theatre, New York.

Miss Goodrich will be seen as the charming and willful French wife, and never in her career has she had such an opportunity to display the supreme taste in gowns as in this play. No other actress on our stage can so nearly approach the wealthy Parisienne in jewels, gowns and furs.

PETERBORO RUNNER FAILED TO FINISH IN THE MARATHON RACE

ANTWERP, Aug. 23. — Hannes Kolehmainen, representing Finland, and holder of several United States distance records and championships, yesterday won the seventh Olympic Marathon. He showed wonderful endurance, and covered the distance—26 miles 385 yards—in the remarkable time of 2 hours 32 minutes 35 4-5 seconds, through mud and rain. This broke the old record by more than four minutes.

Among the Canadian contestants in the Marathon, Dellow, whose time was 2 hours 46 minutes 47 seconds, was placed thirteenth and Scholes fifteenth. His time was 2 hours 48 minutes 30 seconds.

Smoke, of Peterborough, the other Canadian entry, was not among the thirty-two who had finished when the timekeeper began to shut up shop.

Faster Than Ever.

The eight years that have passed since Kolehmainen won three championships at the Stockholm Olympics seem to have passed lightly over his head and to have increased rather than diminished his stamina and speed. Through almost the entire distance Kolehmainen was closely followed by Charles Gitsham, the South African, who ran second in the Marathon of 1912, but he wore him down after a long shoulder-to-shoulder duel well ahead of the rest of the field in the latter part of the great contest. The hard pace was too much for Gitsham, who fell back after a plucky struggle to hold second, being passed by Lossman, the Esthonian, and many of the others with the stadium almost in sight.

WOULD ABOLISH MARATHON RACE.

ANTWERP, Aug. 23.—A determined movement has been begun among various national Olympic committees to abolish the Marathon race as the feature of further Olympiads. It is claimed this race is not humane, and a petition to this effect will be presented to the International Committee here. Sponsors for the movement would substitute a 25,000-metre (about fifteen miles) race.

In England a school on motoring has been established for the education of automotive engineers.

LACROSSE TEAM IN A PRACTICE GAME

TRENT VALLEY TOWNS WILL BE REPRESENTED HERE SATURDAY.

This week's intensive practice for Saturday's lacrosse game with Mimico begins to-night with a match between two teams picked from the local players. Manager Sutherland wants all the men out early at Exhibition Park to-night, and is trying to secure Riverside for Wednesday evening's practice. There is a feeling of confidence among the lacrosse fans that Peterborough will win Saturday's game. Several local men who saw the senior game in Toronto a week ago Saturday say that the Sutherland clan would make a good showing in senior O.A.L.A. company and that they have nothing to fear in intermediate ranks. President Todd and his committee are making no boasts. They have had no testing games all summer and decline to estimate their chances next Saturday.

Sticks From Tweed.

That the Peterborough team has the good wishes of the lovers of the game in this district is evidenced by Tweed's co-operation in sending a dozen much needed sticks. Felix Rashotte, telephoning to Jack Sutherland, said he would be glad to forward a dozen for which payment could be arranged after Saturday's game. Norwood, Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock and Tweed will all be represented in Saturday's crowd.

BRIGHTON HAD ENGINE TROUBLE

BALL GAME ON SATURDAY HAD TO BE CALLED OFF.

Owing to a breakdown in the mechanical transport section of the Brighton team, there was no ball game at Riverside Park on Saturday, and the Peterborough Club and a big crowd of fans were badly disappointed. The game was called to start at 3.30 o'clock, but the advance guard of the Brighton outfit did not arrive until an hour and fifteen minutes after that time, bringing with them the news that the car carrying the rest of the team was "stalled" between Port Hope and Peterborough. As there were no prospects of their arrival until the 5.35 G.T.R. from Port Hope came in, the game was called off, and the fans were refunded their admission fees. The regrettable fiasco was, of course, not the fault of the Peterborough team, who are sorry that the crowd had such a long wait for nothing.

ONTARIO NICKEL MINES RICHEST

DISCOVERED WHEN C.P.R. WAS OPENED WEST OF SUDBURY.

Ontario has made Canada to-day the world's foremost nickel producer. The peculiar quality of toughness which nickel imparts to steel has been known since 1800, but general attention was first directed to it in 1889 in a paper published in Scotland.

In 1774 Captain Cook discovered the island of New Caledonia, in the South Pacific Ocean. In 1854, a race took place between a French vessel and an English frigate for possession of this island. The Frenchmen won by a narrow margin, and thus secured a colony which, prior to 1900, dominated the world's supply of nickel; this supremacy, although backed by the finance of the Rothschilds and fostered by long experience and connections, has, since that date, been wrested by Canada, who to-day contribute 80 per cent. of the world's demand and New Caledonia less than 20 per cent.

It was not until the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1883 that a cut was opened up west of Sudbury, which exposed the deposit which led to the development of the famous [illegible] Operations began in [illegible] is now the property of the British America Nickel Corporation. It is estimated still to contain some nine million tons of ore.

The discovery on the C.P.R. right-of-way was rapidly followed by development of other mines, and to-day known deposits are controlled by three companies—International Nickel Co., operating under the name of Canadian Copper Co., a purely United States interest; Mond Nickel Co. and British-America Nickel Co., both British interests. The companies all own or operate mines and deposits in the Sudbury district, where proven contents can be put at 70,000,000 tons, with probable and possible reserves of another million tons. No such vast deposits are known in any other country in the world. New Caledonia, the chief competitor, can claim for her deposits a content of only 600,000 tons.

For years practically all the nickel mined in Ontario was sent out of the country to be refined in the United States and Great Britain. There is a long history of effort by the Dominion Government to interest Great Britain to secure control of Canadian nickel, and attempts to compel its refining in Canada.

A considerable part of the population of the Sudbury district is dependent on the nickel mines. The feeling that this industry should provide the fullest employment to the greatest number of Canadians has been back of the Government's efforts to establish home refining. During the war it was felt that Canadian nickel refined in a foreign country might well find its way into enemies hands, or that the supply of the refined metal might at any time be cut off from the British Empire.

The ultimate result of this situation was the building of the International Nickel Co.'s refining plant at Port Colborne, Ontario, in 1917, and to-day Canada can boast two thoroughly up-to-date refining plants—Port Colborne and Deschenes.—Wall Street Journal.

SEIZES SUPPOSED RANSOM.

Coughlin Attaches Pasquale's Four Deposits Here.

PHILADELPHIA.—Four bank deposits of Augusta Pasquale, the alleged "crank" in the Coughlin kidnapping, were attached. The accounts are in New York banks.

The attachment was obtained by George H. Coughlin, of Norristown, Pa., whose fifteen months' old son Blakley was kidnapped from his home on June 2.

The writs were filed with the prothonotary at Norristown by Major C. Townley Larzelere, counsel for Coughlin. Mr. Coughlin, who on July 14 paid a ransom of $12,000 for the return of his child, previously attached personal property of Pasquale amounting to $6,672. This makes a total of $13,626.

Police now are confident Pasquale alone received the $12,000 ransom paid by Coughlin.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR NORWOOD FAIR GROUNDS.

The directors of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society at a recent meeting authorized the purchase of a strip of land on the south side of their present exhibition grounds containing a little over an acre. The society is also arranging for the erection of a large shed for the shelter of live stock during the exhibition. The new building which is to be erected on the newly acquired strip of ground is to be 75 feet long by 27 feet wide.

Off to a Good Start!

WITH a cheery "Race you to the next corner," away they go.

Father and Mother watch them with admiring affection.

"Great youngsters" chuckles Father approvingly.

Mother smiles at him a little wistfully and then brightens.

"Didn't they look smart, our boys? I'm so glad I bought them Wearbetters."

better suits. They're made just as stylishly as yours are dear, and how they do wear."

Father laughs.

"They need to. Those boys are terrors on clothes. Into every sport that's started. Yes, you had better stick to Wearbetters. They're the only outfit to get a high spirited healthy boy."

Blue's "Wearbetter" Clothes for Boys

Wearbetter clothes are designed for real boys by men who specialize in the manufacture of boys' clothing. They allow for the hard wear and tear an active boy will subject them to, by making them of staunch, strong, materials and reinforcing every seam, every vulnerable part of the garment.

UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

Japanese Advocates Have Not Abandoned Struggle.

(Canadian Press).

TOKIO, Aug. 20.—The advocates of universal suffrage in Japan have not abandoned the struggle and are frequently holding mass meetings in behalf of the project. The speakers denounce the government for turning against the will of the people who, they assert, demand an immediate general franchise.

The House of Representatives was dissolved early this year, following an attempt of the opposition party to introduce a general franchise bill. At a subsequent election the Seiyukai or government party obtained a clear majority.

WOMEN AWAKENS ASLEEP TWO YEARS

Could Not Break Spell Binding her to Another World.

WAUKESHA, Wisconsin, Aug. 23, —Mrs. Clara Jorgenson, Racine, who has been asleep at the county asylum for more than two years, has regained consciousness.

A sister-in-law of Mrs. Jorgenson's visited the institution, bringing with her her six year old son. It is thought that the child awakened the memories in the woman's mind that restored her to a normal condition.

It has been necessary to feed and care for Mrs. Jorgenson as if she were a helpless babe according to Mrs. Peters, matron of the institution. Yesterday she walked, used table utensils and fed herself with ease. She walked a short distance about the ward but returned to her invalid's chair exhausted from exertion, to which she had been unaccustomed.

I could not no matter how I tried, break the spell which seemed to keep me bound in another world in which I lived," said Mrs. Jorgenson, in an interview. She said that although she could not open her eyes, utter a word or move a muscle, she knew each day's events, heard each sword that was spoken to her.

A woman's lips are the rose and her tongue the thorn.

WEDDING BELLS

BROWN—HAZELWOOD.

On July 24, at St. Paul's Anglican Church, San Francisco, the marriage took place between Eva Frances Hazelwood, eldest daughter of Mr. Rowland Hazelwood, formerly of Peterborough, and now of Los Angeles, California, to Lionel Francis Brown, of San Francisco. The bride was given away by her father, and was attended by Miss Kathleen Hazelwood, her sister, and Miss Melba Brown, sister of the bridegroom. Mr. Amos Pendergrast acted as best man. The bride was charmingly attired in a dress of white crepe de chene with silk net over and veil with real orange blossoms. She also wore a diamond pendant, the gift of the bridegroom. The presents were, from bride to groom gold initial cuff links, and from bridegroom to bride a diamond pendant and gold watch.

The happy couple left for an automobile trip through the Southern States.

They were the recipients of many useful and valuable presents, among them being a cheque from the firm where the bridegroom is employed.

THE FIREMEN TALK STRIKE

AN EMERGENCY MEETING WAS HELD THIS AFTERNOON.

"We, the members of the Peterborough Fire Department, have held a special meeting at which it was unanimously decided not to leave the city without fire protection in whatever way the investigation should turn out. But in case we do go out, it will be clearly understood that we will give you 48 hours' notice before we leave. And then we will not leave the city unprotected until everything is cleared up in reason."

Above is the substance of the letter sent to Mayor McIntyre this afternoon by the local branch of the International Fire Fighters' Association, assuring him that the members of the Fire Department will not resign without giving 48 hours' notice, and that in no contingency will they leave the city without fire protection.

The meeting was called at the request of Mayor McIntyre shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon, as among the public there is a belief that a walk-out is likely.

The rumour that several of the aldermen are intending to be "out of the city" to-morrow evening when the matter of investigating the affairs of the Fire Department was not taken kindly, and it was decided to send to Montreal for the vice-president of the Union to help present the case before the Council.

That the dismissal of three firemen will end the difficulties at the Fire Hall was plainly not believed, and Fireman Lebarr stated that Chief Grange had said that there were five more men to be dismissed.

"It's a certain cinch that the axe will fall on other members of the Department," said he.

There will be no strike, but there is certainly a dangerous feeling among the firemen and the resignation of the members of the Department seems to be not improbable should the City Council fail to give the firemen's case proper consideration to-morrow evening.

To a man they support the three men who were, they claim, unjustly treated, and almost every members of the Department has a grievance.

Should the Council fail to give them what they consider fair treatment, the result may be a resignation of the men in a body, although nothing definite as to the action to be taken in the event of such occurring was mentioned at the meeting, and in any event the city will not be left unprotected, as the men would hold themselves ready for the call should a walk-out occur.

"I don't want to see my house burn down or any other man's," Fireman Deegan said, and this was the sentiment of all the men.

BELFAST RIOTERS WERE DISPERSED WITH BATONS

UNIONISTS AND SINN FEINERS MEET IN SHOOTING AND STONE THROWING CONTEST.

MODERATES MEET

(Canadian Press.)

BELFAST, Aug. 24.—Rioting was renewed here last night, most menacing disorder being collision between unionists and Sinn Feiners in Ballymacarrett on east side of River Lagan. Shooting and stone throwing occurred. Police eventually succeeded in dispersing rioters by use of baton.

Police forces who were later reinforced by soldiers also dispersed crowds which attacked two shops in Montrose street.

WRECK LISBURN

LISBURN, Ireland, Aug. 24.—The business portion of Lisburn to-day presented a scene of ruin and desolation as a result of the burning of shops by loyalists in revenge for the murder of Police Inspector Swanzy here yesterday.

During the night the sky was lighted up by flames from the shops of supposed Sinn Feiners, the fires also involving a number of loyalists premises, the private homes of Sinn Feiners were burned, and the furniture carried into the street and ignited. The military authorities have posted a guard over the Catholic chapel.

William Shaw, a local Sinn Fein Councilman, was beaten so severely that he is being detained in the infirmary.

Must Sign Pledge

In most of the business establishments here to-day the workers were required to sign the following pledge "I hereby declare I am not a Sinn Feiner, nor have I any sympathy with the Sinn Fein. I also declare I am loyal to the King and country."

The police have little hope of tracing Inspector Swanzy's assassins, whose escape was well planned.

Irish Moderates

DUBLIN, Aug. 24.—Irish Moderates gathered here to-day to enable every shade of Home Rule Sentiment to unite in statement to Lloyd George relative to future Government of Ireland. Number of Catholic priests were present but took no part in the proceedure.

Resolution was put forward declaring it to be conviction of conference that it is "possible far British Government to secure peace in Ireland by an immediate and binding offer of full national self government, to be accepted or rejected by specially elected representatives of Irish people upon whom shall be laid task of adopting new constitutions suitable to special requirement of Ireland or of any part thereof requiring special treatment." Every speaker declared Ireland wanted peace.

Purchased Residence

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—The Cawthra Mulock residence, one of the largest in Toronto, has been purchased by Dr. Thos. J. Glover, for use as a cancer clinic, according to announcement made to-day by Peter Griffin, President of the Griffin Amusement Co., who is acting private secretary to Dr. Glover, having practically renounced his other duties in order to give his time to that work.

"Dr. Glover is now prepared to go ahead with the work that he has in hand," continued Mr. Griffin, "and to-day nearly three hundred cancer patients received treatment at his hands."

Until a late hour last night, Dr. Glover was busily engaged organizing the work, which is now being organized on a much larger scale than was anticipated a few brief weeks ago when he first made his discovery.

Letters, telegrams and telephone calls are being received at all times from many places in Canada and the United States. All in all the palatial Mulock residence with its crowded rooms and energetic staff is one of the busiest and most interesting places in the city at the present time. The price paid for the Mulock residence was $115,000.

ELECTRIFICATION OF PARIS SUBURBAN RAILWAYS

(Canadian Press)

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Electrification of the Paris suburban railroad service, planned in 1910 and interrupted by the war, is becoming a fact on the state lines and tre program is expected to be completed in two years.

Electric power stations have been erected at several points and wires have been strung on a considerable part of the lines but the electric locomotives and other equipment are not yet ready.

The nearby stations ,at first, will be served by the electric trains and the more distant points by the present steam system. The electrification is counted upon to relieve the band congestion on all suburban lines.

BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE NEAR COBOURG

COBOURG, Aug. 24.—A disastrous fire occurred about 2.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the farm of Mr. Joseph Greer, who resides about two miles east of Cobourg on the Kingston road, near what is known as the Kingston Crossing. From some cause —as yet unknown —the fire originated in his large brick barn, and completely gutted it. His season's crop of hay and 20 loads of wheat were burned. The fittings of the cow stable, a silo and straw shed were also destroyed.

GREAT BRITAIN AND ITALY LIKELY TO REFUSE RECOGNITION TO RUSSIAN SOVIET GOVERNMENT

This Has Been Decided Upon By the Premiers of Both Countries—Ultimatum Has Been Sent to Moscow—French Foreign Office Comment.

LONDON, August 24.—Great Britain and Italy will refuse recognition to the Russion Sovjet Government if it does not withdraw its demand, presented as a part of the peace terms at Minsk, for a proletarian army in Poland. This has been decided upon by Premiers Lloyd-George and Giolitti, who have been meeting since Sunday at Lucerne. The statement given to the press in that city yesterday by the two Premiers declared that they had resolved to defer the resumption of diplomatic relations with the Moscow Government until it withdrew what was described as "this sinister proposal."

It is understood that a virtual ultimatum has been sent to Moscow by the two Premiers, whose decision relative to recognition of the Bolshevik Government is viewed as approval of the stand made against that step by Premier Millerand. The presentation of the clause referred to in the terms of peace laid before the Polish delegates at Minsk, after M. Kameneff, the Soviet representative, had announced that nothing important would be added to the peace conditions made public by him in this city last week, was denounced as a "gross breach of faith" in the Premiers' statement. It was said that negotioations of any kind with a Government "which so lightly treats its word become difficult, if not impossible."

PARIS, August 24.—The French Foreign Office announced to-day that the Government regarded the new attitude taken by Premiers Lloyd-George and Giolitti concerning Soviet Russia and Poland, as due entirely to the United States' note to Italy.

LOCAL FIRE INSURANCE RATES MAY TAKE JUMP

IT WILL BE UP TO THE CITY TO SEE THAT THE FIRE DEPARTMENT IS EFFICIENT.

That the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association will privately investigate the alleged inefficiency of the Peterboro Fire Department, should the City Council fail to take steps toward investigation at the meeting this evening, was the opinion which several prominent local insurance men expressed to the Examiner this morning.

The Underwriters' Association keeps careful watch on fire protection conditions in all cities and any trouble or deficiency is promptly investigated by them, they said. The present situation is no doubt being studied by the underwriters and should the council fail to take action, and determine the Fire Department's efficiency the underwriters will investigate.

The local force is now undermanned by the recent dismissals, dissatisfaction is rife among the firemen and further trouble seems probable in the event of the council failing to give the men what they consider fair treatment. In view of this unsettled condition Peterboro is in a precarious condition as regards its fire insurance rates and unless affairs are investigated and settled soon the city may find itself paying considerably higher insurance rates, the insurance men believe.

AN ADDED PRIZE FOR DOLLAR DAY

$10.00 TO THE SHOPPER FROM THE GREATEST DISTANCE.

Enough additional merchants have joined the list of Dollar Day stores to raise the treasury bonus fund another $10.00. This ten dollars will be made into an extra prize to be given to the shopper who comes the greatest distance and patronizes Peterboro Dollar Day stores on Dollar Day. All that is necessary to win this prize is to tell the merchant from whom purchases are being made, how far the buyer has come, or send in a claim to the Merchants, who can forward it to the Examiner Office, some time before the Wednesday following Dollar Day.

Simply being in the city will not entitle anyone to the prize but it must be shown that the party made a purchase at some Dollar Day Store.

WANT PRICE OF COAL REDUCED

MINERS WILL BALLOT ON PROPOSAL TO CALL A STRIKE.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 24. — The members of the British Miners' Federation began to-day to ballot on the project of calling a strike to enforce their organization demand for an advance in wages and a reduction in the price of coal.

The voting will continue all this week and it will be some time later before the result is known.

It is forecast by the London papers, however, that the miners will vote overwhelmingly in favour of a strike unless their demands are met.

The government has so far refused to consider the projected advance in wages and the reduction of coal prices amounting to approximately $3.50 a ton but the belief is expressed that some way can be found to avoid a tie up of the counry's mining indusrty.

FIRE DESTROYS A MONCTON HOTEL

(Canadian Press.)

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 24. — Fire which started this morning in the Brunswick Hotel here, completely destroyed the two upper stories of the structure; considerable damage was done to the other portions of the building.

The building and contents were estimated to be worth about four hundred thousand dollars.

"RUM RUNNING"

Another Discovery Made in Saskatchewan---Enough Liquor to Float a Ship

(Canadian Press.)

REGINA, Aug. 24.—Rum-running runs riot, according to Assistant Commissioner Tracey of the Saskatchewan Provincial Police, who has returned here from Estevan, Sask., after investigating conditions along the International border. In discussing the situation the police official said:

"Estevan resembles Banff or some other national resort. Day after day the streets are lined with parked automobiles bearing license plates of every state in the Union.

"Rum-running on the border, especiall yfrom Estevan, has assumed huge proportions," declared Mr. Tracey. "With regular line of communications men engaged are clearing thousands of dollars monthly. Minot, North Dakota, alone contains enough liquor to float a ship and is being utilized as a general clearing station for organized gang.

It is not unlawful to carry liquor in cars unless it is for sale or has been purchased unlawfully. Once across the border it is out of our jurisdiction.

CHAMPIONS ENTERTAINED

The members of the Peterborough ball club, with a few invited guests, were entertained at a most successful banquet last night by Mr. Charles Cheu, proprietor of the Class Cafe, Simcoe street, in honour of their winning the Central League championship. It was an affair that those present will long remember, the arrangements made by the host and his staff proving a repast that was perfection itself and the service was unexcelled. Mr. Cheu had spared neither expense nor time in arranging the menu and the result was a banquet that delighted the guests.

Mr. C. S. McLean, secretary of the club, presided as toast master, and around the perfectly appointed table were Manager J. J. Solomon, Howard Kirn, Lornie Rose, "Hap" Harrison, Max Swanston, Bobby Ross, Tommy Holyman, Roy Cherrett, Keevin Murray, Harry Corrin, Ray Rose, "Pete" Adams, Cecil Shaughnessy, Walter Jackson, Jack McCarney, Dr. Marshall, the club's physician, Ward Patterson, vice-president of the O.B.A. A., Umpires Alex. Kay and Edgar Lebarr, Scorer F. D. Craig and Messrs. L. Yeotes and Sid Jackson of the Rooters' Club.

After the repast had been done ample justice to the healths of Manager Solomon and of the host of the evening were drunk and everybody around the table was called upon for a speech. Hearty thanks on behalf of the guests were tendered Mr. Cheu and his staff for their hospitality. A feature of the speeches was the confidence of the squad in their ability to make a strong bid for the Ontario championship, and the harmony that exists among the players. Mr. Kay paid the team a very high compliment when he declared that he had not heard a profane expression from the Peterborough players in any game this season and that Peterborough should be proud of the calibre of the League winners. Mr. Patterson wished them every success in the Ontario contest and assured them that the O. B.A.A. was looking forward to holding its semi-annual meeting in Peterborough.

The club's quartette, Messrs. Kirn, Murray, Holyman and Cherrett, led in the singing of a number of choruses and the happy gathering broke up with cheers for the host.

CANADIAN LABOUR MEN OPPOSE ONE BIG UNION

CANADIAN FEDERATION OF LABOUR OPENS CONVENTION AT HAMILTON—HAS 5,000 MEMBERS.

HAMILTON, Aug. 24.—At the convention of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which opened here yesterday, President Tumpane of Toronto took occasion to state that the federation absolutely repudiated the One Big Union. It did not agree with their principles, he said. To-day Premier Tumpane will make a statement which will deal with the contentious measures to be discussed by the convention.

Fair Wage Officer E. N. Compton is attending the convention to observe the proceedings in the interests of the Federal Department of Labor.

Have 5,000 Members.

The secretary, C. E. Clay, of Toronto, in his annual report this afternoon, showed the federation to have issued 18 new charters during the past year, bringing the total membership to over 5,000. The organization, he said, reaches into five Provinces, and has met with remarkable success among the building trades of Alberta. There are now 40 unions in the federation.

To Get More Unions.

Most of the resolutions proposed so far, and to be given consideration by the convention, are mainly intended to expand the scope of the organization. The President announced that plans are under way to take in more unions located in Quebec Province.

During the afternoon session Chairmen of the various committees were appointed as follows: Resolutions, F. Atrell, Toronto; Ways and Means, M. Netterfield, Toronto; Laws, D. Giroux, Montreal; Officers' Reports, J. Morrison, Toronto.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—Mary Banks aged 16, of 3 Wyatt Avenue, had a narrow escape from drowning while swimming at the foot of Kippendavie Avenue yesterday afternoon. Lifeguard Smith, of the Beach Station, saw the girl's danger, and diving in brought her ashore unconscious. He tried artificial respiration methods, and the girl recovered conciousness in about ten minutes.

MORE MONEY REQUIRED FOR COMPLETION OF THE BRIDGE

SPECIAL COMMITTEE RECEIVED REPORT FROM H. L. SEYMOUR, THE REPRESENTATIVE OF FRANK BARBER—PUBLIC WILL SOON BE GIVEN THE DETAILS.

CEMENT SUPPLY ARRIVES

So often has the Hunter street bridge jolted the Council in one way or another that Mr. H. L. Seymour's announcement last night of the need of another considerable sum to complete the work was received without a trace of reaction. In fact the Bridge committee seemed to be prepared for the report presented by Mr. Barber's representative. On Ald. Morrison's motion is was passed on to the Council's next regular meeting following which the news will be broken to the ratepayers.

The report will have the merit of being as nearly correct an estimate as Mr. Seymour could make.

"We want to give it to the citizens and it should be as close an estimate as possible," said Ald. Whitehouse.

"I have gone over the separate estimates made by Mr. Christie and Mr. Townsend and found that they differed only by $5,000, which is very close considering the circumstances," Mr. Seymour replied.

Ald. Whitehouse and Mayor McIntyre objected that the $5,000 margin was even too wide and asked that the report be worked out to the last possible detail.

Mr. Seymour said that in going over City Treasurer Adams' books he discovered various items, including engineering fees, land damages, interest and sundries amounting to $35,000, which was not included in the contractors' estimate.

Cement Supplies.

After Ald. Morrison's motion was adopted the committee, with Ald. Jones presiding, discussed with Mr. C. J. Townsend some of the phases of the present stage of the bridge work. Mr. Townsend said that thirteen cars of cement had arrived recently and two more were expected. There would be no scarcity when the pouring of the next forms was begun.

Ald. Gainey said he had learned that a married man and a ratepayer had only five days' work in three weeks as a carpenter while youug unmarried men were steadily employed.

Mr. Townsend—I've done my best to keep the best men employed. There has been no favoritism. Sometimes a good man may be laid off, and if any such cases are reported to me I shall be glad to investigate them.

Ald. Crowe asked what wage was paid to Bruce Kennedy, a foreman on the cement work.

Mr. Townsend informed him that Kennedy received eighty cents an hour.

"I'm glad to know that, because reports have exaggerated his wages," Ald. Crowe replied.

Ald. Morrison inquired whether some of the machinery had been sent away.

Mr. Townsend said that two cars of machinery that was no longer needed had been shipped from Peterborough. "When we brought our machinery here we didn't give it to you," Mr. Townsend continued. "We have kept a list of every piece of machinery that has been used on the job, and the Council can learn at any time who owned the machinery and what was done with it. We have sent away machinery used in excavation work because we didn't need it any longer. That is a sign that we are nearing the end of the work."

Mr. Seymour's Position.

Ald. Whitehouse asked whether a motion was necessary to accept Mr. Seymour as the substitute engineer for Mr. Barber.

The committee felt that this was unnecessary.

Mr. Seymour—We agreed on that at the last meeting. I'm here as Mr. Barber's representative to meet the Council whenever they need me. Mr. Barber will be here frequently when the main arch is being poured, but not to meet the Council.

Mayor McIntyre—Mr. Seymour is Mr. Barber's partner and I don't think there is any need of a motion. We all understand the arrangement.

Ald. Gainey asked whether three inspectors were needed on the work and Mr. Seymour said he would inquire into the work they are doing.

BIG INCREASE IN COAL MINES

(Canadian Press.)

BRANTFORD, Aug. 24. — Increase of 35 per cent. in the United States' freight rates, and other increased costs, was given by the local coal dealers this morning as the reason for increasing the price of anthracite coal here from $15 to $19, as was announced this morning.

Merchants Protected

GUARANTEED AGAINST A DROP IN SUGAR UNTIL OCTOBER FIRST.

(Canadian Press.)

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24.— Yellow sugar dropped 35 cents per 100 pounds here yesterday, and is now selling at $21, which is $1 less than the price for granulated.

When asked if a similar drop in price could be looked for in Toronto, leading wholesale grocers stated thta they were assured against a decline of any kind before October 1. T. J. Medland of Medland Bros. said that the refiners had guaranteed them against a decline for forty days. Whether at the end of this period a drop could be ex pected he would not say.

H. M. Cowan of the John Sloan Company explained the drop in Vancouver to the fact that speculators and jobbers were becoming alarmed, and had thrown quantities of sugar upon the market. Speculators who had forced up sugar, hoping to obtain a much higher price for it, were now anxious to secure their money, he said.

Another leading sugar man instanced the case of a manufacturing concern which had 5,000 bags of sugar it wished to dispose of. This it had bought more than a year ago for $12.50, but was now anxious to sell. Could it dispose of its stock at the present price it would mean a profit of about $50,000.

MID-SUMMER DOLLAR DAY

PETERBORO'S BIG SEMI-ANNUAL SHOPPING EVENT WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 25TH.

Peterboro's Mid-Summer Dollar Day is scheduled to take place on Wednesday next, August 25th. To merely announce the date of this great Shopping Event is about all that is necessary to insure its success; for Dollar Day is anticipated with the greatest eagerness by thousands of people in the city and county who make Peterboro their shopping centre.

Dollar Day is a day of profitable shopping. It is the greatest event of its kind during the entire year and citizens have learned from experience that the merchants have bargains in store for them on that day that cannot be obtained at any other time. Because of the uncertainties of the markets at present, many lines of merchandise are difficult to procure and the indications are that prices will be even higher in the future. In spite of this, the Dollar Day Merchants are preparing to offer some genuine bargains for the coming event, which will make the day a boon to the consumer—a fact which the buying public should bear in mind.

As an additional attraction for Dollar Day the Merchants have made up a Treasury Fund of $175 to be given away to the shoppers in sixteen splendid Cash Prizes. Read about the plan in the big advertisement and everybody enter the friendly competition to see who will secure the grand bonus of $50.00 or one of the other fifteen prizes offered.

EFFORTS TO RECLAIM FUEL FROM DEPTHS OF THE OTONABEE RIVER

SLABS AND MILL REFUSE THROWN AWAY SEVENTY YEARS AGO ARE BEING SALVAGED BY WORKINGMEN IN THE NORTH END OF THE CITY—A WINTER'S FUEL SUPPLY.

(By F. H. Dobbin).

Viewing the shores of a sheet of water within fifty miles of the city, up in the northern townships, one is struck with the immense amount of drift-wood flung and piled up on the shores. One small bay of the lake displayed quite enough wood to last the city of Peterborough over a winter and afford a liberal supply to each household. Carried to shore by the wind, forced up by the ice, there is stranded, where they have reposed for years, large trees, the trunks containing cords of good wood. Logs, branches even squared timber from the lumbering days are impounded. Eel creek has along the banks of its thirty-mile course, thousands of cords of drift-wood. Other water courses are so lined and encumbered, especially Jack's Creek and Lake.

With wood selling in the city at the cost that it is, the enquiry is constantly made as to why this storehouse of fuel is not made use of. The material, it is assumed, would be free of cost. To be had for the picking up. But when one considers the expense of getting out, cutting, drawing or teaming to the nearest rail or boat line, it is seen that the cost would be prohibitive. Fuel—wood fuel—while serious in cost, will have to rise to higher limits before the stores of vagrant wood can be tapped. And yet there are untold amounts of wood awaiting handling and use, but beyond the possibility of being made to do service.

Sources of Supply.

And so, driven by the excessive cost of firewood, people of limited means are turning to any possible source of finding wood. Lanes and yards, all over the city, have hardly a board or piece of plank or scantling in sight. Derelict hen-houses defunct sheds, venerable outhouses, have all been sacrificed. The shores of the river, that at times were strewed with kindling wood, have not even an edging left. Board fences, that barricaded the side and back of the house yard have been pulled down and replaced with a wire fence, the posts being used for kindling and the boards for useful purposes. An old house, beyond use as a tenement, was swept away to the last lath and splinter. Only the nails and plaster left on the site. The smallest scraps and fragments of shingle would serve to boil the kettle.

So sources of obtaining wood, never thought of or anticipated before, are being tapped; and we have an instance in sight that tells the story of a wood scarcity. To get this wood involves a sort of submarine work, willingly undertaken for the value of the plunder. It is fishing on a large and heavy scale. But the results are sure, if one sticks at it.

When the locality on the northern edge of the town, known as the Blythe Mills district, was in its prime, the spot was a scene of industrial activity. Located just at the Water Street side of the Auburn dam, now entirely rebuilt and changed, were large saw mills, flour mills, oatmeal mill and a woollen factory. All driven by power from the river, for one had to make use of water power where it was devised. The high hill along which Water Street passes at this point, still shows remains of the stone foundations of the mill offices and a few of the early dwellings. For years the office safe laid among the wreckage of a fire, but the junk man collared the safe long ago.

Slabs Free.

Out in the river, and under the water that flows to supply the power house, at the lower end of the canal to the forebay, lies the foundations and parts of the walls of Peterborough's first water system, built to take water for the pumps and power to drive them, from the end of the old dam. In low water the remains are uncovered. All else is changed. As the saw mills cut large quantities of lumber, and so produced as a side product large amounts of slabs, it was a serious care to get rid of these. They could be had for taking away. None of your light strips and edgings, but big thick slabs, from the outside of the logs. Piling ground was at a premium. So for a long distance up the shore of the river, parallel with the road, these slabs were piled out in the water. Being heavy, they did not require much additional weight to send them to the bottom. Thus was formed additional bases on which to pile the lumber as it came from the saws. In places the successive layers made a bed of from ten to fifteen feet in thickness. Solid and firm and enduring, being kept wet at all times.

To-day these same slabs are being resurrected. Men who know what is beneath the water go at it in evening hours. Making use of a punt, as a base of operations, they fish for slabs. Thrust down a pike-pole, driving the spike into the slab. Sure to strike a fish, for there are many. Drag the slab to the surface, where another hand ropes the weight and then to shore. The process is slow but sure. An evening of work will provide a week of fuel. The slabs are perfectly sound but waterlogged. You find these piled along the bank of the river drying out to be further carted to the yard and cut up. The slabs have that peculiar appearance that remains with soft woods that have been under water for an extended period, for it is nearly seventy years since they were immersed. Sand and other sediment from the water clings to the slabs, and seems to have penetrated the wood. There are thousands of the slabs, all along the margin of the old race-way, and covered by the edge of the river. All will, when dried out, make good fuel.

Little Lake.

In the course of the lumber cutting operations along the river, both at Peterborough and higher up the river, there came a time when to get rid of the mill refuse was a problem. Casting the slabs and edgings into the river was fast filling up the bed of the stream. Little Lake became a sort of industrial morgue, for in its quiet waters all vagrant slabs and drift wood found a haven and peaceful rest. Public action was taken, laws were passed and enforced, for if the mill thrust its debris into the river there was the evidence of the act in the stream of material flowing forth. Then a bright idea came forth. It seemed that if the debris were reduced in size that it would float away, beyond the confines of the town and down the river. It was twenty miles to Rice Lake, and a long stretch of river along which to let the fragments come to rest. A machine, known as a "go-devil" (it was given serted in the bowels of the mill, away down near the water flowing from the wheels, and slabs, edgings, bark, etc., was thrust into the machine to be ground into small chips, much in the same way as material is now ground in a pulp and paper mill. For a time this process looked as if the problem had been solved. But presently it was seen that the chips simply stranded at the first convenient point in the current, sank to the bottom and mixed with sand and silt formed bars and shoals. Sawdust also came to rest, and in times of low water decayed.

As there were no wharves on the town side of the river—for a benificent government had not got to work with appropriations for building of such conveniences—all landing places were around the shores of Little Lake. The end of Lake Street (now Burnham Street) had a wharf. Another, a sort of landing at the foot of Mark Street. In these quiet corners the sawdust and chips settled, and when the side-wheeled steamers "Golden Eye" or "Whistlewing" (all the Calcutt boats were named after game birds, Calcutt being something of a sport himself), began to churn up the waters in an effort to make or leave port, the smell was fearful, and the water turbid. The nuisance became so great that public action again intervened, and, despite the objections of vested interests, mill men were compelled to instal burners to get rid of the mill refuse.

Such logs as now brought to manufacture are puny and small compared with the forest products of the fifties and sixties. No log to-day affords a slab. What is left after getting the merchantable lumber out of the log is made into lath, which serenely sold at $24.00 per thousand last winter. In cutting out a thousand of lath ten times the time is now required to get results from the fragments that have to be sawn.

Household Fuel.

The question of the household fuel, especially for the winter, has assumed in later years an entirely different aspect from what it presented in the times of wood burning. With the advent of coal, wood production and supply slackened off, not that immediately a scarcity of fuel wood became manifested. The earliest deliveries of hard coal in the town sold at about $4.50 per ton, and the convenience appealed gradually to the householder. Coal came presently into general use, and has even extended into the country districts, though most farms still have and maintain, the wood lot from which to gain a supply.

So late as the middle of the seventies provision for winter followed time-honored precedent. Fuel wood was felled in the winter and drawn to town over the snow roads. Most houses had large sheds for storage. The standard was known as "cover dried maple," the finest heating fuel ever devised and the cleanest. Piled in the yards, to the extent of many cords, it had to be cut (sawed) and split and put under cover. Men about town carried on the work of wood cutting as an occupation, some referred to it as a profession. Each had his regular customers, for whom year after year he sawed wood. Early months of the year were devoted to the cutting and the later months to the drying process. So the supply was about one season ahead. The standard remuneration was 75 cents per cord for one cut, $1.00 per cord for two cuts, splitting and piling extra. The wood was fed to stoves, not ranges. The firebox took in a stick not less than twenty inches in length, and often of twenty-four inches. Such stoves are now out of use, though occasionally one comes across the old "high oven" brand, with two fire openings, the second fire-place used when baking. When filled with dry maple and judiciously stirred from time to time, the proudent housewife moved the kitchen furniture away from the vicinity of the stove for fear of a conflagration. Old King Cold had no terrors for that kitchen, even if the water in the upstairs bedroom froze solid during the night. The names of the men who sawed wood were as household words in the community. Nearly all were characters, of which the town seemed to breed many. One in particular may be referred to as typical of the whole tribe.

A Real Character.

He was a little old and dried-up Frenchman) named Gaspar Decroix. At the time referred to he was in the neighbourhood of seventy years of age. Wiry, tough, lean, wizand, but full of activity. Had drifted to town from Lower Canada in the first days of the lumbering operations and rafts running and stayed. From the age of fifteen years he had been a soldier in the legions of the First Napoleon, until that military genius was consigned to St. Helena. Decroix had fought, under General Keleber, in Egypt at the Battle of the Pyramids. Crossed into Italy and took a hand successively at the engagements of Lodi, Mantau and the operations on the Plains of Lombardy. Crossed the Alps in the memorable campaign against the Austrians, and further on went part of the way on the disastrous expedition into Russia. Was wounded and returned to France and went back to his father's farm.

On the return of Napoleon from Elba he joined the eagles of his regiment and fought through the Hundred Days, being present at the major engagements preceding the fall of Bonaparte, and closed his career as a soldier on the field of Waterloo. He was a veteran, if ever one stood in the ranks.

When Decroix was at his wood cutting a boy of the family would scurry home from school, and on a pretence of holding the stick on the saw-horse, sit on the log while the old man sawed. And as he sawed he would tell stories of military life and incident, better stories than Henty, that genius of Boy Narrative ever wrote. Frenchman as he was, if one were to tie Decroix's hands he could not talk. And when he talked he neglected to saw. Occasionally, and as a special favour, he would show the elaborate tattooing that covered his chest, back, arms and extended to other areas. His chest was one mass of names of engagements, fortifications, battles and comrades. Names of sweethearts and generals, dates and locations, gargoyles and griffins, and to show that in another land and under another sun he bore no rancour to his ancient enemy the British, he would pull up the sleeves of his old shirt, and, pointing to each arm, alternately, say "Quen Vactara," and to the other, "Nap-o-lean," thus displaying in a soldierly way that he was ready to speak well of the bridge that now carried him safe over.

Vivid Stories.

Of Waterloo his recollections were vivid but not extensive. For, as he said, he had fought amidst smoke most of the day. His place on the lines faced some of the foreign troops on the other side, and not the British. He saw the final charge of Napoleon's Old Guard and its decimation by the Guards under Wellington. Then the tide of victory rolled over him and he took refuge in a sunken road until night fell. He stoutly maintained, despite history to the contrary, that the battle was won by the Prussians under Blucher, coming up in the nick of time. And he further mourned and maintained that had Bonaparte, that day, taken onto the field the flower of his army that h adbeen lost in the snows of Russia, that the end had been quite different for the Soldier of Fortune was fighting with conscripted levies, young, untrained and inured to battle uproar and losses. However that may be we do know that had the French prevailed that the map of Europe would have been altered and the hands of the clock of civilization turned backward for fifty years, at least.

MOVE TO ESTABLISH A SOVIET IN CANADA

LABOUR GAZETTE NAMES SOCIETIES AND LABOUR CHURCH AS FAVOURING USE OF FORCE.

OTTAWA, Aug. 24.—A move to establish a Soviet Government in Canada is being made by various societies, according to the Labor Gazette, a Government publication.

The article states that the following organizations purpose "to take over our economic system by forcible means": the Socialist party of Canada, International Bible Students, the One Big Union, the Labor Church, the Russian Socialist group, the Ukrainian Socialist group, the Finn Socialist group, the Ukrainian Dramatic Society (Moose Jaw), Ex-soldiers and Sailors' Labor party (Winnipeg), the Union of Russian Workers, Zluka (Ukrainian Bolsheviki), Spujnia (Polish), the Bulgarian Bolshevists, the Pewish Bolsheviki party, the Socialists Revolutionary group ,the Anarchists, Communists and the Communist Labor party.

The article adds by way of comment: "Their policies differ in degree only; almost all repudiate religion."

The article further states a number of these organizations control certain so-called Labor papers, the most influential of which are The B. C. Federationist of Vancouver, Searchlight of Calgary, O. B. U. Bulletin of Winnipeg, Vanpas (Finnish) and French (Montreal), and others in foreign languages.

To show that a close connection exists between "Martens' Soviet Bureau in New York and O.B.U. leaders in Canada, it is stated that appeals are being directed to all O.B.U. units in Canada to contribute to a fund for sending medical assistance to Soviet Russia, and that the Soviet Bureau in New York knows the whereabouts of the O.B.U. branches in Canada. It mentions that many $50 American bills were distributed among foreign workers during the community strike of last years. Excerpts are quoted from speeches of O.B.U. leaders to show that the Winnipeg strike was an attempt for Soviet Government and that the next attempt may be nation-wide.

The Labor Church is stated to be a subsidiary of the One Big Union, the first being formed by the Rev. Wm. Ivens in the winter of 1918-19.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

This year all the playgrounds are uniting for the big Field Day. It is to be held at Queen Mary playground, corner of Weller and Monaghan road, to-morrow afternoon.

Queen Alexandra, Central, King Edward and Queen Mary will all be represented both in the sports and in the exhibition of needle work and basketry.

Commencing at 2.00 p.m. the sports, including baseball, volley ball, races, group games, tournaments, individual contests, folk dancing, singing games, and nursery rhymes will present a fine afternoon's fun.

At four thirty the big Inter-Playground pennant and the smaller playground badges will be presented. The pennant was contested for by each ground and was won by Queen Mary. The badges are given to the six boys and six girls of each ground who were at the top in the season contest for general playground proficiency.

As to-morrow is the big Examiner Dollar Day ,the playground is recognizing it in the following manner: At 1.30 p.m. registration of the children will commence. The first five hundred will receive serial numbers. At 4.30 these will be put in a hat and one will be drawn. The lucky person will receive a fine big box of chocolates.

To-morrow presents a great opportunity for the parents and friends to see the children at supervised play, and to encourage them by coming to see the exhibit of their needle work, etc. Come and have a part in this day by our junior citizens.

MAY BE PAID IN FULL

But Standard Reliance Loan Liquidation May Take Years.

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—The Standard Reliance Loan Corporation enquiry will be resumed in September or as soon as possible after the long vacation at Osgoode Hall.

Col. W. S. Dinnick may not be examined again, as his health is said to be poor. It is reported that he has gone to England to live.

According to F. C. Clarkson, the financial expert, the receiver hopes to pay creditors, depositors and debenture holders in full, but liquidation may take years.

He does not look to shareholders to receive anything on their investment. Creditors under $25 have already been paid off, and considerable "compassionate allowances" made. The liabilities at the time of liquidation were: Depositors and deposit receipt-holders, $1,248,000. Debenture holders, $4,024,578. The share capital of the defunct corporation was given a $2,644,020.

HYDRO RADIALS.

The Hydro Radial controversy continues to hold its place in the news columns of the daily papers, interest being stimulated by the fact that some of the Labour members of the Ontario government do not see eye to eye with Premier Drury in the stand that he has taken in this matter. Hon. Mr. Drury has been referring to the question at a number of public gatherings in different parts of the province and has steadfastly defended the action of his government in appointing a commission to investigate the radial question before the government takes any definite steps in the matter. That seems a sound business-like position for the Premier of the Province to take and there is no justification in the attempt that is being made by some of the over-zealous Hydro enthusiasts to show that because Mr. Drury decided to have the project thoroughly investigated he is hostile to the whole scheme. Nothing will be lost by the inquiry for it will either save the province from embarking upon a dubious enterprise or it will demonstrate that the Hydro scheme is sound and has bright chances to succeed. There is little logical ground for complaining about the inquiry for if the radial scheme is as promising as its advocates claim the commission will undoubtedly report to this effect and the government will lose no time in acting upon their finding. And if it is proven not to be reasonably sure of success the present is the proper time to ascertain that fact.

THE PLAYGROUNDS.

With the closing exercises and the presentation of the championship flag to Queen Mary playground to-morrow the activities of the local supervised playgrounds for this season will practically come to an end. If there was any doubt as to the value of these playgrounds the success of the present summer has entirely dissipated it, parents as well as children uniting in their praises of the work that has been carried on by the Playgrounds Association. With the new equipment that was added this year and the splendid staff of supervisors who early won the affections and esteem of the children, the past two months have been very pleasant for the little folks, who have gained in health and in knowledge as a result of their frequent attendance at the grounds. There have been more youngsters than ever at the various play centres and greater interest and enthusiasm shown in the daily activities and in the well arranged programme of athletic contests. The supervised playgrounds have come to stay; they have won their place in the confidence of the public and next year financial support should be readily forthcoming. The little coterie of public-spirited citizens who launched the Playgrounds Association a few years ago have every reason to feel proud at the result of their efforts.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR.

In referring to the report issued by the Department of Customs recently by which it was shown that for the months of April, May and June, exports of Canadan products were $109,066,879 less than the imports into the country for the same period, the Examiner the other day urged this disturbing report as a reason why Canadians should confine their buying as far as possible to Canadian products. The exchange situation emphasizes this advice, for while in August of last year the premium of New York funds when purchased with Canadian currency was four per cent. this year, in spite of bigger agricultural production and the prospect of a considerably larger exportable surplus of grain from the current crops, the premium has been ranging from 12 to 13 per cent. There is no immediate prospect of any betterment in this condition, nor will there be until imports into Canada are curtailed and exports increased to the maximum. In fact unless this is accomplished economists look for the discount on Canadian money to attain a considerably higher level.

The trade situation is highly unsatisfatcory from a national point of view and it cannot be too strongly emphasized that Canadians should:

1. Buy Canadian-made products in preference to goods of non-Canadian origin, patronize Canadian railways, Canadian insurance companies, Canadian shipping, and, generally, to keep Canadian money in Canada;

2. Limit imports to absolutely necessary commodities;

3. Develop Canadian natural resources so as to make this country economically self-sufficient to the greatest possible extent;

4. Stimulate investment of Canadian and imported capital in industries which will help to relieve Canada of the necessity of importing on so large a scale as at present and to provide a surplus of Canadian products for export; and

5. Encourage the final processes of manufacture in this country so as to save payment to foreign labor and foreign capital for manufacturing goods which could advantageously be made in Canada from Canadian raw matrials by Canadian workers.

THE SCRAMBLE FOR HIGHER WAGES.

According to Mr. Thomas Geggie, special correspondent of the Toronto Daily Star, there has been a marked change of thought among the British working classes since the English Labor party's deputation returned from Soviet Russia. One of the most noticeable results is that the scramble for wages has been halted in Great Britain.

In the past, British trade unionism proceeded on the assumption that every rise in the cost of living justified a sympathetic increase of wages whether or not industries were capable of bearing the strain. Recently the Arbitration Court called a halt to the perpendicular increase in wages, pointing out that industry was already paying the last farthing it could afford for labor charges. There is no surer way of bringing industry to an end than to heap on it burdens which it is unable to bear.

These side lights thrown on labour conditions in Great Britain are of value to Canada as we are now confronted with demands on the part of railway employees for increased wages, while requests from other labor organizations for more pay are being contemplated. There is undoubtedly a limit to what industry can pay out in the form of wages. If an article sells in the open market for $1 it is obviously impossible to pay wages for its manufacture or transport amounting to more than the selling price of the commodity. It is impossible to produce $1.50 in wages from articles which only bring $1 in the open market. You cannot get a quart out of a pint measure.

The effect of these increased wages and the increased freight rates upon the cost of living has not been sufficiently emphasized.

The Board of Commerce has already established the right of the merchant to add a profit of 33 1-3 per cent. as his share of doing business. The merchant receives food stuffs or manufactured articles on which the railways have added 40 per cent. increase in freight rates. The merchant adds his 33 1-3 per cent. to the total cost of the goods and every wholesaler, retailer or other party handling the commodity, adds his percentage to the cost, wit hthe result that by the time the food or clothing reaches the consumer the enhanced cost is not 40 per cent. but nearly 100 per cent. It is just the commencement of a vicious circle which eventually engulfs the man who first secured the increased wage.

"LOOK AT HIM TO-DAY"

The first week he was here he began to train for the job ahead by studying in spare time with the International Correspondence Schools. Inside of six months he got his first promotion. But he kept right on with the I. C. S. I tell you, a man like that is bound to get ahead. Some day he'll be head of the Company. You've got the same chance he had, young man, and if I were you, I'd follow his example. Take up some I. C. S. course and do it right away. Use your spare time. Study. Whatever your chosen work may be, there is an I. C. S. Course that will prepare you right at home for a better position with bigger pay.

The farmers of this country have been raising the claims of the railways for an increase, but if their side of the case is ignored by the Railway Commission, they must carary their appeal to the Supreme Court or to the Governor-in-Council. They simply cannot afford to allow the railways to add 40 per cent. to present freight rates.

FANS DEMAND BATTING.

Walter John Says Hitting is Paramount Issue in Baseball.

Contrary to the belief obtaining among most pitchers, Walter Johnson, for twelve years one of the greatest hurlers the game has known, is of the opinion that hitting and not pitching is the paramount issue in baseball. He believes that the fans want to see hitting. This in spite of the fact that he has made himself famous and has earned a big salary for checking hitting. While recently discussing the increased batting this year Johnson said:

"There has been an unusual amount of hitting this season, but it is not solely because pitchers can't roughen the ball and discolor it. I think the principal item that threw the balance in favor of the batter was the cold, late spring. A spring such as we had this year holds up the development of a pitcher's arm, and it does not attain its normal effectiveness until long after the opening of the season. With this condition prevailing the batters had comparatively mediocre pitching to face, and their ringing hits followed.

"Then there was a lively ball at the start of the season. No one ever actually announced it, but it is the truth. The outfielders were playing out against the fences for mediocre hitters and every one was hitting the ball hard. I think that the lively ball had been withdrawn from play now, but there is no doubt in my mind that it was used earlier in the season. That is not my opinion alone: it is the opinion of most of the players in the league.

"Then the rules against roughening the ball, or discoloring it, have helped the batter some. It is no more than right. With a ball that it cut, shined or discolored, any one can pitch. It takes no ability. A schoolboy can pitch effectively against a major league club if he is permitted to slash the ball to suit his fancy. It is next to impossible to hit a ball that has been 'scuffed' when it is thrown with great speed. Now, when a ball 'sails' it is immediately withdrawn from play. It brings in a new ball constantly and helps the game.

"There is no use denying that it is hard to curve a new ball. But hitting is the big thing in baseball. In fact, it leads to all the baseball there is. In a 1 to 0 or 2 to 1 game you see two pitchers, and possibly some fielding. In an 8 to 6 game everything that baseball holds is displayed. There is hitting, fielding, base running, pitching and an inside pal yor two. Where the advantage is constantly shifting the interest in the game is maintained, and such a contest is one that holds it.

"By a great deal of hitting I do not mean a game in which the score is 10 to 3 or has some such one-sided result. Then, of course, interest is lost unless the home team is winning. But where the advantage changes hands several times and not more than two or three runs separate the teams, I believe the public prefers the hitting much more.

"Take the individual hitters, for instance. 'Babe' Ruth draws more people than a great pitcher does. It simply illustrates the theory that hitting is the paramount issue of baseball, and that the public wants to see it."

A STINGING FLEA.

That "little fleas have lesser fleas upon their backs to bite 'em," was amply proved during the first rush of note-holders to recover their money from Charles Ponzi, Boston's self-styled foreign exchange operator. An impressive personage fought his way past the waiting line and declared to Ponzi that he believed in him and wanted to deposit $5000 with with him. Ponzi accepted a cheque on the National Bank. Later in the day the same personage again fought his way into Ponzi's presence, declared that he had heard disquieting stories, and asked for the return of his money.

"Certainly, give him a check," ordered Ponzi.

"If you are as solvent as you claim," rejoined the impressive one, "prove it. Give me cash."

"Certainly," snapped Ponzi, and handed over $5,000 in currency.

The next day, the check was returned from the National Bank, "no funds."—Wall Street Journal.

WILL LIBERATE FIVE HUNDRED PENAL PRISONERS

(Canadian Press)

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20.—Bearing orders for the liberation of 500 prisoners in the penal colony on the Marias Islands, off the west coast of Mexico, two physicians named by Provisional President Adolfo de la Huerta shortly will depart for the colony, with orders to establish sanitary conditions on the islands.

In a recent interview, Gilberto Valenzuela, sub-secretary of the interior, declared that these 500 prisoners were sent to the islands to satisfy the personal vengeance of certain individuals influential during the administration of President Carranza.

"Hereafter, persons actually convicted of elony will be sent to the islands, but not those whose cases have not been heard by the courts," Senor Valenzuela said. "Furthermore, more attention will be paid to the prosecution of thieves on a large scale—such as paymasters who have absconded with funds entrusted to their care, and other dishonest public employes."

RICE POPOVERS

Beat two egg yolks, add a cup of milk, a tablespoon of cold boiled rice, a cup of flour and the stiffy beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in popover rings. Serve at once.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

"Ah, but I know what she'll say to me," she thought, "and I can't, I can't go on with Andrew! It isn't a question of duty— of self-respect; it was a blunder—a blunder, when neither of us realized what marriage meant. Besides, if I did wish to go on—it is too late. It wouldn't be fair to Andrew!"

Yet she thought many times of what Claire had said, seeking for some qualifying excuse. Why had she been brought up to believe that she was a privileged person? Why had she been taught life was the pursuit of pleasure? The harm had been done before she had even married Andrew on her, when she had lived the disorrobe of a princess had been lavished on her, whn she had lived the diorganized life of a demimondaine, when week in and week out she had burned up the night until four, five and six o'clock in the morning, and that ceaseless, tumultuous cramming into the first months of all the pleasures and surprises that should be spread through life, had left in her the fatal heritage of excitement, a craving to go on, the horror of being alone. The pursuit of pleasure; that was all she had been taught—that was all she knew!

At times when she saw her own figure clearly she shuddered. What was she to do? Be selfish, be weak, hold to her respectability and Andrew? Suffer the sting of humiliation and see Monte Bracken, with his fine scorn, go out of her life? Pick up the old threads, play the old, inconsequential games again and again? Find new admirers? Be a little more clever in keeping them outside the bars that would protect her timid conscience? Or would she have the strength to set Andrew free and marry Monte Bracken, defiant of the world, but proud in her self-respect?

'But do I love him—really love him, as real women love?" she asked herelf in the distress of her mind. "Am I capable of loving any one?"

And there her debating with her conscinece always ended.

On the day of the race she had not yet found her answer. Kitty and the boys, who were down for the week end, had gone over, leaving her to the solitude of the house. Yet something Jap had said had remained in her memory.

"Holy cats, if they race in this gale, half of them will go down!"

Race? They won't race! They aren't lunatics!" Tody had replied.

She knew enough of Monte's daring nature to know that no risk would hold him. She went uneasily out on the little porch which gave from her bedroom. Te wind howling around the corner, tearing the flower bed with its raking fingers. Above, the swollen clouds went bowling down the stormy heavens, and across the bay white lashes fell upon the angry back of the waters. It wasn't possible that they would let the race go on! And if they did? If Monte went out in bitterness and despair?

The thought struck her cold with fear. She dressed frantically, and jumping into the car, hurried to the clubhouse. She had hardly reached the crowd before the starting gun boomed out. The next moment the Water Sprite and the White Streak gunwales awash and skippers high in the sky, were sweeping over the line.

Those who saw the race never forgot the suspense of those short hours It was a foolhardy thing to attempt in the gale that was shaking the sky and before the first leg was run, all but Challoner and Bracken had refused the risk and had come staggering back to harbor. The wind was blowing drumming puffs, —a gale from the northeast. The first leg was a reach, close hauled. From the clubhouse top where the crowd, braving the flurries of rain was massed, the two boats could be seen rushing over the crested waves. At times in the hollow of a trough, one or the other momentarily sank from sight, and each time as the white sail climbed out and up, a sigh of relief came from the crowd.

Amy stood without cover from the occasional splashes of rain, encased only in a tarpaulin which some one —was it Tody, or was it Jap?—had thrown about her. She needed no one to tell her of the game with death which was being played out there. The quiet, the muttered solicitude of the crowd, the long, unflagging tension, told her all. Monte was out there in the agony of the storm. What had she been in his going?

"Turning the first buoy now," said a low voice.

"Who's that around?"

"The White Streak—no—yes!" said some one with a telescope.

"Monte's around, too," said Allan Bracken with a terribly calm voice

"That's over—one third's over!" said Claire.

"One third's over," Amy found herself repeating. She understood nothing of the comparative danger of the different legs but she could understand that one third was over—one third!

She was standing between Claire Bracken and Irma Dellabarre, drawn by a common feeling of impending doom, the instinct of the animal when the breath of death passes in the air. Their faces were white and staring, too—yet she was not conscious of them. Once, at a cry from the crowd, she swerved against Irma without noticing it. One thought obsessed her. Could she control herself, even—even if the horrible thing should happen? Could she stand there, as she must, without crying out and revealing all? She shut her eyes. Why was not the second third over? Far off, two white specks, like handkerchiefs, are dipping in and out of the whipped sea, lost in a sheet of foam.

"Why don't they get nearer?" she said helplessly.

"Second leg, the tack takes longer," said Claire.

"It's the last, the run home is the worst," said Allan under his breath.

"What do you mean?" she asked sharply, turning to scan his face.

"The last is running before the wind," he explained laboriously. "Danger is—"

"Hello!" some one shouted. "By George! Thought he was over that time!"

"Danger is," continued Allan Bracken, "in possibility of jibing, and they're both carrying too much sail—"

"The Water Sprite's held her own this leg!" said a voice.

"They'll both make it on this track."

"Wow! There she goes!"

"Who's around?"

"The Water Sprite, by Jove!"

"Look at the wind grab her."

"Mast won't hold—never in the world."

"The White Streak's around!"

"She'll pick up the distance now!"

"Look at them come!"

"Two thirds—two thirds gone," said Claire; then to her husband, "Is this, the last leg, really the worst?"

"Yes," he said shortly, "with Monte at the wheel!"

Amy closed her eyes, afraid to look. A prayer went up in her tortured mind. If only he would come back safely—only back to life again, she would come to him openly. Anything rather than to have the horror of remorse on her conscience!"

"Topsail's gone—torn to tatters!"

"Whose?"

"Water Sprite."

From the bending peak the split sail streamed out in white jets. The Water Sprite was carrying too much sail, much too much sail for a gale as this, but it was her only chance to win, for the White Streak, bigger and steadier, was running away from her. At times the booms went soaring into the air, threatening to jackknife, and each time an involuntary cry went up from the waiting spectators. Amy stood, eyes shut, unable to face the suspense of the awful last moments, feeling the perilous approach from the excitement about her and the voluble comments

"What the deuce is Monte standing in for like that?"

"He's pulling up."

"Sure, but he can't make the mark without going around, and then where'll he be?"

"That's true, but he's figuring on some time allowance."

"Even then, the White Streak will be over before—"

"She's over now," cut in some one, as a gun boomed out and some mechanical voice announced "12:42 exactly."

"By George, Monte's sailed a great race!"

"Yes, but he hasn't a chance!"

"Glory Hallelujah! Look at the White Streak run!"

The White Streak, first over the line, swept like the flash of a searchlight into the harbor, running wild, the crew bailing desperately, Challoner cramped aga'inst the wheel. Down the course the Water Sprite, which had make the second buoy a minute behind its handicap, came tearing over the frothing sea, carrying every inch of canvas that the mast would hold. And presently Montes intention became plain.

"By the Lord Harry, he's going to jibe!"

"In this gale? Never!"

"He is—he's going to jibe! Watch him!"

"Good-by, Monte, then."

Something beyond Amy's control forced open her eyes. She understood that this was the decisive moment. She looked down over the slated roofs, beyond the neck of land into the yellowish sea, into the saucer of fury, where the Water Sprite, like an inhuman, frightened monster, was rushing on. She could see the crew bailing frantically, she could see even his face, a white smutch in the rushing confusion. He was going to attempt something, something foolhardy and like Monte Bracken, the dramatic. And the next moment it came. In order to pick up precious seconds and not to pinch her, Bracken had come down under full sail to the leeward of the mark. To come around and take his sail on the other side and thus around the mark, meant the loss of the seconds he needed. One hundred yards from the finish he prepared to jibe her in a gale that was blowing thirty to thirty-five miles an hour.

Some one, in the tension of the moment, grabbed Amy's arm in impulsive excitement. A shout went up, as the sail, under the deft handling of the crew, came slowly in.

"Look out—look out now!"

"Here she comes!"

"Wow!"

With a report like a cannon the sail shivered, jibed and filled, shaking the boat as though it were a leaf. They heard Monte's shouted oath in the wind. The next moment mast, sail and all went by the board! A cry went up from the onlookers. Irma Dellabarre fell against her heavily and slipped to the floor. What had happened ?Amy saw, her and then her eyes met Claire Bracken's.

"What's happened? Is he—is he dead?" she said, staring at her.

"I don't—I can't see!"

"Man overboard!" cried a voice.

"No, no! I can make them out—they're all there, I think—one, two—four—five!"

"Boat's smashed to hell, though!"

"Clean ripped to pieces."

A piece of the sail whipped into shreds, slapped up against the roof, rose and slid away over their heads, a thing that a moment before had been over his head. The Water Sprite, with the crew clinging to its sides, drifted slowly over the line—half a minute too late!

"Is—is he safe?" she said faintly.

"Yes, now he is safe," said Claire quietly.

And again, woman to women, they looked into each other's eyes, while about them, relieved of its tension, the crowd grew vociferous.

"By George! Just made it at that!"

"Another five minutes and they'd have sunk."

"Spunky devil."

"Fool thing to do."

"Bet up, I suppose."

RIEL REBELS FIRED THE FIRST SHOT IN REBELLION

(Canadian Press)

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 19. — What appears to be the original declaration of a corporal of the Royal North West Mounted Police establishing the fact that the first shot fired in the hostilities between the police and the Riel rebels in the Duke Lake country in 1885, was fired by the rebels, was brought here recently by W. H. White, of Winnipeg.

It is a single sheet of foolscap, signed by Hugh J. A. Davidson, corporal, Royal North West Mounted Police, who was a member of the party that accompanied Major Crozier to Duck Lake in March, 1885, stating that he distinctly heard a shot fired from the rebel ranks before Major Crozier gave his men the order to fire. The declaration was made at Prince Rupert on May 30, 1885, and attested by Stephen Brewster, a notary public.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff, and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

KING WON'T PAY HIS TAILORS INCREASE

LONDON, Aug. 23. — The Royal family, headed by the King, are continuing their efforts to support the price-cutting movement and are instituting reductions throughout the whole personal household.

The King, desiring to replenish his private wardrobe, sent for the Court tailors, with whom he closely discussed prices. The tailors' estimate for tweed and lounge suits was $80. The King declined to pay more than $60, which the merchants would not accept.

The King accordingly has decided to cut out the usual special autumn suiting orders, and has purchased six ready-mades at $36 each.

ANY "CIGARETTE LADY" PORTRAYS FASHION TREND ACROSS BORDER

"Oh, it's home again, and home again
America for me;
I'm bringing style from Eastern lands—
From China and Indee.
I bring the Arab's wooly shawl and coolie's flowing sleeve;
And in U. S. I'll have the gall to profiteer from these."

NEW YORK. — Fall fashion has its Far and Near East problem. Shall the serpent of the Nile be the season's favorite daughter and shall slinky, vampish robes of gorgeous hue be Style's demand, or shall Helen of Troy with white, flowing and corded raiment be the model that the times demand? Whateve the solution, today's indications as seen in the smart shops of Fifth avenue or in the tawdry shops of the Bowery are that nothing in the realm of feminine raiment will be au fait for the coming season unless it bears some earmarks of the Orient. Said earmarks may be almost literal, for one eastern note is seen in earrings that dingle-dangle from many smart lids. Fall millinery fabric itself is exotic with rich stuffs, such as abound in Arabian nights lore. here are rich brocades of purvle or dusky rose, lustous satins of Algerian blue or Chinese crimson, stiff ribobns of metallic thread interwoven with flower, bird and butterfly designs, and even velvets embossed with rich embroideries in gold or silver threads or encrusted with seed pearls or rhinestones. And from these gorgeous hats hang earrings of wooden beads in startling hues or of black jet, or real sparkling gems.

Suits are heavily reinforced until they resemble the coronation robe of some faiyland prince. Wool and silk, metallic threads, jewels, colored hemp or painted designs are used in working out this effect. Many of the suits and coats have the sleeves fairly embossed in embroideries and all over embroidered bodices are very common. Some of the suits may be quite plain and simple in themselves, but are flecked by the Oient with a vest of some gorgeous fabric or a neck chain sold with the suit. Even appliques of black oilcloth are strewn over many garments and hats are profuse with these oilcloth splashings in gay colors.

A jungle effect is supplied by tufts of monkey fur which is the most modish trimming of the season. Goats' beards are also hung about the collars of many suits and coats, giving a bona-fie :bearded-lady effect.

Even the lines of the new dresses, suits and coats are taken from the east. The prevalent, sackish line of the new coats is a direct adaptation of the Arab's burnous. Dresses display the bolero as taken from the uniform of the Balkan soldier and the flare line of the new suit coats is taken from the uniform of the Greek soldier.

Evening gowns are very much a la Cleopatra. Black net embroidered in an all-over scroll pattern in black silk is very popular and the gay Oriental not is given by a rich girdle of velvet or satin in many colors. Many of these girdles and sashes extend into a train. Some of the trains are wired up so as to form a canopy behind Milady. Dolores of the famous peacock gown is held responsible for this fad—another folly for which the Follies may be blamed.

Shoes and hose are embossed in color and crusted with jewels until an American lady on a New York hotel dance floor looks like a direct Egyptian importation or a lady from a cigaette package.

"Dardanella" is the tune demanded by these dancers.

CORN SALAD

Cut the pulp from three ears of corn, chop one green pepper, one small onion and two tomatoes. Arrange the vegetables in alternate layers in a baking dish, add salt and pepper, a teaspoon of sugar and pieces of butter. Bake twenty-five minutes and chill. Cut in slices and serve on crisp lettuce with a dressing to which has been added a tablespoon of cottage cheese.

THE HOME CIRCLE

God give us men. A time lige this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands;
Men whom the lust of office does not kill,
Men who the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor—men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And scorn his treacheous flatteries without winking;
Tall men sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty, and in private thinking.

A visitor from another world might get the impression that worry is our dearest friend instead of our deadliest enemy. Did you ever hear of any good coming to a human being from worry? Yet worry is a visitor at every wedding and funeral and is a guest in every home. There may be some excuse for a man to worry over some inevitable happening yet even in this instance worry will not help the matter any. But the most foolish thing is for a man to rob himself of his peace of mind, his strength and ability to work, by dissipating his nervous energy over anticipated troubles which never come.

Worry is as much a habit as the drug habit and just as deadly. Don't indulge it. Most men who have failed in their business have been mental failures first. Don't cramp your ability by useless fretting. Do the best you can. More than that is not expected or demanded.

Character is a record of our thoughts and acts. That which we think about most, the motives which are uppermost in our minds are constantly solidifying themselves into character. Consequently we should keep a guard at the door of our thoughts and see that only the best thoughts enter. Immoral thinking sooner or later makes immoral men and an immoral man, though he practices his immorality secretly and retains the respect of his fellow men, loses his self-respect which is his dearest possession.

The world is beginning to learn that there is a close connection between the moral faculties and the physical health. Absolute purity of one's thought and life means good health, good thinking and good work.

To return to our Maker at the close of life our body scarred and worn by immorality and heedlessness instead of the beautiful body He gave us, is a most ungrateful return for a life of wonderful opportunities.

FAM-LY-ADE
For the Children

YOUR children will love the cooling, fruity tang of FAM-LY-ADE. Give it to them often. Your grocer or druggist sells FAM-LY-ADE in a handy glass tube—enough for 32 glasses. It costs but 35c. Simple directions on every package. Made in Canada.

It has been said that from the same materials one builds palaces, another hovels, one ware houses, another villas, bricks and mortar are mortar and bricks until the architect makes them something else. The block of granite which was an obstacle in the path of the weak becomes a stepping stone in the path of the resolute. The difficulties which dishearten one man only stiffen the sinews of another, who looks upon them as a mental spring board by which to vault across the guif of failure to the sure, solid ground of success.

There are some people always looking out for slights. They cannot pay a visit, they cannot even receive a friend, they cannot carry on the daily intercourse of the family, without suspecting some offense is designed. They are as touchy as hair triggers. If they meet an acquaintance on the street who happens to be pre-occupied with business they attribute his abstraction to some motive personal to themselves, and take umbrage accordingly. They lay on others the fault of their own irritability. A fit of indigestion makes them see impertinence in everybody with whom they come in contact. Innocent persons who never dreamed of giving offence have their momentary taciturnity mistaken for an insult. To say the least the habit is unfortunate. It is far wiser to take a morer charitable view of our fellow beings, and not suppose a slight is intended unless the neglect is open and direct. After all, life takes its hue, in a great degree, from the color of our own mind. If we are frank and generous, the world treats us kindly. If, on the contrary, we are suspicious men soon learn to be cold and cautious in their dealings with us.

Unselfishness brings us certain dividends which no condition of the market can depress.

Insincerity in word or act has never gained anything permanent in business, friendship or love.

WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS.

Is men with souls of God-like mould,
Fearless, as Gideon of old,
To nobly stand in manhood's might
For God and freedom's sacred right,
With righteous zeal aflame to go
And lay Baal's alien altars low.

Men, who the high browed haughty frown
Of purblind factions cannot down,
Who follow, not the thronging train,
Of those whose gods are golden gain,
And will not bend, how ere it be
At Mammon's shrine, the servile knee.

Men, who would scorn that deed of shame
The shirkers, unearned wage to claim,
And do not shrink to venture all,
They hold most dear at duty's call,
With honor for their deathless creed
For men like those the world has need.

Is Plenty of Sleep a Waste of Time

WORK is pressing. Every man has about twice as much on hand as he ought to be asked to do.

Few men sleep long enough—or soundly enough. Even if there is nothing else to keep them awake, the average metal or wooden bed creaks just enough to prevent the nerves from complete relaxation.

* * *

IT IS wonderful how the right kind of Bed Spring invites perfect relaxation and deep, sound sleep—and what a difference the right Bed, Mattress and Pillows can make.

The good spring is taut and flat, yet resilient. It supports the body at ease in any sleeping position—conforms to the contours—never weakens, humps or sags.

The sleep-inducing Spring is a Simmons "Waldorf," of specially tempered spring coils. Fine springs that fit the contour of the body and support the spine in a straight line, insuring perfect circulation and restoring the energy used up in the fatigue of the day.

Simmons Felt Mattresses are the result of twenty-five years' study of equipment for sound, natural sleep. Made of pure, new cotton in clean, sun-lit factories. Used in thousands of fastidious Canadian homes.

And Simmons Pillows, which rest the head and neck exactly as they need to be rested.

Simmons Limited is the maker of really noiseless Metal Beds—beds that stand sturdy and firm—not a shake, creak, or rattle anywhere.

* * *

IF YOU know only wooden beds or ordinary metal beds and springs—ask the leading merchant in town about Simmons Metal Beds, Brass Beds, Springs, Mattresses, Pillows, Day Beds and Children's Cribs.

They are built for sleep—yet they cost little if any more than the casual merchandise of the ordinary store.

And when you are selecting your Simmons Beds with an eye to their appearance in the room, you will see that Simmons has for the first time established beautiful and authoritative design in Metal Beds.

Sleep is a big subject. Write us for the booklet, "What Leading Medical Journals and Health Magazines Say about Separate Beds and Sound Sleep." Free of charge.

SHOE FACTORIES CLOSE AWAITING RETAIL ORDERS

LATTER HOLDING OFF EXPECTING SHARP PRICE-DECLINES.

MONTREAL.—The leather plants of Ames, Holden, McCready are still idle, and it may be several weeks before they will resume. The reason for this condition, common to many other factories, is that for some months past orders fell off, and to some extent cancellations were made of existing orders, through the decline in leather. This was a heavy one, and the trade jumped to the conclusion that prices of the manufactured goods for fall would show a heavy decline as well. When the factories saw the trend of conditions they realized that it would be better to shut down than to continue manufacturing with the market uncertain, and, on the other hand, if production is curtailed, and the trade comes into the market later on, the reduction in prices is likely to be less as the supply of goods will be all the smaller. Already prices quoted for fall are somewhat lower than they were a few weeks ago, and present indications are that there will be a fair reduction in prices ruling throughout the new season. Just what loss this will mean to the shoe factories will depend to a great extent on the amount of leather they had on hand at the time of the slump. Of course, in most cases, they have prepared for such a slump as this in allowing for depreciation in their previous inventory accounts. — Financial Post.

ROB SPANDAU VAULT OF ROUMANIAN MONEY

GERMAN THIEVES CARRY OFF A BOX CONTAINING 47,000,000 LEI IN NOTES.

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—An investigation into sensational thefts of 47,000,000 Rubmanian lei notes (about $9,400,000 at par) from the Spandau Citadel has now been completed by the German police. Part of the 540,000,000 lei taken by the Germans from Bucharest during the war was sent by the War Ministry for safety to the citadel a week before the revolution in November, 1918.

Only two gangs have been located by the police. One of the men in the first group belonged to the Spandau garrison, and he has told an extraordinary story of seeing three suspicious looking men with a box near the citadel one night. He whistled and they dropped the box and bolted. Later, with his own friends to help, he managed to get the box to Berlin. Then the confederates changed the notes into German money in all parts of the country. He himself bought a country house with a large garden and he still had a large sum left when arrested.

Another man, whose share was turned into 185,000 marks, had 125,000 marks when caught.

By the capture of the second gang about 5,000,000 lei were traced. In a romantic tale, their leader, a tradesman, says he was asked by the Chairman of the Spandau Workers' and Soldiers' Council (afterward shot while trying to escape) to get a box with 5,000,000 lei to the Brussels Socialists for revolutionary propaganda. He got 100,000 lei and turned it into 45,000 marks. With others he tried to smuggle 750,000 marks into Holland. Finally their leaders got 3,000,000 lei into Austria and in Vienna when arrested he still had over 2,000,000 lei in his possession.

Conquerors—thine own, and they who conquered thee—
For years oppressed, and yet forever free
With the soul's freedom, dauntless dost thou wait.
Though the red hordes that seek to desecrate
Man's highest, fairest hopes, thy scourgers be.
Trough there be sent, in thy extremity,

ARMENIAN PREMIER HOPEFUL FOR FUTURE

NEW YORK.—According to Aneurin Williams, a British member of Parliament and a prominent member of the Lord Mayor of London's Relief Committee, who arrived here from Liverpool on the liner Mobile, operated by the White Star Line, conditions in the Near East, and especially Armenia, are gradually clearing up to a solution. The committee with which he is connected has been co-operating with the American Near East Committee in Syria and Asia Minor. In talking with the reporters at the pier, Mr. Williams said:

"I had a talk with ex-Premier Alexander Khatissian of Armenia just before leaving England, and he is very hopeful of the situation in the Armenian republic.

"Britain has been sending large quantities of arms and ammunition to the Armenians to assist them to defend themselves against Turks and Bolshevists, and with grain and foodstuffs now being furnished by the Americans, the country should be able to weather the winter and get through to the harvest of next year.

"Khatissian is preparing an appeal to all the signatories of the Peace Treaty calling on them to help Armenia to enforce the terms of the treaty as applied to Armenia, just as soon as President Wilson shall have fixed the boundaries of the Armenian Republic. I believe we shall be able to put enough pressure upon Mustapha Kemal to compel the Turks to give up to the Armenians the territory assigned to them by President Wilson.

"The principal danger to the security of the Near east seems to be from the Bolshevists," Mr. Williams believes. He feels that the advance of the Red forces from the Soviet Republic of Azerbaidjan and the movements of General Kouropatkin's army in Persia are serious.

"A number of us in England were very much against the removal of British troops from Transcaucasia and the surrender of the Batum-Baku," he continued. "We urged the British Government to retain troops in Transcaucasia to keep order. But the military authorities claimed that they were in a very precarious position, from which they might easily be ousted by the Bolsheviki."

MARSHAL PETAIN'S LITTLE ROMANCE

REMAINED BACHELOR AFTER LOSING PRETTY LITTLE CASHIER.

Of the three Marshals of France, one, Marshal Petain, is a bachelor, and all the candidates for the honor of being Mme. le Marechale—rumor says they have many—have come to the conclusion that his heart is as uncouquerable as he made Verdun.

But the truth is that he lost it long ago and was beaten by a rival, says a Paris exchange. He is not the cold, immovable man of popular opinion. Once, when he was Major and instructor at the Paris War School, he was in the habit of lunching at a restaurant patronized by officers at the corner of the Champ de Mars. But it was not only for the excellence of its cuisine that the future Marshal went there. Perched at the desk by the door was a lovely cashier. The whole war school was in love with her but it was supposed that the Major instructor would win over his pupils.

One day the pretty cashier quitted her desk and was seen with orange blossoms in her hair, making her way to a neighboring church. But Petain was not the bridegroom. The bride had passed him by and given her affection to a younger man, to whom the Major was teaching the art of war.

Not long ago the Marshal was visiting in the country and the General in command of the district gave a luncheon in his honor. On his arrival at the house the Major recognized in the wife of his host his lost love of long ago, now a matron surrounded by her children. As to him, the war had brought honor and promotion to his successful rival.

For a moment the Marshal, who for a man of his rank is shy, was somewhat embarrassed, but the hostess put things right. With the memory, perhaps, of past favors refused, she advanced to meet her guests.

"This time you may embrace me, M. le Marechal," she said; and at their ease the happy company sat down to luncheon.

APPEAL TO ARMY TO END BOLSHEVISM

RUSSIAN REFUGEES IN POLAND SAY WAR IS NOT WITH RUSSIA.

WASHINGTON.—A proclamation by Russian representatives in Poland to the Russian people was received from Warsaw by the Polish Legation to-day.

"The significance of the great war that is now being waged on the eastern frontier has not been, up to the present time, very clear to everybody," says the proclamation. "Part of the Polish community, conscious of the ill-fated past and justifiable hatred toward Russia, maintained that this was not a war with the Bolsheviki but with Russia. This same wrong opinion was entertained by many Russian refugees insufficiently acquainted with the situation of Poland.

"This ignorance of fact was taken advantage of by the Bolsheviki with insolent designs. These deserters and traitors, casting away in theory the knowledge of their native lands, began to make the people believe that this war was a patriotic move — a struggle for a new Russia.

"At present all doubts and misunderstandings are cleared away. In an order to the army signed by the Chief of the Polish State, J. Pilsudski, it was stated:

"'Fighting for our liberty and that of others, we are not at the present time fighting with the Russian people, but with a system that rules the minority with terror, over the majority, which deprived its country of freedom, and brought about hunger and ruin. The enemy is not the Russian nation — your foe is Bolshevism, whose yoke of dreadful tyranny shackled the Russian people and wants to force on our land, the land of Kosclusko and Traugutt and land of sacred tombs and crosses, their murky and bloody Government.'

"After these clear statements there can be no doubt as to the conscience of the people and their will.

"Poland—the liberator—is not waging a war with Russia, but with the murderers of all freedom in all lands; this war of swelling to large proportions, but only of a nationalistic nature, but in general Poland is fighting for herself and all humanity—for her fatherland and liberty.

"Russian people! Russian refugees, distant and near, oppressed by Bolshevism in your native country—in that enormous prison, remember that every shot fired from the west is a blow to the iron gates of the Russian prison, remember they are coming toward us to Russia to liberate us, and they are not very far away.

"Soldiers of Russia? Not the 'Reds' as your executioners call you—Russian soldiers, sons of the Russian nation deceived and mastered by force, throw off your hsackles. Remember that when firing at tre Poles you are not only shooting at your brothers, but you are shooting into the hearts of your motherland, your land, and into the hearts of your own liberty. Remember that the Polish and the Russian armies ought to be bound by the same ideals, whose forces should be united to fight those who for a long time have been killing Russia and now are trying to kill Poland.

"The sacred blood of Russia and Poland which is being split will reunite the two nations, at one time separated by a bloody hatred, in an everlasting union of peace for the glory of all humanity."

SAYS JAPAN LIKE BOILING KETTLE

MUST FIND OUTLET FOR POPULATION OR FORCE ONE.

NEW YORK.—Japan must get more territory to take care of her great population, according to Professor B. Shigehara Kimura of the Imperial College of Commerce of Tokio, who arrived here at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

"The Japanese," said Professor Kimura, "are in need of expansion. The islands of Japan are so densely populated that they are like a tea kettle filled with boiling water and steam, and if they do not find a natural outlet they will rave to force one.

"The Japanese look upon America as their leader. They have a tremendous respect for everything American, and they are willing to cooperate with American business in every way. They are anxious to lend their aid to the financiers of this country in developing China or any of the Eastern countries. Crina seems to be the most natural outlet for this development. The Japanese do not seek to take possession of China, but merely desire to aid her develop her natural resources.

"The Japanese have been very much misunderstood in America. I feel that some amicable understanding, some common ground, between the two nations, and a co-operation in mutual undertakings and enterprises would be to the advantage of both. It is the earnest wish of all my people that there should be only the warmest feeling and a spirit of co-operation with this great country, for which we have so much reverence in Japan.

"While I am a Christian, I feel that the missionaries who go to Japan, and particularly to Korea at the present time, are building up a wall of misunderstanding, instead of helping to make relations better between my country and yours. The early missionaries were bent merely on the moral and religious improvement of the people, which was an excellent thing and brought great results. But the missionaries of to-day are mixing in the political life. This causes unpleasant feeling on both sides.

"In Korea the missionaries have built up an extensive school system, and the Government of Korea has endeavored to co-operate with them to get the best results. But these efforts have been misunderstood, and bad feeling seems to have arisen. Thus your missionaries have grown to have unpleasant feelings toward the Korean Government, and return to this country with bad reports, helping in the growth of misunderstanding in the United States."

In a digression from things political and economic the Professor spoke of the origin of the Japanese national dress. He said it had come from the South Sea Islands. The fashion, as he traced it, was brought to Japan years ago by Fiji Islanders.

PLANNING HOW BEST TO HANDLE YOUNG WORKERS

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 19.—Officials of the City of Winnipeg and the Province of Manitoba have inaugurated for the first time in Canada a survey to determine the best plan for handling the employment of young workers systematically. Letters have been mailed to more than 1,000 employers asking for information concerning the employment of the juvenile workers. In each letter was a questionaire for the employer to fill out, and a number of blanks for the young workers themselves to fill out.

After reports have been received a series of committee conferences will be held to outline the best plans for aiding the workers under 18 years of age to get a proper start in life and to gain the right kind of employment.

A TRIP TO KAWARTHA LAKES FOR DETECTIVE NEWHALL.

Sergeant of Detectives Newhall is back in the Kawartha Lakes district on the trail of the men who on Sunday hired a horse and buggy from Middleton's Livery and one from Robinson's Livery ostensibly to drive around the city and then disappeared. That night one of the horses was recognized at Chemong by Harold Gibbs and later trace was found of the men at Fenelon Falls.

MAYOR WANTS REPORT SHOWING THE "SPREAD" IN COST OF BRIDGE

ASKS FOR STATEMENT SETTING OUT WHY AND HOW THE ACTUAL EXPENDITURE SO LARGELY EXCEEDED THE CONTRACTORS' ESTIMATES.

MR. TOWNSEND ASSISTS

How and why the cost of the Hunter Street Bridge exceeded the Russell-Townsend Company's contract estimate of $228,000.00 was the two-fold question Mayor McIntyre submitted in the form of a resolution at the meeting of the Bridge Committee last night. It was seconded by Ald. Crowe, who remarked that eventually the people would have to be shown where their money went, so why not now?

"As Mayor of the city, I want an explanation of the difference between the contractors' estimate of the cost of the bridge and what it has actually cost," said His Worship.

"I am quite willing to co-operate with the Council and with the engineer, Mr. Frank Barber, in furnishing all the details," said Mr. C. J. Townsend, "but it must be understood that this is an act of our own free will, and that we are not obliged to do so. It will take some time to get all this information, and will probably involve about $200.00 worth of our time. We have kept track of everything with the intention of giving the Council a complete statement of the cost when the work was completed."

Mr. H. L. Seymour, representing Mr. Barber, agreed to obtain the information desired by the Mayor, with the assistance of Mr. Townsend.

A Big Difference.

In introducing this subject, Mayor McIntyre recalled that the Russell-Townsend contract estimate was $228,000, whereas the final cost of the bridge would be approximately $500,000. Quoting an estimated difference of $262,000, he asked how this sum was made up. "Wherein is the jump from $228,000 to nearly $500,000," was His Worship's question.

Mr. Townsend stated that $228,000 was not the original estimate of the cost of the bridge. That figure didn't include the engineering fees, land damages, interest, and other sundries —which, it was recently ascertained, amounted to $35,000.

Mayor McIntyre remarked that he hadn't voted for the contract. Allowing for all the costs mentioned and adding ten per cent. of the total, there was a discrepancy which should be explained.

Mr. Townsend didn't attempt to delve into details of the cost in the committee's discussion. He pointed out as an illustration of how the cost mounted above the estimates that if the plans showed a pier footing of six feet, whereas the excavation had to be carried down seventeen feet, there was the additional cost of sheeting, digging, steam, derricks, and other incidentals. To arrive at the extra cost was an engineering problem that would have to be gone into to get the exact figures.

Mr. Townsend said that he would co-operate in securing the information the Mayor asked for, providing the whole matter wasn't "gone into in a foolish manner."

Mayor McIntyre replied that personally he wanted to get the fullest information as to the cost of the bridge in excess of the contractor's original estimate.

Resolution Adopted.

The committee unanimously supported the resolution.

Ald. Whitehouse said that he had seen a book in the contractors' office showing the actual cost of the work from day to day, and was confident that the complete figures could be obtained.

The work of preparing the report would require three weeks, Mr. Seymour believed, and incidentally paid a tribute to the assistance he had received from Mr. Townsend since coming to Peterborough as the engineer representing Mr. Barber. Had the contractor wished to do so, he could have put difficulties in the way of the engineer instead of facilitating the performance of his duties.

Mr. Townsend told the Council that while he had no intention of handing himself a bouquet, yet the cost of the construction of the bridge had been itemised from day to day, forming a complete record which would disclose the total expenditure on the bridge and all information regarding footing and other phases of the work. This information, he added, was available for the statement Mayor McIntyre had called for.

4,500 MILES OF SCENIC HIGHWAY

WORLD'S LONGEST WELL-KEPT ROAD CONNECTS ELEVEN NATIONAL PARKS.

(United Press.)

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 24. — The world's longest continuous auto scenic highway—4,500 miles—connecting eleven national parks and traversing nine western states, was dedicated here to-day to all America by Stephen T. Mather, director of the National Park Service, and officials of the National Park-to-Park Highway Association.

The simple ceremonies consisted of "a world challenge to compete with the enchanting wonders contained in the federal recreational areas," which lure the traveller to snow-colored heights. The dedication here was marked with the opening of a publicity tour by federal, state and city officials, including Director Mather.

The days of old prairie schooner travel were wiped out forever in the caravan of 25 automobiles that carried the official party in comfort on the circle swing that will require 60 days to complete. It also heralded a new era in which every man, woman and child in the country is given a share in the hospitality of the great West.

The park-to-park highway, laid out by A. L. Westgard, scout for the American Automobile Association, reaches the Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado, Yellowstone Park in Wyoming, Glacier Park in Montana, Mount Rainier Park in Washington, Crater Park, Oregon; Lassen Volcanic Park, Yosemite, General Grant and Roosevelt Parks in California, the Grand Canyon in Arizona, and Mesa Verde Park in southwestern Colorado.

The ultmate object of the National Park-to-Park Highway association is to prevail upon Congress to furnish a hard-surfaced boulevard making easily available to the people America's playgrounds.

New Way to Curl Hair Fine for Outdoor Girl

The silmerine method of curling the hair is the proper thing before going motoring, boating, or golfing, or indulging in any outdoor sport or exercise. This will not only give the hair the most beautiful wavey and curly appearance imaginable, but wind or heat will not take the curl out. The curliness is quickly acquired and lasts much longer than where waving tongs are used. Besides, the hair will be bright and lustrous, instead of dull and dead looking. When combed out it will be as nice and fluffy as if it had just been shampooed.

Just get a bottle of liquid silmerine at any drug or department store, follow the accompanying directions, and you will be simply delighted with the result. This product is, of course, perfectly harmless, and there is nothing sticky, greasy, or unpleasant about it.

Exhibition crows will be the first to see the second and last instalment of the Canadian War Memorials Paintings. They come to Toronto direct from England and after the big fair will be packed, not to be opened again until the War Museum is opened in Ottawa.

Estimates of the number of veterans who will take part in the first National reunion on the opening day of the Canadian National Exhibition place the number as high as 15,000.

The Canadian National Exhibition has several times been visited by fire. The last occasion was in 1906, when $350,000 worth of buildings were destroyed, including the grand stand.

CANAL TO BRING MONTREAL AND N.Y. TOGETHER

TWENTY-MILE CUT RECOMMENDED TO PUT QUEBEC NEARER AMERICA'S METROPOLIS.

(United Press.)

MONTREAL, Quebec, Aug. 24. — Montreal wants to be nearer New York. And while the city will never change its situation, it may yet become 88 miles closer the American metropolis, at least so far as freight shipments and costs are concerned.

Canadian shipping interests propose to effect the change by means of a barge canal from Montreal to St. Johns, Quebec. The proposition will be put before the international joint commission which is to meet here in October to consider the St. Lawrence River development.

At present Montreal is 458 miles from New York by canal and river. The route is 46 miles down the St. Lawrence river to Sorel., and then 412 miles up the Richelieu river to Lake Champlain and the Hudson river. But by cutting a canal through the 20 miles between St. John's and Montreal, 108 miles would be saved, or a net gain made of 88 miles.

Existing canals at the Canadian end of the system are only 6 feet 6 inches deep and with a capacity of only 300-ton barges. Those in the United States are of a standard 12-foot draft, and will take care of barges of 1800 tons.

The proposed canal was first suggested before the war but actual work was delayed by hostilities. The river-canal system is declared more profitable because it hits into the eastern industrial and coal districts of the United States, while the Great Lakes system does not.

TAKE PHOSPHATE WITH MEALS IN SUMMERTIME

Your Nerves Demand It. Your Blood Needs It, Say Physicians.

There's not enough phosphorus in modern foods to benefit nearly one-half of the men and women of American scientists declare.

To overcome this lack of an element of your body that is necesary to your health, your happiness and even your success in life, weak, anaemic, nervous, run-down people are adyised to take Bitro-Phosphate as dispensed in leading drug stores in the original package.

Speaking of people who are easily fatigued, who lack ambition, nerve and are ofttimes thin, weak and sadly lacking in firm, healthy flesh, Joseph D. Harrigan, formerly Visiting Specialist North Eastern Dispensary, N. Y., says:

"Patients who were apparently physical wrecks, who foolishly thought they needed only a blood tonic to enrich the blood, have come for treatment trembling and shaking, their nerve froce almost exhausted and in many such cases the administering of Bitro-Phosphate has produced seemingly magical results."

People who feel the heat of summer, tire easily and often become irritable and depressed, will find Bitro-Phosphate an inexpensive and helpful friend.

Druggists report a wonderful increase in the demand from men and women who are anxious to renew old-time ambition and who are making an honest effort to become vigorous and keen-minded with a power of endurance that denotes almost perfect health.

GRATUITY MAY BE HAD JUST FOR THE ASKING

FRED MARSH TELLS HIS COLLEAGUES THAT POLITICAL PARTIES WANT THEIR SUPPORT.

EAST TORONTO, Aug. 24.—"The gratuity is there for the asking," said Fred Marsh, Provincial organizer of the G.A.U.V., at a meeting of East Toronto branch of that association, held in Snell's Hall on Friday night. All that was needed to secure it, he explained, was unity for political action amongst the veterans.

During a somewhat lengthy address he frequently referred to the broken puedges of Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues, and expressed the opinion that if the veterans would stand together as firmly as they had done in France the rest would be easy. "On the eve of the next election," he stated, "there is not a political party in the country that will not be knocking at your door and asking to be allowed to adopt your platform. There are, even now, two political parties willing to accept it if we will endorse them, and the first plank is the gratuity or re-establishment question. However, that is not all we are out for. The most safe and sane legislation that has ever been drawn up is embodied in our platform and there is not a broad-minded or right-thinking citizen in Canada who could object to anything it contains. The veterans in this country control the balance of voting power. And it is up to us to see that every soldier is re-established, every disabled comrade properly pensioned, and every widow and orphan provided for before we have done our duty to those boys who did not return."

How to Beautify a Summer Soiled Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, wind, or dirt. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy writeness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The wornout skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving no evidence of the treatment. The younger, healthier under-skin forming the new complexion, is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any tanned, reddened, pimpled, freckled, or blotchy skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off mornings.

Many skins wrinkle easily with every wind that blows, with heat, worry, etc. An excellent wrinkle remover, because it tightens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles, is a wash lotion made as follows: Powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in witch hazel, one-half pint. This gives immediate results.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM'S REPLY TO CRITICS

Mr. J. H. Burnham says regarding the Kingston Standard's column criticism of him that he is quite content with the kind words of such journals as the Star Weekly, the Montreal Gazette, the Ottawa Citizen and the Renfrew Mercury. It would have been more to the point if the Standard had answered some of the statements which stirred up its bite. Barking at arguments is no answer. The people of Canada expressed in the press from coast to coast have nothing but good words to say of Mr. Burnham's stand.

AMERICAN PROFESSOR JOINS QUEEN'S STAFF.

PROGRAMME FOR FARMERS' PICNIC

A BIG LIST OF EVENTS PROVIDDE FOR THE OCCASION.

Organised as they are to a fine point, the committee in charge of the Farmers' Picnic to be held on Tuesday of this week promise a memorable day to the hundreds who will attend.

The different events will be keenly contested, as already many entries have been made for the races and contests. Several of the prominent business men of the city are busy hunting up the most likely animal for the animal race. In this each man will tie a string about a pig, a dog, a cat, a hen (for poultry are to be considered animals), and drive it to the goal with only the urging of a wand.

The centipede race, an inter-township event, is something novel. Four cedar logs will be supplied by the committee, each of which will be straddled by eight men, and the eight bringing into the log first will be the township champions.

For the ladies, one particular event will be the nail-driving contest, when each lady will try her luck at driving a nail into an oak log, the one using the fewest strokes being the winner.

The Prizes.

The prize list is particularly generous, and the winners will be more than rewarded for any effort they may expend in the contest.

Refreshment Facilities.

Every facility will be provided for refreshments and everything will be run on the most generous lines.

To miss the Farmers' Picnic would be to miss the big event of the season.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I have been following the reports of the trouble at the Fire Hall, and I think that by those reports there is ground for an investigation, and I hope that our City Council will lose no time in having the difficulty cleared up. We have got to have our proneerty protected from fire, and the first step to emeiency in fire protection is harmony among the officers and men of our Fire Brigade.

Now, Mr. Editor, by the report of the Firemen's Union, they talk strike. Now, firemen of the Peterborough Fire Department, if you want to gain the citizens' confidence, don't talk strike. Once you get that into the minds of the citizens, that you intend to strike, you will lose the confidence of the people in our city, and one hundred chances to one that if you strike you will lose your jobs. Don't cut off your nose to spite your face. The citizens of Peterborough will stand by you and see that you get a square deal. We as citizens have to pay the expense, which is not a small one, and I am sure that we want the best we can get, which we are entitled to.

Now, Mr. Editor, it seems strange to me to think that this grievance could not reach the City Council by way of the Fire, Water, and Light Committee instead of by the Trades and Labour Council, and especially when the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee is a Labour man. Now, men, bear your grievance manfully, and above all, don't talk about strike, and I am sure you will by so doing, gain the confidence of all organised labour in the city, because in strikes there is nothing gained and in the long run the worker is the loser; and I am sure that if force is left out and that line which says, "Come let us reason together," which I hope our City Council will grant you. Hoping, Mr. Editor, that I have not taken up too much of your valuable space.—I remain, one who is interested in the worker.

F. T. Tuggey.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: I was extremely sorry to see in your paper yesterday a report that there was a move on foot to start a Soviet paper, and also the One Big Union movement cropping up again. I should have thought the past experience of the trouble in the west would have been sufficient to keep all International men away from anything that would tend to draw them into any such movement, for the One Big Union movement in Canada is bound to fail especially when we see who are at the helm trying to steer the craft, which will in my opinion only encounter pretty rough seas.

From one who is opposed to any such move. Yours for the International all the time. W. Stevens.

CHAUFFEUR ELECTROCUTED.

SASKATOON, Aug. 19.—James Martin, 30, chauffeur, was electrocuted Tuesday night. He ran an extension cord from a bedroom light through a window and was searching for a key in the wet grass. Apparently he received the fatal shock through the cage which surrounded the bulb.

ASK HIGHER SALARIES IN THE CLERICAL SERVICE

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—Appeal is to be made to the Civil Service Commission by the Civil Service Association of Ottawa, for a general upward revision of the salaries in the clerical service. It will be submitted to the Board of Hearing and Recommendation when that body resumes its sittings next month. It is expected if the appeal meets with success that other branches of the service would also benefit, as the clerical service is said to have been the basis for other Civil Service salaries. In an article in the latest, the second edition of the Civil Service News, it is stated that though exact percentages of the increases that will be asked can not be given, the association will go the limit consistent with practicability.

RUSSIAN NORTHERN ARMY OPENS NEGOTIATIONS FOR SURRENDER

RUSSIAN DEFEAT IN POLAND IS COMPLETE AND OVERWHELMING—NOTE SENT TO REDS.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The Russian defeat in Poland is so complete and overwhelming that there is no possibility of the Bolsheviki reforming their shattered armies in Polish territory, press despatches declared to-day.

Eight Bolshevik divisions have been completely annihilated and eight others reduced by half, according to unofficial advices from Warsaw to-day.

The Polish victory is growing. Prisoners already counted total more than 40,000 and more than 200 guns have been captured. Only the Fourth and Fourteenth Russian armies are still unable to afford real resistance, it was reported.

The Russian northern army has opened negotiations for surrender, accordin gto a report from Vienna to-day. The despatch, which was unconfirmed, said the Bolshevik had sent a messenger to Gen. Siderski t oarrange terms of capitul atcon.

The Bolsheviki are now retreating alon gthe entire 500 mile battle front in Poland, according to unofficial despatches from Warsaw this afternoon.

NOTE TO REDS.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 24. —Arthur J. Balfour, Lord President of Council, on behasf of Lloyn George, last night sent to Leo. Kameneff, Russian Soviet representative here, a copy of communique issued in Lucerne as a result of the conference of Premiers Lloyd George and Giolitti. Mr. Balfour pointed out that, according to the latest information, Bolshevist terms to Poland fundamentally contradict those Kameneff communicated to Great Britain recently Mr. Balfour asked if this information was correct and, if so, whether Bolshevists intended to adhere to the new terms. Answer by Friday evening at the latest was asked for by Mr. Balfour, who cited the urgency of the matter and stated on the answer to these questions depended the future policy of Great Britain.

D. C. ELWOOD GOES HOME.

But Solicitor Will Ask Police Commissioners For Compensation.

TOIONTO, Aug. 24.— After five days in Toronto Mr. Dewitt C. Elwood, who was wrongfully arrested, left Toronto yesterday afternoon to return to Miami. He was called back on business.

It is understood that Mr. Elwood has instructed his solicitor, Frank Hughes, to petition the Police Commissioners for compensation for wrongful arrest and expense incurred. "I feel that a great injustice has been done to me by the Police Department of this city. I am grateful to Inspector Guthrie in the courteous manner he treated me," stated Elwood to The Star this afternoon.

Mayor Church wrote a letter to Mayor Smith, of Miami, expressing his personal regret over the arrest of Mr. Elwood. "I am grateful to the Mayor for the letter," stated Elwood. "And the next time I come to Toronto I will walk in, not ride in any automobile. All my affairs are now in Mr. Hughes' hands.

DETROIT MURDERER MAY HAVE WORKED IN OPS

That Eugene Le Roy, alias O. J. FFernandeza, alias O. J. Wood, who murdered Mrs. Katherine Jackson, in Detroit, and sent her body in a trunk to New York, worked for a farmer in South Ops for a week or ten days recently, is the belief of some residents in the township.

The stranger came down from Toronto and engaged as a farm hand. He was clean cut, well groomed and had plenty of good colthes and a grip containing all requisites which a man of leisure might be expected to carry on a trip. He was an amateur, however, at farm work, but hung out bravely until a neighbor, who had been reading the murdere's description in a paper, came to th econclution in a paper ,came to the conclu-to that description to a nicety. Her husband's suspicions were also aroused. The woman called on her neighbor and incidentally referred to the murder and the published description of the murdered. The stranger happened to be in the house at the time, but some time during the night or early morning he made his getaway, not even waiting for his wages due him.—Lindsay Post.

She will also represent Dominion Methodist Sunday School at the International School convention to be held in Japan this fall. Prior to leaving Lindsay, the Women's Missionary Society of Cambridge street Methodist church presented Miss Coon with a purse of gold.

HIGH COST OF LIVING WILL BE LOWER TO-MORROW

DOLLAR DAY WILL TAKE A FALL OUT OF THE OLD BIRD—A BIG DAY FOR BARGAINS

Wednesday is "Dollar Day," the semi-annual shopping event when quality and price are combined to take a temporary fall out of the High Cost of Living. Shoppers of the city and district, who have learned from previous experience that real bargains are the order of the day, are now taking a careful inventory of their needs.

The stores who have the enterprise to enter into the occasion are securing more help in anticipation of the rush which always attends "Dollar Day."

Shoppers out after the scalp of the High Cost of Living will throng the city from the surrounding district as usual and the merchants are preparing a list of real bargains that should outdo the records of previous "Dollar Days."

A Bargain.

When asked what constitutes a bargain even a merchant of long standing was non-plussed for a definite definition, but hit on the happy solution of directing his interrogator to look at the Examiner on Tuesday evening next when announcement will be made of what will be offered. There he said you will find your answer with a multiplicity of examples.

To hesitate is to be lost, particularly in the case of Dollar Day, as bargains such are featured that day are not apt to reoccur. And there is no excuse for being lost as there are two direct channels of information what will be offered. One is to go down into the city and look into the windows, which invite attention and the other to scan the paper. One merchant placed it in this way: "The bargains throughout my entire store will stand out as prominently as the proverbial 'sore thumb.' Dollar Day has been with us long enough to know there is no camouflage about it—merchants do actually "give things away." It pays to, for the simple reason that it starts the ball of word-of-mouth advertising" going—a mighty good asset.

Playing Safe.

There is one way of playing safe and seeing that none of the enticing bargains on the lists are overlooked and that that is pick up the Examiner next Tuesday evening, scan the bargain lists, make a list of what you want, pass the paper to the next important member of the household to do likewise and retire, get up early next morning and like the early bird make a bid for the bargains. There is one thing certain and that is your neighbor will follow this course and nobody wants to hear what some one else got at bargain prices, every one wants to be the one to make a clean up.

U.S. DEVELOPING HER OWN POTASH

BREAK WITH GERMANS OVER PRICES CAUSED AMERICANS TO CANCEL ORDERS OF $40,000,000.

By Carl D. Groat
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, August 24.—The German "Kalisyndikat" —the syndicate under government direction supervising Germany's vast potash business—has been trying dictatorial methods on American business people.

The result is that American business is practically saying to the Kalisyndicate, "Go hang; we'll develop most of our own potash."

And, American potash buyers are suiting their actions to their words. Consequently, the outlook at present is that the American market will not absorb more than $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 worth of German potash a year as against five to ten times as much were the syndicate in a conciliatory mood.

The clash between American consumers and German producers dates back to the period just before the Kapp coup .The American buyers had contracted for a vast quantity of potash—understood to be around $40,000,000 worth. Then came Kapp and upset industry and the government. Subsequently, the workers in the the potash fields held that they wanted more money, making fulfilment of the contract at the original price impossible.

Since then, negotiations have been underway towards arrangement of a new contract. But, the Americans have found that the syndicate itself was inclined to be dictatorial. In fact, one of the interested parties told the writer:

"Many of the men in the syndicate are kaiser appointees. And, I can tell you that the kaiser himself in his palmist days was never more dictatorial than those men in the syndicate As a result of their attitude, America is turning her efforts to development of its own potash resources. Sources on which work was halted directly after the war are again starting up, especially since consumers have guaranteed a minimum price of $2 a unit for the next five years. This relieves us of the German domination, and makes it possible to take a much smaller quantity than would otherwise be the case. They thought they had us on the hip, but that is not the case."

Potash is one of the vital products in fertilization. Germany has hitherto had a grip on the world's market, but the stimulus given the American industry by the arbitary position of the syndicate is loosening that grip.

J. P. CUNNINGHAM, Prop.
404 GEORGE ST. PHONE 445

TO ARRANGE CREDITS FOR SOLDIER SETTLERS

MANY ARE STRUGGLING UNDER HEAVY, UNFAIR BURDENS.

WINNIPEG, Man., August 24.—The following resolution was passed at a general meeting of the Grand Army of the United Veterans in Winnipeg recently:

"That in view of the fact that many of our comrades are struggling under an unfair and heavy burden, in having to pay the present high rates of interest on house property, and also in view of the fact that they did not have the advantages of the high wages that prevailed during the war, and believing that they are thus placed in an unfair position, we therefore call upon the provincial government to immediately enact a measure to create a fund for the purpose of buying new homes for the returned men, and also to pay off existing mortgages on houses already bought. The money to be loaned at a low rate of interest on 15 or 20 year terms. It is the opinion of this meeting that this measure would materially assist the returned men in re-establishing themselves; also that it is very necessary that immediate action be taken in this matter."

A second resolution adopted by the Grand Army of the United Vetera.. , says in part:

"That it having come to our notice that a large number of soldier settlers are being forced to vacate their farms and homesteads through their inability to support themselves, their families and their stock in the early stages of their career, owing to their being insufficient provision in the Act, giving the provincial boards the authority to supply funds for feeds, seed, living ex, enses, neces.sities and minor expenses during the first period of operations, and consequently the only alternative left to the administration of the Soldiers' Settlement Board being the eviction of occupants and the salvaging of the stock, implements, etc.,

"It is resolved that the Soldier Settlement Board Act be amended to allow the provincial boards ample powers to arrange credits for any soldier settlers who finding themselves in such financial straits may be permitted to apply for and receive such assistance as will enable him to overcome his temporary difficulties, always providing that his record as a settler and his general character warrants such assistance."

LORD'S DAY GAMBLERS APPREHEND IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—The police rounded up no less than 21 foreigners on charges of gambling yesterday. Plainclothesmen McDermott, Brawn, Reid and Dickinson, picked up four of the alleged gamesters on Morrison Avenue, 12 on Palmerston Avenue, and Plainclothesmen Greenlee and McArthur nabbed five at a house on York street. The gamblers had considerably over $2,000 on them when apprehended.

PREDICT DRO PIN SUGAR BY HALIFAX REFINERS.

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, August 23.—The recent slump of 12 cents per pound on the New York raw sugar market has not affected the prices for refined sugar here, but dealers predict a considerable reduction in the near future.

Sugar still costs the Halifax retailers 24.10 cents per hundred pound bag and is sold to the consumer at 25 and 26 cents per pound. Most of the local retailers bought heavily before the last advance of $3.00 per bag, and are now well stocked.

"The sugar market is very uncertain," said a leading wholesaler on Saturday, and somebody is going to suffer, or has suffered a tremendous loss as a result of the New York decline.

RANEY'S FALLS DEVELOPMENT

ANOTHER SOURCE OF POWER WILL SOON BE AVAILABLE TO PETERBORO—DESCRIPTION OF THE PLANT.

Plans and specifications have been prepared by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for the construction of another water power development on the Trent Canal. At present the commission operates eight plants on the Trent Canal system, six of which are on the Trent division of the canal and are supplied with water from the Trent River, and two of which are on the Severn division and are supplied from the Severn River. The proposed ninth plant is to be on the Trent division, at Raney's Falls, between the present Campbellford and Frankford plants, or about one mile below the town of Campbellford and about two miles above lock No. 11.

When the Trent Canal was constructed by the Dominion Government, a dam was built a short distance above Raney's Falls to maintain the level in the upper reach, and an artificial waterway was constructed, through a part of the town of Campbellford, terminating in locks numbers 11 and 12, by means of which the boats obtain acess to the lower reach of the canal.

It was then planned to take advantage at some future time of the difference in level between the two reaches which is available at this point, and as a part of the wall on the river side of the canal there was installed a reinforced concrete sluiceway with five overflow sections, each 20 ft. long. The concrete deck of the sluiceway serves as a bridge to carry a main highway across the proposed forebay.

The total length of the sluiceway, including the four piers, is 116 ft. and the height is 15 ft., the deck being at elevation 480 and the foundation at elevation 465. The regulated water level in the upper reach of the canal is at elevation 477.2, and in the lower level of the canal, 429.2, so that the difference in elevation, or gross head, is 48 ft. Allowing 1 ft. for losses through the plant, the net head on the plant will be about 47 ft.

The plant has been tentatively designed for a flow of approximately 2,300 cu. ft. per second, which in this particular section of the canal means a velocity of about 1½ ft. per second. In winter the water level in the lower reach of the canal is generally dropped about 7 ft. in order to avoid damage by flooding in case of ice-jams, so the head will then be approximately 54 ft. and the capacity of the plant thereby increased. The draft tubes will be carried low enough to be sealed at the lower elevation of the tail water. Under normal conditions, with 47 ft. head, the capacity will be about 9,000 k.v.a. at 80 per cent. power factor, current lagging.

From the outside walls of the sluiceway, gravity retaining walls, approximately 120 ft. long and averaging 20 ft. in height, will extend to the gate-house, which will house the racks and head gates and which will adjoin the power-house proper. The gate-house and power-house will be of reinforced concrete construction. Provision will be made in the head works for an ice chute for handling any ice which may find its way into the forebay. The power-house floor will be at elevation 455 and the generator coupling about 4 ft. lower.

There will be two units, and for each unit there will be provided two head gates of the Stoney sluice type, from which the water will be carried to the turbine casings through reinforced concrete supply pipes approximately 53 ft. long. The turbine casings will be of the scroll type, molded in concrete. The hydraulic turbines will be of the single runner vertical type, direct connected to generators. The turbines will have a capacity of 5,000 b.h.p. under 47 ft. net head when operating at 120 r.p.m. The generators will be 3-phase,60-cycle, 6,600 volts, each of 4,500 k.v.a. capacity at 80 per cent. power factor, capable of operating continuously at an overload of 5,300 k.v.a. The maximum efficiency of the turbines will be at approximately 90 per cent. full load, and they will normally operate between 70 per cent. and 90 per cent. of full load. The scroll cases will be about 30 ft. in inside diameter, as the physical dimensions of the units will be large, the capacity being large in proportion to the relatively low head. The turbine runners will be about 8 ft. in diameter. An exciter will be mounted directly on top of each generator and will be direct connected to the main generator shaft. The governors will be of the oil pressure type.

The tailrace will be approximately 250 ft. long, extending from the power-house to the lower level of the Trent River, and a certain amount of dredging will be required in the Trent River at the tailrace outlet. Other than this, all work will be in the dry, as the small amount of spill and leakage from the sluiceway can be readily piped away. A siding from the G. T. R. will be built directly to the site of the work.

The rock, which is exposed over practically the whole site, is a good grade of limestone, and no construction difficulties are expected. In fact, the whole layout is very simple, the site being almost ideal, no head dam being required, headrace and tailrace both being short, the forebay conditions ideal, no rapids immediately above the plant to cause frazil, all ice troubles being at a minmum, and there being no runoff or storage problems requiring solution.

Two additional smaller generating plants in the immediate vicinity of Ranney's Falls are contemplated, and when built they will be connected to the low-tension bus in the Ranney's Falls generating station.

The operation of the Trent Canal is in the hands of the Dominion Government, and the plant necessarily will have to operate with whatever water the Government operation permits, but, as above stated, it has been designed for a flow of about 1,300 c.f.s.

Like many other power sites on the Trent Canal, this site was formerly leased by the Dominion Government to the Seymour Power Co. When the Ontario Government purchased the Seymour Power Co. a few years ago, the rights to this site and others were acquired.

The other developments on the Trent division of the canal which are now operated by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario are as follows:

Healy Falls, six miles above Campbellford, 16,800 h.p. capacity; Trenton (Dam No. 2), 5,600 h.p.; Campbellford (development about one mile above the town), 5,000 h.p.; Frankford (Dam No. 5), 4,800 h.p.; Auburn, 1,850 h.p.; Fenelon Falls, 1,000 h.p. The total capacity of these six plants is 36,050 h.p. and with the 10,000 h.p. which will be developed by the Ranney's Falls plants, there will be a total of over 46,000 h.p. developed by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission on this division of the Trent Canal. There are several other sites yet to be developed on this division, including Burleigh Falls and Dams No. 8 and 9. Considerable extension of the developments at Fenelon Falls and Campbellfird is also possible.

There are a number of privately-owned plants on the Trent division of the canal, including those of the Quaker Oat Co. at Peterborough, the Lakefield Portland Cement Co. at Lakefield, and the Canadian General Electric Co. at Peterborough.

On the Severn division of the canal, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario operates a plant at Wasdell's Falls, 1,200 h.p. capacity, and a plant of 5,600 h.p. capacity at Big Chute, or a total of 6,800 h.p. in these two plants.

The total power generated by the commission on both divisions of the canal, after the completion of the Ranney's Falls plant, will, therefore, be approximately 53,000 h.p.

On the Severn division there is a site of about 1,400 h.p. capacity, at Port Severn, which is not yet developed. The largest of the plants in the Severn division not under the control of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission is the 4,800-h.p. plant at Swift Rapids, which is owned by the town of Orillia.

None of the six plants which the commission is now operating on the Trent division of the canal were built by the commission, but were all taken over from the Seymour Power Co. A new unit of 5,600-h.p. capacity has been installed at Healy Falls, however. This new unit has been in operation for about ten months.

The proposed Ranney's Falls plant, like all of the other plants on the Trent division of the canal, will feed the commission's "Central Ontario System." This system supplies power to about twenty-five municipalities in Central Ontario, including Peterborough, Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa, Lindsay, Trenton, Cobourg, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Picton, Deseronto to Napanee and Whitby. The total population served by this system is approximately 120,000. The transmission voltage on this system is 44,000 volts. Although the current is 60 cycles, this system may in the future be connected to the Niagara 25-hycle system through frequency changers, and may also be connected to the commission's St. Lawrence system.

The two plants on the Severn division of the Trent Canal feed the commission's "Severn System," which distributes power to nineteen municipalities in the Georgian Bay district, including Collingwood, Orillia, Mialand, Barrie and Penetang. The total population served by this system is approximately 42,000. Of the two H.E.P.C. plants on the Severn division, one—Wasdell's Falls generating station—was constructed by the commission, and the other—Big Chute—was taken over from the Simcoe R'y & Power Co.

The estimate of the cost of the Ranney's Falls plant was made several months ago, and as prices of material and labor have since increased considerably, the commission has asked its engineering department to prepare a new estimate before authorizing the construction of this plant. Tenders have already been called, however, for the required hydraulic and electrical machinery.

Hon. Sir Adam Beck is chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario; W. W. Pope is secretary; and Frederick A. Gaby is chief engineer. The design and construction of the Ranney's Falls plant, with the exception of the electrical work, will be under the direction of the commission's hydraulic department, of which Henry G. Acres is chief hydraulic engineer; Thomas H. Hogg, assistant hydraulic engineer; and Maxwell V. Sauer, designing engineer. E. T. Brandon is the electrical engineer of the commission; and Arthur H. Hull, assistant electrical engineer. The construction will be carried out by the commission's own construction department, of which Arthur Trimble is general superintendent and Jas. McGraw, assistant superintendent.

PONZI'S LAWYER SAYS FINANCIER SOLVENT

And Demands That a Jury Inquire Into This Question.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—Charles Ponzi, the financial wizard, was to-day interviewed in his cell at the East Cambridge Jail by Federal Auditor Edwin Pride, and showed willingness to help out in the investigation of his assets.

Ponzi's books, such as he kept, were carefully gone over and here and there the former financier explained points not clear to the auditor. These were the books on which the latter based his statement that Ponzi had debts amounting to $7,000,000. At the close of the interview Auditor Pride refused to discuss its results.

Daniel V. McIsaac, attorney for Ponzi, has filed a petition with the clerk of the United States District Court, denying that Ponzi is bankrupt and insolvent, as alleged in the petition previously filed. He demands that the question be inquired into by a jury, it was learned to-day.

It is reported that Government Detective Boyd will lay complaints against some of the rioters to-day.

FRENCH EXPORTS SHOW SATISFACTORY INCREASES

(Canadian Press)

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Satisfaction is felt in France at the official statistics, just issued, of French imports and exports during the first six months of the year.

Exports show an increase of 5,096,000,000 francs, compared with the same period of last year. Imports also show an increase, over 2,061 millions, but this increase in almost entirely due to materials for manufacture, which amounted to over 1,845 millions.

The excess of imports over exports during the first half of last year was 11,037 millions, while for this year this excess has fallen to 7,849 millions, an improvement welcomed in the financial world as likely to affect French exchange favorably.

GERMANY BENEFITS FROM SPA DECISION

COUNTRY WILL DEVELOP WATER POWER TO CONSERVE COAL.

By Carol D. Groat.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Aug. 24.— While many industrial chieftains predict calamitous results from the Spa coal agreement, especially in the coming winter, the agreement is bringing Germany certain blessings in disguise.

First, it has stimulated the nation to water power development.

Second, it has shown industrial leaders the need of unified effort, and has forced development of a plan for dividing the nation into "economic districts" for economic use of water, gas and electricity.

Third, it has stimulated national unity more than any event since the war, and is helping give the separatist movement in south Germany a serious black eye.

Development of waterpower, particularly in south Germany is no new thought. Keen engineers have been studying this problem for a long time, and have previously taken steps toward utilizing water as a supplement to other power.

But, with signing of the coal agreement in Spa, the nation came face to face with the problem—more power, with less coal. It realized that it was going to have shorter coal rations this winter than before. Hence, the idea of water power development.

The Reichswirtschaftrat—a body of the brainest business and industrial leaders of Germany—sitting soon after Spa, had before it a resolution which said:

"For relief of the emergency situation, created by coal deliveries to the Ausland, the government will immediately take steps for building up water power as fast as possible and in the best possible manner, especially in South Germany."

A companion resolution called for creation of a committee of experts whose duty it would be to draw the lines of division of the nation into economic units. In these sub-divisions, a unified system of power, water, gas, electricity supply would be worked out.

As for the third point—stimulation of national unity of spirit—it can be said that the north and the south are realizing that they must pull together if they are to avoid foreign occupation of the Ruhr and infinite resultant damage to German business therefrom.

And the miners themselves are hanging the threat of the freezing and starvation over the heads of separatist agitators. Herr Hue, miner leader, has served notice in no uncertain terms that any portion of the country indulging in a separatist movement will be shut off immediately from any further supply of coal.

The nation as a whole is taking the Spa agreement in good spirit, despite many voices which say that it spells industrial stagnation this winter, with the consequent throwing of several hundred thousand workers out of employment. Germany doesn't like the Spa coal agreement; it has been told that it is more than Germany can bear, but insofar as one now can see, the whole country is determined to do its best to fulfill the treaty. Then, it hopes that later the Entente will be ready for more modification of the Versailles pact.

An interesting phase of the whole subject is that many observers are inclined to believe that the measures now being taken toward fulfilment of the coal pact, curtailment of coal usage, and utilization of other means of power are forerunners of an earlier socialization of coal and water power than otherwise might have been the case. The coal mines have long since lost their original strictly private character, and stand under considerable government control. But, as things now trend, there are signs that actual socialization will be accomplished — and that the day has been moved forward by the Spa Conference.

AN ADVENTURESS AT THE GRAND LAST EVENING

A CLEAN, CAPTIVATING PICTURE THAT MOVIE-GOERS ENJOY.

For a thoroughly enjoyable evening's performance one should not miss "An Adventuress," starring Julian Eltinge, female impersonator supreme, in a new Republic release which was shown for the first time yesterday at the Grand Theatre. It is a clean captivating picture with a complete absence of overplayed sex stuff, also of the tired, overdrawn love theme.

An imaginary land on the shores of the Balsatian Sea called Alpania is depicted in "An Adventuress." Movie goers will enjoy the round trip there. It looked to the casual voyager yesterday as though it might be an exceptionally fine country to vacation in. No one could complain that there was not sufficient excitement during the course of the picture.

The Story.

The story deals with the exploits of three young American cads, Jack Perry, (played by Julian Eltinge), Lyn Brook and Dick Sayre. The trio find themselves mixed up the politics of the merry land where bathing beauties, diving girls and bombs abound. The wicked plotters are desirous of restoring the monarchy and the three cads are more than determined that the government shall remain Republican. In fighting the conspirators Julian Eltinge has to become a beautiful woman, Mamselle Fedora, which displeases him not at all. However, he has more than enough man-stuff to do, including some real he-fighting in an air-plane. "An Adventuress" is rattling good entertainment.

AT THE ALLEN.

"The Great Accident," starring Tom Moore, which comes to the Allen Theatre, commencing to-morrow, is the screen adaptation of Ben Ames Williams' story which created a sensation when it recently appeared in serial form in The Saturday Evening Post.

The action takes place in a middle western town, Hardiston, at the time when the enforcement of the dry law was an issue in the mayoralty campaign.

Winthrop Chase, Senior, (Andrew Robson), is candidate on the platform "for the enforcement of the law" and his opposition with a negative platform is certain to lose.

The possibility of having Chase Mayor of the town, does not appeal to the Congressman of the District, Caretall (Willard Louis), who sees a dangerous competitor in Chase in any subsequent political issues.

Caretall works upon the sense of humor of the people, and the majority of the ballots when they are counted on Election Day, announce the fact that Winthrop Chase, Junior, (Tom Moore), carefree, irresponsible son of Chase, has been elected to the position his father coveted.

Wint Chase, as he is known, is well liked because of his many little affairs and escapades, but is hardly the qualified mayor of a town, even the size of Hardiston.

Wint realized the fact, and saw at once that he had been made the goat for practical joke upon his father. How he overcame the obstacles that must naturally confront a Mayor who holds the respect of not one of his supposed constituents, and effected the passage of certain powerful legislative acts, will amuse and thrill you in this latest Goldwyn feature production.

DOMINION COAL MINES AGAIN CLOSED BY STRIKE.

AMHERST, N. S. Aug. 20. — The Dominion Coal Company's mines at Spring Hill are again idle. Yesterday, the management agreed to give a "two fire schedule" instead of three fires to a man, a one month's trial, and the men went back on this understanding. Since then only two fires had been kept up and the result was that sufficient steam pressure to run the mines was not forthcoming. In view of this the management ordered the introduction of "three fire schedules." The men refused to comply, and the result of the disagreement was that this morning they again struck, tying up the whole plant and throwing nearly a thousand men out of employment.

THE MAPLE LEAFS ARE COMING HERE

A REMINDER OF TRENCH LIFE IN FAR AWAY FRANCE.

In response to the many requests from the ex-service men in Canada, especially former Fourth Division men, Captain M. W. Plunkett, the producer of most of the soldier entertainments supplied our boys in France, has gathered together the "Maple Leaf" Theatrical Company, and will present them on a home-coming tour of Canada in their original overseas revue, "Camouflage."

The Maple Leafs were the official party of the Fourth Division in France, and were one of the greatest favourites of the C.E.F. Their musical revue was written for them in France, and it proved to be one of the brightest and most tuneful shows ever staged in close proximity to the firing line.

There are several wonderful "girls" among the Maple Leafs, all of whom did their bit with rifle and bayonet before being chosen by the Captain for service in the entertainment corps. It is this fact which makes the artistry of the soldier-actors a thing above the ordinary theatrical entertainment. It is true that their work oftentimes ranks higher than that of the old-time professionals, as proved by the fact that the members of the Maple Leafs have nearly all featured in London musical shows since the war, but, to Canada, at least, their work has a splendid significance, which nothing but the fact that they were first of all Canadian soldiers fighting side by side with our own boys, could impart.

"Camouflage" has been given a brilliant production by Captain Plunkett, and the fact that this tour is under his personal direction is a sufficient guarantee to the theatre-going public and the returned men that the performance will be clean and wholesome, gorgeously gowned, and elaborately staged.

The Maple Leafs will be the attraction at the Grand Theatre on Monday and Tuesday evenings, 30th and 31st August.

LACROSSE

WEDNESDAY'S PRACTICE.

The following players are asked to turn out at Riverside Park on Wednesday evening at six o'clock for practice: R. Scriver, Ed. Dillon, George Mein, A. Goodfellow, C. Lowes, G. Halpin, L. Johnston, L. McCoy, J. McCoy, Angus Rice, Lou Rice, J. Comber, A. Dionne, H. Tudhope, J. Thirnbeck, J. Vreighton, G. Donovan, P. Regis, Bert Todd, W. Meagher, H. Scriver, K. Mein, H. Donovan and A. Hatton.

The players had a good workout last night and finished with five laps around the race track at Exihibtion Park. They are all in good condition and there is a feeling of confidence that Saturday's game with Mimico will be a decisive win.

Japanese chauffeurs must go to school and learn all about motor mechanics before a license can be obtained.

"THE LITTLE SHEPHERD OF KINGDOM COME"

At the Grand on Thursday, August 26th the latest play of Sidney Toler, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," an adaptation of the famous novel of the same name by John Fox, Jr., will have first local preentation. This play coming here with the acclaim of several of the latest Eastern cities, was recently given in Philadelphia where cast and production won the heartiest comendation. The story is of Kentucky—of the feuds and the primitive love sand quarrels of the true hearts but rough mannered mountaineers. The period is during the five years from 1860 to 1865 and the tale is devoted to the happenings that mean so much in the life of Chad, a wandering mountain lad and to the petite and lovely Melissy. George Simpson is said to be ideal for the role of Chad is in the leading male role. Dorothy Dunn, who was the Wendy with Maude Adams' company in "Peter Pan" is the Melissy The settings give a splendid idea of Kentucky mountain scenery and the third act interior is a perfect reproduction of the living room of an old Southern family.

"SLEEPING PARTNERS"

At the Grand on Saturday, August 28th for an engagement of one night only, Miss Edna Goodrich will appear in the latest New York success, "Sleeping Partners". No actress on the American stage is so fitted by natural gifts and experience to portray the leading female role of this up-to-the-minute comedy and it is also worthy of note that she is the only actress of nation-wide reputation on the stage and in the films, who will be seen personally on tour this season. There will be but one company playing this attraction on the road this season and the management makes the further point that the original production, which was used in but New York and Chicago is carried intact with the organization which will be seen in the local presentation.

The plot of "Sleeping Partners" is what is used to be fashionable to call "very French." We might change the expression now and say "Very much up to the minute." But whatever the Sacha Guitry farce may have been—and perhaps we had better not enquire too closely — the translation for the English-speaking stage never oversteps the border line, although it may skirt the extreme edge of it rather closely. But it is funny—intensely funny—so funny, indeed, that it would be a shame to hint at more of the plot for fear of spoiling it for those who intend to see the play.

The play gives Miss Goodrich ample opportunity to display that taste in gowns which made her famous during the seasons when she was a co-star with Nat C. Goodwin and she has now developed intil one of the most delightful actresses on the stage. She is supported by a most capable company whose members make the most of every opportunity.

Get-rich-quick games are entrancing,
They've made many a man go prancing,
The lure of money! Isn't it funny,
